This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

INTRODUCTION.

In the year 1871, the author published, for private distribution among persons bearing the name of WENTWORTH and the descendants of such persons, only, an edition of one thousand copies of the Wentworth Genealogy, in two volumes of the size of two of those of the present or first public edition. That earlier edition will be hereafter known as the private or first edition. Copies were distributed gratuitously into all parts of the world where persons thus named, or their descendants, resided, as a means of procuring additional facts and of correcting errors. Each copy was numbered, and the name of each person receiving it was registered, and thereby a list of invaluable correspondents was secured. Four hundred of the copies, however, were destroyed by the Chicago fire of the 8th and 9th of October, 1871; but the other six hundred were placed where they would best promote the object of the author. How well this experiment succeeded can best be ascertained by comparing this edition with the private edition. It will be difficult to mention any branch of the British nobility or of eminent British commoners bearing the name of WENTWORTH or claiming descent from Wentworth ancestors, or in fact any persons claiming such descent having any record in English history, who will not be found in this edition traced to the same ancestry as William[21] Wentworth, the emigrant settler of America.

Although many new families, and many new members of the same family, are introduced in this work, it was thought best not to change the numbers given to persons in the private edition; and so the original plan has been continued by giving to the new persons introduced numbers supplemental to those which they followed.

Digitized by Google

Thus, if a Joseph[6] was introduced between a John[6] (420) and a Paul[6] (421), he would be numbered Joseph[6] (420*a*); and Mary[7], daughter of Joseph[6] (420*a*), would be Mary[7] (420*a*.1), and Sophia[7], her sister, next oldest child of her father, would be Sophia[7] (420*a*.2); and Jane, oldest child of Sophia[7] (420*a*.2), would be Jane[8] (420*a*.-2.1), etc. This explanation needs constant remembrance to have the present plan of numbering understood, whereby all names not in the private edition receive their separate numbers without disturbing the original numbering.

A great number of new autographs have been received, and would have been inserted but for the great increase in the dimensions of the volumes and the delay of their issue. The author says this with regret, as so many were continued from the private edition.

Descendants of females marrying out of the name have been inserted to an extent not common in genealogies, but many such have manifested interest in the work, and in repeated instances the author has found them preserving records which otherwise would have been lost. Many facts are thus preserved, and much information, discovered by the author, is given in foot-notes regarding various families which would otherwise have been utterly lost to the public.

Where portraits, engraved according to the standard adopted in the private edition, have been furnished to the author, he has inserted them, he having notified all interested that he would do so with pleasure.

Where the author was satisfied that the order of birth was not correctly given in the first edition, he has stated in this edition how the order should be corrected, but without changing the original numbers.

Whenever the surnames are not WENTWORTH, the surnames are given in full; but where they are of Wentworths, the author has given only the Christian names of children.

In the first edition, much personal history was given as a means of identification, without any pretence to making it full. In this edition, with an anxiety to compress the matter into three volumes, less attention has been paid to personal history.

Many Wentworths, whose origin was not traced out in the first edition, will be found in their proper place in this edition, while a few new ones have been added to those of unknown origin. Many persons, for reasons satisfactory to themselves, have desired to change their names, and it is but natural that some of them should have taken the name of Wentworth. Where such instances have been known, the author has noted them, without implying the least disrespect. It is probable that some of those whose origin he has not been able to trace out are not of Wentworth descent, as he has resorted to all conceivable means to ascertain it.

If there are any Wentworth families, or any descendants of such, omitted in this work, it is not the fault of the author.

ORIGIN OF THIS WORK.

The author could not have been over ten years of age when an incident occurred to which this work owes its origin. John Farmer, the distinguished antiquarian of New Hampshire, wrote to Paul[6] (1564) Wentworth, of Sandwich, N. H., father of the author, making inquiries respecting the different governmental positions held by Paul's father, John[5] (531), and grandfather John[4] (160), both of whom had been in active public life at the same time, had held at different times identical offices, and had died within a few years of each other. As both had died before Paul[6] (1564) was five years of age, and as his attention had never been before called to the subject, he was unable to furnish Mr. Farmer the information desired; but the author remembers no earlier or more determined resolution on his part than the one to furnish it at some day, if life should be spared him. His curiosity, thus early excited, was not, however, gratified in time to be of service to Mr. Farmer, as that writer died 13 August, 1838, and the information obtained could only be printed through the author's own instrumentality. Some years thereafter, Jacob B. Moore, of Concord, N. H., wrote to the author that he had heard of his investigations respecting the various John Wentworths, and stated that it was his intention to write the biographies of all the governors of New England prior to the Revolution. Mr. Moore had found the same difficulty in distinguishing between the John Wentworths who had supported British allegiance as Mr. Farmer had between those who opposed it. Lieut.-Gov. John[3] (14) had a son John[4] (84), who was a distinguished judge, and also a grandson John[5] (371), who was the provincial governor; and this Gov. John[5] (371) had a nephew John[6] (997), who was an eminent lawyer, and author of "Wentworth on Pleading." Gov. Benning[4] (80) had a son John[5] (336), who distinguished himself in the French and Indian wars. All of these persons had resided at Portsmouth, N. H., and the author, after his attention had thus been called to it, became quite interested in researches necessary to give to each his appropriate history. But Mr. Moore died 1 September 1853, having published but one volume, and that one embraced only the "Governors of New Plymouth and Massachusetts Bay"; and so this product of the author's researches, like that of his former ones, was left solely dependent upon himself for publicity. During these researches, the author met with the original discussion concerning the authenticity of "The Wheelwright Deed" (so called), bearing date 17 May 1629, in which the name of William Wentworth is mentioned as one of the grantees; and he at once interested himself in discovering the residence of the emigrant settler prior to the signing of the Combination at Exeter, in 1639, the author being strongly impressed with the idea that he was not of age nor in this country in 1629. This brought about a correspondence with Samuel G. Drake, Esq., historian of Boston, then editor of the N. E. Historical and Geneological Register, and also with Hon. James Savage, of Boston, formerly president of the Massachusetts Historical Society, who has so kindly alluded to the author in his notes upon Gov. Winthrop's Journal, and also in his Genealogical Dictionary. Some of the earlier articles of the author in the N. E. Historical and Genealogical Register attracted the attention of the late Mrs.

Lydia H.[6] (1791) Sigourney, to whom he is indebted for much of the history of the Connecticut descendants of the emigrant settler's son Paul[2] (6). And about the same time, the English authoress, the late Catherine Frances[7] (979) Gore, opened a correspondence with him, and gave him important information which she had acquired as executrix of the will of the late Sir Charles Mary[6] (995) Wentworth, who had inherited the private papers of his father, Gov. John[5] (371). He thus became possessed of much of the information in this work before the thought of publishing "The Wentworth Genealogy" occurred to him. Occasionally, he made special publications, which called the attention of different descendants of the emigrant settler to the facts in his possession, and they generally commenced urging him to make his collections public in the shape of a family genealogy. He wrote articles for the Exeter (N. H.) News Letter, Dover (N. H.) Enquirer, Portsmouth (N. H.) Journal, and the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, at Boston, Mass. He caused all the State, county, and town records to be searched (personally searching most of them), which he thought might contain any reference to any member of the family; and finally opened a correspondence with all Wentworths of whom he could hear in the United States, and visited cemeteries and examined private family records innumerable. He corresponded with the late Beamish Murdoch, historian of Nova Scotia, who thoroughly searched the records of that province to promote his object. He also secured the invaluable services of Joseph L. Chester, Esq., of London, in tracing the English origin of the emigrant settler and his relationship to the various distinguished Wentworth families in England. Every branch of the British nobility ever bearing the name of Wentworth, or descended from those bearing the name, and all eminent commoners and every one having any record in English history have been traced in this work to the same ancestry as William[21] Wentworth, the emigrant settler, with such universality that it would puzzle the closest student of English history to name an exception. When the British Government conferred upon Gov. John[5] (371) Wentworth the right to change the original coat of arms of the Wentworth family by the addition thereto of two keys as a mark of his fidelity, it admitted his right to wear the original coat; and in so doing, it admitted the right of the emigrant settler, William[21] Wentworth, and all of his descendants so to do.

EXPLANATIONS.

THE Genealogy consists of two main parts: the English Genealogy and the American Genealogy.

The English Genealogy gives not only the line of descent from Reginald[1] de Wynterwade to Elder William[21] Wentworth, the emigrant, but also the Wentworth families of England to the present time. Each person has a generation figure; viz., the small elevated figure attached to each Christian name at its right hand.

The arrangement of the American Genealogy is as follows: —

1. Elder William[21] Wentworth is, as the head of the American family, regarded as Elder William[1] Wentworth, thus beginning, for convenience, a new series of generation figures in the American Wentworths.

2. Each generation is given by itself. First comes the history of Elder William[1] Wentworth, the emigrant, closing with a list of his children, occupying pages 71-112 of Vol. I. The Second Generation (pages 113–174) comprises the history of the children of Elder William[1] Wentworth; viz., Samuel[2], John[2], Gershom[2], Ezekiel[2], Elizabeth[2], Paul[2], Sylvanus[2], Timothy[2], Sarah[5], Ephraim[2], and Benjamin[2], taken in their order, of each of whom is given all the personal history known, and each closing with a list of children. The Third Generation is then given (pages 175–285), beginning with the eldest son of Samuel[2], and taking up all the children (who had descendants) of each son of Elder William[1] Wentworth in order, each person's account closing with the list of his children. The Fourth Generation (pages 286–509), the Fifth (pages 510–658 of Vol. I, and pages 1–291 of Vol. II), the Sixth (pages 292–626), the Seventh (pages 627–745), and the Eighth (pages (746–780) proceed on the same plan; but with the Eighth are given all succeeding generations. Thus, the First Generation consists of Elder William[1] Wentworth alone; the Second consists of his children; the Third, of all his grandchildren (who had families); the Fourth, of all his great-grandchildren, and so on, every person having a generation figure affixed, it being the small elevated figure affixed to the right hand of each Christian name.* "Wentworths whose Origin is Unknown" are given at the commencement of Vol. III. At the end of Vols. I and II are given "Additions and Corrections" to persons mentioned in those volumes respectively.

3. All descendants of Elder William[1] Wentworth in male lines (and a few in female lines) were in the private edition numbered consecutively, counting Elder William[1] Wentworth as "1." These serial numbers are kept unchanged in this edition, and run from 1 to 6200. Names in some families discovered since the printing of the private edition are placed under their parents' numbers* rather than to cause the confusion which an entire renumbering would make among those acquainted with that edition. Every person of Wentworth descent thus has his own number, which is never changed. It is the number as given on the left hand of the page, where the birth of the person so numbered is stated. This serial number belongs exclusively to the individual so numbered, and whenever the person is elsewhere mentioned, this number is attached (in parenthesis) to his name, so that he will always be identified. Thus: "John[5] (353) Wentworth" implies that this John was of the fifth generation, and that his serial number is 353, by which he is always mentioned and distinguished from any and every other John Wentworth. As the serial numbers run regularly from the beginning to the end of the genealogy, one can easily be found in his order as well as by the Index.

4. The birth of every child is given in his parent's family. If a son lived to have children, he is carried forward to the next generation. This is known by the number following the name, in brackets, and that number denotes that he will be found immediately after the serial number thus quoted in brackets. Thus, page 309, Vol. I:—

353. John[5], born 23 February 1736. [958]

* Thus: Grant A.[7] (719.6.4) in the Index is the 4th child of the 6th child of number 719,—that is, of Grant[5] (719); and the number of this Grant A.[7] is always 719.6.4.

Digitized by Google

This implies that the account of this John[5] (353), and the list of his children, will be found immediately after the serial number 958.

All that is known about sons who had no children is given with the statement of their birth; and also all that is known about daughters, except when their descendants are numerous, in which case they also are carried forward like sons, to avoid obscurity.

5. The name "Wentworth" is often omitted. The generation figure and serial number are sufficient; but surnames other than that of Wentworth are always mentioned (even though of Wentworth blood), to avoid mistake. The extensive genealogical notes on other families, given in small type, have, for clearness, generation figures; but such figures are never introduced in the text nor in the indexes.

6. To trace forward any person, it is sufficient to turn to the serial number given in brackets (not parentheses) after any name. To trace backward the pedigree of any person, take, for instance, Decimus[10], who will be found by the Index to be on page 779, Vol. II, as follows: —

6192. Decimus[10].

His serial number is thus found to be 6192, and it is shown on page 779 that he was son of Samuel[9] (5865). Turning back to serial number 5865, we find:

5865. Samuel[9];

and he is there said to be son of Samuel Solley[8] (4823). Turning back to serial number 4823, we find:

4823. Samuel Solley[8];

and he is there said to be son of William[7] (2678). Turning back to serial number 2678, we find:

2678. William[7];

and he is there said to be son of Samuel Solley[6] (965). Turning back to serial number 965, we find:

965. Samuel Solley[6];

and he is there said to be son of John[5] (353). Turning back to serial number 353, we find:

353. John[5];

Digitized by Google

and he is there said to be son of William[4] (85). Turning back to serial number 85, we find:

85. William[4];

and he is there said to be son of John[3] (14). Turning back to serial number 14, we find:

14. John[3];

and he is there said to be son of Samuel[2] (2). Turning back to serial number 2, we find:

2. Samuel[2];

and he is there said to be son of Elder William[1] Wentworth.

7. In the Tabular Pedigrees, a short vertical line under a name, with no name beneath, implies that it was a daughter, or a son who died without male children. The object of the American Tabular Pedigrees is to give the eldest male line of the descendants of each of the sons of Elder William[1] Wentworth, with such other lines as the space will allow. Of course, in the American Tabular Pedigrees, many junior male lines are omitted; but the first four generations are given in full, and the later lines are selected from scattered parts of the country so as to facilitate research. Such lines, also, are selected as give all descendants (of Wentworth name) of the tenth generation, and most of those of the ninth generation.

8. The Indexes are fully explained at their commencement in Vol. III. It should be here noted, however, that the intention is, first, to give the name of every person mentioned in these volumes, with the number of every page on which a given person is mentioned; second, in the case of every descendant of Reginald[1] de Wynterwade to give his generation figure, and of every descendant of Elder William[1] Wentworth to give also his unvarying serial number; and, third, in every case to give the name of the person whom any one mentioned married, so as to aid in searching for a particular name where there are many of the same Christian name. For further explanations of the Indexes, see the commencement of the several Indexes.

ORIGIN OF THE NAME OF WENTWORTH.

THE Biographia Britannica says, "The name of this Family was taken from the Lordship of Wentworth, in the wapentake of Strafford, in the County of York, where, at the time of the Conquest, lived Reginald de Wintewade."

Collins tells us that the name is of Saxon original, as is agreed by all genealogists; but Mr. Thoresby, of Leeds, who has given us a fuller pedigree of this family, observes that it does not answer to Mr. Collins' remark, that the name is of Saxon original, but says,

> However, if the name be deduced from the Roman Venta, the initial letter whereof was certainly pronounced W, it carries the original still higher as to the antiquity (though not as to the knighthood, which the family had borne for 600 years). Thus the greatest part of Monmouthshire, and part of the counties of Gloucester and Hereford were of old called Wentset, or Wentland, from the ancient Venta Silurum, perhaps originally from the British Guen, or Gwyn [meaning in Latin, candidus, albus]; for, by a late most industrious author, it appears that V consonant is never a dictionary (or primary) initial in the Welsh, Cornish, or Armoric; but that the initial V in Latin is changed into Gu in the British, as well as French, Spanish, and Italian; so that Guent or Went-worth signifies the White hall, court, or town. If any choose rather to deduce it from the river of that name [Went], it only moves it a degree farther, the family from the place, that from the water, and that from the color, as was customary with most nations, not only the Greeks and Romans of late years, but the Hebrews of old: witness the Red Sea.

A note to the above refers to Gibson's Regulæ Generales de nominibus locorum, published by Edmund Gibson, A. B., E collegio reginæ, in 1692. It is a Saxon dictionary, with Latin definitions. The following is what is referred to: "WERTH, WEORTH, WYRTH —Syllabæ werth, weorth, wyrth, sive initiales, sive finales, profluunt prædium, platea, curia." Translated: "The words werth, weorth, or wyrth, beginning or ending, mean a farm, a plain, a court, or house."

Another note refers me to Camden's Britannia, originally published in Latin; but I make the following quotations from a translation published in London in 1753, illustrating the derivation of the name of Vent, or Guent, or Went-werth, weorth, wyrth, or worth: —

On the western bank of this River [Aire] lies the famous city of the British, Belgæ, which Ptolemy and Antoninus call Venta Belgarum, the Britons to this day Caer Gwent, the Latin writers commonly Wintonia, and we at this day, Winchester. Vol. I, p. 138.

The Yare has not run far towards the east till a little River Wentsum (by others called Wentsar) empties itself into it from the south. Vol. I, p. 160.

Which name (Venta Silurum) neither arms nor time have been able to consume; for, at this day, it is called Kaer-went, or the city Venta. Vol. II, p. 713.

Among other brooks that water this place [the West Riding of Yorkshire], I must not forget to mention the Went, because it arises in a pool near Nosthill. And there is a bridge over this stream, called Went-bridge, that gives name to the settlement about it. Vol. II, p. 851.

Now, Glanoventa, in the British tongue, signifies the shore or bank of Went. Vol. II, p. 1092.

A little higher, the River Wents-beck falls into the sea. Vol. II, p. 1091.

The River Ure . . . runs through the middle of the vale of Wentsdale. Vol. II, p. 918.

The county of Monmouth, called formerly Wentset and Wentsland, and by the Britons Gwent, from an ancient city of that name. Vol. II, p. 709.

Some of them [the kings] reduced by degrees the upper part of this country [Monmouth], which they called Over-went, and others the lowlands, called Nether-went. Vol. II, p. 728.

Wherein (as also in the River Wentsum, or Wentsar) we find the plain remains of the name of Venta. Vol. I, p. 461.

Then it [the River Don] salutes another place, near Wortley, called Wentworth, from which many gentry both in this county and elsewhere, as also the Barons of Wentworth, have derived their name and original. Vol. II, p. 845.

The original of Venta (from which the Bishop of Winchester is often called, in our histories, Episcopus Ventanus and Wentanus) is, from some, fetched from ventus (wind); by others from Vinum (wine), and again, by others, from Wina (a bishop), who all of them might be ashamed of such trifling derivations. I should rather subscribe to the opinion of our countryman, Leland, who derives the word from the British Guin or Guen, that is, white; as if it were Caer Gwin, the white city. And why should it not? Since, from the color, the old Latins gave the name to the cities Alba Longa and Alba Regia; and the Greeks to Leuca, Leucas, and other places? For this Venta [Venta Belgarum] (as also two other towns of the same name, Venta Silurum and Venta Icenonum) is situate in a soil of chalk and whitish clay. Vol. I, p. 139.

Before the name of Monmouthshire was heard of, this whole country was called Guent, Went-set or Went's-land. . . . The aforesaid English names of Went-set and Went's-land have, indeed, their origin from the British Gwent, by which almost all this country, and part of Gloucestershire and Herefordshire were called, till Wales was divided into counties. But it is made a question by some whether that name Gwent be owing to the city Venta, or whether the Romans might not call this city Venta Silurum, as well as that of the Iceni, and that other of the Belgæ, from the more ancient names of a part of their countries. Had the city been denominated, since the Roman conquest, from the chief city, it would have been more properly called Gwlad-Gaer-Lheion than Gwlad Gwent. Vol. II, p. 714.

In this dictionary of Camden, I find many names of towns ending in the word "worth," and all that I have been able to trace had their original termination spelled werth, wyrth, or weorth. Take, for instance, Tamworth, the name of a town in New Hampshire, where, probably, not a man knows its origin, which was taken from a town of the same name in England: —

It [Tamworth] takes its name from the River Tame (which runs by it), and the Saxon word weorth, which signifies a yard, or farm, and also a river-island, or any place surrounded by water; as Keyser's-wert and Bommel's-weort, in Germany, signify Cæsar's Island and Bommel's Island. Brit. Vol. I, p. 635.

James[7] Wentworth, son of Stephen G.[6] and grandson of James[5] (883), while American Consul at Moscow, Russia, wrote the author of this work under date of January 28, 1867, as follows: —

You seemed to think that our family name was made up of words of Anglo-Saxon origin, and that the two syllables "Went" and "worth" were invented on British soil. I am inclined to think that these were derived directly, and with slight alterations, from a more ancient language.

In the records of various tribes of northern Germany (printed in Latin), I have come across the first syllable several times. In the year 1196 an Arnoldus Wente was a consul appointed from Nimwegen, a city of some importance at that date. Another, Wernerus Wente, was a consul from the city of Lubeck, in the year 1198. The word "went" or "wente" (for it occurs spelled both ways) seems to be a root-word, but what it signifies I do not know.

The word "worth" is evidently taken from the German "werth" (meaning value), which was formerly spelled "werthe," and is quite old.

So, in my opinion, no twisting of letters is required to form a name, the parts of which appear to have been simply put together in England, and were originally transplanted from the vocabulary of a more ancient people. I would thus dismiss the supposition that either of the two words is derived from the names of streams or villages in that country. The church records of England (if they have passed safely through the various revolutions) should show not only the exact date at which the two words were combined in one name, but also from what portion of the continent those persons came who previously bore the parts of the name. It is even possible that such combination was made in Germany, and the whole name was transplanted.

There is near Hamburg a village called Winsen. Not far from this is also a village called Wentorp or Wentorf, the suffix orp or orf, probably the German word ORT, meaning a place, and corresponding to the English suffix ville.

THE ENGLISH GENEALOGY.

THE WENTWORTH FAMILY OF ENGLAND,

AND

ORIGIN OF THE FIRST AMERICAN SETTLER.

THE earliest portion of the Wentworth pedigree rests upon the authority of William Flower, Norroy King of arms, one of the most careful and accurate genealogists ever connected with the College of Arms, who compiled it in the year 1588, and it has ever since remained upon the records of the College, and been accepted, not only by that body, but by all genealogists, as authentic. It would be absolutely impossible at the present day to test the accuracy of every statement made by him, because he had at his command original data now lost or inaccessible; but so far as the possibility exists, the present writer has critically examined his statements, and found them in every instance strictly correct; and this justifies the confident acceptance of those not now susceptible of direct verification. Flower's authority for the Saxon origin of the family was Domesday Book* itself, the original being then accessible to men in his position, and re-

* DOMESDAY BOOK was the name given to the results of a survey ordered by William the Conquerer, and completed about the year 1085, and is contained in two volumes, one in folio and the other in quarto, written in a hand and couched in language which none but practised scholars can decipher and translate. It is written in what is called Mediæval Latin, greatly abbreviated, and with a sprinkling of Saxon throughout. The object of the survey was to ascertain the names of the various holders of land throughout the kingdom, and the amount of their possessions, with a view to future taxation, or to claiming certain services to the sorted to by them, — the first printed copy, more or less imperfect, not being issued until some two hundred years later. It may therefore be safely accepted, that the first known reference to the name occurs in Domesday Book, and the pedigree commences thus:

I. REGINALD[1] WENTWORTH, or, as given in the pedigree, RYNOLD[1] DE WYNTERWADE,* who was living at the time of the Norman Conquest, A. D. 1066. As at that time there were no actual surnames, he was simply Reginald OF WENTWORTH. In other words, he was the possessor, in Saxon times, of the lordship of Wentworth, in the Wapentake of Strafford, in the West Riding of Yorkshire. Yorkshire consists of three divisions, known as the North, East, and West Ridings. Each riding is subdivided into a number of Wapentakes or Hundreds, and it was in one of the latter that the lordship or manor of Wentworth was situated. Wentworth is in the parish of Wath-upon-Dearn, nine miles from Sheffield and thirteen from Doncaster. The results of researches by Col. Joseph Lemuel Chester imply that, after the Conquest, the land or lands in Wentworth were in possession of Roger de Busli. Col. Chester says, "The inference is that Wentworth had formerly held Wentworth, but that it had passed into the possession of De Busli. The name, it is equally certain, existed before the Conquest, as the names of places were not changed, and hence the Wentworths were Saxons and not Normans."

Nothing is known of the family of Rynold de Wynterwade except that he was succeeded by his son

II. HENRY[2] WENTWORTH, sometimes written DE WYNTWORTH, or Wyntword, concerning whom nothing has been preserved but his name. He was succeeded by his son

III. RICHARD[3] WENTWORTH, who was succeeded by his son

Crown; and it was for a very long time the basis of such taxation or assessments. The name "Domesday" or "Doomsday" was given to it by the Saxons themselves, because they regarded it as their book of doom, from which judgment was to be given as to the value, tenure, and services of the lands therein described. It is the oldest public record in England, and is carefully preserved in the custody of the Master of the Rolls, but has now no other value than that of an antiquarian curiosity, and as being the means of tracing certain families, now very few in number, to a Saxon origin.

* Thoresby, in his Antiquities of Leeds, calls him "Reginaldus Wyntword de Wyntword, Com. Ebor." "Com. Ebor." denotes "Comitatus Eboracensi," i. e. County York.

VII. WILLIAM[7] WENTWORTH, who was succeeded by his son and heir

VIII. ROBERT[8] WENTWORTH, who married Emma, daughter and heir of William Woodhouse (Wodehouse, in old manuscripts), of Woodhouse (a manor or lordship contiguous to Wentworth); and thus acquiring that estate the family was afterwards designated as Wentworth of Wentworth-Woodhouse.* He was living in the reign of Henry III and Edward I,—say as late as 1275,—and was succeeded by his son and heir

IX. WILLIAM[9] WENTWORTH, of Wentworth-Woodhouse, who married Beatrice, daughter of Gilbert Thakel, of Yorkshire, and died 2 Edward II, 1308–9, having had issue, two sons, viz.—

1. William[10], of whom hereafter, and

2. Richard[10], who became a Prebendary of St. Paul's, and in 1338 was elevated to the Bishopric of London, and in the same year, being in the reign of Edward III, was made Lord High Chancellor of England. This is the first recorded instance of the official dignities that were afterwards common enough in the family. So far as the State was concerned, his position was second only to that of the king himself; and the Bishopric of London, at that time holding even higher rank than it does now, was exceeded only by

* WENTWORTH-WOODHOUSE. — The Magna Britannica (Vol. VI) thus describes this establishment when it was the seat of Earl Fitzwilliam, a descendant of the first Earl of Strafford and grandson of the first Marquis of Rockingham:—

The house is situated on the side of a hill, defended from the north and west, but open to the south and east, towards which quarters it commands a very extensive prospect over a rich and beautiful country; so that, whether we consider the natural situation or the improvements of art, it is inferior to few seats in Great Britain. The gardens are large and adorned with obelisks, statues, etc., having a large green-house and bathing-room, which are fenced with a "ha ha," instead of a wall. On one side there is an uninterrupted view into the park and neighborhood. These gardens value themselves for two beauties rarely met with anywhere else, viz. a grove of old fir-trees, and a mount of above one hundred feet high, perpendicularly measured. The house itself hath large and convenient rooms, and hath lately taken the name of Wentworth House, an entire front having been lately built to it, of two hundred and fifty feet in length, by the present owner, the Rt. Hon. Lord Malton, who has also enclosed a park of about eight miles in circumference, beautified with a long range of large fish-ponds, stored with variety of fish, woods of timber-trees of uncommon size, and with plantations almost innumerable. Here is a fine coppice-wood of an hundred acres, regularly pierced and ornamented with statues. The turf of the park is of a good verdure, and the soil fruitful. From the farthest end of the avenue that leads from this seat towards York to the farthest end of the southern avenue is upwards of three miles. We are informed that there are designs on foot to enlarge and aggrandize this seat, in this manner, viz. to build one grand entire front of a very beautiful stone, with a portico like that at the Lord Castleman's at Wanstead, near Bow; the columns the Archbishoprics of Canterbury and York. Bishop and Chancellor Wentworth did not, however, long enjoy his dignities, as he died in 1339, the year succeeding his elevation. The line was continued through his elder brother

X. WILLIAM[10] WENTWORTH, of Wentworth-Woodhouse, who was married, first, in 1288, to Dionysia, daughter of Peter de Rotherfield, by whom he had only two sons, viz. —

1. William[11], of whom hereafter, and

2. John[11], who married Alice, daughter and heir of John Bissett, Esq., of North Elmsall, in Yorkshire, and thus acquired that important estate. He died, however, without at least surviving issue, and bequeathed that estate to his nephew John[12], the younger son of his elder brother William[11], of whom hereafter. Their mother Dionysia died shortly after the birth of her younger son John[11], and their father William[10] married, secondly, Lucy, daughter of Sir Adam Newmarch, but had no issue by her; and himself died in 1295, in the lifetime of his father, and only seven years after his first marriage. On his father's death, in 1308–9, the family estate reverted to his eldest son to consist of three stones only apiece, each being near nine feet long, and three in diameter; the jambs, etc., of the windows to be in single stones, and the whole extent of this principal front (including the offices already erected, and taking up three hundred and forty feet) will be two hundred yards. There have also been lately many improvements added to the park and fish-ponds; one of which, consisting of fourteen acres of ground, receives a small brook, which, being conducted through a winding cut for six hundred yards, falling down six steps, is brought by a canal of three hundred yards in length into the lake, and so affords a pretty prospect of water in the park for near a mile together; so that, when the building is completed, WENTWORTH HOUSE may justly be numbered with the most magnificent seats in Britain.

The same Magna Britannica (Vol. VI) thus describes the place of Wentworth, about the year 1800: —

It is a large chapelry, containing several hamlets. The town is not small, and the whole division contains about two hundred houses. It is mentioned in Domesday Book, by the name of Wintworde, but Mr. Camden misplaces it upon the Dun, whereas it is almost three miles distant from it. The chapel is a parochial curacy, worth about £70 per annum. The Lord Malton [Earl Fitzwilliam] is patron of it. The building is very decent, and in it there are some ancient monuments. The benefactions given to the curate and poor of WENTWORTH by the family of that name amount to upwards of £200 per year.

The family of Wentworth hath long flourished in this place. They have been of the degree of knights for six hundred years, and were settled in this country four hundred years before that, in all likelihood, in this town. As it is the ancient and chief seat of the noble family, so, from hence, all others of this name are descended, as appears by a pedigree preserved here.

married Isabel, daughter and coheir of William Pollington, Esq., of Pollington, in Yorkshire (son and heir of Sir Thomas Pollington, Kt.), by whom he had also two sons, viz. —

1. William[12], who was afterwards knighted, and continued the direct line of the family of Wentworth-Woodhouse.
2. John[12], of whom hereafter.

As our principal interest with this direct line ceases at this point, a sketch of its remaining history may be convenient for reference, and the comparison of the relative positions of the contemporaneous generations will serve to explain how the collateral branches of the family came to be dropped from the English pedigrees. For greater convenience of reference, the same numeration is continued, but in parentheses. The eldest son

(14) Thomas[14] Wentworth, Esq., who married Isabel, daughter of Sir William Fleming, Kt., of Waith, in Lincolnshire, and had issue: —

(15) William[15] Wentworth, Esq., who married Lucy, daughter (by a former husband whose name is not preserved) of Isabel, wife of William Sheffield, Esq., of Bolderstown, and had issue: —

(16) William[16] Wentworth, Esq., who married, first, Isabella, daughter of Thomas Durrant, Esq.; and, secondly, Isabel, daughter of Sir Thomas Reresby, of Thriberg, in Yorkshire; and by the former had issue: —

(17) Sir Thomas[17] Wentworth, who fought valiantly on the side of Henry VI, at the battle of Hexham, 3 April 1463, when he was made prisoner with the Duke of Somerset and others. He married Joan, daughter of Sir Richard Redman, Kt., of Harwood Tower, in Yorkshire, and had issue, two sons, William[18] and John[18]. Of the latter, nothing further is known. The former, place, and had issue, Thomas[19], Ralphe[19], George[19], William[19], and Elizabeth[19]. The latter married, first, Thomas Lea, Esq., of Middleton, and, secondly, Henry Arthington, Esq. Of the three younger sons, there is no record save of their names. The father died in 1477, and the line was continued by the eldest son (19) Sir Thomas[19] Wentworth, who was knighted for his bravery at the Battle of Spurs, 16 August 1513. It will be seen that down to this period, the successors to the estate of Wentworth-Woodhouse were almost invariably only sons, and as invariably married heiresses or coheiresses.

By this time, therefore, the wealth of this family had become enormous, as may be judged by the fact that this Sir Thomas[19] bore the sobriquet of "Golden Thomas." He paid at one time a heavy fine to be excused from accepting the Order of the Bath, and in 1528 obtained a license* from Henry VIII to remain covered in the royal presence. The reason alleged was his infirmity, arising from old age. But as he lived twenty years longer (he died 5 December 1548), the presumption is that the license was purchased at a great price for the purpose of gratifying a whim or some feeling of personal pride. He married Beatrix, daughter of Sir Richard Woodruff, Kt., of Woolley, in Yorkshire, and widow of John Drax, Esq., of Woodhull, by whom he had issue as follows:—

1. William[20], of whom hereafter.
2. Gervase[20], of whom nothing further is known.
3. Michael[20], of Mendham Priory, of whom hereafter.
4. Thomas[20] was of Scoreby, in Yorkshire, and married Grace, daughter of John Gascoigne, Esq., of Lasingcroft, in Yorkshire, by whom he had an only son, Thomas[21], and three daughters, Mary[21], Grace[21], and Elizabeth[21].

7. Isabel[20], who married Nicholas Wombwell, Esq.
8. Beatrice[20], who married Thomas Worrel, Esq.

Before continuing the main line of this branch, we will trace to their extinction in the male line, the descendants of

(20) Michael[20], third son as above, who settled at Mendham Priory, in Suffolk, and became cofferer to King Henry VIII, and Comptroller to the Queen. He married, first, Isabel, daughter of Percival Whitley, of Whitley, co. York, Esq., who is said in the ordinary accounts of the family to have survived him until 1560; but this is an error, as in his Will, dated 12 October and proved 30 November, 1558, he mentions his then wife Agnes, who was evidently the widow of a Curson, as she had a daughter, Mary Curson, then in wardship, and other children. He died 13 October 1558, his second wife Agnes surviving him. His issue by his first wife were, — Thomas[21], Michael[21], Henry[21], Margaret[21], Mabel[21], Alice[21], Helen[21], and Catherine[21], — who were all living at the date of his Will. He was succeeded by his eldest son

(21) Thomas[21] Wentworth, who was also of Mendham Priory, and of Whitley, co. York. At the Inquisition post mortem of his father, 30 April 1559, he was found to be 17 years and 2 months old. He married Susan, daughter of Christopher Hopton, of Armley Hall, co. York, Esq., but neither the time nor place of his death, nor hers, has been ascertained. Their issue were, — Michael[22]; Beatrice[22], who married John Greene, of Dean Grange, in Horsforth, co. York, Esq. who died about 1637; and Mary[22], who married Robert Coningsby, Esq., of Herefordshire. The only son

(22) Michael[22] Wentworth, in 1599 purchased the estate of Woolley, in Yorkshire, and henceforth this branch of the family was known and described as of Woolley. He married, in 1585, Frances, daughter and sole heir of George Downes, of Paunton, co. Hereford, Esq., and died in 1642. Their issue were as follows: —

1. Thomas[23], born in 1595, who died in his father's lifetime, unmarried.
2. Michael[23], born in 1597. He was captain of a troop of horse in the civil wars, during which he died. His Will, dated in 1646, was proved in 1651. He died unmarried.

York, Esq., and had Anne[25] and Elizabeth[25], who married respectively Sirs Matthew Wentworth, the elder[21] and younger[22] Baronets of Bretton, of that name.

4. Matthew[23], who was also captain of a troop of horse, and died during the civil wars, unmarried.

We now return to the direct line, from Sir William[22] (22) Wentworth, Bart. It was continued through his second, but eldest surviving son

(23) Sir Thomas[23] Wentworth, who was born in Chancery Lane, London (in the house of his grandfather, Robert Atkins, then a Barrister of Lincoln's Inn), on the 13th, and was baptized at St. Dunstan in the West, 22 April 1593. He succeeded his father in 1614 as second Baronet, and was created Baron Wentworth, of Wentworth-Woodhouse, 22 July 1628, and Viscount Wentworth on the 10th of December in the same year. On the 12th of January 1639–40, he was further advanced to the dignities of Baron of Raby and Earl of Strafford. His unfortunate history is well known. He was beheaded 12 May 1641,* and under the attainder all his honors became forfeited. The Earl married, first, in 1611, Lady Margaret Clifford, daughter of Francis, fourth Earl of Cumberland, but had no issue by her. She died in 1622, and was buried in St. Olave's Church, in the city of York. He married, secondly, 24 February 1624–5, Lady Arabella Holles, second daughter of John, first Earl of Clare, by whom he had issue, a son and two daughters, as hereafter mentioned. She died in October 1631. He married, thirdly, in October 1632, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Godfrey Rodes, Kt., of Great Houghton, co. York, by whom he had a son Thomas[24] and a daughter Margaret[24], who both died unmarried, the latter in 1681.

(24) 1. William[24] Wentworth, born 8 June 1626. By an Act of Parliament which received the royal assent 19 May 1662, confirming a patent antedated 1 December 1641, his father's attainder being reversed, he was restored to all his titles and dignities, and succeeded as third Baronet and second Earl of Strafford. He married, first, 27 February 1654–5, Lady Henrietta-Maria Stanley, second daughter of James, seventh Earl of Derby, and widow of Richard, Lord Molyneaux. She died at London, of a spotted fever, 27 December 1685, aged 55, and was buried in York Minster 13 January following. He married, secondly, Henrietta, daughter of Frederick Charles de Roy de la Rochefoucauld, Generalissimo of the Forces of the King of Denmark. She survived him, dying 11 November 1732, and was buried the 14th at St. James, Westminster. He died 16 October 1695, and having no issue by either wife, all his titles became extinct, except the Barony of Raby, which passed by limitation in the patent, to his cousin Thomas[25], grandson of his uncle, Sir William[23] Wentworth, of Ashby-Puero-

John Forster, in his Statesmen of the Commonwealth of England, says,—

A Mr. Thomas Wentworth, a very popular member, represented Oxford in all the Parliaments of James and in the first two parliaments of Charles. It was he who spoke violently and was imprisoned. It was he who took the active part against Buckingham in the second Parliament, which has been ascribed to Sir Thomas Wentworth (Earl of Strafford), who did not sit in that Parliament at all.

rum (see ante), and the greater part of his estates went to his sister's son, Thomas[25] Watson. With this second Earl of Strafford ended, in the twenty-fourth generation, the direct male line of Reginald[1] Wentworth, the Saxon lord in this branch of the family.

2. Arabella[24], who married Justin M'Carty, third son of Donogh, first Earl of Clancarty, and died his widow in 1698.

3. Anne[24] (eldest daughter), who married in November 1654, Sir Edward Watson, Kt., of Rockingham, co. Northampton, who succeeded his father in 1652 as second Baron Rockingham, and died in 1689. She died in 1696. They had issue (among others), Lewis[25], who succeeded as third Baron Rockingham, and was created Earl of Rockingham 19 October 1714. He died in 1724. His eldest son, Edward[26], had pre-deceased him 21 March 1721–2, leaving two sons, Lewis[27] and Thomas[27], who succeeded as fourth and fifth Barons, and second and third Earls, of Rockingham. On the death of the latter, unmarried, in 1746, the Earldom became extinct, and the Barony reverted to his kinsman, as hereafter stated.

The third son of Edward, second Baron Rockingham, and Anne[24] (Wentworth) was

(25) Thomas[25] Watson, born 4 August 1665, who succeeded, as has been stated, to most of the estates of his uncle William[24], second Earl of Strafford, and thereupon assumed the additional surname of Wentworth. He died at Harrowden, co. Northampton, 6 October 1723, and was buried on the 18th, in York Minster. He married Alice, only daughter of Sir Thomas Proby, Bart., of Eton, co. Huntingdon. She died 2 October 1749, aged 77, and was buried on the 15th, in York Minster. They had issue (besides a daughter who died in infancy, and another buried in York Minster 27 June 1698, aged 6 years, 6 months, and 11 days), an only son, and only surviving child

(26) Thomas[26] Watson-Wentworth, born 13 November 1693, who was created, 28 May 1728, Baron of Malton, and 19 November 1734, Baron of Wath and Harrowden, Viscount Higham, and Earl of Malton. In 1746 he succeeded also to the Barony of Rockingham (as sixth Baron), on the death of his kinsman Thomas[27], third and last Earl of Rockingham (see ante), and on the 19th of April in that year was further advanced to the dignity of Marquess of Rockingham. He rebuilt Wentworth House, the ancient seat of the family, in a splendid manner, and, dying there on the 14th, was buried in York Minster 29 December 1750. He married, 22 September 1716, Lady Mary Finch, fifth daughter of Daniel, Earl of Winchelsea and Nottingham. She died 30 May, and was buried in York Minster 20 June 1761, aged 59. They had issue as follows: —

1. William[27], baptized at Wentworth-Woodhouse, 25 April, and buried in York Minster 3 May 1718.

2. Thomas[27], baptized 18 January 1719–20. He died at Leyden, Holland, in August, and was buried in York Minster 23 September 1734.

3. Daniel[27], baptized 9 June 1724, and buried in York Minster 9 April 1730.

4. William[27], baptized 2 September 1728. He died the 16th, and was buried in York Minster 30 August 1739.

5. Charles[27] Watson-Wentworth, the only surviving son, born 24 May 1730. He was created, shortly before his father's death, Earl of Malton in the Irish peerage, and succeeded, 14 December in the same year, as second Marquess of Rockingham. He was made a Knight of the Garter in 1760, and was Premier of the British Government in 1765 and again in 1782. As leader of the "Rockingham Administration" he made strenuous exertions to effect a pacific settlement of the American difficulties, but died before completing it. He died at Wimbledon, co. Surrey, 1 July 1782, and was buried on the 20th, in York Minster. He married, 26 February 1752, Mary, daughter and heir of Thomas Bright, Esq., of Badsworth, co. York. She died at Hillingdon House, near Uxbridge, co. Middlesex, 19 December 1804, aged 68 years, and was buried in York Minster on the 9 January following. The Marquess died without issue, and all his titles became extinct; while the chief part of the Wentworth estates, including Wentworth House and Malton, co. York, went to his sister's son, Earl Fitzwilliam.*

6. Mary[27], who married, in 1764, John Milbanke, Esq., fourth son of Sir Ralph Milbanke, Bart. They had an only daughter,

* His nephew and heir, William[28], Earl Fitzwilliam, erected a mausoleum to his memory, under the centre of whose dome there was his full effigy, surrounded by marble busts of the eight men who most especially shared his labors and friendship. From the inscription upon this mausoleum is made the following extract: —

> Angels, whose guardian care is England, spread
> Your shadowing wings o'er Patriot Wentworth dead:
> With sacred awe his hallowed ashes keep,
> Where commerce, science, honour, friendship, weep,
> The pious heir, the deeply sorrowing wife,
> All the soft ties which bless'd his virtuous life, > Gentle, intrepid, generous, mild and just:
> These heartfelt titles graced his honour'd dust.

Mary[28], who married the Hon. George Gage, brother of Henry, third Viscount Gage.

7. Henrietta-Alicia[27], who married, in October 1764, William Sturgeon, Esq. Their third son, Col. Henry Robert[28] Sturgeon, of the Royal Engineers, married Sarah, daughter of the Right Hon. John Philpot Curran, who had been betrothed to Robert Emmet, the Irish patriot, and who is immortalized in one of Moore's "Melodies," and in "The Broken Heart" of Washington Irving.

8. Anne[27] Watson-Wentworth, eldest daughter, who married, in 1744, William Fitzwilliam, third Earl Fitzwilliam in the Irish peerage, who was advanced to the English peerage 6 September 1746, as Viscount Milton and Earl Fitzwilliam. He died 9 August 1756. She died 4 May 1759. They had, besides other issue: —

(28) William[28] Fitzwilliam, eldest son, born 30 May 1748, who succeeded as fourth earl in the Irish peerage, and second earl in the English. On the death of his maternal uncle Charles[27] Watson-Wentworth, second Marquess of Rockingham, in 1782, he inherited the chief part of the Wentworth estates (see ante), and thereupon prefixed the additional surname of Wentworth to his own patronymic. He was Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in 1795. He died 8 February 1833. He married, first, 11 July 1770, Lady Charlotte Ponsonby, second daughter of William, second Earl of Bessborough (by his wife Lady Caroline Cavendish, daughter of William, third Duke of Devonshire), who died 13 May 1822; and secondly, 21 July 1823, Louisa, fourth daughter of Richard, third Viscount Molesworth, and widow of William, first Lord Ponsonby. She died, without issue, 1 September 1824. By his first wife he had an only son

(29) Charles-William[29] Wentworth-Fitzwilliam, born 4 May 1786, who succeeded as fifth Irish and third English Earl Fitzwilliam, and died 4 October 1857. He married, 8 July 1806, Mary, fourth daughter of Thomas, first Lord Dundas, who died 1 November 1830. They had four sons and five daughters. The eldest son, William-Charles[30], having died without male issue 8 November 1835, the second son

(30) William-Thomas-Spencer[30] Wentworth-Fitzwilliam, born 12 October 1815, succeeded as sixth Irish and fourth English Earl Fitzwilliam, in 1857, and is the present peer. He married, 10 September 1838, Lady Frances Douglas, eldest daughter of Sholto, eighteenth Earl of Morton, by whom he has had eight sons and six daughters. He resides at the ancient seat of the Wentworths.

His heir presumptive is his eldest son William[31], Viscount Milton, born 27 July 1839. He married, in August 1867, Lady Laura-Maria-Theresa, daughter of Lord Charles Beauclerck, and cousin to the Duke of St. Albans.

In concluding this portion of the history, the writer cannot forbear calling attention to the remarkable number of alliances with the noble and titled families of the kingdom. It will be seen that in almost every instance the matches were with the sons and daughters of noble houses, and, for the most part, with their heirs or heiresses.

We return now to the second son of William[11] Wentworth and Isabel (Pollington), from whom the Wentworths of the United States of America are descended, viz. —

XII. John[12] Wentworth, Esq., of North Elmsall, in Yorkshire, who inherited that estate from his uncle John[11], and which is at no great distance from Wentworth-Woodhouse, being in the parish of South Kirkby, about nine miles from Doncaster. He married Joan, daughter of Richard le Tyas, of Burghwallis, in Yorkshire, and was succeeded by his only son

XIII. John[13] Wentworth, Esq., of North Elmsall, who married Agnes, sister and coheir of Sir William Dronsfield, of West Bretton, in Yorkshire, and was living in 1413. He had four sons, viz. —

1. John[14], of whom hereafter.
2. Roger[14], of whom hereafter.
3. Thomas[14], who settled at Doncaster, and whose Will is dated 9 March 1449–50.
4. Richard[14], of Bretton, of whom hereafter.

The second son

(14) Sir Roger[14] Wentworth, Kt., married, in June 1423, Margery, daughter and heir of Sir Philip le Despenser, Kt., of Nettlested, co. Suffolk, and relict of John, Lord de Roos (who died without issue, 22 March 1421–2). He settled at Nettlested, where he died 21 October 1452. She survived him, and died 20 April 1478. They had issue as follows: —

1. Philip[15], of whom hereafter.
2. Henry[15], of whom hereafter.
3. Thomas[15], who became rector of Barrow, co. Suffolk, 16 July 1474, on the presentation of his mother, whose executor he became. His successor was presented 9 May 1501, probably shortly after his death.
4. Elizabeth[15], who married Sir John Calthorpe, Kt.
5. Margaret[15], who married Sir William Hopton, Kt.
6. Agnes[15], who married Sir Robert Constable, Kt., of Flamborough, co. York, High Sheriff of Yorkshire in 1480, who died in 1488.

The second son

(15) Henry[15] Wentworth, of Codham Hall, in Wethersfield, co. Essex, married, first, Elizabeth, daughter and sole heir of Henry Howard, second son of Sir John Howard; and, secondly, Jane, daughter and heir of Henry Fitz Simon. She survived her husband and remarried Sir Richard Fitz Lewes, Kt., of West Horndon, co. Essex, whose Will she proved 24 November 1529. By his second wife Henry[15] Wentworth had issue only one son, Nicholas[16], ancestor of the Wentworths of counties Oxford, Bucks, Northampton, Warwick, and Lincoln, of whom hereafter. The said Henry[15] Wentworth died 22 March 1482–3, having had issue by his first wife as follows: —

1. Roger[16], of whom hereafter.
2. Henry[16], whose Will, dated 16 November 1610, was proved 6 February following. He was evidently unmarried, and was buried in the chancel of St. Olave, in the Old Jewry, London.
3. Thomas[16], who proved his brother Henry's Will, but of whom nothing further is known.
4. William[16], who also proved his brother Henry's Will in 1510–11. He had a license, 15 April 1524, being then of Wethersfield, to marry Margaret Bendish, of Steeple Bumstead, co. Essex, but no later trace of him has been discovered.
5. Robert[16], who was living in 1539–40.
6. Margery[16], who married, before 1483, Sir William Waldegrave, Knight of the Bath, who died 30 January 1527–8, and was buried at Bures, in Suffolk. She survived him, and was also buried at Bures, 7 May 1540.

7. Margaret[16], who is said to have married, first, William Ashfield; and secondly, Edward Wingfield.

8. Elizabeth[16], who married, first, William Abington, Esq., of Horseheath, co. Cambridge, who was killed at the battle of Bosworth Field, 22 August 1485; secondly, William Cheney, Esq.; and thirdly, Sir Ralph Chamberlain, Kt. Her Will, dated 19 May 1527, was proved 23 November 1528.

9. Mary[16], who married, first, Thomas Tymperley, Esq., who died in 1505; secondly, Edward Harvey, Esq.; and thirdly, —— Paulet, Esq.

Before proceeding with the main line, we give the descendants of the son by the second wife, just mentioned, viz. —

(16) Nicholas[16] Wentworth, who became Sir Nicholas[16], being knighted by King Henry VIII in person during his expedition to Boulogne, in August 1544. For many years he was "Chief Porter of Calais," then an important government post. He possessed numerous estates in the counties of Oxford, Bucks, Northampton, Warwick, and Lincoln, but his chief residence was at Lillingstone Lovell, co. Oxford, which manor was given to him by the king in 1546, in exchange for certain lands in Northamptonshire. His Will, dated 7 February 1551–2, was proved 24 June 1557, and he probably died not long before the latter date. He married, before 1525, Jane, daughter of John Josselyn, Esq., of Newhall-Josselyn, co. Essex, and of Sabridgeworth, co. Herts, and sister of Sir Thomas Josselyn, Kt. She survived him, and was buried at Burnham, co. Bucks, 26 August 1659. Their issue were as follows: —

1. Peter[17], of whom hereafter.

2. Henry[17], who became a counsellor at law in London, and died in St. Sepulchre's parish 1 January 1613–14. By a first wife, whose name has not been ascertained, he had one daughter, Cicely[18], who married Francis Michell, of Theydon Garnon, co. Essex, and had issue. Henry[17] Wentworth married, secondly, Anastacy, daughter and heir of William Hale, Esq., of Maldon, co. Essex. She survived her husband, dying 4 June 1634, without issue, and was buried at Maldon aforesaid.

3. Paul[17], who was of Burnham, co. Bucks. He was chosen M. P. 1571, and was leader of the opposition party in the time of Queen Elizabeth. Hallam calls him "the most undaunted asserter of civil liberty in this reign." He and his brother Peter[17] were repeatedly sent to the Tower. He died 13 January 1593–4, in his

60th year, and was buried at Burnham. He married there, 26 November 1653, Helen, daughter of Richard Agmondesham, Esq., of Heston, co. Middlesex, and widow of William Tyllesley, Esq., of Burnham aforesaid. Her Will, dated 24 August, was proved 8 November 1615. They had issue: —

(1) Francis[18], baptized at Burnham 3 October 1656, and buried there in his infancy.

(2) Paul[18],* baptized 9 February 1568–9, and living in 1615.

(3) Peter[18], baptized 25 April 1574, and living in 1615.

(4) William[18], baptized 22 January 1576–7, and living in 1615 with sons John[19] and Winsor[19], and daughters Mary[19] and Margaret[19].

(5) Anne[18], baptized 16 September 1565, who married Norton Knatchbull (afterwards Sir Norton), of Mersham, co. Kent, who survived her and remarried twice; she was buried † at Burnham 19 October 1591.

(6) Helen[18], who married William Day, Esq., and was living in 1615 with issue.

(7) Elizabeth[18], who married Robert Woodford, Esq., and was living in 1615 with issue.

(8) Mary[18], who married —— Barrow, and had a daughter Mary[19] living in 1615.

4. Francis[18], whom his father in his Will directed should become a priest. There is no evidence that he did so; and he was buried at Burnham 4 September 1564.

5. Clare[18], only daughter, who married, before her father's death, Edward Boys, Esq., of Fredville, in Nonington, co. Kent, sheriff of that county in 1577. She died before 1586, and he remarried twice, dying 15 February 1598–9, aged 71.

* Some years ago the author of this work bought at an antiquarian bookstore in Boston, Mass., a book printed in London in 1615, entitled "Wentworth's Orisons," and dedicated to King James by "Paule Wentwourth." It has 256 pages, and embraces not only forms of prayer for every contingency in life, but also treatises upon the different forms. It has occurred to the author of this work that Paul[18], son of Paul[17] and grandson of Sir Nicholas[16], might have been the author of "Wentworth's Orisons." The volume was destroyed in the Chicago fire of 1871.

† On a small plate of brass over her tomb, are the following lines: —

"Knatchbulli conjux, Wenthworthi septima proles, Tempora post vitæ bis duodena suae,
Anne immaturo commisit membra sepulchro
Et quo nupta fuit mense, sepulto fuit."

The eldest son and heir

(17) Peter[17] Wentworth, Esq., of Lillingstone Darrell, co. Bucks (adjoining Lillingstone Lovell, co. Oxford), was M. P. for Tamworth, and leader, with his brother Paul[17], of the Puritan party in the time of Elizabeth; was twenty-eight years in Parliament, and was six times committed to the Tower. He died in 1600. He married, first, Lettice, daughter of Sir Ralph Lane, Kt., of Horton, co. Northampton, by whom he had no issue; and secondly, Elizabeth, sister of Sir Francis Walsingham, Kt. (the well-known Principal Secretary of State under Queen Elizabeth), by whom he had issue, as follows: —

1. Nicholas[18], of whom hereafter.

2. Walter[18] Wentworth, Esq., of Castle Bytham, co. Lincoln, where he was buried 13 October 1627. He married, first, Mary, daughter of Griffith Hampden, Esq. She was buried at St. Margaret's, Lothbury, London, 3 May 1614. He married, secondly, the widow of —— Russell, who survived him, but by whom he had no issue. By his first wife he had a daughter Mary[19], who was living in 1637, the wife of John Browne; and Samuel[19], only son, who was admitted to Gray's Inn, London, 14 March 1627–8, and who died, apparently unmarried and certainly without issue. His Will, dated the 1st, was proved 9 January 1637–8.

3. Thomas[18] Wentworth, Esq., who became a Barrister of Lincoln's Inn, and was sometime Recorder of the City of Oxford. He died before 16 April 1628, but his Will (without date) was not proved until 9 December 1629. He married the daughter and coheir of —— Keble (or Kebell), of co. Northampton, who died before him. They had issue as follows: —

(1) Thomas[19], of Lincoln's Inn, who died without issue, 16 September 1638, and was buried at North Cray, co. Kent. He appears to have married twice: first, a daughter of —— Johnson; and, secondly, a sister of Sir John Wentworth,* of Somerleyton, co. Suffolk.

(2) Peter[19], who matriculated at Oxford, from Magdalen Hall, 13 March 1617–18, aged 16, and was afterwards a Fellow of Balliol College; he became Dean of Armagh, in Ireland, 29

* As this man and his family do not occur again in this history, and it might be supposed that their branch of the family had been accidentally omitted, it is as well to state that they were not Wentworths. Their original name was Quainford. The father of the Sir John here mentioned made a wealthy marriage and assumed the name of Wentworth. Their origin had given the writer much trouble until he made this discovery.

He died at Bath 22 July 1661, and was buried in the Abbey church there. By his wife Elizabeth, who administered to his estate 5 August 1661, he had a son Thomas[20], who was still a minor in 1673, and a daughter Elizabeth[20], who was baptized at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 28 November 1642, and apparently buried there 22 March following.

4. Frances[18], who married Walter Strickland, Esq., of Boynton, co. York. Their son William[19] was created a Baronet 31 July 1641. The Baronetcy still exists, although the last possessor of the title, in 1865, obtained the royal license to abandon the surname of Strickland, and assume that of Cholmley, and also to quarter the arms of Wentworth.

5. Mary[18], who married, 15 September 1578, Sir Edward Boys, Kt., of Nonington, co. Kent. She was buried at Nonington, 17 October 1616. He remarried, and died 8 January 1634–5.

6. A daughter[18], who married —— Amies, of Shropshire.

The eldest son

(18) Nicholas[18] Wentworth, Esq., of Lillingstone Lovell, aforesaid, and of Wolston, co. Warwick, whose Will, dated 20 January 1612–13, was proved 11 May following, married Susanna, one of the two daughters and coheirs of Roger Wigston, Esq., of Wolston, who survived him, but died before 1622. They had issue as follows: —

1. Sir Peter[19] Wentworth, K. B., of Lillingstone Lovell, born 1591, who was one of the Knights of the Bath created at the coronation of King Charles I, 1 February 1625–6. He was M. P. for Tamworth in the Long Parliament, a friend of Cromwell, and one of the judges at the trial of Charles I. * This young man led a very eccentric life, and was found, when the title fell to him, working as a humble mechanic, under an assumed name, in a shipyard near London. He was also said to have married a young woman in humble circumstances, and to have left a son by her. But as there has been no dispute as to his brother's succession, probably the alleged marriage could not be substantiated.

2. Dorothy[23], who married Edward Gower, Esq., eldest son of Sir Thomas Gower, second Bart., of Stittenham, co. York, and their son Thomas[24] succeeded his grandfather as third Baronet, but died unmarried in 1689, when the title reverted to his uncle, ancestor of the present Duke of Sutherland.

The line was continued by the second and only surviving son of Thomas[22]

(23) Henry[23] Wentworth, Esq., of Brodsworth, co. York, who was born in 1647, but the date of whose death has not been ascertained. His wife (whose name is unknown) was living in 1719–20. They had issue, besides Darcy[24] and Richard[24], who were both living in 1719–20, an eldest son

(24) Sir John[24] Wentworth, of Brodsworth and North Elmsall (to which latter estate he succeeded on the death of his cousin Thomas[24] in 1689, as before mentioned), who was admitted to Gray's Inn 1 December 1690, created a baronet 28 July 1692, and died 25 April 1720. He married, first, Mary, eldest daughter of Sir John Lowther, Bart., afterwards Viscount Lonsdale. She died 16 April 1706, aged 30, and was buried in the Abbey church at Bath. He married, secondly, in April 1708, Lady Elizabeth Cavendish, daughter of William, first Duke of Devonshire, who died 29 August 1741. By the latter he had issue, an only son

(25) Sir Butler-Cavendish[25] Wentworth, who succeeded as second baronet. He was born 21 September, and baptized at St. James, Westminster, 11 October 1709. He married Bridget, daughter of Sir Ralph Milbanke, fourth Bart., of Halnaby; she survived him, remarried John Murray, Esq., and died in 1774. Sir Butler[25] died, without issue, 3 December 1741, when the baronetcy became extinct, and the male line of this branch of the Wentworth family terminated. The family estates passed to his half sister, the only daughter by his father's first wife, viz. —

(25) Catherine[25], who married, at St. Martin in the Fields, co. Middlesex, 16 March 1716–17, Hugh Cholmley, Esq., of Whitby Abbey, co. York, M. P., High Sheriff of Yorkshire and Surveyor-General of the Crown Lands, who died in 1755. Their son Nathaniel[26] Cholmley had daughters (coheiresses), one of whom, Henrietta[27], married Sir William[24] Strickland, sixth Bart., of Boynton, co. York, descendant of Frances[18] (Wentworth) Strickland, daughter of Peter[17] Wentworth, of Lillingstone Darrell. His son, Sir George[25] Strickland, seventh Bart., abandoned his patronymic and assumed the only surname of Cholmley. He died in 1872, and his eldest son and successor, Sir Charles-William[26] Cholmley, the present baronet, is the chief representative of this line from Reginald[1] the Saxon.

We return now to the younger son of Thomas[16] (XVI) Wentworth and Jane Mirfield (from whom the Wentworths of the United States of America are descended), viz. —

XVII. Oliver Wentworth.

It is from this point that all the results are due solely to the researches of Joseph Lemuel Chester, of London, England, whose services were secured by the author of this work as a last resort, after years of fruitless efforts to discover the origin of his ancestor.

In all the pedigrees, this Oliver[17] and his two brothers, William[17] and Thomas[17], are merely mentioned as younger sons. Their brother, Sir John[17], was certainly the eldest, as he succeeded to the estate, and Roger[17] is always named as the second son. Oliver[17], therefore, may have been either the third, fourth, or fifth. At all events, he was a younger son, which accounts for his being thenceforth omitted in the pedigrees.

His residence was at Goxhill, in the County of Lincoln, a parish which extends to the Humber, nearly opposite Hull. The distance from North Elmsall is some forty or fifty miles, and it seemed at first strange that he should have strayed to a place so apparently unimportant, and one with which the Wentworths had hitherto had no connection. On investigation, however, it is found that Lady de Roos, wife of Roger[14] Wentworth, the great grand-uncle of this Oliver, brought into the family the manor of Goxhill, and it is quite probable that he took up his residence there as the agent for the estate. At all events, he lived there at the time of his death, for his Will is dated there on the 7th of December 1558, and he died shortly after, as it was proved in the Archdeaconry of Lincoln on the following 28th of January.

He described himself as a "Gentleman"; and, after the usual religious bequests of the period, left small legacies to his sons William[18] and Francis[18], and to Oliver[19] the son of the former, and the residue of his estate to his wife Jane, who proved the Will as executrix.

There are no records of the family in the Goxhill parish registers; and it is therefore probable that his children were baptized elsewhere, and that he was himself buried among his ancestors at North Elmsall. Nothing further has beenascertained respecting his widow.

His second son, Francis[18], lived during the latter part of his life at Waltham, in Lincolnshire, a village near Grimsby, and about twenty miles from Goxhill. His children were born, or at least baptized, elsewhere, as there is no record of them in the Waltham registers. His Will is dated 13 August 1611, and was proved in the Arcdeaconry Court of Lincoln, 7 May 1612. He died, however, shortly after making the Will, as he was buried in the Waltham Church, according to the Register, 2 October 1611. He also called himself a "Gentleman." He bequeathed his house and lands at Saltfletby (a parish some ten or twelve miles distant) to his eldest son William[19], then residing there. To his younger son, Martin[19], he left £20 (equivalent to £200, or $1000, at the present day). His houses and lands in Waltham he bequeathed to his daughter, Barbara[19] Markham, with remainder to her sons William[20] and John[20] Baynes. He made her also residuary legatee, and appointed her husband, Christopher Markham, his executor. He also appointed "Christopher[19] Wentworth, Gentleman," of Ravendale, in Lincolnshire, supervisor of the Will. He held also lands in Laceby, in the same county, which were to go eventually to John[20] Baynes, the second son of his daughter Barbara[19]. The presumption formed from his Will and from other evidences is, that he had formerly resided at Saltfletby, which was then a town of some importance on the coast, where he was probably engaged in business, and retired to Waltham, where his daughter was already settled, and where his elder brother was also living, to end his days, leaving his son William[19] at the former place to continue the trade.

Unfortunately, the early parish registers of Saltfletby are not now in existence; and the gaps in the transcripts at the Bishop's Registry are so numerous that no information has been gained from them.

For the same reason, nothing further has been ascertained concerning this eldest son William[19], son of Francis[18], who was living at Saltfletby at the date of his father's Will, and described as a "Gentleman," except that he had a son, also named William[20], baptized at Waltham, 12 June 1598. He left no Will himself, and is never again mentioned in those of any of the other members of the family. As, however, he must have been at least thirty years old in 1611, and as his son was born as early was 1598, it is clear that neither of them could have been the New England emigrant, and they are therefore of no further interest.

The other son of Francis[18], viz. Martin[19], survived his father about eight years, and was also buried at Waltham the 8 August 1619. Barbara[19], the only daughter, was first married to the Rev. Richard Baynes, who was rector of Waltham as early as 1581, and continued such till his death. He was buried in Waltham Church 5 April 1610. Their two sons named in their grandfather's Will were twins, and evidently the first born, and were baptized at Waltham 2 September 1592.

There were several other children by this marriage, one of them posthumous; but they appear to have all died in infancy.

Mr. Baynes, in his Will, dated 30 March 1610, mentions his wife's father, Francis[18] Wentworth, her brothers Mr. William[19] and Mr. Martin[19] Wentworth, and her "cousin Christopher[19] Wentworth of Ravensdale."

Nothing further has been learned of the two sons William[20] Baynes and John[20] Baynes, and the name of Baynes does not again occur in the Waltham register after the burial of their father and the baptism of the posthumous child. On the 27 May 1611, Mrs. Barbara[19] Baynes remarried, at Waltham, the Rev. Christopher Markham, who succeeded her former husband as rector of that parish. By him she had one son, Theodore[20] Markham, baptized 5 March 1611–12, who afterwards became a Doctor of Medicine, and continued to reside at Waltham, where he was finally buried, 29 January 1657–8.

Digitized by Google

Mrs. Markham was buried there 6 June 1622, and her second husband, who survived her nearly twenty years, and married and buried another wife, was also buried there, 15 April 1642.

Having thus disposed of the younger branch of the family of Oliver[17] Wentworth, of Goxhill, we return to the eldest son, viz.—

XVIII. William[18] Wentworth, who also settled finally at Waltham, though his children were not baptized, nor was he himself buried there. His Will was dated 16 May 1574, and was proved at Lincoln, on the 24th of the same month.

He described himself as of Waltham, and a "Gentleman"; but as the Register of that parish, which is perfect, contains no record of his burial, it is to be presumed that he also was carried to North Elmsall, and laid with his ancestors. As there are no early Registers of that parish, and the transcripts in the Bishop's Registry at York do not begin till about 1600, it will probably be impossible ever to determine this and similar points with certainty.

According to an inquisition post mortem at the Public Record Office in London, he died on the 22d of May 1574, and evidently in early life, as his brother Francis[18] survived him some thirty-seven years. He left only two sons, both in their minority, the son Oliver[19] mentioned in his grandfather's Will having died between 1558 and 1574. According to the inquisition referred to, the eldest son, Thomas[19], was then aged upwards of twenty years, and was therefore born in 1554. He is never again heard of, nor mentioned in the Wills of any of his relatives; and as his younger brother evidently succeeded to his property, it may be safely assumed that he died before 1610, and without leaving issue.

As the inquisition post mortem mentioned is a fair illustration of an ancient legal proceeding, abolished more than two hundred years ago, and as it moreover contains a rare example of the customs of "gavelkind" and "borough-English," a free translation from the original Latin may prove interesting. The inquisition was taken at Horncastle, in Lincolnshire (where the official Escheator chanced to live), on the 16 August 1574, and was of William[18] Wentworth, late of Waltham, Gentleman, who was found to be in his lifetime seized in demesne as of fee of two messuages, 100 acres of land, 20 of meadow, and 30 of pasture, etc., in Waltham, purchased of George Gilby; one messuage being in the tenure of Thomas Gilby and Andrew Wilson, and the other in the tenure of John Paynter, late the possession of John Hyde and another, by the gift of King Henry VIII [evidently some portion of the possessions wrenched by that monarch from some abbey or monastery]: the first mentioned messuage and the land in Waltham are held in socage of Edmund Skerne, Esq., as of his manor of Waltham, and by the custom of the said manor descend to the younger son, and are worth £10 per annum; and the last mentioned messuage is held of the Queen by fealty only, and is worth ten shillings and four pence per annum; also of one messuage and certain land in Winterton, held of the Queen as of her manor of Kirton, in gavelkind, which descend to Thomas[19] Wentworth and Christopher[19] Wentworth as two sons and one heir ["ut duobus filiis et uni heredi"], and are worth £5 per annum. The Escheator also found that the said William[18] Wentworth died on the preceding 22d day of May, and that Thomas[19] Wentworth was his son and next heir, and was aged, at the date of the inquisition, twenty years, three months and upwards.

By a comparison of this with similar documents of the period, it is clear that William[18] Wentworth, though entitled by his ancient descent to call himself and to be officially recognized as a "Gentleman," and though evidently able to take rank among the small gentry of a country neighborhood, was by no means a great landed proprietor, nor indeed a man of very large means. The leasehold of two hundred acres of land at the most, and a few houses of small value, seem to have been the extent of his possessions.

The curse attending younger sons in England had already had its effect. He mentions the houses referred to in his Will; and when it is stated that one of them brought in an annual rent of five shillings, and another of only twelve pence, it will be seen that their possession, though conferring the nominal title of a landed proprietor, could not have swelled greatly his income. Of course all the sums mentioned must be multiplied by 10 or 15, to show the relative value of money then and now; but even then the estate could not be called a large one.

William[18] Wentworth was twice married: first, to Ellen, daughter of John Gilby, of Ravendale, and widow of John Ferrars. The two of the name, mentioned in the inquisition post mortem, were her brothers. West Ravendale, or Ravendale, as it is usually called, is only three or four miles from Waltham. By her he had the three sons already named. The date of her death has not been ascertained; but he had, when he died, another wife, named Anne, with whom, from various evidences, he does not appear to have been on the best of terms. He was living at Waltham, and she at Kirton, in a distant part of Lincolnshire, and the only bequest he makes to her in his Will is of "such goods and implements as she hath in my house at Kirton." He left a few trifling legacies to several servants, and to the poor; and his Will concludes by placing his eldest son Thomas[19] under the guardianship of Edmund Skerne, Esq. (who is mentioned in the inquisition, and who was the Lord of the manor of Waltham), and his youngest son Christopher[19] under that of Garrett Southill, Esq. (of whom nothing further is known).

XIX. CHRISTOPHER[19] WENTWORTH, third but only surviving son of William[18] Wentworth, of Waltham, and Ellen Gilby his first wife, was born probably about 1556, and was therefore about eighteen years of age at his father's death in 1574. On the 19th of August 1583, he was married, at the church of St. Peter at Gowts, in the City of Lincoln, to Catharine, youngest daughter of William Marbury, Esq., of Girsby, in the parish of Burgh-upon-Bain, in Lincolnshire, by his wife Agnes, daughter of John Lenton, Esq. One of her younger brothers was the Rev. Francis Marbury, whose daughter Anne married William Hutchinson, and became afterwards the famous religionist of New England and the ancestress of the Governor of that name.

The Marburys were an ancient family in Lincolnshire, but never prominent in public life, nor did any of them ever rise to a higher dignity than that of ordinary knighthood, and even to that in only two instances. At this period, their fortunes, never very extensive, were on the wane; and after two or three generations more, the scions of the family, abandoning all pretensions, threw themselves into the ranks of the various professions and trades. Still, as in the case of the younger branches of the Wentworths, their change of fortunes could not deprive them of their just claims to whatever honors or glory are to be derived from an undoubted heraldic descent.

Catharine Marbury was the youngest of six children, and therefore could not have brought to her husband much increase of fortune; and it is greatly to be feared, from such evidences as have been obtained, that he himself was of that class of uneasy men who are proverbially typified by the "rolling stone." Thus, as will be seen hereafter, the baptisms (and doubtless births) of their eight children occurred at five different places, and there is proof that he resided at different periods of his married life in several others. This fact has made the search into his family history exceedingly tedious and perplexing; but it is believed that what follows presents an accurate account of his various migrations, and it is probably all that can ever be learned respecting him or his descendants.

It has been impossible to discover positively what finally became of him and his wife. His Will, which was very meagre, was dated 8 December 1628, at Barrow, a village little more than a mile from Goxhill, the seat of his ancestor; but it was not proved until the 15 May 1633, and then at Alford, some forty miles distant, and more in the neighborhood of his wife's family. Judging from his previous history, he might, between those two dates, have changed his residence at least two or three times. There is, however, as will be seen, reason to suppose that he died at or near Alford, where his son William[20] was evidently residing. The fact that his Will was proved at Alford alone, sufficiently justifies the assumption that he died in the immediate neighborhood.

The Will was proved by his wife Catharine; but after that date, May 15 1633, no further trace has been found of her. The Will merely mentions his wife and children as hereafter described, and to each of the latter he leaves sixpence, in full satisfaction of their portions, the residue going generally to his wife. The supervisor was his nephew John Broxholme, of Barrow, who, according to the Marbury pedigree, was the son of his wife's sister Anne, who had married William Broxholme, Esq. It must not be omitted that he also styled himself a "Gentleman," and that he is so styled in the parish registers referred to wherever his name occurs.

1. William[20], of whom hereafter.

2. Anne[20], the eldest daughter, who was baptized at Irby, in Lincolnshire (some three or four miles northwest from Waltham), on the 28th of October 1585. She married the Rev. John Lawson, but died before her father, leaving issue, to whom he bequeathed the conventional sixpence.

3. Faith[20], who was baptized at Great Grimsby (three and a half miles north from Waltham), in Lincolnshire, 14 May 1587, and was still living, unmarried, at the date of her father's Will, in 1628.

4. Elizabeth[20], who was baptized at Irby, aforesaid, 15 August 1589. She married John Winne, and was still living in 1628. Her husband is not styled even "Mr." in her father's Will, and he himself left no Will.

5. Frances[20], who was also baptized at Irby, 8 November 1590, but was dead at the date of her father's Will.

Digitized by Google

6. Francis[20], who was baptized at Conisholm (a place about midway between Waltham and Alford, and near Saltfletby), 24 May 1593, and buried there, 4 December following.

7. Priscilla[20], who was baptized at Waltham, 14 June 1594, and married there, 1 September 1619, to William Helmes, Gentleman, of Long Sutton, otherwise Sutton St. Mary, in Lincolnshire. She was living in 1628, but died some time before 1648, and was buried in the parish church of Sutton St. Mary. Her husband remarried once or twice; but in his Will, dated 21 March 1648–9, directed to be buried near her, and bequeathed five pounds per annum to her son Christopher[21], if he were living, which he seemed to doubt.

8. Christopher[20], who was baptized at Waltham, 27 February 1596–7, and buried there the following 24 May.

It will be well just here to recapitulate the various movements of Christopher[19] Wentworth and Catharine Marbury. Where he was born is not known, but at the age of about eighteen, in 1574, he was with his father at Waltham. Nine years later, in 1583, he was married in the city of Lincoln, and was still there, as will be hereafter seen, a year later, when his first child was born. In 1585 he was at Irby; in 1587, at Grimsby; in 1589 and 1590, at Irby again; in 1593, at Conisholm; in 1594, back at Waltham, where he still was in 1597; in 1610 and 1611 he was at Ravendale (vide the Wills of his cousin Baynes and his uncle Francis[18]), and there we lose sight of him until he makes his Will in 1628, at Barrow, which document is proved five years later at Alford.

Another explanation is necessary to show how important is the fact that this Will was proved at Alford. The principal Registry of Probate for the diocese was, of course, at the City of Lincoln; but as many important towns lay at considerable distances, and the means of access were greatly inconvenient, the authorities subdivided the county into what were called Peculiars; in each of which a subordinate official, in the nature of a surrogate, was appointed, before whom the Wills of persons dying within his district could be proved, and the parties thus be spared the expense and loss of time attending a journey with their witnesses to the principal office.

Alford was the centre of one of these Peculiars, which only embraced that parish and a few others immediately adjacent. It included Bilsby, Belleau, Rigsby, and two or three other neighboring villages and hamlets. That the jurisdiction did not extend far may be known by the fact that another Peculiar office was at Louth, only nine or ten miles distant. The simple fact, therefore, that the Will of Christopher Wentworth was proved at Alford is positive evidence that he was, at his death, a resident either of that place or of one of the adjacent villages forming that Peculiar; for although any Will might be proved at the General Registry in the City of Lincoln, none could be proved at the office of a Peculiar except those of persons who had died within its limits, having been residents thereof.

We are now prepared to pursue the history of his eldest son and child —

XX. WILLIAM[20] WENTWORTH, who was baptized at St. Peter at Gowts, in the City of Lincoln (where his parents were married the preceding year), 8 June 1584, and who was mentioned as such, and still living, in his father's Will, in 1628.

Down to this point, every step in the descent from the first Saxon Wentworth is abundantly substantiated, and we have as positively traced the last representative named, Christopher[19] Wentworth, till his death at or near Alford. Feeling confident that there must have been some special reason for ending his days in that neighborhood, the writer set earnestly about the task of discovering it; and to that end spent several weeks in a close examination of the parish registers of that place and of the towns immediately adjacent, as well as of the transcripts in the Bishop's Registry at Lincoln, whenever the originals were defective; and, although perhaps unable to adduce what would be required as evidence in a court of law, believes that a chain of circumstances so strong and clear can be presented that there need be little hesitation in adopting his conclusions.

The Alford parish registers show that a William Wentworth was living there certainly from 1614 to 1620, and those of Rigsby that he was of that parish in the following year; and the object is now to show that he was identical with this William[20], eldest son of Christopher Wentworth and Catharine Marbury.

The first mention of him in the Alford register is in the record of his marriage, which took place 28 November 1614, when, if our theory be correct, he would have been about thirty years of age. The name of his wife is given as Susanna Fleming. She was, however, a widow; and an examination of the register, confirmed by various Wills, reveals the following facts: Her maiden name was Carter, and, so far as can be ascertained, she was the daughter of Edward Carter, of Well, a small village two miles southwest from Alford, who was probably a small farmer. On the first of July 1613, she was married at Alford to Uther Fleming, son of Robert Fleming, of Alford, and his wife Jane. This Robert Fleming, who died in 1599, calls himself, in his Will, a shoemaker. From the character and extent of his bequests, it is evident that he was what would be called in England a "well-to-do tradesman." Uther Fleming lived but little more than six months after his marriage, as he was buried at Alford 22 of January 1613–14; and on the 29th of May following, their only child, a posthumous daughter named Anne, was baptized. (This child was buried at Alford, 1619.) Six months later the young widow married William[20] Wentworth.

According to the Alford registers their eldest child was baptized on the 15th of March 1615–16, and was named William[21], after his father. On the 18th of January 1617–18, another son was baptized, named Edward[21], doubtless after his maternal grandfather. A third son was baptized at Alford, 4 June 1620, and was named Christopher[21], in all probability after his father's father.

After this last date the name of Wentworth disappears entirely from the Alford register; and it is evident that the family removed shortly after to the adjoining hamlet of Rigsby, two miles west from Alford, for in the Rigsby register occurs the burial of this third son, Christopher[21], under date 18 May 1621. Whether they had any other children at Rigsby must forever remain uncertain, for the early Rigsby registers have long since perished, and the few transcripts preserved at Lincoln do not embrace the period important in this investigation.

The discovery of the record of the burial of the child Christopher[21] was so curious that it is worth a brief episode, and more especially as it forms one of the strongest links in the chain of circumstantial evidence referred to.

Rigsby Church long since ceased to be an independent establishment, and became, as it is now, a chapel of ease attached to Alford. The registers, such as were left, were transferred to the custody of the incumbent of Alford, but all previous to the year 1686 were reported in a parliamentary return, some forty years ago, as irretrievably lost. Those preserved were, therefore, valueless for the purposes of this investigation, and the writer turned from them in disgust to pursue the examination of the Alford registers. In the course of this search, his attention was attracted to some writing on the covers of one of the Alford volumes, — two leaves of parchment evidently regarded as worthless, and so converted to this practical use. They proved to be, on examination, portions of one of the early Rigsby registers, covering only a brief period, the first date being 18 January 1617–18, and the last 16 September 1621. The very last burial recorded, however, was full of interest, for it was that of Christopher[21], infant son of William[20] and Susanna Wentworth, thus fully accounting for the disappearance of that name from the Alford registers after 1620. Of the three sons of William[20] and Susanna Wentworth baptized at Alford, the youngest, Christopher[21], is thus disposed of.

The second son of William[20], viz. Edward[21], the writer has been able to trace satisfactorily to the extinction of his family, at least in the male line. He became eventually a surgeon at Boston, in Lincolnshire, where he died in 1681–2. His Will was dated the 15th of January, and proved the 6th of March in that year.

By his wife Mary, who died before him, he had the following children: —

1. William[22], who was dead at the date of his father's Will, leaving, by his wife Deborah, one daughter, Elizabeth[23], who was living in 1684, a minor and unmarried.

2. Thomas[22], who was also of Boston. In his Will, dated the 16th and proved the 30th of December 1684, he described himself as a "Gentleman," showing that he was not forgetful of his descent. His wife had died before him, and he also left a daughter Elizabeth[23], single and under age.

3. Zopha[22], called in his father's Will his youngest son. He was also a surgeon at Boston, where he died in 1685. His Will was dated the 6th of October, and proved the 7th of December in that year, by his widow Catharine, who was sole legatee. He clearly died without issue.

4. Elizabeth[22], who married John Cocke, and had issue, two daughters, Mary[23] and Elizabeth[23]. She was living 15 January 1681–2, but died before 16 December 1684, as did also her daughter Elizabeth[23].

5. Mary[22], the only child whose baptism is recorded at Boston, which occurred the 2d February 1657–8. She married Thomas Westgate, and was living, with his two children, in 1684.

We return now to the eldest son of William[20] Wentworth and Susanna Fleming (née Carter), viz. —

XXI. William[21] Wentworth, who, it is believed, was identical with the New England emigrant, afterwards known as Elder Wentworth. As has been seen, he was baptized at Alford on the 15th of March 1615–16, and, assuming the identity, it is a curious fact that he died on the eighty-first anniversary of his baptism, viz. the 15th March 1696–7.

The circumstantial evidence touching the identity mentioned may be summed up as follows:—

We have traced, beyond the shadow of a doubt, an unbroken descent of nineteen generations, ending with Christopher[19] Wentworth, who died at or near Alford, somewhere between the years 1628 and 1633, doubtless during the latter year. For many generations we find the Christian name of William prominent in the family, but this is the first time that the name of Christopher occurs in this line.

This Christopher[19] Wentworth had a son William[20], baptized in 1584, who was still living in 1628, according to his father's Will. We find at Alford, or at Rigsby (a suburb of Alford), a William Wentworth, from 1614 to 1621 (and, as will be seen, at a later date), who married there, had children baptized and buried there, and was clearly a resident of that neighborhood. Remembering the migratory propensities of his father, and the evidence afforded by his wandering habits and by the character of his Will, it is clearly reasonable to suppose that his fortunes in his later days could not have been in a very flourishing condition, and nothing was more natural than that he should, finally, when more than seventy-five years of age, take refuge with his only son.

This William[20] Wentworth, of Alford and Rigsby, gives the name of Christopher[21] to one of his own sons, and for what reason unless it were in compliment to his own father? As has been said, the name was an entirely new one in the family.

The transcripts of the parish registers for the whole diocese of Lincoln have been thoroughly searched, from the earliest period down to as late as 1650, and there are no other Wentworths to be found except in this corner of the county, and in this immediate locality; and all the other lines, excepting only this one, have been traced to their final extinction. This one also disappears from the records of Lincolnshire after the year 1636. Where does it go to?

In 1639 a William Wentworth suddenly appears at Exeter, in New Hampshire. Who he was or where he came from no one knows; but the generally accepted historical probabilities are that he formed one of the company of early emigrants composed of the Wheelwrights and Hutchinsons, and others, who are known to have gone to America in 1636. Strangely enough, this date, 1636, is the very last that can be found in any English record with which the name of William[20] Wentworth, of Alford, or its vicinity, is connected. In the Parliamentary report of the Commissioners for inquiring concerning Charities, in 1839, under the County of Lincoln, occurs the following passage: —

"Richard Filkin, of Langton, 10 April 1636, granted (inter alia) to Thomas Grantham and others, Trustees of Hansard's Free School at Wragby, a messuage with the appurtenances, in Bilsby, in the tenure of William[20] Wentworth or his assigns." The obvious meaning of this is that there was an unexpired lease, originally granted to "William[20] Wentworth or his assigns," which had passed, of course by sale and purchase, into the hands of Richard Filkin, and which said Filkin transferred to said Trustees in the very year that Elder Wentworth is believed to have emigrated. Of course the William[20] Wentworth mentioned could not have been the one baptized at Alford, as he would not have been, even in 1636, legally capable of executing a deed of transfer, but was doubtless his father, to whom the lease had been originally granted.

Now, if this messuage had been in any other part of Lincolnshire, this passage from the Commissioner's Report would have possessed little value; but as it was at Bilsby, it becomes of the greatest importance. In the first place, Bilsby like Rigsby is virtually a mere suburb of Alford, the latter being two miles west and the former only one mile northeast from that place. In fact, so closely are they connected, that it is difficult to determine where one ends and the other begins. Alford was in those times an important business town, and Bilsby, Rigsby, and two or three other places in the vicinity, afforded suburban retreats for its business men. It was not strange, therefore, that William[20] Wentworth should have invested some of his means in property at Bilsby. It is quite probable that the messuage referred to was his own residence, and that he had removed thither from Rigsby. A reasonable ground for this presumption is to be found in another still more important fact connected with this matter, viz. that Bilsby was the home of the Rev. John Wheelwright. He became vicar of that parish in the year 1623, and so continued until at least 1631.

William[20] Wentworth was at Rigsby in 1621; but it is quite reasonable to suppose that he subsequently became attached to Mr. Wheelwright, and eventually removed to Bilsby in order to attend on his ministrations. If so, and he at last determined to accompany his pastor to the New World, he would of course have disposed of his lease, and in this manner it probably fell into the hands of Filkin. Unfortunately the Bilsby parish registers are entirely missing previous to 1679.

Supposing this view of the case to be correct, the question arises, Did both the father and son go to New England, or only the latter? The entire disappearance of the name from the neighborhood after that period and this disposal of this lease (with the mystic date of 1636) would seem to indicate both. The younger William[21] was still a minor in 1636. In 1639, when the Exeter document was signed, he would have been twenty-two years of age.

After the most careful examination of the whole subject, the conclusion that the writer has arrived at is, that the younger William[21] alone, still under age and unmarried, went with Wheelwright and his other connections, either influenced by his religious attachments, or to seek his fortune. Whether his father and mother were then dead and he was left without any near relations — save his younger brother, who was perhaps provided for in England (apprenticed probably to some surgeon, very possibly his kinsman, Dr. Theodore[20] Markham, of Waltham) — are questions that probably can never be positively answered, owing to the destruction of the only records that could throw any light on the subject.

There is one more important link in the chain of circumstantial evidence. The connection of William[21] Wentworth with the Hutchinsons and Marburys, and consequently with Rishworth, Storre, and others who were the especial followers of Wheelwright, has already been mentioned. William[21] Wentworth, of Alford, would have gone, not only with his spiritual guide, but also with his own blood relations, almost the nearest that were then living. Besides these, there was, the writer thinks, still another.

By referring to the account of the children of Christopher[19] Wentworth and Catharine Marbury, it will be found that one of the daughters, Priscilla[20], married William Helmes, and that her husband in his Will bequeathed five pounds per annum to their son Christopher[21], if he were living. It is clear, therefore, that this son Christopher[21] was not then in England. Now, there was a Christopher Helme at Exeter in 1639, and signed the combination there, who removed to Massachusetts in 1643, thence to Warwick with the Gortonists in 1644, and died there before December 1650, leaving a widow Margaret and a son William, who was alive in 1661. The name of Christopher Helme does not appear on the Exeter records after the combination. There can be little doubt that he was the son mentioned in the Will of William Helmes in 1648–9, of whose existence he was doubtful (which he would not have been if he had been living anywhere in England), and that he had named his only son (according to Savage) after his own father. This Christopher[21] would have been own cousin to William[21] Wentworth, the younger, of Alford; and according to the foregoing theory, we find them positively together at Exeter in 1639.

Another similar piece of concurrent testimony is not unworthy of attention. It will be seen that Anne, the eldest daughter of Christopher[19] Wentworth and Catharine Marbury, married the Rev. John Lawson, and that their children were mentioned in his Will, in 1628. Now, a Christopher Lawson was also at Exeter in 1639, and signed the combination there. If a son of this marriage, to whom was given the name of his grandfather, which seems most probable, he too would have been an own cousin of the younger William[21] Wentworth of Alford.

The mutual family connections of some of the emigrants who appear at Exeter are worth special consideration.

1. Christopher[19] Wentworth married Catharine Marbury, and three of their grandchildren, viz. William[21] Wentworth (assuming the elder to be this William[21]), Christopher[21] Lawson, and Christopher[21] Helme, cousins to each other, appear at Exeter in 1639.

2. The wife of Christopher[19] had a brother, Rev. Francis Marbury, whose daughter Anne married William Hutchinson, and was the famous Mrs. Hutchinson who so troubled the Massachusetts government.

3. William Hutchinson had a sister Susanna, who married Augustine Storre, who also went to Exeter.

4. Augustine Storre's sister Mary was the wife of Rev. John Wheelwright, who headed the Exeter combination.

It will be seen that all these were of Mr. Wheelwright's parish or its close vicinity, that all were mutually connected, the most of them emigrated to America and followed the fortunes of Mr. Wheelwright, and that Mr. Wheelwright, William[21] Wentworth, Christopher[21] Lawson, Christopher[21] Helme, and Augustine Storre, were signers of the Exeter combination. As bearing upon the identity of Elder William[21], this has great presumptive force.*

* In a letter from William Fitzwilliam[6] (988) Wentworth (first cousin to Sir Charles-Mary[6]), son of Benning[5], in the line of Samuel[4] and Lt. Gov. John[3], to his brother Samuel Henry[6] (991), he says: —

It may be added, in conclusion, that the writer, after the most protracted and laborious researches, in which the histories of all the Wentworth families of England have been included, has been unable to find any other William Wentworth who could by any possibility have been the New England emigrant. In several instances promising combinations of circumstances have presented themselves, but they have invariably crumbled to pieces on further investigation. In this instance, and in this alone, although it has been sometimes impossible to obtain direct and positive evidence, every circumstance, without exception, has tended to confirm the presumption that William[21] Wentworth the younger, of Alford, the twenty-first in descent from Reginald[1] the Saxon, was the veritable Elder of early New England history.

"There is one paper I got from Sir Charles-Mary Wentworth, called 'The genealogy of Sir John Wentworth,' which commences with John Wentworth, of North Elmsall, who married Joan, daughter of Sir Richard le Tyas, and the pedigree is carried down to Robert 'ye person now in the Marshalsea.' The paper is entirely without date, and goes no further, not showing how Sir John Wentworth was connected with this Robert in the Marshalsea; if it did it might be very well, as our descent would be the same."

Sir John[5] (371) and his son Charles-Mary[6] (995), both died without a knowledge of their line of ancestry, beyond William Wentworth, the first American settler; and the above was their nearest approach to it; and they probably would have acquired it had they not been looking in the direction of Sir Thomas[23] Wentworth, the beheaded Earl of Strafford, and of his descendant Charles[27] Watson-Wentworth, second Marquess of Rockingham.

It seems probable, however, that William Fitzwilliam[6] was aware of the proper line of descent, viz. from John[12], of North Elmsall, although ignorant of the several steps of the pedigree. (In this note the generation figures, as to Americans, are of the American genealogy; William Fitzwilliam[6] would be, in the English line, William Fitzwilliam[26], and the others would be equivalently changed.)

THE AMERICAN GENEALOGY.

WILLIAM WENTWORTH, THE EMIGRANT.

THE first indubitable evidence that we have of Elder William[21] * Wentworth's presence in this country is his signature (among those of thirty-five persons, Rev. John Wheelwright's being the first) to a combination for government at Exeter, New Hampshire, on the fourth day of July 1639.

Rev. John Wheelwright, banished from Massachusetts, had, with others, purchased of the Indians the title to certain lands, two conveyances from the Indians having the same date, viz. 3 April 1638. The first, given by Wehanownowit to "Wheelwright, Samuel Hutchinson & Augustin Stor of Boston, Edward Calcord & Darby Field of piscatoquake & John Compton of Roxbury and Nicholas Needome of Mount Walliston," conveyed all the right title & interest in all such lands, woods, meadows, riuers, brookes, springs as of right belong vnto me from Merimack riuer to the patents of piscatoquake, bounded w^th^ the South East side of piscatoquake patents & so to goe into the Country north-West thirty miles as far as oyster riuer to haue & to hold the same to them & their heires for ever. onely the ground w^h^ is broken up excepted.

The second deed, from Aspamabough, Wehanownowit, and Pummadockyon, conveyed to "John Wheelwright of Pischataqua & Augustine Storr of Bostone," the lands lijng & situate within three miles of the Northerne side of y^e^ riuer Meremake extending thirty miles along by the riuer from the sea side, & from the sayd riuer side to Pischataqua Patents thirty Miles vp into the countrey North West, & soe from the ffalls of Pischataqua to Oyster riuer thirty Miles square ev^ry^ way, to haue & to hould the same to them & y^r^ heyres for euer, only the ground wch is broaken vp is excepted.

* From this mention, the American generation figure will be substituted for the English; that is, William[21] Wentworth will appear as William[1] Wentworth, he being the first generation in the American Genealogy. The few persons of the English Genealogy who may be hereafter mentioned will be known at once, as the figure will exceed (10).

The settlement was made in 1638* around the lower falls of the Swamscott† River, and thus at the head of tide water upon that stream. It was because this territory was then outside of any actual government that the combination was established. The original document is still preserved among the records of Exeter, and an exact copy of it, and of the oaths required with it, is herewith given. The original record of the people's oath is greatly injured; but a copy is in a town book of fifty or more years later. The words in italics are supplied from the later copy, the whole being furnished by Hon. Charles H. Bell, of Exeter: —

Whereas it hath pleased the lord to move the heart of our Dread Soverayne Charles by the grace of god, King of England Scotland France & Ireland, to grant licence & liberty to sundry of his subjects to plant themselves in the westerne partes of America: Wee his loyall subjects brethren of the church of Excetre, situate & lying upon the river of Pascataquacke, w^th^ other inhabitants there, considering w^th^ ourselves the holy will of god & our owne necessity, that we should not live w^th^ out wholsome lawes & civil governement amongst us, of which we are altogether destitute: doe in the name of christ, & in the sight of god, combine ourselves together, to erect & set up amongst us such governement as shall be to our best discerning agreeable to the will of god: professing ourselves subjects of our Soverayne Lord, King Charles, according to the libertys of our English Colony of the Massachusits, & binding ourselves solemnely by the grace & helpe of christ & in his name, & feare, to submit ourselves to such godly & christian laws as are established in the Realme of England to our best knowledge: and to all other such lawes w^ch^ shall upon good grounds, be made & inacted amongst us according to god, y^t^ we may live quietly & peaceablely together in all godlyness & honesty. * "There is a traditional story, not entitled probably to much credit," wrote Hon. John Kelley, of Exeter, "that Wilson, with Hall and Leavitt, were at Exeter before Wheelwright came in 1638, and that it was upon their invitation that he came here." Hall was scarcely eighteen years of age at that time.

‡ NOTES UPON THE SIGNERS. — For the following notes diligent search has been made in England for the author of this work, and many items thereby discovered. Information regarding many of these signers was sought for in England in vain.

WHEELWRIGHT, Rev. John. Born about 1594, son of Robert, of Saleby, co. Lincoln, England; was educated at Sydney College, Cambridge, where he took his degrees in 1614 and 1618. He was Vicar of Bilsby, co. Lincoln, from 1623 to 1632.

Landed at Boston, Mass., with his wife Mary, and some children, 26 May 1636, and he and wife Mary were admitted to the Boston church 12 June following. He officiated at Braintree, Mass., but on banishment went to Exeter, for which, and for his subsequent life, see post. He died at Salisbury, Mass., 15 November 1679, aged 85. He married, at Bilsby, England, 8 November 1621, Mary Storre.

Of their children, the Bilsby records note:—

William Wheelwright, buried 19 May 1627.

Catherine Wheelwright, baptized 4 November 1630.

Mary Wheelwright, baptized 19 May 1632, buried 28 July following.

The Laceby records note:—

Elizabeth Wheelwright, baptized 9 June 1633.

The Boston, Mass., records note:—

Mary Wheelwright, baptized 25 June 1637.

In his Will, dated 25 May 1679, he mentions his son Samuel Wheelwright, son-in-law Edward Rishworth, and grandchildren Edward Lyde, Mary White [daughter of Edward Rishworth], Mary Maverick, and William, Thomas, and Jacob Bradbury. He left estate in Lincolnshire, and lands, tenements, and personal property in New England.

The children who lived to maturity were, so far as can be ascertained, as follows:—

1. John Wheelwright, who probably remained in England. He published a work in vindication of his father. He probably died before his father.

2. Thomas Wheelwright, of Wells, Me., freeman November 1652, was selectman in 1653, and commissioner. He probably died before his father.

3. Samuel Wheelwright, of Wells; married Esther, daughter of Jeremy Houchin, of Boston. He was town clerk thirty years, commissioner, justice of the peace, representative, judge of probate, and counsellor, and died in 1700. John Wheelwright, either his son or nephew, was judge of probate 1715 to 1745, whose daughter, Hannah Wheelwright, married Capt. Elisha Plaisted. See note under Hannah[4] (82) Wentworth.

Hannah Wheelwright, married Anthony Checkley, of Boston, who afterwards became Attorney-General of Mass.; and had, — John Checkley, born 30 December 1664; Sarah Checkley, born 18 June 1668; Elizabeth Checkley, born 8 May 1672; Mary Checkley, born 14 October 1673; and Hannah Checkley, born 19 December 1674. Mr. Checkley married, 2d, in 1678, Lydia, daughter of Joshua Scottow, and widow of Benjamin Gibbs.

9. At the destruction of York by the Indians 25 January 1692, Susanna was taken captive, with two daughters registered in Canada as Mary Genevieve Sayer, born 4 April 1681, and buried 28 March 1717, in Montreal; and Mary Joseph Sayer, born 9 March 1685. Edward Rishworth, jr., had also a daughter who married —— White, and had a daughter Mary White. (See N. E. Hist. and Gen. Reg., 1874, p. 160.)

Hon. Henry B. Wheelwright, of Taunton, Mass., is a descendant of Rev. John Wheelwright, as well as Rev. Rufus W. Clark, D. D., who is of the seventh generation; and others.

The remaining names we arrange in alphabetical order, for convenience of reference.

BARLOW, George. Left Exeter about 1652, and went to Saco, Me., and afterwards to Wells. Was admitted freeman of Massachusetts, at Wells, 5 July 1653. Was a (lay) preacher at Saco, and in 1653 was forbidden, by the Court, to preach under penalty of £10, on account of his extravagancies in tenets and speech. In 1660, he was an official in Plymouth co., and severe against Quakers. (See Bishop's New England Judged.)

BULGAR, Richard. Came to Boston probably in the fleet with Winthrop; freeman 18 May 1631; admitted to Boston church, "bricklayer," 13 April 1634, and had child, John Bulgar, baptized 20 April same year. He lived in Roxbury, and was disarmed in 1637; went first to Rhode Island in 1638, but was dismissed to form the church at Exeter in 1639, in which place he was surveyor, lot-layer, and, 30 March 1641, was chosen Lieutenant. He left Exeter probably in 1644, and was afterwards of Rhode Island, where he was 71 years old in 1679.

COLE, William. He was one of the witnesses to the 1638 deed from the Indians to Wheelwright, with whom he went to Wells; was constable in 1645; afterwards went to Hampton, N. H., where his wife was accused of being a witch, and "the Court vehemently suspects her to be so, but as there is not full proof, she is to be kept imprisoned and a lock to be kept on her leg." He died at Hampton, 26 May 1662, aged 81.

CRAM, John. Was of Boston in 1637. In 1648 and 1649 was selectman at Exeter. He moved to Hampton, N. H., and died there 5 March 1681-2, the town record saying, "Good old John Cram, one just in his generation." His wife, Esther, died 16 May 1677. Of his children were, — Benjamin Cram, who married, 29 November 1662, Argentine Cromwell, had nine children, and died in 1711; Mary Cram, married, 25 January 1665-6, Abraham Tilton; Joseph Cram, drowned while his father lived at Exeter, 24 June 1648, aged 15; Lydia Cram, born in Exeter 27 July 1648; and Thomas Cram, who married Elizabeth Weare, and had four children recorded.

CRAWLEY, Thomas. "Crawley's Falls," in Brentwood, N. H., were granted him by Exeter, and still bear his name. He had children, of whom the names of Phebe Crawley only is known, who was a minor in 1660. He probably went to Maine.

DEARBORN, Godfrey. Was from co. Devon, England. In 1648 was one of the selectmen at Exeter; removed to Hampton in 1648 or '49, and his house stood on the spot where Simon N. Dearborn's stood a few years ago. Married twice: 2d, 25 November 1662, Dorothy, widow of Philemon Dalton. Died 4 February 1686. His Will, dated 14 December 1680, was proved 7 June 1711. He left a numerous posterity.

ELKINS, Henry. Of Boston, 1634, tailor; admitted to Boston church 9 November 1634; freeman 6 May 1635, and disarmed in 1637; dismissed, with wife Mary, 3 March 1640, to the Exeter church. Had daughter, Maria Elkins, baptized in Boston 8 April 1638. He removed to Hampton, and died 19 November 1668. His Will was dated 27 April 1667.

FIELD, Darby. A John Field married, at Boston, England, 18 August 1607, Ellen Hochinson [or Hutchinson]. Winthrop, writing under year 1642, says, "One Darby Field, an Irishman, living about Pascataquack, being accompanied with two Indians, went to the top of the White Hills [the White Mountains]. He made his journey in eighteen days." See Farmer's Belknap, pp. 11, 12. Field was of Oyster River, now Durham, about 1645, as he sold to John Bickford, 7 July 1645, the dwelling house at O. R., then occupied by said Bickford; but he was taxed there in 1648. He died in 1649, leaving children. "Field's plains" is still a locality in Dover, on the road to Durham.

HALL, Ralph. Born, according to deposition, about 1618. He removed to Dover in 1649 or '50, but was probably the Ralph (with wife Mary) "of Misticke side" (Charlestown, Mass.), 1645 to 1649. In Dover he was Lieutenant, Commissioner, Selectman, and was associated with Elder William[1] Wentworth as lot-layer. Returned to Exeter in 1664, and was delegate to the first N. H. Assembly, 1680. He died in March 1701. Had wife Mary, and left issue, of whom Kinsley Hall was Counsellor and Judge; and Gov. John Langdon was a descendant.

HELME, Christopher[21]. Maternal cousin of Elder William[1] Wentworth, and of Christopher[21] Lawson. (See English Genealogy.) He removed to Massachusetts in 1643, thence to Warwick, R. I., and died there before December 1650, leaving widow Margaret and son William Helme.

LAWSON, Christopher[21]. Maternal cousin to Elder William[1] Wentworth and Christopher[21] Helme. (See English Genealogy.) Was held, 5 July 1643, at Exeter, to answer to a complaint of William Cole, Thomas Wight, James Walles, William Wentworth, and Thomas Pettit. He was ordered, 5 September 1643, to furnish a file to William[21] Wentworth, for which Wentworth was to pay him seven shillings. William Bellew, of Dover, conveyed to Lawson, "of Boston," 5 September 1644, a house and twenty acres of land in Dover. Lawson, "of Boston," 18 May 1645, conveyed these premises to Humphrey Chadbourne and Robert Nanny. Lawson bought and sold shares in the twenty-five of the Squamscot Patent in 1648 and '9. He sold to Thomas Lake, 14 December 1648, a house in Boston. Went to Maine before 1665, where he had purchased from the Indians, Swan's Island, in the Kennebec River, in 1649. In 1650 he and George Barlow, with others, had liberty to set up a sawmill "at Lampreil river, a little above the wigwams."

LEVITT, Thomas. Before 1644 he removed to Hampton, and died 28 November 1696, leaving wife Isabel, who died 19 February 1700, having had eight children. Descendants are numerous. His wife was Isabel Bland, daughter of John Bland, sometime of Martha's Vineyard, but who came from Colchester, England, as see N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, 1867, p. 316.

Anne Hutchinson, sister to Susanna who married Augustine Storre, is mentioned in the Will of her brother, John Hutchinson, 7 June 1644, as his "sister Levitt." Ralph Levet was a witness. It would not be strange if Thomas Levitt, of the combination, was son of this "sister Levitt," and thus connected with the Wheelwrights. Mrs. Susanna Hutchinson, of Exeter, would be Levett's grandmother.

LITTLEFIELD, Edmond. He is not on Exeter records after 1642, and removed with Wheelwright to Wells, where, in 1645, he was commissioner with Ezekiel Knight and Thomas Wheelwright, and died there 11 December 1661, leaving wife Ann, and mentioning eight children in his Will.

MATTHEWS, Francis. Was of Portsmouth, N. H., in 1631, of company sent over by Mason. Had a grant at Dover (on Durham Point), 23 December 1644, of 100 acres of upland, "all the marsh in the great Creeke on the nor east side of the great bay," with two plots of "marsh in oyster Riuer which he formerly Injoyed." He died about 1648, leaving widow Thomasine (who died in 1662), and Benjamin Matthews, Walter Matthews, and Martha Matthews (married, 1st, Snell; 2d, Browne). Descendants are numerous, some of whom write "Mathes."

MORRIS, Richard. A Richard Morris married at Boston, England, 22 June 1612, Alice Freston. Richard, of Boston, Mass., 1630, probably came with Winthrop; was freeman in 1631; with wife Lenora was member of Boston church before 1632; was deputy to the General Court in 1635 and '6, and lieutenant, and in 1636 was in command of the fort at Castle Island. Was disarmed in 1637, and in 1639 dismissed to form Exeter church. He probably left with Wheelwright, as his name is not on Exeter records after 1642. Perhaps is the one at Portsmouth, R. I., in 1643.

NEEDHAM, Nicholas. He was named with Wheelwright in the Indian deed of 1638. He was elected "Ruler" at Exeter in 1640, and resigned in October 1642. "He removed with Mr. Wheelwright to Maine," says Hon. John Kelley, "in 1642 or '3."

PETTIT, Thomas. Nothing further is known of him.

PORMORT, or PORMONT, Philemon. He married, at Alford, England, 11 October 1627, Susanna, daughter of William Bellingham (who was buried there 2 September 1606); she was baptized there 1 September 1601. The Alford records note baptisms, — Elizabeth Pormort, 20 February 1628–9 [who married Nathaniel Adams, of Boston, Mass., 24 November 1652], and Martha Pormort, 24 November 1633. He and wife Susanna were admitted to Boston church in August 1634. He was made freeman 6 May 1635, and chosen schoolmaster there 13 April 1635. In Boston he had children baptized, — Lazarus Pormort, 13 March 1636, who was taxed in Dover, N. H., 1659 to 1668; Anna Pormort, 29 April 1638; and Pedaiah Pormort was born 3 June 1640. He was dismissed from Boston church to form the Exeter one in 1639. His wife died 29 December 1642, and he remarried. He returned to Boston before 1653, having left Exeter as early as 1650.

RAWBONE, George. He had a share in division of lands at Exeter in 1640, but nothing further appears of him there or elsewhere.

READ, Robert. A Robert Read, son of William Read, was baptized 20 February 1602, at the church of St. Peter at Gowts, London. Robert moved early to Hampton, N. H., and thence to Boston, Mass. He lived at Hampton finally, and was drowned by the oversetting of a boat going out of Hampton River, 20 October 1657. His wife Hannah died 24 June 1655.

RISHWORTH, Edward. Was baptized at Laceby, co. Lincoln, England, 5 May 1617. He was Secretary of the Court, at Exeter, in 1640. He went with Mr. Wheelwright to Wells, and was prominent at Wells and at York; was representative and counsellor. He was living in 1683. His son, Edward Rishworth, married Susanna, daughter of Rev. John Wheelwright. (See ante.) Mary, daughter of the first Edward Rishworth, married Rev. Shubael Dummer, in 1656, "the year of his graduation." (See post, and also Sibley's Harvard Graduates.)

The Dictionnaire Généalogique, quoted in N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, 1874, p. 160, says:—

"Mary Rishworth, daughter of Edward, of Lincoln, England; and Susanna Wheelwright, born 8 January 1660, at York, Me., m. 1st, William Sayer, and 2d, James Plaisted, taken 25 January 1692, with her children, Mary Genevieve Sayer, born 4 April 1681 (buried at Montreal 28 March 1717), and Mary Joseph Sayer, born 9 March 1685."

ROBY, Henry. In 1649 he had liberty, with others, to set up a sawmill in Exeter, and was selectman there in 1651. He is believed to be the one who was afterwards of Hampton, N. H., whose Will was dated 10 January 1687, with codicil 3 April 1688, proved 5 June following. Was twice married, and left issue.

SEWARD, Robert. He soon left Exeter, and was of Portsmouth, N. H., in 1649.

SMITH, Robert. On the extension of Massachusetts government over Exeter, he was appointed one of the three magistrates.

STORRE, Augustine. Was brother-in-law of Rev. John Wheelwright. He married, at Alford, co. Lincoln, England, 21 November 1623, Susanna Hutchinson, whose eldest brother, William Hutchinson, married Anne Marbury (the celebrated Mrs. Hutchinson, of New England), who was daughter of Rev. Francis Marbury, whose sister, Catherine Marbury, married, 19 August 1583, Christopher[19] Wentworth, and was grandmother of Elder William[21] Wentworth. He was of Boston, Mass., in 1638, and joined with Wheelwright in the purchase from the Indians in that year.

WALKER, Samuel. Had land in the division at Exeter in 1640.

WALLES, or WALL, James. Was of Portsmouth, N. H., 1634, carpenter, in a company sent over by Mason. His name is on an agreement, 14 March 1633, between Capt. John Mason and James Wall, William Chadbourne and John Goddard, to settle Newichawannock. He came and lived there for three or four years, as he afterwards testified. Was witness to the Indian deed to Wheelwright in 1638. Was taxed in Dover in 1649, but in a deed from Richard Walderne, 2 October 1649, Wall is called "of Exeter." He was frequently one of the selectmen in Exeter. He removed to Hampton in 1650, and died there 3 October 1659, leaving wife Mary and two children, viz. Mary Wall, born 1655–6; and Hannah Wall, born 17 April 1658. In 1652 Thomas Spencer was son-in-law to Wall.

WALTON, George. See "Walton" note under Ebenezer[8] (16) Wentworth.

WARDELL, Thomas. A Thomas Wardell was buried at Louthe, co. Lincoln, England, 9 July 1631. Following this entry upon the record, reads: "The above named T. W. being excommunicated, was not buried by Mr. Melton or any other minister." This implies that the Wardell family in England were dissenters, and so it is probable that the above named was father of Thomas Wardell and William Wardell who signed the combination. Thomas, a shoemaker, was admitted to the Boston church 9 November 1634; freeman 4 March 1635; was disarmed in 1637; and in 1639 dismissed to form the Exeter church. He was sergeant in 1641; and appointed magistrate by Massachusetts in 1642. He soon left Exeter, and was perhaps the one of Ipswich, Mass., in 1648.

WARDELL, William. A William Wardell married, at Louthe, co. Lincoln, England, 8 May 1623, Jeannie Tailler. William Wardell was admitted to Boston (Mass.) church, 9 February 1634, described as "one of our brother Edmund Quinsey's servants," with whom he perhaps came over; disarmed in 1637. He soon left Exeter. He was at Wells, Me., in 1649, licensed to sell wine. He returned to Boston, remarried, and left descendants. His second wife was a widow in 1673.

A Mary Wardell married Thomas Mills, of Exeter, England; their daughter Martha Mills, born at Bristol, England, 18 January 1653, married, 1st, James Smith, 2d, Christopher Grant; and was taken prisoner by Hertel, 18 November 1690, and carried to Montreal.

WENBOURNE, William. Was of Boston, Mass., and by wife Elizabeth had son, John Wenbourne, born 22 November 1635. Was made a magistrate at Exeter by the Massachusetts government in 1642, and was clerk of the writs, but in 1643 he followed Mr. Wheelwright into Maine. Was freeman in 1645, returned to Boston, and was there in 1662.

WENTWORTH, William. See above.

When we say that nothing is found of William[1] Wentworth in this country prior to 1639,* we do not overlook the fact that his name appears as grantee in a supposed deed of lands from certain Indians, dated 17 May 1629, to Rev. John Wheelwright, Augustine Storre, Thomas Wite, William Wentworth, and Thomas Leavit, all of whose names are also on the combination of 1639. This deed was suddenly discovered in the course of the land trials in 1707; a copy only was produced at the trial. It was not recorded until 28 January 1713, and then in York co., Me. (where the records say, "Recorded according to the original found in the ancient files of the county of York"), and its subsequent existence is utterly unknown. Hon. James Savage, in his edition of Winthrop's Journal, declared the deed to be a forgery, got up in the trial between those claiming their title from the Masonian patents, and those claiming from the original Indian purchases, and supported his assertion in an elaborate argument, which has since been strengthened by Rev. Nathaniel Bouton, D. D., Provincial Historian of New Hampshire. Farmer rejected the deed from his edition of Belknap, convinced that it was a forgery, as it was, indeed, declared to be at the time of its production by the then governor of the Province, in his correspondence with the British authorities, in a letter still preserved. Samuel G. Drake, of Boston, contended that the paper was genuine, but did not publish his reasons. Of course we reject this deed when we say that nothing is known of Elder William[1] in this country prior to 1639.†

WIGHT, Thomas. Nothing further is known of him.

WILSON, Thomas. A Thomas Wilson married, at Bourne, co. Lincoln, England, 21 November 1616, Bridget Sharpe. Thomas Wilson, of the combination, came to Boston, with wife Ann and three children, in June 1633. Hon. John Kelley says he was a native of Scotland. He was freeman 14 May 1634. He succeeded Nicholas Needham as "Ruler" at Exeter, and made his Will there 9 January 1643, proved 20 September 1643, leaving wife and five children. His Will, on record in Boston, is printed in N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, October 1848.

* Burke, in his Peerage, speaking of Thomas[23] Wentworth, Earl of Strafford, who was beheaded 12 May 1641, says:—

"Of this very illustrious family was William[21] Wentworth, who emigrated from the County of York, in England, to Boston, in America, in the year 1628, and removed subsequently to New Hampshire."

It is very doubtful whether Mr. Burke did not derive this date from Dr. Belknap's History, for Dr. Belknap had not canvassed the authenticity of the Indian deed of 1629, even if he had ever heard it questioned.

† William[1] Wentworth was but thirteen years old at the date of this alleged deed. If there was any such conveyance, there is a possibility that his father William[20] was the grantee, of whom, at that date, nothing is known.

Where or when William[1] Wentworth landed in this country is not certainly known. Burke, in his Peerage, says that he came first to Boston, which is, of course, probable. If he did not come to this country with Mr. Wheelwright, it is evident that he soon followed him. He was from Mr. Wheelwright's parish in England. and was, as subsequently shown, one of his adherents. Mrs. Anne Hutchinson, who was connected by marriage with Mr. Wheelwright, was Wentworth's father's first cousin.* Two other Exeter settlers were similarly connected with Mrs. Hutchinson and John Wheelwright, and were cousins to William[1] Wentworth. It is decidedly probable that this group, subsequently found with Mr. Wheelwright in America, followed him upon his being silenced in England and finding refuge across the Atlantic.

Mrs. Anne Hutchinson, with her husband and his mother Susanna,† reached Boston, 18 September 1634, in the ship Griffin, with two hundred emigrants. Mr. Wheelwright had been vicar of Bilsby from 1623 to 1632, and had been "silenced" (says Winthrop). The last we find of him in England is at the baptism of his daughter Elizabeth, at Laceby, 9 June 1633. He landed at Boston 26 May 1636. There is no list of those who came with him. It is noticeable that this date was just subsequent to the time of the disposition of property in England by William[20] Wentworth, father of Elder William[1], the son being at that time nineteen years of age, and that neither again appear in the English records.‡

Under date July 1637, Winthrop says, —

Here came over a brother§ of Mrs. Hutchinson, and some other of Mr. Wheelwright's friends, whom the Governor thought not fit to allow, as

* Rev. John Wheelwright married at Bilsby, co. Lincoln, England, 8 November 1621, Mary Storre; and her brother, Augustine Storre, another member of the Exeter Combination, married at Alford, co. Lincoln, 21 November 1623, Susanna Hutchinson, whose eldest brother, William Hutchinson, married Anne Marbury, who became the celebrated Anne Hutchinson, of New England; and this Anne was daughter of Francis Marbury, who was brother of Catherine Marbury, who married, 19 August 1583, Christopher[19] Wentworth, the grandfather of Elder William[21]. Christopher[19] was grandfather also of Christopher[21] Lawson and Christopher[21] Helme, Exeter settlers.

† She was wife of Edward Hutchinson; was admitted to the Boston church at the same time with Mr. Wheelwright; was dismissed to the church at Exeter, 3 March 1639; and died, at York, Me., after 1643.

‡ Thomas[28] Wentworth, Earl of Strafford, sent out a ship, called the St. Patrick, one Palmer master, in 1636, and she arrived in Boston the same year; but who came in her the writer has no means of ascertaining.

others, to sit down among us, without some trial of them. Therefore, to save others from the danger of the law, in receiving of them, he allowed them for four months.

The probability is that William[1] Wentworth came in this party of Mr. Wheelwright's "friends," who must have come from his old parish. William[1] Wentworth was not a member of the Boston church, nor indeed are there any records of the time of his admission to any church; and thus no record of his presence in Boston is attainable.

The controversy caused by the peculiar views of Rev. John Wheelwright and Mrs. Anne Hutchinson* is a matter of well-known history. Those who adopted these views were styled "Antinomians" and "Familists." It was proposed in 1636 to call Mr. Wheelwright as pastor in Boston, where the church largely sympathized with his opinions, but this was not pressed, and he went to Mount Wollaston (now Quincy) to be minister there. The differences grew, and at the Court held in March 1637, Mr. Wheelwright was arraigned on account of a sermon† which he had just preached on a Fast Day, in Boston, and he was adjudged guilty of "sedition and contempt." The matter was deferred, however, and a synod convened in August which condemned various opinions alleged to be held by Mr. Wheelwright, Mrs. Hutchinson, and many others. At the November General Court, fifty-eight persons of Boston and seventeen of other towns were disarmed for having signed a petition in which they sustained Wheelwright, and declared that the Court had "condemned the truth of Christ." Some were disfranchised; Mrs. Hutchinson was sentenced to banishment, but, it being winter, she was committed to a private house; and Mr. Wheelwright was ordered to depart from the jurisdiction within

* Gov. Winthrop, under date October 1636, says, "One Mrs. Hutchinson, a member of the church of Boston, a woman of a ready wit, and bold spirit, brought over with her two dangerous errors:

1. That the person of the Holy Ghost dwells in a justified person.
2. That no sanctification can help to evidence to us our justification.

From these two grew many branches:—

As 1. Our union with the Holy Ghost, so as a Christian remains dead to every spiritual action, and hath no gifts nor graces other than such as are in hypocrites, nor any other sanctification but the Holy Ghost himself.

There joined with her in these opinions a brother of hers, one Mr. Wheelwright, a silenced minister, some time in England."

† The manuscript sermon is in the library of the Massachusetts Historical Society. It was published in the Proceedings of that Society, August 1866, and also in the Historical Magazine, new series, i, 215–224.

fourteen days. There seems no reason to suppose that he did not leave within that time, and the Piscataqua was the nearest northern refuge.

Mrs. Hutchinson was finally, in March 1638, excommunicated by the church, and in the latter part of that month Winthrop writes,—

> The Governor sent a warrant to Mrs. Hutchinson* to depart this jurisdiction before the last of this month, according to the order of the Court; and, for that end, set her at liberty from her former constraint; so that she was not to go forth of her own house until her departure; and upon the 28th, she went by water to her farm at the Mount, where she was to take water, with Mr. Wheelwright's wife and family, to go to Piscataquack; but she changed her mind, and went by land to Providence, and so to the island on the Narragansett, which her husband and the rest of that sect had purchased of the Indians, and prepared with all speed to remove thereto. For the Court had ordered, that, except they were gone, with their families, by such a time, they should be summoned to the General Court.

"Mr. Wheelwright," says Winthrop, "being thus banished from us, gathered a company, and sat down by the Falls of Pascataquack, and called their town Exeter." His wife and family, in March 1638, were just about "to take water" "at the Mount," that is now Quincy, on their journey.

In this "company" undoubtedly was William[1] Wentworth, who, having with some of his own kindred, followed Mr. Wheelwright into America, now followed him into the wilderness. And after some months of trial in the absence of all government, the Combination was formed.

It will be seen that none of the charges against Mr. Wheelwright touched his character. Cotton Mather thus wrote of him:—

> He was always a Gentleman of the most unspotted Morals imaginable. A man of most unblemished Reputation. . . . There was a Time in the year 1637 when he was persecuted, with too much violence, in ye Massachuset Colony; but it was only from a Disturbance made about certain speculations, which were thought to be of an Antinomian Tendency. His worst enemies never looked on him as chargeable with ye least Ill practices.

* Mrs. Anne Hutchinson, born in co. Lincoln, England, 20 July 1591, was daughter of Rev. Francis Marbury, "a goodly minister of Lincolnshire," by his second wife, Bridget Dryden. Rev. Francis Marbury was son of William Marbury, of Grisby, co. Lincoln, by his wife Agnes, daughter of John Lenton. Anne married William Hutchinson. They landed at Boston, 18 September 1634. He died in Rhode Island in 1642. In 1643 his widow removed beyond Connecticut, and very soon after, she, with several children and servants, to the number of sixteen, were killed by the Indians. Gov. Hutchinson, of Massachusetts, and the late Hon. James Savage, author of the Genealogical Dictionary, were among her descendants.

Belknap says that he was "a gentleman of learning, piety, and zeal." His church membership was not affected by his banishment or his supposed heresies, and when the exiles proposed to form a church, letters of dismission from the Boston church were readily granted. The vote, dated 6, 11 mo., 1638, i. e. 6 January 1639, is as follows:—

This day dismissions granted to or Brethren, Mr. John Wheelwright, Richard Morrys, Richard Bulgar, Philemon Pormont, Isaac Grosse, Christopher Marshall, George Baytes, Thomas Wardall and Willyam Wardall, unto ye Church of christ at ye ffalls of Paschataqua if they be rightly gathered and Ordered.

On the 3 March 1640, there were further dismissions to the Exeter church, viz. widow Susannah Hutchinson; Mary, wife of John Wheelwright; Lenora, wife of Richard Morrys; and Henry Elkin and wife Mary.

All of the men thus dismissed were signers of the combination, except Grosse,* Marshall,† and Bates.‡

The combination at Exeter continued but three years. Massachusetts had always quietly regarded the Newichawannock and Piscataqua Rivers as its rightful boundary, but for prudential reasons, had not enforced its claim. But the confusions into which the Dover settlers had fallen led that people to desire the strong government of Massachusetts. After repeated conferences between the parties, a union of Dover and Portsmouth with Massachusetts was accomplished in 1641.§ The vote of the Massachusetts Gen-

* Isaac Grosse, husbandman, had been admitted to the Boston church 17, 2 mo., 1636. His name appears, with that of Wheelwright and others, on the earliest division of lands at Exeter. He was a "Ruler" at Exeter, leaving office in 1640. He returned to Boston, and his Will, dated there 29 March 1649, was proved 5 April 1649; in the list of his effects is a debt due from William[1] Wentworth, for wheat.

Among the baptisms by Rev. Peter Thacher, of Milton, Mass., is this: 9 October 1692. "Thomas, ye son of Isaac Grosse, on account of his mother, Elizabeth Grosse, daughter to father Atherton."

† Christopher Marshall, "a single man," was admitted to the Boston church, 28, 6 mo., 1634. Anne Marshall, his daughter, was baptized 13, 3 mo., 1638. He is supposed to have returned to England, and to be the one who was minister at Woodkirk, co. York, and who died February 1673, aged 59.

‡ George Bates, "thacher," had been admitted to the Boston church 24, 11 mo., 1635, i. e. 24 January 1636. He was received back again, from the Exeter church, 31, 3 mo., 1640.

§ Indications of this purpose had been seen earlier. Massachusetts had always seen with jealousy that the New Hampshire settlements were a refuge for persons disaffected to itself. Belknap, under date 1638, says,—mainly a quotation from Winthrop:—

eral Court, completing the affair, was on the 9th of October 1641, and while it referred to "the consent of the inhabitants of the said ryver," significantly prefaced it with the words, "Whereas it appeareth that by the extent of the line (according to our Patent), that the ryver Pascataqueck is within the jurisdiction of the Massachusetts."

This extension of jurisdiction of course covered Exeter, although it was not there made operative until 1642. Mr. Wheelwright was still under sentence of banishment from Massachusetts, and it was necessary for him again to remove. He therefore, in 1642, removed to Wells,* in the Province of Maine, to which Massachusetts could lay no claim. With him went several of his adherents at Exeter, and among them William[1] Wentworth, who, having followed Wheelwright from England to Boston, and from Boston to Exeter, now faithfully adhered to his fortunes once more and followed him from Exeter to Maine.

William[1] Wentworth appears to have lived in Wells from 1642 to 1649. In 1642 we find him a juror from the town of Wells, in the York County court; yet at a term of the court holden at Exeter, N. H., 5, 7 mo., 1643, it is ordered that Christopher[21] Lawson [his cousin] provide a file for William[1] Wentworth, and that said Wentworth do pay 7 shillings for it. He was constable at Wells, Me., in 1648, and was on the jury at York County court, holden at Kittery, Me., in 1647 and 1649. He seems to have owned a small lot of marsh at Wells, yet he did not receive a grant of land there, which required no other consideration than possession and improvement for two years, and a few shillings rent.

"The Antinomian controversy at Boston having occasioned the banishment of the principal persons of that sect, several of them retired to this settlement [Dover Neck], it being without the jurisdiction of Massachusetts. When this was known, Governor Winthrop wrote to Wiggin, Burdett, and others of the plantation, that as there had been hitherto a good correspondence between them, it would be much resented if they should receive the exiles; and intimating the intention of the General Court to survey the utmost limits of their patents and make use of them. To this Burdett returned a scornful answer, refusing to give the Governor his title."

* The original commission for surveying the town of Wells, Me., was issued by Thomas Gorges in July 1643, and was directed to "Mr. John Wheelwright, minister of God's word," and others. Wells originally comprised Kennebunk also. It lies on the sea coast, the order of towns from Portsmouth being, Kittery, York, Wells, being less than thirty miles from Portsmouth, and twenty-eight miles southwest of Portland. It was incorporated in 1653, being the second town in Maine. The house of the town clerk was burned in 1657, and the first volume of records was thus destroyed.

In 1643 Wheelwright addressed a letter to Gov. Winthrop, and made some slight acknowledgment of certain speculative errors upon doctrinal points in religion; and on the 17th of October he was granted a safe conduct to and from Boston. He preached at Wells, Me., until 1644, when he petitioned to have his sentence of banishment revoked; and his petition was soon after granted. At Exeter, N. H., in 1644, land was granted to him on condition "that he come amongst us again." But he did not return to Exeter. He left Wells in 1646, and went to Hampton, N. H. (where a grant was laid out to him 5 July 1646), where he preached most of the time until he went to England about 1657.*

William[1] Wentworth remained at Wells until 1649, when, apparently in the latter part of that year,—being a juror in York county in 1649, and first taxed in Dover in 1650,—he removed to Dover, N. H., where made his residence, save in temporary absences, during the remainder of his life.

Dover was settled in 1623. In that year, under the auspices of Gorges, Mason, and other associates,—David Thomson, Edward Hilton (and perhaps his brother William), and some others whose names are not preserved, came to the Piscataqua. They were in two parties, but in the same ship, and were supplied with all necessaries for beginning plantations, but with special view to the fisheries. No investigation had been able to fix the time of the year nearer than "the spring," with a probability, from mention of ships, that it was in May. Thomson landed at Little Harbor, and begun the settlement which became Portsmouth. The Hiltons went up the river Piscataqua (early called Pascataquack), and settled Dover. Their first few buildings were on the southern extremity of a point where the Newichawannock on the east and the Bellamy River on the west flow into the Piscataqua. It is still known as "Dover Point" or "Hilton's Point." Hilton, for himself and others, procured a patent, dated 12 March 1629 (i. e. 1629–30), covering "all that part of the River Pascataquack called or known by the name of Wecanacohunt, or Hilton's Point, with the south side of the said river up to the ffall of the river, and three miles into the Maine Land by all the breadth aforesaid." This patent is commonly known as the "Squamscot Patent," but that name does not occur in it.* Massachusetts records call it "the two patents of Dover and Squamscott," evidently referring to the two parts, which were soon in separate hands.

* He was in favor with Oliver Cromwell, whose contemporary he was in the University. The Protector, upon Wheelwright's being presented, said that he could remember the time when he was more afraid of meeting Wheelwright at foot-ball than he had since been of meeting an army in the field; for he was infallibly sure of being tripped up by him.—3 Massachusetts Historical Collections, iv, 294.

After the restoration, he returned to this country, and was settled as minister, 9 December 1662, at Salisbury, Mass., succeeding Rev. William Worcester, where he died 15 November 1679, aged eighty-five years, the oldest minister of the colony at the time.

After some changes of ownership, Capt. Thomas Wiggin (who first came in 1631, but returned for more supplies), as agent for proprietors, brought over in 1633 "about thirty," who were from the west of England, and most of whom were of good estates, "and of some account for religion." These landed at Salem, Mass., 10 October 1633, from the ship "James," Capt. Grant. They settled a little farther up than the Hiltons, on a swell of land known as Dover Neck. Here was the church built, and this place was long the principal part of the town. Others soon settled across the Piscataqua southward, on a tract known as Bloody Point. Others settled on Oyster River, west of Dover Neck, and that part bore the name of the river. It is now Durham. In a few years, perhaps as early as 1640, Richard Walderne built mills at the lower falls of the Cochecho, about four miles north of Dover Neck, and this settlement was known as Cochecho. The four parts, Dover Neck, Bloody Point, Oyster River, and Cochecho, were all in the limits of Dover, the part known as Cochecho coming (as settled) to reach the Quamphegan and Newichawannock on the northeast. The Newichawannock River and the Piscataqua (into which it flows at Dover Point) was the eastern boundary of Dover; and the former river is still that boundary of the present Dover, and separates it from the State of Maine.† The original Dover comprised the present city of Dover and the towns of Durham, Madbury, Lee, Somersworth, and Rollinsford, and parts of Newington (Bloody Point) and a little of Greenland. Cochecho is now the central part of the city of Dover, and the falls are the site of the extensive cotton mills. In early times Cochecho was the main trading post of that section with the Indians, and its general business increased so steadily that before 1700 it had outgrown the other parts of the town. It was in Cochecho that William[1] Wentworth settled, although a mile and a half or two miles from the falls; took up lands for cultivation, and also became concerned in the lumber manufacture, at the head of tide-water on Fresh Creek, a small stream which flows southeasterly into the Cochecho some miles below Cochecho Falls. That part of Dover was made the Parish of Somersworth, 19 December 1729, and incorporated as a town, 22 April 1754; and the lower part, including the home of the Wentworths, was set off from Somersworth, and incorporated, 3 July 1849, as the town of Rollinsford.*

All of these grants, save two, were in one locality, and in that part of Dover afterwards Somersworth, and now incorporated as Rollinsford. The two exceptions were, first, the grant of land adjoining the Great Pond, now known as Willand's or Cochecho Pond; but this land he exchanged for land joining his homestead; and secondly, the grant of six acres on Dover Neck, for a house lot, 1 April 1658. This lot is easily found at the present time.* About two miles south from Dover City Hall, on the "Neck Road," is "Little John's Creek," which flows southwesterly into Back River. The lot at the angle of the creek and river, on the south side, was James Nute's twelve-acre lot, granted in 1654. Nute lived upon it. Next south, on the eastern bank of Back River, was Thomas Roberts' lot of four acres; this lot was sold, in 1727, to Joshua Cromwell. The next lot was Elder Wentworth's. It is about due west from the present residence of Otis Tuttle. The lot was bounded "east by highway"; this was not the road now known as "Dover Neck Road," but one west of it, nearly parallel, and long since abandoned. In 1727, by the deed of Roberts to Cromwell, the elder's lot is mentioned (as a boundary) as "land of Thomas Whitehouse." How it passed into the possession of Whitehouse does not yet appear.

The question arises whether Elder William ever lived upon that grant. Certainly he did not in November 1659, more than a year and a half later, as he was then still taxed at Cochecho; nor in 1661, when, in the selection of town officers, he evidently represented the Cochecho section, — the custom being to select persons from each of the four parts of the town; nor did he in April 1664, when "his now dwelling house" on the Somersworth property is mentioned in the records. After this date there can be no question.

Elder William undoubtedly lived upon the lands in Rollinsford. It is now impossible to define their boundaries (except one mill-grant) with any exactness. They lay east and north of east of Garrison Hill, on the eastern side of the present road to Great Falls, and west of north of Fresh Creek tide-water. The Boston and Maine Railroad runs through the property, which was also cut by the turnpike to South Berwick. It is sufficiently identified, however, by the fact that a part, perhaps the central part, is still in the family name, having come down uninterruptedly from Elder William[1] to Bartholomew[5] (851), who still lives upon the ancestral place.

This territory, as already stated, was part of the section known as Cochecho. He was taxed as of Cochecho, from 1650 onward, in every year of which the tax-lists are extant. His lands were not far from the mill-privilege at Fresh Creek, and it is evident that he was concerned, at least at first, in the manufacture of lumber, one of the important interests of Dover in the early times, the lumber being extensively exported.

The year after that in which he first appears in Dover he was chosen one of the selectmen, viz. in 1651. The early records of Dover have unfortunately suffered many losses in the lapse of time, and it is impossible to tell all the years in which he held office of any kind. The records, however, show the following: —

He was one of the selectmen in 1651, 1657, 1660, 1664, 1665, and 1670.

He was moderator of the town meeting in 1661.

He was commissioner, an office in which "small causes" were adjudged, in 1663.

He was lot-layer in 1657, 1660, 1661, and, from records of doings, in many other years, — an office which required much time and care, in the period when great numbers of town grants, vague and often conflicting, were to be located. In this work he was mainly associated with John Hall, a deacon of the church of which he was an elder, and some time with Ralph Hall, who had with him signed the Exeter Combination of 1639.

He was the first-named of five men, 10, 1 mo., 1656, chosen by the town to arbitrate between the conflicting claims of lands which had become a serious difficulty, and, the record says, "wee . . . do hereby ingage to Rest satisfied with thear Deuetion."

He was one of the three persons from Cochecho, to join with men from other parts of the town, in 1660, to settle the growing ecclesiastical difficulties between the Oyster River (Durham) section and the other parts, who reported an elaborate plan, 17 July 1660.

He was chosen first on the list from Cochecho, 2, 2 mo., 1666, in connection with others, to report to the town "Concerning the Right of Commonage and other things Conserning the Towne afaiers."

The office, however, by which William[1] Wentworth was best known was that of Ruler Elder of the church at Dover,* especially as it resulted in his officiating as preacher in many years of his life.

* The first church in Dover, N. H., repeated mention of which is made in this work, was organized in December 1638, as appears by a careful comparison of incidents given by Winthrop. It is erroneously printed January 1639 in the Church Manual. A meeting-house was built earlier, however, either in 1633 or 1634, and Rev. William Leverich preached there, who came with Capt. Wiggin's company of "about thirty" in the fall of 1633. He left Dover in 1635, and was admitted a member of the Boston First Church, 9 August 1635; was afterwards settled at Sandwich, Mass., but eventually went to Long Island, and died there, leaving descendants, who write the name "Leveridge." Rev. George Burdett succeeded him, who came to Salem, Mass., from Yarmouth, England, in 1635, and to Dover in 1637, and became Governor of Dover for a short time, from which place he corresponded with Archbishop Laud, in letters still extant at the Public Record Office, London. He left Dover in 1639, went to Agamenticus (York), Me., and afterwards to Pemaquid, and to England before July 1641, where he entered the Royalist army, was taken prisoner by the Parliament troops, cast into prison, and is no more heard of. Rev. Hanserd Knolles, born in Cawkwell, co. Lincoln, England, in 1598; was educated at Cambridge, and held the living of Humberstone; arrived at Boston from England in July 1638, and came to Dover in a few weeks; superseded Burdett, and organized the First Church, which has had an uninterrupted life ever since. Knolles left Dover, N. H., early in 1640; went to Long Island; and returned to England in 1641, where he died 2 September 1691, many years a Baptist. Knolles was superseded by Rev. Thomas Larkham, who was born in Lyme, Dorsetshire, England, 4 May 1601; graduated at Jesus College, Cambridge; settled at Northam; came to Dover late in 1639 or early in 1640 (which was for a little time called Northam), and left in 1642. He was afterwards settled at Tavistock, co. Devon, was ejected under the Act of 1662, and died in 1669.

When he was chosen to this office, and indeed, when he became a member of that or of any other church, is unknown. Coming to Exeter under the influence of Mr. Wheelwright, and from his parish in England, and following him in his exile to Wells, it is extremely probable that he was a member of the original Exeter church, of which doubtless no records are in existence. Nor are there any records of the Dover church prior to 1717. There are, however, many references to ecclesiastical affairs upon the town records.

The church had had two Ruling Elders* prior to the election and

On application to the Massachusetts ministers, Rev. Daniel Maud was, 1642, sent to Dover. He had been admitted freeman 25 May 1636, and was schoolmaster at Boston. The town gave him a house and land 1 August 1642. He died between 17 February and 26 June 1655, and was succeded by Rev. John Reyner.

Counting Hanserd Knolles as the first pastor, Rev. Jeremy Belknap, D. D., author of the History of New Hampshire, was the ninth; and the present incumbent of the pulpit of the "First Church in Dover," Rev. George B. Spaulding, is the twentieth.

The original place of worship was on Dover Neck, where traces of the fortification, built in 1667, about the meeting-house, are still plain. The second meeting-house was built in 1653. As population increased at the Falls and farther northward, and as Newington was taken off from the south part of the town, another meeting-house was built on Pine Hill in 1714, and the old building on Dover Neck was soon after disused.

Of this church Elder William[1] Wentworth was a member and ruling elder; and of the author's direct line, in male descent, from Elder William[1] to his father and mother, who were christened there, each one was a member of this church as well as all his other ancestors who lived in that region.

This church was the first church actually organized on New Hampshire soil; that at Hampton (which is a little older) having been formed in Massachusetts. To form the original "combination" church at Exeter, Rev. John Wheelwright and eight others were dismissed from the Boston church 6 January 1639. It became extinct with Mr. Wheelwright's removal, and a new one was organized there in 1698.

* The Annals of the American Pulpit, 1859, speaking of the polity of the early Congregationalists, says:—

"They believed that in every completely organized church there should be a Pastor, Teacher, Ruling Elders, and Deacons. It devolved on the Pastor to inculcate the doctrines and present the consolations of religion; on the Teacher to expound and defend the doctrines; on the Ruling Elder to assist the Pastor in the government of the church, — particularly to watch over the members, to prepare and bring forward all cases of discipline, to visit and pray with the sick, and, in the absence of the Pastor and Teacher, to pray with the congregation and expound the Scriptures; and on the Deacons to provide for the Lord's table, and to care for the poor.

"In ordination, the vote of the church was regarded as the essential thing; and the imposition of hands was by the Ruling Elders, or, in their absence, by the common brethren. Ruling Elders were ordained with no less solemnity than Pastors.

"The office of Ruling Elder gradually died out of the Congregational churches."

ordination of William[1] Wentworth, viz. Edward Starbuck and Hatevil Nutter, each of whom is styled "Elder" in 1647. Elder Nutter remained in office until his death in 1675. Elder Starbuck was presented by the grand jury, 3, 8 mo., 1648, "for denyeinge to Joyne with the churche in the ordinance of baptisme," and was held to answer to the next Court of Assistants at Boston "for such offences as have been by him committed against the law concerning Anabaptists." He left Dover in 1659, and settled in Nantucket, but doubtless, having been confirmed in his peculiar views, he ceased to be Ruling Elder in the church before that time, and it is likely that William[1] Wentworth was his immediate successor. The first date on which Elder Wentworth receives that title on the town records is 10 March 1655–6, but the records for the four or five years next previous are almost all lost. It appears that he was Ruling Elder in the successive pastorates of Daniel Maud, John Reyner, John Reyner, jr., and John Pike, a period of service of more than forty years.

Allusion has been made to a settlement, in 1660, of dissensions between different parts of the town, particularly Dover Neck (the original settlement) and Oyster River as to public worship. Those who resided at such a distance that they could with difficulty attend the public services, which they were required by law to do, and which they were held to support, needed relief. In that settlement appears the following: —

5thly. It is ordred for the supply of cochechae thear is set apart fiftien pound of towne Rents for the ministrey thear in the winter seasone.

This was a standing vote. The defective records give but one allusion to its practical result. It is dated 2, 2 mo., 1666, and is as follows: —

By the Selleckmen,
Ordered that William Pomfrett shall Giue out Orders to mr. Rayner for the Seuerall Rents dew from mills to be payd to him toward his sallery as also To giue mr Coffin order to Receue 15 £ of Rent to pay Elder Wantworth for his paynes at Coechechae the last winter.

The mill sites on the several rivers had been granted to occupants subject to annual payment of "rents." These rents were appropriated to the support of ministers. Mr. Reyner* was then

* Rev. John Reyner, fourth pastor of the church and sixth minister of the town, a native of England (he owned lands in the parish of Batly, co. York), had been minister at Plymouth, Mass., from 1636, was settled at Dover in 1655, and died in office 20 April 1669. He was succeeded by his son, John Reyner, jr., the settled minister of Dover, and preached in the meeting-house on Dover Neck. According to the above vote, Elder Wentworth officiated at Cochecho, the now central part of the city of Dover. Full records would probably furnish other facts of the same kind. It seems clear that he was the first person ever employed by public authority to preach in the city limits proper of Dover; but church tradition says that Elder Wentworth officiated more commonly at Quamphegan (now South Berwick), which also accommodated Salmon Falls. Quamphegan had no settled minister until a few years after Elder William's death.

Late in life he was preaching in Exeter. The editor of the Exeter News Letter, in a historical article wrote: —

> As a preacher, he was occasionally employed abroad, and officiated in that capacity in this town [Exeter] when he was about eighty years of age. He was preaching here in 1690 and in 1693. In March 1693 the town agreed with him to supply the pulpit one whole year, if he be able, and to pay him £40 for his services. In June following, however, other arrangements were made for preaching, in consequence, undoubtedly, of Mr. Wentworth's inability on account of age to perform the duties of a minister.

The exact extract from the Exeter records is: — > Agreed with Mr Wentworth to supply and perform the office of minister one year, if he be able, at £40.

Thus he was preaching in his old age in the same place where he had signed the combination nearly fifty-four years before.

In his bi-centennial sermon, preached Thanksgiving Day, 29 November 1838, before the old church, Rev. David Root* says: —

> From the years 1647 to 1662, there seem to have been Elders in the church. At least mention is made of persons of this title. There appear to have been three [two] at once. Elder Wentworth was parent to the several governors of that name, and was an occasional preacher.

Rev. Dr. Belknap describes him thus: —

H. C. 1663, who had assisted him in his last years. The invitation by the town to the son was given 22 July 1669, but he was not ordained until 12 July 1671. He died in office 21 December 1676, aged 34, from a cold and fever contracted while with the troops in an expedition to the eastward.

* Rev. David Root, fourteenth pastor of the Dover church, and sixteenth minister of the parish, succeeding Rev. Hubbard Winslow. Born in Piermont, N. H., graduated at Middlebury College 1816; missionary some time in Georgia; ordained pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1820, and resigned in 1832; installed at Dover 6 February 1833, dismissed 4 September 1839; officiated afterwards at Waterbury and Guilford, Conn., and died at Chicago, Ill., 30 August 1873, in his eighty-third year.

William[1] Wentworth was one of the first settlers at Exeter; and after the breaking up of their "Combination" for a government he removed to Dover, and became a Ruling Elder in the church there.

In 1689 he was remarkably instrumental of saving Heard's garrison. After this, he officiated several years as a preacher, at Exeter and other places, and died at a very advanced age, at Dover, in 1697, leaving a numerous posterity. From him the several governors of that name are descended. He was a very useful and good man.

Elder William[1] was not, of course, a clergyman, in the usual acceptation of that term, but he was preacher, in accordance with his ordination as Ruling Elder, and he was engaged as preacher with more or less permanence. The following is all the information touching his writing out his sermons that in all probability can be gathered at this late day.

He was in the employment of the people at Exeter, N. H. (as intelligent as the people of any portion of New Hampshire) when he gave, in 1693, the farm at Cochecho to his son Benjamin[2]. Now Ephraim[2], if not a younger son, was the next youngest, and lived near if not adjoining Benjamin[2]. Perhaps their father lived between them. It is to be regretted that the land inventoried at his death cannot now be traced out; every effort has been made to do so. The land of Benjamin[2] is still in the possession of his descendants, and that of Ephraim[2] remained with them until within the remembrance of many persons now living, it having descended to his son Ezekiel[3] (57), whose first wife was his cousin Dorothy[3] (72), daughter of Benjamin[2]. By a second wife, this Ezekiel[3] (57) had an only daughter Dorothy[4] (269), who inherited the homestead. She married a grandson of Benjamin[2], who was Evans[4] (296). It was in this family, where there had been two intermarriages with the descendants of the youngest two sons of Elder William Wentworth, and who were occupying the same premises all the while, that persons now living, grandsons of the above Dorothy[4] (269), assert they saw the sermons of Elder William under circumstances which they themselves thus describe: —

LOWELL, MASS., August 17, 1869.

Quite early in my boyhood my grandmother showed me these sermons and desired me to read one of them to her, and they were alluded to by her and seen by me on three or four occasions afterwards. It is impossible for me to state the year when I last saw them; but, as you ask me to guess the last time, I do so by saying it was 45 years ago, say about 1824. The sermons were in an old chest, which, from its antique appearance, might have been the property of Elder William. I remember it well, and describe it as about five feet in length, two feet high, and of the same width at the bottom, and perhaps two inches narrower at the top. There were cletes on the lid, so that the same, when shut, enclosed the front and ends of the chest. The sermons were written on foolscap paper, folded so that a sheet would make eight pages. The paper was very yellow, and the edges were worn as if it had been subjected to much use. From the appearance of the sermons, as they were laid upon each other in two piles, I should judge there were fifty of them at least.

As to their loss by fire, I have no evidence. The house in which my grandmother Dorothy[4] (269) lived from my earliest recollection of her, and where she died, was built early in the present century, say from 1807 to 1812, and it remained upon its first foundation until after her youngest daughter, Eunice[5] (823), married Stephen Hanson, when it was removed to its present site near the turnpike, a few rods from the dwelling-house of Bartholomew[5] (851) Wentworth. An elder daughter, Mercy[5] (819), married Jacob[5] (814) Wentworth, son of Daniel[4]; and it is most probable that the old chest was taken by her. I subsequently purchased the Jacob[5] (814) Wentworth farm for my mother. I never heard of any fire on that estate. My brother, George T.[6], who has always remained in Dover, should have a better recollection of the facts than myself.

I think your reasoning in regard to the manner in which the chest and sermons came into the possession of my grandmother very just, and the inferences well warranted.

The father of the present Bartholomew[5] (851) Wentworth had the same name. The farm belonging to the father was divided between his two sons, Bartholomew[5] (851) and Hall[5] (852) Wentworth. Hall* had the portion lying next to Elder William's supposed farm, and still owns it. The division was made by arbitrators since my recollection, my grandfather Evans[4] (296) being one of them.

TAPPAN WENTWORTH.†

DOVER, N. H., August 19th, 1869.

I received a note from my brother Tappan[6], wishing me to send the name of the present occupant of the land on which my grandmother Dorothy[4] (269) was born.

March 17th, 1808, Evans[4] (296) Wentworth and wife Dorothy[4] in her own right deeded to William K. Atkinson and Samuel Bragg, jr., three acres and one hundred and forty-two rods, bounded by lands of Daniel Ricker northerly, westerly by other land of Atkinson and Bragg, and easterly by land of Bartholomew[5] (851) Wentworth. In the same deed, Dorothy[4] conveys her right in this piece, and also her right to forty acres "which fell to her as the heir of her father, Ezekiel[3] (57) Wentworth, excepting and reserving out of the same, one square rod of land heretofore used as a burying-place, where are deposited the remains of the father of said Dorothy[4] and some others."

This property is now in the possession of Charles W.[7] Rollins,* who purchased the same of Thomas J. Canney some twelve years ago. Canney purchased of the heirs of said Atkinson. The track of the Boston and Maine Railroad runs directly over this burying-place, a few rods north of Rollins' dwelling-house; a little easterly of this "place," and across the railroad track, is situated the Wentworth burying-place of this generation and a portion of the former, in the westerly end of Hall[5] (852) Wentworth's field, and where Evans[4] and Dorothy[4] Wentworth lie buried. They sleep within hearing distance of Ezekiel[3] Wentworth, her father, and perhaps Elder William[1], her great-grandfather. The house standing on this land was burned after my grandmother was born, as I have heard her say; but at what age she was I do not know. I remember very well the fact of seeing two or three birchen buckets which hung in the attic where I slept when I lived with my grandfather Evans[4], which were filled with papers written on, and that I have looked in them; but as it was while very young and before I could read or write, I could not tell the contents of these papers. But I have heard my grandmother say that these buckets and contents were saved from the burning house, and that they contained sermons of Elder William.

The burying-place of Elder William is probably now under the Boston and Maine Railroad track. I do not know what became of these birchen buckets. I never saw them or any of their contents after I left my grandmother's, when about twelve years old. In all probability, after grandfather died, and when the property was divided and the estate settled, these ancient articles and contents were burnt as useless by those who could not have any knowledge of their present or future value.

I say that I saw the papers in the birch buckets more than once or twice prior to 1826, the year grandfather died. One of these buckets hung within reach of me as I laid upon my bed, and I have overhauled it many times. My recollection is that they were slips of paper, and looked old at that time. There might have been some stitched together in book form, and I can almost remember sufficient to form an impression in my mind at this time that there were some. I never saw these papers or buckets after grandfather died. I remember very well that when my grandmother came up-stairs and found me rummaging over the contents of these buckets (which I did frequently), she was very particular to tell me not to lose any of those papers, saying that they were Elder William's sermons, or words to that effect. The chest that my brother Tappan[6] (2342) speaks of may have become the receptacle of these papers after I saw them in the buckets. After I left, which took place soon after grandfather's death, there might have been a settlement and division of the personal property and household stuff, and the buckets were either given away or destroyed, and grandmother might have transferred the papers found in them to this chest, or there might have been another old chest in existence prior to this time.

Miss Sally[6] (2426) Wentworth, daughter of Bartholomew[5] (851), who still occupies a part of the old Wentworth estate, wrote under date 12 January 1872, as follows: —

After the death of Dorothy[4] (269), widow of Evans[4] (296) Wentworth, the homestead was occupied by their daughter Eunice[5] (823) Hanson; and in the barn upon the premises my brother Seleucus[6] (2429) and other members of my father's family remember having seen an old desk containing a great many old papers. Many years ago the barn was struck by lightning, and consumed with all its contents.

Elder William[1] Wentworth was still living in Dover in 1689. The remarkable manner in which Heard's garrison was saved from destruction by the Indians on the 28th of June 1689 by his instrumentality, has been preserved. Although it was a time of profound peace, the unusual number of Indians gathered at Cocheco, which was a trading-post, excited the suspicions of the people. It was noticed also that many strange faces were among them. The confidence of Major Richard Walderne somewhat allayed their doubts, but many gathered into the garrisons, of which there were five at Cochecho. Elder Wentworth was in Heard's garrison, about a mile from his house. In the evening of the 27th squaws requested leave to sleep by the kitchen fires in the several garrisons, which was not unusual. They were admitted into four, including Heard's. In the darkest hour before the morn, the squaws opened the doors to admit the Indians. Elder Wentworth was awakened by the barking of a dog. Suspicious, he hastened to the door and found the Indians entering. Alone, and seventy-three years of age, he pushed them out, shut the door, and falling on his back held it until the inmates came to his assistance. While he was lying in this position, two bullets passed through the door and over him. It was the only garrison saved. Twenty-three persons were killed and twenty-nine carried away captive.

For some time after the massacre, Cochecho, except in the garrisons, was untenable. Indian hostilities continued. It is impossible to say whether Elder William's house was burned, but as it was in the path of the Indians, it is likely. If not, being beyond Heard's garrison, which was the frontier post between Portsmouth and Canada, the place was too much exposed to be at once reoccupied. It may partly be due to this fact that he was living in Exeter in 1690, and as late as 1693. That he was at that place in those years is evidenced by the extract already given mentioning his preaching here. It is also shown that he was there in 1693 by a deed to his son Benjamin[2], 9 May 1693, which will be given in its proper place, in which he calls himself "of Cochecho, now liueing in Exeter." But he returned to Dover. A deed from him to his son Timothy[2], 27 May 1696, shows him to be in Dover.

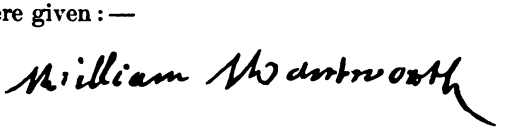
An entry in the journal of Rev. John Pike,* pastor of his church, reads as follows: —

> March 16, 9½. Elder Wentworth deceased a few days after he was taken speechles with a sudden shivering.

The entry on the return made by appraisers, however, says that he died on the fifteenth. If this be so, he died on the eighty-first anniversary of the day of his baptism. ~ b. 1616 ~

His signature may be found to the "Combination" article of 1639, which is still preserved at Exeter, N. H.; and also as a witness to the Will of Rev. Daniel Maud, of Dover, N. H., executed 17, 11 mo., 1654, that is, 17 January 1655. A fac-simile of the latter is here given: —



Upon the old homestead of his son Timothy[2] Wentworth, in Berwick, Me., now owned by Timothy's[2] descendant Daniel[5] (686) Wentworth, the writer found in an old birch-bark box an original deed from William[1] Wentworth and wife Elizabeth to son Timothy[2], dated 27 May 1696. His autograph† was well preserved, as here given. She, however, made her mark.

Elder Wentworth left no Will. A considerable portion of his land he had at different times conveyed to his sons. All the con-

* John Pike, successor to John Reyner, jr., as sixth pastor of the Dover church and eighth minister of the town, was son of Hon. Robert Pike; was born in Salisbury, Mass., 13 May 1653; H. C. 1675; entered upon ministerial duty at Dover 1 November 1678, but was not ordained until 31 August 1681; and died in office 10 March 1709–10. He married, 5 May 1681, Sarah, second daughter of Rev. Joshua Moodey, of Portsmouth. His very valuable journal, with list of marriages, 1686 to 1710, is in the library of the Massachusetts Historical Society, and has been lately printed for the "Proceedings" of that Society, with extended notes. He was succeeded in the Dover pastorate by Nicholas Sever.

† In the body of a deed, dated 18 November 1667, he is called William Winford. In the Dover records, among the list of freemen for 1653, is Elder Winford; but in records of 1652, 1654, 1664, and other years, it is correctly given Wentworth. By others than himself the name was often variously written, Wintworth, Winford, Wenford, Wintford, and Wantworth.

veyances that are on record, or are found from any source, are as follows: —

1. Thomas Payne, of Dover, 9 July 1673, conveyed to Ginking Jones, of Dover, for £18, twenty acres at Cochecho, near the Great Hill, being part of fifty acres granted to "William Wintworth" by the town 1 December 1652, and which said Wentworth conveyed to Payne in 1666, — "to begin at a Gutt at y^e^ Lower end of y^e^ s^d^ Great hill & soe to run by y^e^ Cart way until it come y^e^ marked tree W W," and so by that width "along y^e^ Commons N. W. till 20 acres are measured."

Wentworth's deed to Payne is not on record.

2. In the conveyance to Peter Coffin, next below, 18 November 1667, Elder William[1] excepts "twenty-six acres of it w^ch^ I have giuen to my son Samuel." The deed from Elder William[1] to his son Samuel[2] is not on record. Samuel[2] (with wife Mary) sold this land to Job Clements, 4 August 1670, describing it as "between Nechewannuck and Cochecho," and bounded, east by land of Clements, north by Richard Oates [Otis], west by Joseph Canney, and south by Peter Coffin.

3. Elder William[1] conveys, 18 November 1667, to Peter Coffin,

William's[1] wife Elizabeth makes her mark.

4. Eldèr William[1] conveys, 1 December 1674, to his son John[2] Wentworth,

The next deed following this in the records is one from said John[2] Wentworth, 20 December 1674, to George Ricker, conveying the above.

5. Elder William[1] conveyed, 17 July 1677, to George Ricker, a Certaine parcell of marsh & swamp land Scituated Lying & being neer cochecho neer y^e^ Lower p^te^ of y^e^ marsh comonly called cochecho marsh y^e^ Lower end of s^d^ pcell of Land butting on y^e^ northern side of y^e^ brooke w^ch^ doth run out of y^e^ s^d^ marsh upon a little pond by y^e^ said Brook & so from thence being eleven perch broad to goe up fifty perch by y^e^ side of a pcelle of marsh & Swamp w^ch^ y^e^ s^d^ George Ricker formerly bought of John Wentworth being of same breadth (viz^t^) ten perch of it in Length & breadth to be on y^e^ upper end of y^e^ s^d^ pcell of Land w^ch^ was s^d^ Jn^o^ Wentworth's.

4. William[1] and Elizabeth Wentworth, 16 April 1696, conveyed to son Paul[2] 20 acres, "joining the easterly end or side of my own land, and lyeing betwixt the land of my other son, Benjamin[2] Wentworth, & Thomas Downs." Doubtless Paul[2] occupied this earlier, but took a deed only when he was about to convey it, same date, to brother Benjamin[2].

7. The following deed from Elder William[1] to son Benjamin[2], dated 9 May 1693, is on record at Exeter.

8. In an old box of papers at the homestead of Timothy[2], in Berwick, was preserved a deed from Elder William[1], to son Timothy[2], 27 May 1696, conveying land in Dover, between Elder William's[1] orchard and the house lot of Thomas Downs. Elizabeth, his wife, makes her mark.

It is possible that Elder William[1] actually conveyed to Gershom[2] the land he occupied, but as it is not certain we do not insert it as a conveyance.

But it appears that the sons had lands from him either by conveyance or temporarily, as follows: —

Digitized by Google

1. Samuel[2], about 1666, the twenty acres which he sold to Clements, alluded to in No. 2 above.

2. John[2], 1 December 1674, as by deed No. 4 above.

3. Gershom[2] was in possession of land from the original tract, as by allusion in No. 4 above.

4. Ezekiel[2]. His lands near Salmon Falls did not come from his father. But as his son Capt. Benjamin[3] (33) Wentworth had the bounds of the Emery marsh renewed for himself in 1722, it is probable it came by his father.

5. Paul[2] had the land which he sold to his brother Benjamin[2] in 1696, as by No. 6 above.

6. Sylvanus[2] had occupied land which his father afterwards gave to Benjamin[2], as by No. 7 above.

7. Timothy[2] had deed No. 8 above.

8. Ephraim[2] had the share in the Fresh Creek mill privilege, which he sold to John Waldron 10 May 1726.

9. Benjamin[2] had deed No. 7 above, and probably the homestead also.

It is evident that a considerable share of his land had already been disposed of, to his sons, during his lifetime. The inventory of his estate is not large; partly, undoubtedly, on account of the disposal of lands to his sons; and it is possible that the paucity of his household goods may be due to the Indian destruction in 1689. All of his children had married, and were settled upon property of their own. In 1680, on the provincial tax-list, Elder William[1] stood seventh in amount of the residents of Cochecho, in point of property.

The following is a copy of the inventory of his estate, from the original in the Probate Office at Exeter, N. H.: —

THE WIFE OR WIVES OF ELDER WILLIAM[1] WENTWORTH.

After the most thorough and exhaustive search, the only records found relating to the wife or wives of Elder William[1] Wentworth are these: —

1. An entry in the Abbe C. Tanguay's Dictionnaire Généalogique des Familles Canadiennes, 1871, in a list of Anglais taken captive by the French and Indians, translated and published in the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, April 1874, as follows: —

* Nathaniel Fryer lived at New Castle, N. H.; was Representative, and of the Council. He died 13 August 1705. Counsellor James Fryer was his eldest son.

Elizabeth Wintworth, daughter of William, elder in the anglo-calvinistic religion, and Elizabeth (Kenny), born in 1653 at Piscatoué, married, 1st, James Sharp, of Kent; 2d, Richard Toxer [Tozer]; taken in war, 18 March 1690, by Hertel; god-daughter of Claude Ramezay, governor of Trois Rivières, and in the service of M. Pierre Boucher, Lord of Boucherville.

2. A deed from Elder William[1] Wentworth to Peter Coffin, 18 November 1666–7, in which his wife Elizabeth makes her mark.

3. A deed from Elder William[1] to his son Paul[2], 16 April 1696, and one to son Timothy[2] 27 May following, in each of which his wife Elizabeth makes her mark.

In other conveyances so far found, viz. in 1674, 1677, and 1693, no wife signs.

4. His widow Elizabeth returned his inventory 4 April 1697, and is not again heard of.

To these may be added traditions from two independent sources, each of which maintain that Elder William[1] was twice married; the second marriage being when he was somewhat advanced in years, and the second wife being very young, and that he had children by each wife, — children by the second wife being born after some of his grandchildren.

Mary[5] (661), daughter of Samuel[4] and Lois (Jones) Wentworth, was brought up in the family of her grandparents Samuel[3] (52) and Joanna (Roberts) Wentworth, both of whom lived to great age, and their funeral was at the same time in 1780. This Samuel[3] (52) was son of Elder William's son Timothy[2]. Mary[5] (661), born in May 1763, lived until 24 January 1853, and retained her memory until the last. The author of this work caused her to be consulted at different periods and by different persons, and never found her contradicted by official records, nor inconsistent in her statements at different times. She remembered that her grandfather Samuel[3] often spoke of his aunt Elizabeth Tozer, and that he often told anecdotes of Elder William's[1] second wife; that she was very young to be married, and that the reason that Elder William[1] gave for marrying so young a wife was that "women were scarce." She remembered seeing the widow of Timothy[3], her grandfather's brother. She was certain of hearing the family talk over about the second wife's youth, her inexperience, and her making no preparation for the birth of her first child, and that her own ancestor Timothy[2] was a child of the first wife. She thought Mrs. Elizabeth Tozer was one of the children of the last wife. This Mary[5] married Samuel Brackett, of Limington, Me., and had a daughter Phebe[6]

From the first time I consulted mother about the daughter of Ezekiel Knight, of Wells, she thought she was the second wife of Elder William[1], and the more she has thought of it the more she has thought that she was a Knight; but she will not allow me to say for a certainty. Yet she is certain that Elder William had a second wife.

Robert[6] (1831) Wentworth, a nephew of this Mary[5] who married Samuel Brackett, a gentleman of intelligence and a member of the Maine Legislature, was well acquainted with her, and he said he "had full confidence in what his aunt Brackett stated from her own knowledge, and she was certainly told by her grandparents what she states about the second wife."

Rebecca[5] Ricker, daughter of Moses[4] and Sobriety (Knox) Ricker, and granddaughter of Ephraim Ricker by his second wife, Sarah[3] (29*a*) Wentworth, is still living (1876) in Lebanon, Me., at the age of ninety-three, but with memory perfectly retained. She says: —

Elder William[1] had a second wife who was a mere child. A man called at the house on one occasion, and a child was crying inside with no one in attendance. He saw some children playing in the dirt, and he went to them and mentioned about the crying child, whereupon the largest girl ran towards the house, and he found she was Elder William's[1] second wife, and had been playing with the first wife's children.

Miss Rebecca[5] Ricker derived her information from her mother Sobriety (Knox), who was left an orphan and made her home with her father's sister, Sarah Knox, who married Ezekiel[3] (57) Wentworth, and who was the mother of Dorothy[4] (269) Wentworth, who married Evans[4] (296) Wentworth. Evans[4] and Dorothy[4] were grandparents of Tappan[6] (2342) and George T.[6] (2349) Wentworth before mentioned.

Ezekiel[3] (57) Wentworth was son of Ephraim[2] (10), and lived upon a portion of the old Wentworth estate, as also did Evans[4] (296); and thus Sobriety (Knox) lived upon the identical place described by Tappan[6] (2342) and George T.[6] (2349), as see ante. Miss Ricker confirmed their statement as to the old papers believed to be Elder William's[1]. She has also given the writer a vast amount of information as to the Wentworths, and the Ricker, Knox, and other connected families, the comparison of which with records (where such exist) has shown her knowledge to be remarkably reliable.

Concerning these traditions it should be noted: —

1. They came from entirely independent sources. One of the persons was descended from one son of Elder William[1], viz. Timothy[2]; the other from another son, viz. Gershom[2]; and her mother, the source of her knowledge, lived with descendants of Ephraim[2]. One was descended from the Elder's first wife; Sobriety Knox lived with, and had her information from, descendants of the second wife, if there was one. The person still living was entirely ignorant of the existence of the other, and neither had ever seen or heard of the writer's genealogical publications.

2. The information of Mrs. Mary[5] (661) (Wentworth) Brackett was from her grandparents, Deacon Samuel[3] (52) and Joanna (Roberts) Wentworth, in whose family she was brought up. The accounts she heard from her grandfather were about his grandfather, Elder William[1], and certainly near enough to be reliable; while her grandmother, with whom she lived, was brought up in the immediate neighborhood of the Wentworth homestead, and must personally have known the Elder's second wife, if that wife lived even to less than middle age.

3. Sobriety (Knox), the mother of the other informant, in early life lived with her aunt, whose husband, Ezekiel[3] (57), was grandson of Elder William[1] by the second wife, if there was such a wife. What family traditions she heard from Ezekiel[3] were regarding his own grandmother, the youthful second wife of Elder William[1].

Such circumstances certainly go far to sustain the testimony of witnesses, all of whom were intelligent and honest.

The nearest approach we can make to the date of Elder William's[1] first marriage is from the birth of his son Samuel[2], believed to be his eldest child. According to his tombstone, he "died March ye 25th, 1690, in the 50th year of his age." The year was 1690–1, as the date of his Will proves; and he must therefore have been born in the year 1641. At that time Elder William was twenty-four years of age. If he came to this country in 1637, it is hardly probable that he had married in England, as he would have been but twenty years old when he left England. But there is nothing whatever to show when or where he married his first wife, except that it must have been as early as 1640.

It is also difficult even to conjecture when the first wife died, and when he married his second wife. There is no record of the births of his children; but if we suppose that each son was put upon the tax-list as he came of age, then John[2] (the second) was born about 1647; Gershom[2], 1649; Ezekiel[2], 1651; and Elizabeth, by record, 1653. Paul[2], Sylvanus[2], and Timothy[2], according to tradition, were also children of the first wife; and while neither name is on the tax-lists, there is nothing in dates which prove them to have come of age to oppose this tradition. The place of Sarah[2] (whom we consider his daughter) is uncertain; but Ephraim[2] and Benjamin[2] must both be regarded, from tradition and age, as children of the second wife. The dates agree with this, and the tradition that these children were born after some of the Elder's grandchildren (the first of whom, Samuel[3] (12), son of Samuel[2], was born 9 April 1666) place their birth after that date. The second marriage can easily be supposed to be anywhere from 1665 to 1670, or even later, his later children being born thirty years after he was first a father.

There can be no question that one wife of Elder William[1] was Elizabeth Kenny. The Canadian record already quoted is exact. It is also clear that she was the mother of Elizabeth[2], who was born in 1653. If this date is correct, it seems clear that Elizabeth Kenny must have been the first wife. The Elder was not "advanced in years" if he married her in 1652, being only thirty-five years old; and other children, who have always been regarded as children of the first wife, must of necessity have been born later than 1653.

Who was she? A family of that name, called variously on the records Kenny, Kenney, Canning, Cannie, Canne, Canney, was of Dover at that period. Thomas Canning or Cannie, the first one found, was of the company sent over by Capt. Mason as early as 1631. In 1634 he was of Dover, and took a lot from Capt. Wiggin, agent of the proprietors. In 1640 he was a signer of the Dover combination for government. He was taxed to 1668, was made freeman in 1653, and seems to have been living in 1677. He was twice married, his second wife named Jane. Of his family, were two sons and two daughters, known from deeds, viz. Thomas Canney, born before 1645, who died about 1674–5, leaving six children, of which the eldest was eleven years of age; Joseph Canney, who married, in 1670, Mary, daughter of Counsellor Job Clements; Mary Canney, who married Jeremy Tebbetts before 1655, and must have been born as early as 1635; and a daughter, who married Henry Hobbs. Thomas Canney may have had other daughters, but it is of course impossible, by reason of age, that Elizabeth Kenny, if Elder William's[1] first wife, and mother of Samuel[2], born in 1641, could have been his daughter. A careful and protracted reinvestigation of county and other records has failed to find the least trace of connection of the families. The only occasion which unites Elder William[1] and Thomas Canney is that in 1652 and onward they were (with others) joint proprietors of the Fresh Creek saw-mill and timber lands.

It is of course possible that Elder William's[1] first wife, if Elizabeth Kenny, was a sister of Thomas Canney, but no American record affords any light upon this question, and the English records upon this name have not been searched.

There is also a question whether Elizabeth Knight, of Wells, Me., was one of the wives of Elder William[1] Wentworth. When Ezekiel Knight, of Wells, died in 1687, he willed, date 18 April 1687, property to his son Ezekiel Knight, jr., and to his daughter Elizabeth Wentworth, of Cochecho; and in case the son die issueless, his share was to be equally divided among the children of his daughter Elizabeth.

At the time of making this Will, there were two, and but two, Elizabeths who were wives of Wentworths, and there were no Elizabeths who were widows. One of these was the wife of Elder William[1], and the other was the wife of his son Ezekiel[2], and both had children at that date. Ezekiel Knight could not have had a daughter old enough to be the mother of Samuel[2] in 1640. She must have been a second wife, or else the wife of his son Ezekiel[2]; but the information given under the head of Ezekiel[2] does not render it certain whether his wife was the daughter of Ezekiel Knight or not, but the probabilities are altogether in that direction.

Elder William[1] Wentworth and Ezekiel Knight were both living at Wells at or about the time of birth of Elder William's[1] son Ezekiel[2] (5) Wentworth, and of Ezekiel Knight's daughter Elizabeth. Elder William[1] may have named his son Ezekiel[2] for his friend Ezekiel Knight, and Ezekiel Knight may have named his daughter Elizabeth for the Elder's wife; and the greater probability is that these two children married.

But the subject of Elder William's[1] marriages must evidently still be left greatly in obscurity. The difficulty as to the second wife, if one was married in Dover, is due to the fact that there are no extant lists of marriages either on the town or church records prior to 1700, and the list in the Secretary of State's office at Concord unfortunately ends in the letter W, the original last leaves being gone. The same defect explains why the dates of births of Elder William's[1] children cannot be ascertained.

CHILDREN.

While no formal record of the family of Elder William[1] Wentworth has been found, yet documentary evidence unquestionably shows the existence of the nine sons already mentioned, and in the probable order already given. There could hardly have been an earlier child than Samuel[2], who was born in 1641. The years in which the next three successively appear upon the tax-lists sufficiently give their order as John[2], Gershom[2], and Ezekiel[2]. Paul[2] was married as early as 1679 or '80; Sylvanus[2] in 1685; Timothy[2] was of age at least before 1696, perhaps considerably earlier; Ephraim[2] and Benjamin[2] were married, each not far from 1697. This order of birth appears to be as correct as such records will allow.

It had always been given by tradition that Elizabeth, wife of Richard Tozer, was a daughter of Elder William[1]. The Canadian record already quoted makes it certain, and that she married, 1st, James Sharp; 2d, Richard Tozer. Her birth is also fixed as in 1653.

We infer that Elder William[1] had a daughter Sarah from the following facts: One Benjamin Barnard died in Watertown, Mass., 12 September 1694, leaving widow Sarah and two children. Their "uncle, Paul Wentworth, of Rowley," was made guardian, 19 December 1705, of these two children, viz. Sarah Barnard, then in her fifteenth year, and Benjamin Barnard, then in his thirteenth year. In another record is the following: "April 30, 1706, Sarah Barnard, in her 15th year, chose her Uncle Paul Wentworth, of Dover, N. H., for guardian." Savage, in Gen. Dict., gives Sarah Barnard, born in 1692; Benjamin Barnard, born 24 August 1693. That this uncle is called, in one record, "of Dover, N. H.," and in the other, "of Rowley, Mass.," is proof that he could be no other than Paul[2].

How was Paul[2] uncle to these Barnard children? Was Paul[2] Wentworth's wife a Barnard? or Benjamin Barnard's wife a Wentworth? or did Paul[2] Wentworth and Benjamin Barnard marry sisters?

Digitized by Google

Paul[2] Wentworth's wife was Catherine ——; nothing else is known. If the following account of the Barnard* family is correct, she could not have been a sister of Benjamin Barnard, who was son of John Barnard, of Watertown, Mass.

John Barnard came from England with his wife Phebe; she was buried at Watertown 28 June 1646. They had children: —

1. John Barnard, born in England in 1631. He, with John Dix, sen., both of Watertown, Mass., and James Barnard, of Sudbury, Mass.. convey to Biall Hambleton, of Berwick, Me., twenty acres of land in Kittery, 9 October 1708.

2. Samuel Barnard, born in England.

3. Hannah Barnard, married 25 June 1655, Samuel Goffe.

4. James Barnard, married 8 October 1666, Abigail Phillips. James, of Watertown, bought land in Wells, Me., 16 January 1662. He, then of Kittery, Me., 12 January 1685–6, sold to his brother, Benjamin Barnard, of Dover, N. H., land in Berwick, Me., bounded on the south by that of Richard Tozer.

5. Mary Barnard, born 7 November 1639; married, 16 June 1662, William Barrett, both of Cambridge, Mass.

6. Joseph Barnard, born 12 November 1642.

In October 1670, Joseph Barnard had land in Kittery, Me. John Crofford and wife Elizabeth, of Portsmouth, N. H., gave to Joseph Barnard, of Watertown, Middlesex County, land in Kittery, Me., 20 October 1676. He received, as "of Berwick, Me.," 24 August 1687, deed of land from his brother Benjamin Barnard, and wife Sarah, of Dover, N. H., it being the same land that Joseph had formerly conveyed to Benjamin, and bounded by land of Richard Tozer.

7. Benjamin Barnard, of whose children their "Uncle Paul[2] Wentworth," became guardian. He had wife Sarah. He is found to be of York co., Me., in 1676, 1679, 1685, and 1689. He had land in Berwick of his brother James Barnard, of Kittery, 12 January 1685–6, as above mentioned, he being "of Dover, N. H.," and the land bounded on the south by that of Richard Tozer. He and his wife, Sarah, were of Dover, 24 August 1687, and deeded land to his brother Joseph Barnard, of Berwick, Me. He died 12 September 1694.

8. Elizabeth Barnard, who married 7 January 1670–1, John Dix, of Watertown, Mass.

If the sisters of Benjamin Barnard are all given here, and given correctly, the wife of Paul[2] Wentworth could not have been a Barnard.

Either Benjamin Barnard and Paul[2] Wentworth married sisters (of which no trace has been found by most careful search); or, which is more probable, Benjamin Barnard's wife Sarah was daughter of Elder William[1] Wentworth. Benjamin Barnard's residence in Dover, in the near vicinity of Elder William[1], and his possession, at one time, of land bounded by that of Richard Tozer, render it clearly possible. We believe that it is the case.

Mrs. Barnard was once captured by the Indians. Among the captives recovered by Capt. Benjamin Church, in his capture of Androscoggin Fort, 14 September 1690, was "Benjamin Barnard's wife, of Salmon Falls."

Nothing can be ascertained of the children of Benjamin Barnard, of whom their uncle Paul[2] Wentworth was guardian, except that his nephew, Benjamin Barnard, married, 1st, Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. Samuel Parris, of Sudbury, Mass.; 2d, while living in Hopkinton, Mass., he married in Watertown, 18 December 1726, Mary Wellington, and had a daughter, Sarah Barnard, baptized in Hopkinton, Mass., in 1728.

Sarah, widow of Benjamin Barnard, senior, and the supposed daughter of Elder William[1] Wentworth, married, 2d, 11 January 1698–9, Samuel Winch,* of Framingham, Mass., who died there 3 August 1718. They had, — Mary Winch, born 23 November 1700, who married Benoni Adams; and Daniel Winch, born 28 June 1702. Beyond this, nothing is known of the widow of Benjamin Barnard and of Samuel Winch, or of her descendants.

The children of Elder William[1] Wentworth, so far as ascertained and in the most probable order of birth, were therefore as follows:

†2. Samuel[2], born in 1641. [11]

°3. John[2]. [18]

* There was a Samuel Winch who had a wife Hannah and children, — Samue Winch, born in Sudbury, Mass., 27 March 1676; John Winch, born 8 January 1678; and others.

† The number prefixed to each name is the serial number, Elder William[1] being the first. Explanations of this and of the various other figures accompanying the names will be found in the Preface.

SECOND GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF ELDER WILLIAM[1] WENTWORTH.

SAMUEL[2] (2), son of Elder William[1] Wentworth, is supposed to have been the eldest son, and appears (by age at death) to have been born in 1641. He was on the tax-list in Dover, N. H., from 1659 to 1668, and was a juror there in 1669.

As to his place of residence in Dover, it appears from the records that "Samuel Wentworth, of Portsmouth" and wife Mary sell to Job Clements, tanner, 4 August 1670, "twenty acres between Nechewannick [Salmon Falls] and Cochecho [Dover], bounded east by land of Clements, north by Richard Oates,* west by Joseph Canney, south by Peter Coffin." It appears also that this land was given him by his father. A grant of one hundred and twenty acres which Elder William[1] had received in 1658, he conveyed to Peter Coffin, 19 November 1667, excepting twenty acres which he had given to his son Samuel[2], next to land of Richard Otis. This land was a part of the Elder's Rollinsford property.

He removed to Portsmouth, or particularly that part of it known as Great Island (now New Castle), N. H., in 1669. Deeds to and from him, for some years after he left Dover, describe him as "of Great Island."† He was given, 3 March 1670–1, "libertie to entertain strangers and to sell & brew beare." This license was renewed as late as 1677. On the 7th of October 1678, "Samuel Wentworth, of Great Island," sells his tavern stand, to which "the sign of ye dolphin is now affixed." And he appears to have removed to Portsmouth proper. A license is also preserved as follows: —

New Hampshire. Know all men by these p^rsents That I Robert Mason Esq: Proprietor of the s^d Province, Do hereby license & allow Samuel Wentworth of Portsm^th: in the s^d Province, to keep a Tavern in Portsm^th: aforesaid. And to sell Wine Beer Rum Cider and other Liquors, And also

* See "Otis Genealogy," N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, 1851.

ROBERT MASON. [SEAL]

He was made a freeman 3 May 1676, and in his application therefor, he sets forth that he was "a householder and in full communion with y^e^ church at Dover." He was one of the selectmen of Portsmouth, N. H., in 1684, and foreman of the grand jury there in 1686. In 1688 Gov. Walter Barefoote, in his Will, makes him one of its overseers, and calls him "Capt. Samuel."

The house in which Samuel[2] Wentworth is said to have last lived, and in which his son, Lieut.-Gov. John[3], lived, is still standing on the south side of Dock Street, at the north end of Manning (formerly Wentworth) Street, in Portsmouth. Its size indicates that it was built for a public house. The Portsmouth Journal, of a late date, says: —

It yet presents a good exterior, and an examination of it shows that it was built in a most substantial manner. The timbers on which the floor rests are 12 by 18 inches, and timber to correspond may be seen in various parts of the house, all now in good preservation. The chambers and stairways are wainscoted; some of the panels of clear boards are 38 inches in width. The size of the base of the chimney is 10 feet by 13, the bricks set in clay. Spikes of a foot in length are as freely used as if the house had been built to "stem tornadoes and the storms defy." This house, probably as ancient as any in Portsmouth, has been owned and occupied by William A. Vaughan, Esq., for over twenty years, and for about twenty years previously by the Misses Purcell.

In the "Point of Graves" burial-ground, at Portsmouth, N. H., there lies flat upon the ground, after the ancient custom, a slab of granite, from which can be read with difficulty the following items: * —

Samuel Wentworth Sr died March ye 25^th^ 1690,† in ye Fiftieth year of his age.

Daniel Wentworth died January ye 5^th^ 1690 in ye 22^nd^ year of his age.

Same year above, Hannah Wentworth, wife to Samuel Wentworth, jr., died February ye 21^st^, in the 24^th^ year of her age.

The Will of Samuel[2] is among the probate records at Exeter, N. H., dated 13 March 1690–1, in which he describes himself as sick of the small-pox. He died of this disease.* In the Will, he gave to his son Samuel[3] the house and lands whereon he (Samuel[3]) then lived; to his wife Mary half of his dwelling-house and one third of his movable estate, in fee simple; to his sons John[3] and Ebenezer[3], and daughters Mary[3] and Dorothy[3], £80 each, if there be sufficient, and if more, the balance to Samuel[3]. The overseers were Richard Martyn (who afterwards married his widow) and Samuel Penhallow; witnesses, Richard Gerrish, Edward Melcher, and Elisha Briard.

* Recently recarved by George J.[7] (2714) Wentworth, son of Ebenezer[6].

The following fac-simile is copied from his signature as a witness to the Will of John Hody, 1684, now in the probate office at Exeter, N. H.: —

Lieut. William Fitzwilliam[6] (988) Wentworth, of the British navy, son of Benning[5], grandson of Samuel[4], and great-grandson of Lieut.-Gov. John[3], sent the following from the old family record in England: —

Samuel Wentworth born at Cochecho.

He married, in 1664, Mary Benning,† who was born at Tatmour High Cross, in London.

* Farmer, in his edition of Belknap's History of New Hampshire, perhaps mistaking the year, says of 1692: "It was remarkable for a great mortality in Portsmouth and Greenland by the small-pox. The infection was brought in bags of cotton from the West Indies, and there being but few people who were acquainted with it, the patients suffered greatly, and but few recovered." Capt. Church, Eastern Expeditions, mentions the small-pox as prevalent at Portsmouth on his arrival there 30 September 1690.

† Her connection with any Benning family has not been traced out. There was a Henry Benning, "Mariner," who had a deed, 12 August 1687, from Thomas and Bridget (Cutt) Graffort, of Portsmouth, N. H. Harry Benning, probably same as above, witnessed a deed from Samuel[2] and Mary Wentworth, 4 August 1670. Ralph Benning was of Boston in 1661, and died 14 November 1663; and his widow Ann married, 8 June 1664, Henry Deering, of Boston, who was born 16 August 1639, in England.

Henry Deering married again, 15 November 1676, Elizabeth, daughter of Edward Mitchelson, the colonial marshal, — she having become the widow of the second Theodore Atkinson, May 1676. By this wife he had children; and among them was Henry Deering, jr., born 1 October 1684, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Packer, of Portsmouth, among whose children was Elizabeth Deering, born 20 November 1715, who married Samuel[4] (87), son of Lieut.-Gov. John[3] Wentworth. Henry Deering, jr., and Elizabeth (Packer) had also, Thomas Deering (who had son Sylvester Deering, whose son, Dr. Nicol Havens Deering, lived at Utica, N. Y., and died there 19 December 1867, aged 73, leaving four

A deposition in a case at Portsmouth, N. H., dated 20 March 1671–2, shows that the wife of Samuel[2] was born in England, and that at that date her mother (name not given) was living in Portsmouth, N. H. It implies also that the mother and daughter had come to this country at the same time.

The widow of Samuel[2] became, as early as 1691, the wife of Hon. Richard Martyn,* one of the overseers named in her husband's Will. He died 2 April 1694, having no children by her.

Mrs. Martyn (the former widow of Samuel[2] Wentworth) was admitted to the church in Portsmouth 2 February 1693. She died daughters and one son, — Sarah Deering (who married Nathaniel Ray Thomas); Mary Deering (who married John Gooch); and Anne Deering (who married James Monk, ancestor of the present Judge Monk, of Montreal, Canada).

There was a Thomas Deering in Kittery, Me., 1692, and a Joseph Deering in 1698. In 1712 Samuel Scammon, of Kittery, married Margarey Deering. Folsom's History of Saco and Biddeford says that the Indians, in June 1723, attacked the garrison of Roger Deering, killed his wife, and captured three of his children. The widow of the first William Pepperell, who was Margarey, daughter of John Bray, willed property, 1 January 1739, to her sister Mary Deering, wife of Clement Deering. Nathaniel Deering was born in Kittery, 1739, and was the oldest of fourteen children. Henry Deering died in Boston, 20 October 1750.

* Richard Martyn was a leading man, both in church and state. He was one of the founders, in 1671, of the first church in Portsmouth, N. H. He was a Representative in 1672 and 1679, and Speaker of the House. He was Counsellor in 1680. He was married, 1st (by Mr. William Hibbins, and called "merchant"), 1 December 1653, to Sarah, daughter of John Tuttle, of Boston, Mass., and had children:—

1. Mary Martyn, born 7 June 1655.
2. Sarah Martyn, born 3 July 1657, married John Cutt.
3. Richard Martyn, born 10 January 1659; graduated H. C. 1680; was a schoolmaster and preacher, but never ordained; and died of the small-pox, 6 October 1690. Was preaching at Wells, Me., 1689.
4. Elizabeth Martyn, born 31 July 1662.
5. Hannah Martyn, born 2 January 1664; married, 16 October 1683, Richard Jose (Sheriff), and had six children.
6. Michael Martyn, born 3 February 1666. On the 10 March 1697–8 he was the "only surviving son"; and 30 December 1721, Richard Martyn, mariner (who was born in Middlesex co., England, 8 June 1697), was the "only surviving son" of Capt. Michael Martyn and Sarah, his wife, both deceased.
7. John Martyn, born 9 June 1668.
8. Elias Martyn, born 18 April 1670.

Richard Martyn married, 2d, Martha, widow of John Denison (son of John and Patience, of Ipswich, Mass.), and daughter of Samuel Symonds.

He married, 3d, Elizabeth, widow of Tobias Lear. She was daughter of Henry and Rebecca (Gibbons) Sherburne, and had married, 1st, Tobias Langdon, 10 June 1656; 2d, Tobias Lear, 11 April, 1667, who died in 1681. A letter from William Vaughan (Farmer's Belknap), dated at Portsmouth, N. H., 15 February 1683–4, says, "Good Mrs. Martyn was buried."

He married, 4th, as above. Pike's Journal says he died "of the Leucophlegmatia, after half a year's Illness under yt distemper."

20 January 1724–5, aged 77. By her Will she gave one half of her estate to son Samuel[3] and wife for their support, and not to pay their debts (as he had been unfortunate); what they did not need, to go to his son after their decease. She gave John[3] one fourth, Ebenezer[3] one fourth, and alludes to daughters, Mrs. Mary[3] Rymes and Dorothy[3] Sherburne, as being otherwise provided for. She wished that the six nearest clergymen assist in taking her body to the grave, and that each have a scarf and ring presented at the funeral.

A sermon, preached by Rev. Jabez Fitch* upon her decease, was printed.† It was from Luke x, 42: "But one thing is needful; and Mary hath chosen that good part which shall not be taken away from her." It was entitled, —

A Discourse on Serious Piety: being a Funeral Sermon upon the Death of Mrs. Mary Martyn, who departed this life at Portsmouth, in the Province of New Hampshire, Anno Domini 1724.

It was dedicated to her son, Lieut.-Gov. John[3], in the following language: —

It being the dying request of your honored and pious mother that I should preach her funeral sermon, and that it should be printed for the use of her posterity, and Your Honor having expressed your concern that her desires should be complied withal, I could not deny a copy of the sermon (such as it is), praying it may be accompanied with the Divine Blessing, for the good of all those to whom it is peculiarly designed, and the precious piety, which was so conspicuous in your deceased mother, may live and remain in all that have descended from her.

John Appleton, of Ipswich, Mass.; she died 18 October 1765, aged 84. He was settled at Portsmouth in 1725, died 22 November 1746; and was succeeded by Rev. Samuel Langdon, afterwards President of Harvard College, who was born at Boston in 1722; graduated H. C. 1740, ordained at Portsmouth 1747, and died 29 November 1797. Hon. John lived & died in Portsmouth, aged about 59.
Ebenezer lived & died in Portsmouth, aged about 70.

JOHN[2] (3), son of Elder William[1] Wentworth, was upon the Dover (N. H.) tax-list from 1668 to 1672. Nothing is found of him before 1668. He took the "oath of fidelity" 21 June 1669. As he must then have been at least twenty-one years of age, he was born prior to 1649, and hence was one of the earliest of Elder William[1] Wentworth's children.

John[2] appears as plaintiff, in 1673, in a suit against Broderick. 24 June 1673, John Wentworth, "of Cochechea," makes "my louinge father William Wentworth of Cochechea" his attorney in this case.

Elder William[1] gave him, 1 December 1674, land in Dover near that of his son Gershom[2], which land John[2] sold to George Ricker* 20 December 1674. This land was part of the Elder's tract in Rollinsford. It it evident that he left Dover about this time, and removed to York, Me.

John[2] Wentworth, "formerly of Cutchechah" [Cochecho], "now of York," buys land of Isaac Everett and wife Joanna, 5 February 1675.

John[2] Wentworth, of York, Me., and wife Martha, 28 August 1679, convey a house and fifteen acres of land in York to Isaac Parker. On 20 October 1680, John[2] and wife Martha convey to John Harmon one hundred acres of land in Wells, Me., which he had of Ezekiel Knight. Witness, John Wheelwright (grandson of Rev. John).

At a legal town-meeting held in York, Me., 22 April 1686, "granted unto John Winforth that his lot that he bought of Isaac Averitt shall run back the whole breadth as far as his neighbours do on both sides."

The last that can be found of John[2] in Maine is in a record that he was plaintiff in York County court versus Charles Bissum, 18 December 1685, "for damage done by a parcel of turkies."

It is probable that John[2] left York in consequence of the ravages of the Indian wars,* and certainly before 1693.

An old record in the family of Josiah[5] (414) Wentworth says that Edward[3] (20), son of John[2], was born at Newbury, Mass., in 1693. This would imply that John[2] lived at Newbury a while, after leaving York. His brothers Paul[2] and Sylvanus[2] were living in that vicinity at that time. Rev. Shubael Dummer, minister at York, and killed there in the massacre of 1692, was a native of Newbury, and perhaps the wife of John[2] was also from that place.

In 1704 John[2] was occupying lands in Punkapaug, now Canton, Mass. In an instrument executed by divers Indians, 3 May 1717, conveying certain meadow land to one Mehitable Eames, at "Punkapauge," they say, —

> And we doe signifie that this is part of a meadow formerly leased to John Wentworth and his son John Wentworth, jr., as may appear by ye adjoining lease dated on this 14th of November 1704.

"Ye adjoining lease" has not been preserved; but this extract is evidence that John[2] was there in 1704. Punkapaug, now Canton, Mass., was in early times an Indian plantation under the jurisdiction of Massachusetts; and the presumption is that John[2] settled on lands leased from the Indians, and paid rent therefor.

* James Sullivan, in his History of the District of Maine, says, "The river next to Cape Neddick would not be worth attention if it had not been mentioned one hundred and fifty years ago as the boundary between York and Wells. This river is called Negunket, perhaps formerly Oguntiquit. . . . Wells was held by a deed given to Parson Wheelwright by Gorges, and bounded on Kennebunk River, then called Cape Porpoise River. . . . The town of York has suffered greatly from the depredations of Indians. Those from the western part of Massachusetts and New Hampshire used to meet the Pickwocket and Ossipee Indians on the River Newichawanick, and to render their combined force terrible to the towns on or near that river. In the year 1676 they assaulted the settlement of Cape Neddick, in York, where they killed and carried away all the inhabitants, amounting to about forty persons. There were some cruelties practised upon the people which had not at that time been usual among the northern savages, and which are too shocking to be mentioned. In 1692 the town was entirely destroyed, fifty of the people were killed, and one hundred carried into captivity. There were four houses that had been garrisoned, and which held out for some time. In the year 1712 there were people killed within the town."

Pike's Journal, in an entry made near the time, says of the destruction in 1692, that "about 48 persons" were killed, and "carried captive 73." Rev. Shubael Dummer, the esteemed minister, was killed, and his wife and family were made prisoners.

It does not appear that he owned any lands. The place of residence of his sons, when it was not styled Punkapaug, was called Dorchester, until that portion of the town was set off as Stoughton; after which the place of their residence was so styled until it was set off and called Canton.

The following is found among the manuscript receipts of Judge Samuel Sewall, taken while he was treasurer of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel among the Indians: —

BOSTON, 19th Jan. 1709. Received of Samuel Sewall three pounds in a Province Bill of credit in full of all demands as to whatever I have done for any Indians at Punkapaug or elsewhere from the beginning of the world to this day. I say Reec^{t} in full of all demands.

This is all the record found of the wife of John^{2}, except her signature to the two deeds of 1679 and 1680, mentioned above.

Ellis Ames, of Canton, Mass., has an original power of attorney given by "John Wentworth, of Boston, husbandman," dated 6 October 1716, constituting "my loving son John Wentworth, jr., of Dorchester, husbandman, to be my true and lawful Attorney." It was acknowledged before Samuel Checkley,† Justice of the Peace, and witnessed by James Wright and Edward Thomas. This is a full power of attorney to collect all his debts, but says nothing of his right to sell anything. It gives the impression that he had been doing extensive trading at Dorchester, and had changed his residence, perhaps to end his days with the witness James Wright, who was probably his son-in-law.

Deeds are recorded at Boston as late as 1716 that call the son John Wentworth, Junior. After that date the "Junior" is dropped.

Rev. Samuel Checkley graduated at Harvard College, 1715; was ordained the first minister of the New South Church, Boston, 22 November 1719, and died 1 December 1769, aged 73. His son, Rev. Samuel Checkley, was born in Boston, graduated at Harvard College 1743; preached in Boston, and died there 19 March 1768.

* All the descendants of John[2] whose marriages were recorded up to 1 March 1753, were married by Rev. Samuel Dunbar, of Stoughton; after that date by Rev. Jedediah Adams, of Stoughton.

† May he not have been named for Rev. Shubael Dummer, of York? Of whom Sullivan, History of Maine, says: "He lived near the seaside, at a neck of land near what is called the Roaring Rock. As he was attempting to escape from the savages [in 1692], he was shot through the back, and fell dead on his face. A great part of the town was destroyed on the same day."

Richard Dummer, father of Rev. Shubael, came from England in 1632; was Representative from Newbury, Mass., and died 14 December 1679, aged 88.

Rev. Shubael Dummer was born 17 February 1636; graduated H. C. 1656, began to preach 1662, was made freeman in 1665, was ordained 3 December 1672, and was killed by the Indians 25 January 1691-2. He married, in 1656, Mary, daughter of Edward Rishworth, by his wife Susanna, daughter of Rev. John Wheelwright. Mather says of the massacre in 1692, "The enemy carried the wife into captivity, where, through sorrows and hardships among the Dragons of the Desert, she also quickly died." But Greenleaf says, "She lived to be redeemed and returned." It is not certain that they left any children.

There was a "Fort Dummer" in New Hampshire in 1745; it is now Hinsdale. There is a town Dummer, in Coos co., N. H., incorporated in 1848.

1. William[4] Wright, born 22 July 1716.
2. Mary[4] Wright, born 5 November 1719.

GERSHOM[2] (4), son of Elder William[1] Wentworth, is first found on the tax-list of Dover, N. H., in 1670. Supposing him to have been twenty-one years of age at that time, he would have been born about 1649. This would make him one of the eldest of Elder William's[1] children.

He was on the Grand Jury list in 1676 and 1677.

In 1676, 30 June, he was the appraiser of estate of William Thompson*, of Kittery, Me., who died 22 June 1676.

He received, 2 April 1696, a grant of thirty acres of land near Reyner's† Creek. He received 3 April 1696, a grant of land (ten acres) nearest the head of his lot at Cochecho (Dover). Although no record appears of any gift of land to him by his father, it is evident that "his lot" was part of the lands granted to Elder William[1], to which he probably added by purchase. He lived two miles from the old Court House in Dover, on the road to Salmon Falls, nearly opposite the present residence of the family of the late Augustus[7] (3575) Rollins, and next to the present summer residence of Edward H.[7] (1607.1) Rollins. On 26 May 1730, he and wife Hannah deeded this land and his stock to their son Samuel[3], for their maintenance, and it continued in six generations of his family.

He deeded land, 10 November 1730, to his son Ezekiel[3], it having been the land of William Everett‡ many years before. 8 January 1729, he deeded land to his son John[3], it being the 46th lot in

* William Thompson was of Dover in 1656. He left children, — John Thompson, aged 18 in 1676; William Thompson, aged 16; Robert Thompson, aged 14; James Thompson (cripple), aged 11; Alexander Thompson, aged 6; and Judith Thompson, aged 2.

† A creek on Cochecho River (east side), about three miles above the lower falls. Named from Rev. John Reyner, minister of Dover, who had 400 acres there granted him in January 1659. The creek still bears his name, though frequently locally corrupted to "Reynard's Creek."

‡ William Everett, of Kittery, 1640; admitted to keep an ordinary in 1649; was later of Dover; freeman at Kittery 16 November 1652. Administration on his estate, "who is apprehended was lost at sea," was granted 12 May 1674, to Nathan Lawd [Lord] on behalf of Lord's wife, sister to said Everett. Ralph Hall deposes 5 October 1674, that Isaac Nash had "to my best remembrance in the year fifty," laid out to said Everett one hundred acres of land, and marked it W E, which signified William Everett, to whom Nash said he had given the land," bounded "near Cochecha pond, joyning to a Tract of Land of James Kid's."

Rochester,* N. H., and being the lot he received on the laying out of the town.

Gershom² was chosen Deacon of the church over which his father had been Elder, 15 October 1717. He died 2 March 1731. On the day of his death, John Hayes, husband of his niece Tamsen³ (35), was chosen Deacon to succeed him.

"Gershom² Wentworth, of Quochecho, was married to Hannah, daughter of Edward French, of Salisbury, Mass., 18 March 1695–6, by Major Robert Pike." As he must have been about forty-five years of age when married, the supposition is that he had a former wife. If so, he had by her no children who lived to maturity.

It is not known when his wife, who was alive in 1730, died.

Gershom² and Hannah (French) Wentworth had children:

25. Mary³, born 14 May 1697, married her cousin Capt. William³ (64) Wentworth, son of Benjamin². She was admitted to the church in Dover, 9 August 1730. She had five children, and died (with them all) of throat distemper, sometime before 19 January 1737, as Capt. William³ Wentworth married his second wife at that date.

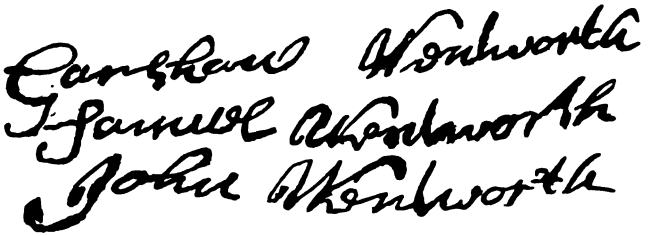
26. John³. Probably younger than his brother Gershom², as the record ceases with Gershom², and there were other children not recorded. [138]

27. Samuel³, born 5 December 1699. [142]

28. Ezekiel³, born 4 February 1702. [149]

29. Gershom³, born 4 April 1705; supposed to have died single.

The autographs of three of these sons, from which the following are copied, were written in 1729:—



* Rochester, N. H., was first settled in 1728. An entry in the church records says: "December 26th 1728. Timothy Roberts moved his Family into Rochester, being the first Family that settled in said Town." Rev. Amos Main, H. C. 1729, was its first minister, ordained 1737, and remained in office until he died, 5 April 1760. His daughter Mary married, 28 November 1753, Wentworth⁴ (176) Hayes. When the town now called Berlin, N. H., was chartered in 1771, it was called Mainsburgh, in honor, it is said, of Parson Main, the nearest clergyman to Gov. John⁵ (371) Wentworth's country residence at Wolfeborough, N. H. Farmington and Milton were formerly parts of Rochester.

29*a*. Sarah[3] married (being his second wife) Ephraim Ricker,* of Dover, N. H., or Berwick, Me., who was born 15 February 1696, whose first wife was Dorcas Garland. He was son of George Ricker, who came from England, and settled in Dover. (See "Ricker" note below.) Ephraim Ricker lived under "Otis's hill," on the west side, and died December 1773. * RICKER. — Ephraim Ricker was son of George[1] and Eleanor (Evans) Ricker, as see below in this note. His first wife, whom he married 1 September 1720, was Dorcas (born 3 April 1698), daughter of Jabez and Dorcas Garland, and sister to Hannah Garland (who married Ephraim's brother John[2] Ricker) and to Elizabeth Garland (who married Joseph[2], son of Maturin[1] Ricker). (Jabez Garland was shot dead by Indians in 1710 as he was returning from church on horseback.) Ephraim Ricker had by his first wife Dorcas:

1. Tamsen[3] Ricker, who married John Tibbetts. Their children, Daniel[4] Tibbetts, Mary[4] Tibbetts, Nathaniel[4] Tibbetts, and Sarah[4] Tibbetts, were baptized in Dover, with their mother, 24 July 1743. "Widow Tamsen Tibbetts" died in Dover 14 May, 1782.
2. Jonathan[3] Ricker.
3. Eleanor[3] Ricker married John[3] Ricker, in line of Joseph[2] and Maturin[1] Ricker.

George[1] and Maturin[1] Ricker, brothers. George[1] is first mentioned in New Hampshire records in 1670. He was first taxed in 1672 at Cochecho. Deeds to him from Elder William[1] and John[2] Wentworth are mentioned in our account of those persons, which see. There is a tradition that George[1] sold a tract to John[2] Wentworth, and then returned and repurchased it; but the record is clear that the land which John[2] Wentworth conveyed to Ricker as above was a tract conveyed to said John[2] Wentworth by his father, Elder William[1]. Perhaps other land is referred to in the tradition. He lived near the Wentworths, on the east side of Garrison Hill. Tradition says that he came from England with Rev. John Reyner, the Dover minister, and at his expense; that, after repaying this, he sent his first money to England to pay for the passage of his brother Maturin[2]. The latter may be true, but he could hardly have come with Rev. Mr. Reyner, who was in this country in 1635, and died in 1669 with no appearance of ever having been in England in the mean time; but Ricker may have come at his expense, as Mr. Reyner owned landed property in England. Pike's Journal, 4 June 1706, says, "George Riccar and Maturin Riccar, of Cochecho, were slain by the Indians. George was killed while running up the lane near the garrison [doubtless Heard's garrison]. Maturin was killed in his field, and his little son [Noah] carried away." George[1] Ricker married Eleanor Evans, whose father and one of her brothers were killed by the Indians. ("Mr. Evens," perhaps John, was killed in the massacre of 1689, and "a young man" John, was captured and died in captivity.)

George[1] and Eleanor (Evans) Ricker had:

1. Judith[2] Ricker, born 1 February 1681. Pike's Journal says, 26 July 1696: "Being sacrament day. An Ambush of Indians laid between Capt Ger: [Gerrish's] field, & Tobias Hansons Orchard, shot upon the poor peo: returning from Meeting, killed Nicho: Otice, Mary Downs & Mary Jones, Wounded Rich: Otice, Antho: Lowden, & Exp: Heard, took John Tucker, Nic: Otices w: [wife] and Judith Riccor." Belknap adds that the captives were taken to Penobscot, but "soon found their way home." This "ambush" was almost exactly where the present Congregational Church stands. Judith[2] Ricker married, 14 April 1699, died December 1788. They had, besides one who died in infancy:

1. Dorcas[4] Ricker, born about 1733; married, before 1762, Job Clements (whose former wife was Mary Roberts, perhaps widow when he married her). Job Clements was son of James Clements (who made his Will 20 September 1758, proved 31 October 1764), grandson of Job Clements, and great grandson of Counsellor Job. He was uncle to James Clements, who

4. Maturin[2] Ricker, born 1 February 1688; married Hannah, daughter of George and Mary (Natt) Hunt, of Newington, N. H., who came from England. 1. Abigail[3] Ricker, born 18 August 1713; married Samuel Nock, son of Sylvanus and Sarah (Drisco) Nock (see "Nock" note under Ezekiel[3] (57) Wentworth). Among their children was Sobriety[4] Nock, who married Moses[4] Ricker, son of Ephraim[2] and Sarah[3] (29a) (Wentworth) Ricker.

She died in Dover in 1799, aged 97. 29*b*. Thomas[3] (son of Gershom[2]). There is a confusion between him and Thomas[4] (157) Wentworth. There was a Thomas born in 1738, who died in the expedition to Canada, 4 October 1758.

29*c*. Moses[3]. Said to have married Elizabeth Day, and had a son, Moses[4] Wentworth, who died, a soldier, at Crown Point, N. Y. There is a confusion between this Moses[4] and his cousin Moses[4] (152). There was a Moses in the expedition against Canada in 1758.

EZEKIEL[2] (5), son of Elder William[1] Wentworth, must have been among the elder of the family.* If he was but twenty-one years of age in 1672, when his name appears on the tax-list in the defective records of Dover, N. H., he must have been born as early as 1651, and that year is probably about the year of his birth. His son Paul[3], died 24 June 1748, in his 70th year.

References to him are found upon the early records as follows:—

He was on the Dover tax-lists from 1672 to 1677.

He was fined for not serving on a jury in June 1687.

He received a grant of sixty acres of land adjoining Salmon Falls River,† above Indigo Hill, and ten acres of marsh near Black Water, 19 March 1693–4.

He received also a grant of thirty acres of land near Black Water Brook, 2 April 1696.

He was on the jury in Dover in 1699.

He received a grant, 3 June 1701, of ten acres of land at the head of his home plantation, and thirty acres between Black-Water Bridge and the pitch-pine plains.

† The branch main of the Piscataqua River, and separates Maine from New Hampshire. The Indian name was Newichawannock (variously spelled). On that river are the extensive manufactories of Great Falls and Salmon Falls. Into that river empties (with smaller streams) the Cochecho, on which, at Dover, are the manufactories bearing that name. At the foot of Dover Point it is joined by the waters of Great Bay, which receives the Shankhassick ("Oyster") River, the Swampscott (Exeter) River, and other streams, and from that point the name of Piscataqua is properly applied.

He received, with Judge John Tuttle, senior, 24 October 1701, a grant of all "the privilege" of the west side of Salmon Falls; and with the same person (who had wife Mary, and was son of the first settler John, in Dover, who had wife Dorothy), 19 May 1702, a grant of thirty acres of ox-pasture near their mill at Salmon Falls.

He was one of the Selectmen of Dover in 1702.

He, "Ezekiel, senior," had from Thomas Paine, 21 March 1704, deed of land lying in "Quochecho," between his own land on the northeast and Thomas Downs on the southwest.

He was Assessor in 1705.

He deeded land to his son Paul[3], 7 April 1705.

He and his wife Elizabeth, 3 February 1708–9, deeded to son Thomas[3], "mariner," as his portion, one fourth of his right in the west side of Salmon Falls, ten acres in ox-pasture adjacent, and sixty acres above Indigo Hill, abutting the river on its west side, all of which "were granted to me by y^e^ Towne of Dover"; 18 November 1709, one sixteenth of the mill accommodation on the west side of Salmon Falls to son Paul[3]; and, 2 April 1711, to son John[3], as part of his portion, one half of the land bought of Thomas Paine in Cochecho, being sixteen acres south of his (Ezekiel's[2]) dwelling-house, thirty acres at Black Water (in the northwestern part of Dover), and one eighth of the west side of Salmon Falls.

He was Representative in the Legislature, from Dover, in 1711.

It thus appears that he lived in that part of Dover which was incorporated as Somersworth 22 April 1754; in that part of Somersworth which was incorporated as Rollinsford 3 July 1849; and in that part of Rollinsford now known as Salmon Falls Village, which is probably upon the old farm of Ezekiel[2] Wentworth. His dwelling doubtless stood near the spot where his son Col. Paul[3] (32) built the house now occupied by the family of the late John B.[6] (1587) Wentworth, of Salmon Falls, and which Col. Paul[3] gave his nephew Judge John[4] (160), and which was next owned by his son Andrew[5] (541), father of John B.[6]

The time of his death can be arrived at only by reference to the Journal of the New Hampshire House of Representatives, in the office of the Secretary of the State, which contains nothing prior to 9 May 1711. He was present as Representative of Dover (his colleagues being Capt. Nathaniel Hill and Stephen Jones) at the sessions of June and July, September and October, 1711. The House adjourned 30 October 1711, to 15 November 1711. He was not present at that session, nor at the one commencing in February 1712. The Journal of the House, 6 May 1712, reads thus: —

Upon the death of Mr. Ezekiel Wentworth, Capt. Timothy Gerrish was chosen Representative from the town of Dover, and this day appeared and was qualified.

The following is also from the records: —

Memorandum. That Ezekiel Wentworth, Mr. Stephen Jones, and Capt. Nathaniel Hill had their debentures from October 28, 1710, to May 10, 1712. Capt. Hill, 73 days; Ezekiel Wentworth, 37 days; Mr. Jones, 25 days.

These "37 days" were doubtless all before 30 October 1711, and so it is impossible to tell how long after that day, or how long before 6 May 1712, Ezekiel died.

The autograph here copied was written in 1694.

The first mention of the wife of Ezekiel[2] occurs in 1676. Her name was Elizabeth. John[3], son of Ezekiel[2] and Elizabeth, conveyed, 20 July 1712, to his mother Elizabeth, widow of Ezekiel[2], and to brother Benjamin[3], his right in his father's estate, and a quit-claim of 1715, also alludes to her. We thus learn that Ezekiel's[2] wife survived him. Besides these, we have nothing regarding her, unless the Will of Ezekiel Knight, sen.,* of Wells, Me., alludes to her.

* KNIGHT. — Ezekiel Knight was of Wells as early as 1642. He and wife Ann (who made her mark) sold to John Saunders, 20 August 1645, his dwelling-house, with all the out-buildings and land in Wells, John Wheelwright witnessing. Rev. John Wheelwright and Edward Rishworth (father of Wheelwright's son-in-law, Edward Rishworth, jr.) conveyed to him a tract of marsh in that place 13 June 1645. He bought of the same persons a house, 5 October 1645. He was Commissioner for the town of Wells 1654, 1662, 1663; on the grand jury 29 June 1654; one of seventy-one petitioners to Oliver Cromwell, 12 August 1656, that they remain under the Massachusetts government in 1663, was one of the Associate Justices, and when the authority of the King's Commissioners ended (which continued from 1665 to 1668), he was immediately re-chosen. He was an agent of Rigby in granting lands, as against Gorges (whose interest Wheelwright and Rishworth espoused). Rigby was active in grants 1657, etc. In 1661, 1 July, it was "Ordered by this Court that," while Wells was without a minister, "Ezekiel Knight and William Hammond shall duly attend the place of public meeting on the Lord's day, and they improve their best abilities in Speaking out of the Word of God, Praying, Singing of Psalms and reading some good Orthodox Sermons." He died in 1687 as above.

Ezekiel Knight appears to have married three times: 1st, Ann ——, who consented to deed in 1645, as above, and who was living in 1655.

That Will was made 18 April 1687, proved before Joshua Scottow, 16 September 1687, his loving friends Shubael Dummer (clergyman), Capt. John Alcock, of York, and Mr. John Buss, of Oyster River, N. H. (preacher and physician), overseers; witnessed by Richard Martyn (who afterwards married the widow of Samuel[2] Wentworth, of Portsmouth) and Samuel Wheelwright (son of Rev. John, and Judge of Probate 1695 to 1700). He gave to his wife Mary all his estate for life; at her death, two thirds were to go to son Ezekiel Knight, jr., and one third to daughter Elizabeth Wentworth, of Cocheco. In case Ezekiel Knight, jr., died child-

He married, 2d, Esther, widow of John Lovering. There was a John Lovering, undoubtedly the same, who lived at Quamphegan, on a farm that joined the Salmon Falls River on New Hampshire side, 1668, and was drowned about that year, as shown by affidavit recorded at the Registry of Deeds in Exeter. He was from Ipswich, Mass. His son John Lovering took the place and sold it to Capt. Thomas Abbot, who lived on it about thirty-three years. He gave it to son Joseph Abbot, who held it about twenty years, and then sold to —— McPhedris, and he to Capt. Benjamin[3] Wentworth, son of this Ezekiel[2]; and Capt. Benjamin[3] Wentworth's widow Elizabeth was occupying the premises 26 January 1733–4. The inventory of John Lovering, of "Newichwannock," was entered 11 June 1668. In 1670, 4 April, John Lovering, by consent of "his own mother Esther" and "father-in-law Ezekiel Knight," was apprenticed to Abraham Tilton, carpenter. At the County Court, held at Dover 29 June 1675, Ezekiel Knight brought in his account for support of John Lovering's children from the time he married (date not given) his widow, their mother, until the date when they were "put out"; their mother was then dead, and he was authorized to put out the eldest daughter if he thought best.

Ezekiel Knight appears to have married, 3d, Mary, daughter of Theophilus Eaton, Governor of New Haven, and widow of Valentine Hill.

Valentine Hill, who was of Boston in 1638, and a merchant, and was chosen deacon of the Boston church 17 May 1640; of Dover about 1649, Representative 1652–5 and 7, Associate in 1657, died in 1661. By his first wife, Frances, he had Hannah Hill, baptized 17 March 1639 (married, 24 Jan. 1660, Antipas Boyce), and four other children who died young. By his second wife, Mary (Eaton), he had, John Hill, baptized 22 August 1647, doubtless died young; Nathaniel Hill, born in March 1659–60 (who married Sarah, daughter of Anthony and Sarah (Langstaff) Nutter, and granddaughter of Elder Hatevil Nutter, and was captain and left descendants); and Mary Hill (who married John Buss). Mary, widow of [Ezekiel] Knight, testified, not long before 1700, that Nathaniel Hill was son of her first husband, Valentine Hill, and was born "the last of March 1659–60." "Valentine Hill of Dover in Pascatuq. river in New England, mrcht, & Mary my wife," 2 November 1660, for £230, convey to Nathaniel Micklethayte, of London, 300 acres of land in New Haven, "formerly in possession of Mr. Theophilus Eaton, Esqr., governor of New Haven, given by him as a Legacie to Mary my wife." John Buss, 5 August 1718, quitclaims to Samuel Smith, Daniel Davis, and James Basford, "all claims to the estate of my late wife Mary Buss, formerly Mary Hill, and who was a legatee and coheir with her brother Nathaniel Hill in all the possessions of their father Valentine Hill." Signed by John and Elizabeth Buss.

less, his two-thirds part was to be divided equally between the children of daughter Elizabeth.

Besides Elizabeth, wife of Ezekiel[2], there was one other, and only one other, Elizabeth Wentworth, of Cochecho, at this time, viz. Elizabeth, wife of Elder William[1] Wentworth. Each of them had children living at the date of this Will. Which Elizabeth was the daughter of Ezekiel Knight, there has yet been found, after the most thorough search, not the slightest evidence. For further discussion of the question, the reader is referred to the account of Elder William[1], ante. The son Paul[3] was in his 70th year when he Pike's Journal, 24 April 1708, says: "Mrs. Knight (formerly wife to Mr. Valentine Hill), deceased through Age, Infirmity and Illness."

Ezekiel Knight's daughter Elizabeth, who married a Wentworth, of Cochecho, must have been by his first wife.

Ezekiel Knight, jr., of Wells, with consent of his father, Ezekiel Knight, conveyed land to Samuel Storer, 8 October 1674. Of the family and descendants of Ezekiel Knight, jr., all that the writer knows is in his Will made at Wells, 19 June 1717, and recorded 25 February 1718, in which he speaks of wife Sarah and daughter Hannah Eldridge. John and Hannah (Knight) Eldridge were living in York co., Me., in 1737. They were married 15 October 1716, and had Hannah Eldridge, born 22 May 1717 (who married Isaac Buswell, 1738), and Abigail Eldridge, born 22 January 1718–19. This John Eldridge was son of John who married Abigail, daughter of Francis Littlefield, who was the next neighbor to Ezekiel Knight. They had Rebecca Eldridge, born 23 November 1681; Abigail Eldridge, born 3 June 1684; Patience Eldridge, born 3 November 1686; this John Eldridge, born 1 August 1693.

There was an Ezekiel Knight, perhaps of Salem, as by grant in 1637, and of Braintree, who had wife Elizabeth, buried 28 April 1642, by whom he had son Ezekiel Knight, born 1 February 1641, died aged seven months. He may have been, and probably was, the same one as Ezekiel, of Wells.

Others of Maine or N. H., were:

1640. Daniel Knight, of Agamenticus (York).

1647. Robert Knight, juror, in York co. In 1658 he made deposition that he was seventy-one years of age. He made Will in 1676, recorded in 1678–9, giving all his estate to son Richard Knight, living in Boston, Mass.

1659. Richard Knight, taxed at Dover; of Oyster River 1668.

1667. John Knight, of Charlestown, Mass., and Abigail his wife.

1672. Widow of George Knight, of Scarborough, married Henry Brooking.

1676. Samuel Knight had land of his father-in-law, Richard Karl.

1682. William Pitman, of Oyster River, then part of Dover, N. H., in Will dated 31 October 1682, gives to his son Francis the "place which I bought of Richard Knight, commonly called Giles' place." It was at Oyster River.

1704. Benedictus Tarr, of Dover, N. H., had married Leah, widow of John Knight, after 1702, when she and Joan Knight (sister of John Knight) had agreed to refer a controversy about some land at Dover, bought of Major Richard Waldron. John Knight was surveyor of highways in 1687.

1708. Thomas Knight had land of brother Joseph Hill.

The house of the Town Clerk of Wells, Me., was burnt in 1657; and the first volume of the plantation and town records was thus lost.

died, 24 June 1745. The marriage of Ezekiel[2] and Elizabeth, as she made a deposition as Elizabeth "wife of Ezekiel" 27 June 1676, was of course as early as that date, and eleven years before the date of Ezekiel Knight's Will.

Mrs. Elizabeth[3] (Wentworth) Brown and her brother Paul[3] Wentworth, quitclaim, 9 November 1715, all their right in the estate of their father Ezekiel[2] to brothers Benjamin[3] and Gershom[3], who should take care of their mother Elizabeth. This is the last we find regarding her.

Descendants of Ezekiel[2], for six successive generations subsequent to himself, have been in the New Hampshire Legislature. He died while a member, as also did his son Benjamin[3] (33), whose son John[4] (160) was a member. John[4] (160) had three sons who were members, viz. Paul[5] (530), John[5] (531), and Andrew[5] (541). John's[5] (531) son Paul[6] (1564), and Andrew's[5] (541) son John B.[6] (1587), were members. Paul's[6] (1564) son Joseph[7] (3591) was also a member. John[4] (160) was elected to the Continental Congress, but did not attend. John[5] (531) was a member of the Continental Congress. Paul's[6] (1564) son John[7] (3589) was a member of Congress from Illinois twelve years, and two years mayor of Chicago. Thomas M.[5] (535), son of John[4] (160), was a member of the Massachusetts Legislature before Maine was made a State, and his son Thomas M.[6] jr. (1566) was a member of the Maine Legislature. Ezekiel's[2] son John[3] (33) had son Thomas[4] (157), who had a grandson Thomas[6] (1547), son of Caleb[5] (529), who was also a member of the Maine Legislature. This Thomas[6] (1547) had a son Hiram[7] (3564) who was in the New Hampshire Legislature at the same time with Daniel G.[8] (5347), who was in the line of Andrew[7] (3458), Nathan[6] (1526), and Richard[5] (526), who was brother of the above Caleb[5] (529); and Nathan[8] (5395), brother of Daniel G.[8] (5397) succeeded him. The same year, with Daniel G.[8] (5397), there was in the Maine Legislature John[7] (3401), in the line of John[6] (1517) and Moses[5] (523), brother of Caleb[5] (529) and Richard[5] (526) above. And in 1875 Moses J.[8] (5516), son of the above Joseph[7] (3591), was a member of the Illinois Legislature.

There is much uncertainty as to the number and ages of the children of Ezekiel.[2] The following is the best list which can now be furnished: —

30. Thomas[3]. [153]
31. John[3]. [154]
32. Paul[3], born in 1678. [159]

33. Benjamin[3]. [After Paul[3], who followed 159]

34. Gershom[3]. [163]

35. Tamsen[3], born in 1687; married, 1st, James Chesley; 2d, John Hayes. [166]

36. Elizabeth[3], married Nathaniel Brown. [178]

ELIZABETH[2] (5*a*), daughter of Elder William[1] and Elizabeth (Kenny) Wentworth, born in 1653.

Family traditions, among the descendants of Elder William[1], had always asserted that he had a daughter Elizabeth[2], and that she married Richard Tozer, jr., of Berwick, Me. These traditions are now fully confirmed by an entry in the Abbé C. Tanguay's Dictionnaire Généalogique des Familles Canadiennes, 1871, in a list of Anglais taken captive by the French and Indians, and carried to Canada. This entry, translated and published in the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, April 1874, is as follows: —

Elizabeth Wintworth, daughter of William, elder in the anglo-calvinistic religion, and Elizabeth (Kenny), born in 1653 at Piscataoué; married, 1st, James Sharp, of Kent; 2d, Richard Toxer [Tozer]; taken in war, 18 March 1690, by Hertel; god-daughter of Claude Ramezay, governor of Trois Rivières, and in the service of M. Pierre Boucher, Lord of Boucherville.

Elizabeth's[2] first husband, therefore, was James Sharp. No such person is mentioned by Savage. A careful examination of the records of York co., Me., in which Berwick (formerly part of Kittery) is situated, fails to discover any mention of James Sharp.* The name does not appear in Dover, N. H. But the county records at Exeter, N. H., mention a James Sharp at Great Island (Newcastle), N. H., in 1671, and a James Sharp there in 1693. The Newcastle records fail to furnish even the name, being mainly of later date than either year. The Canadian record calls him "of Kent." It is hard to conjecture what this means, unless it is a mistake for Kittery (of which Berwick was a part, as stated above); or unless it means co. Kent, in England, and implies that he was transient. Newcastle, it will be remembered, was, in 1671, the place of residence of Elizabeth's[2] brother Samuel[2] Wentworth.

* James Gibbens deeds land in Saco, Me., in 1690, to his daughter Elizabeth (granddaughter of Thomas Lewis), wife of John Sharp, sen., and mother of John Sharp, jr. A John Sharp was taxed at Cochecho (Dover), in 1663. Letters of administration were granted upon the estate of John Sharp, late of Biddeford, Me., in 1754.

Concerning the Tozers* more is known.

Richard Tozer, jr., who married Elizabeth[2] (Wentworth) Sharp, was son of Richard Tozer, sen., whose family will first be given.

Richard Tozer, sen., married in Boston, Mass, 3 July 1656 (by Dep.-Gov. Richard Bellingham), Judith Smith.† His first child, viz. Thomas Tozer, was born in Boston, 5 May 1657, and probably it was soon after that time that he removed to Dover, N. H., where he was taxed, at Cochecho, in 1659. Cochecho (for tax purposes) extended to the Newichawannock River, and he probably was near the Newichawannock Falls, and soon crossed into Berwick, as there is no record of any grant of land to him in Dover, and he was taxed but once. He had a grant of land in Kittery, 16 October 1659, apparently the place on which he lived from about that time, in the Berwick part of Kittery,‡ and very near the Salmon Falls River; and it is probable that all his children, except the first, were born there. He was killed by the Indians, 16 October 1675. His widow was dead prior to 18 June 1683, as his son Richard, jr. was that day appointed administrator of the estate of his mother Judith Tozer, who had administered on the estate of her late husband, deceased.

Sullivan, in his History of the District of Maine, gives an account of Tozer's death. He says that the Indians attacked the house of John Tozer, about half a mile above the mills at Salmon Falls. In another place, Sullivan says, while describing the same attack, that they killed Tozer and took his son captive. Yet in the next sentence but one, and within four lines, he says that an express was sent to Cochecho (Dover), giving information that Richard Tozer and Tozer's son had been killed, and asking for help. It was undoubtedly the house of Richard, sen., that was attacked, as he then had a house, and his estate was soon regularly administered upon; while neither the records of probate, or of deeds, nor any other records, show the existence of any John Tozer, except a mere boy. Sullivan is the only one who mentions that name; yet an unmarried son may have been killed, and Richard, jr., taken prisoner, as he is said to have been a prisoner several times, and twice taken to Canada.

* The Tozer name is quite common in England, and recent emigrants of this name are now in this country.

† The question has been raised, what relation Richard Tozer was to the Tozer alluded to (see the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, 1861) in the Will of Robert Blott, of Suffolk co., Mass., 27 May 1662, who gives property to daughter Tozer and to daughter Tozer's children. Savage thinks that Blott's daughter was a former wife of this Richard Tozer. This could not be, inasmuch as Blott's daughter was living when the Will was made in 1662, whereas Richard Tozer had married Judith Smith in 1656, and his widow Judith was living in 1675. The only way in which Blott's daughter could be a Tozer (no other Tozer appearing in those days) was by her having previously married a Smith, and being widow Judith Smith when she married Tozer; but the work of Savage gives no Smith who died thus early and left a widow Judith.

‡ Kittery was incorporated as a town 20 October 1647. It included not only the present town, but covered the Quamphegan and Newichawannock territory on the Maine side. Berwick, first a parish, was taken from Kittery and incorporated 9 June 1713. From Berwick was taken South Berwick (the ancient Quamphegan), incorporated 5 June 1814, and North Berwick, incorporated 22 March 1831. From Kittery was also taken its then remaining "upper parish" incorporated as Eliot, 1 March 1810.

Belknap's History of New Hampshire says the attack was made upon the house of "one Tozer." He gives the number, but not the names of the killed and wounded.

Sullivan's History was written in 1795; Belknap's in 1784. Hubbard's "Indian Wars," published in 1677, and therefore better authority, says, —

> Upon the 16th of October, being Saturday, about one hundred of the Indians were gathered together to assault Newtchewannoch. They began with one named Tozer, half a mile from the upper garrison, at Salmon Falls. The said Tozer was presently killed, his son taken captive (but returned after some months' restraint).

According to this, no son was killed.

Richard Tozer, sen., had, so far as is known, —

1. Thomas Tozer, born 5 May 1657, of whom nothing is known. He may possibly have been killed with his father, or taken prisoner.

2. Richard Tozer, jr., born about 1660, who married Elizabeth[2] Wentworth; of whom, see below, after account of the following children: —

3. Simon Tozer, of whom see below.

4. Elizabeth Tozer, who married, 1st, —— Blanchant; 2d, Richard Randall, of whom see below.

5. Martha Tozer, who married Nathan Lord, of whom see below.

6. John Tozer, born about 1665. On 20 November 1683, in answer to a petition of Capt. Francis Littlefield in behalf of his servant John Tozer (about eighteen years of age), desiring that Capt. John Wincoll be appointed his guardian, it was so ordered; and Capt. Wincoll was also ordered to take charge of "what estate of his father's belongs to him." This was the same year in which Richard Tozer, jr., was appointed to take charge of the estate of his mother Judith, recently deceased, who had been administratrix of estate of Richard Tozer, sen. Perhaps this John Tozer was father of the John Tozer, of Georgetown, Me., for whom see below.

Simon Tozer, son of Richard (sen.) and Judith (Smith) Tozer, as above, became of Watertown Farms (now Weston), Mass. A deed given by "grandchildren of Richard Tozer" to Capt. Samuel Lord has led some to claim them as children of Richard, jr. The deed, dated at Southborough, Mass., 22 September 1735, recorded at Alfred, co. York, Me., 3 October following, conveys to Samuel Lord, of Berwick, Me., a house-lot and other buildings belonging "originally to our grandfather Richard Tozer," and was signed as follows: —

Nathaniel Newton, and Abigail, his wife (in her right), of Southborough, Mass.;

Sarah Tozer, femme sole, of Southborough, Mass.; and Judith Bellows, wife to Jonathan Bellows (in her right), of Westborough, Mass.

(A blank was left for the name of Jonathan Bellows, which was in the body of the deed, but he did not sign. The name of John Tozer, husbandman, of Watertown, Mass., was also in the body of the deed, but not signed.)

That these grandchildren were not children of Richard Tozer, jr., but of Simon Tozer, is clear, by the following, from Bond's History of Watertown: —

TOZER. — Simon Tozer, of Watertown Farms (Weston), who died 30 December 1718, by wife Mary, had, —

1. Mary Tozer, born 16 August 1693; married, 18 November 1716, Samuel Newton, of Marlborough, Mass.
2. John Tozer, born 8 October 1695; married, in 1718, Experience Jackson, of Newton, Mass.; see below.
3. Richard Tozer, born 26 July 1701; married Elizabeth; see below.
4. Abigail Tozer, twin to above; married, in 1720, Nathaniel Newton, both of Marlborough, Mass.
5. Susanna Tozer, born 27 January 1702–3.
6. Judith Tozer, born 4 January 1704–5.

It will be seen that these are the exact names in the deed to Capt. Samuel Lord.

Jackson's History of Newton gives the family of the above John Tozer, son of Simon. He died in 1750, leaving daughters, but no son.

Barry's History of Framingham gives the family of the above Richard Tozer, son of Simon. He was of Southborough, Mass., and had

1. Richard Tozer, born 13 October 1732; married in Framingham, 14 February 1753, Mary Belknap; and had, at Southborough, (1) John Tozer, born 23 April 1754; married Mary Fry, and by her had John Tozer, Eben Tozer, and Ruth Tozer. (2) Mary Tozer; (3) Peter Tozer; (4) Anna Tozer; (5) Patty Tozer; (6) Deborah Tozer.
2. Hannah Tozer, born 4 July 1732.
3. Thankfull Tozer, born October 1739.
4. Simon Tozer, born 7 November 1743; married Lydia Cloyes; and had in Framingham, (1) Josiah Tozer; (2) Olive Tozer; (3) Lydia Tozer.

There was —— Tozer, in Marlborough, Mass., with wife Sarah, who had Beulah Tozer, born 11 April 1725.

Elizabeth Tozer, daughter of Richard and Judith (Smith) Tozer, sen., as above, is doubtless referred to in Rev. John Pike's "list of marriages," which gives, 10 April 1705, Richard Randall married to widow Elizabeth Blanchant. Randall had a prior wife Elizabeth, who died 16 April 1701. Elizabeth Tozer thus appears to have been twice married. She is referred to in the following from the York co. (Me.) Probate Records, dated 15 August 1712: —

> I, Richard Randall, of Dover, N. H., have received of my brother-in-law, Richard Tozer, of Berwick, Me., all and the full part of my portion in the right of my wife Elizabeth Tozer.

Nothing further is known concerning her or her family except that Richard Tozer (jr.) gave, 21 January 1712–13, each of his "nephews," "in consideration of natural love and affection," Richard Randall and William Randall, her sons evidently, five acres of land in Kittery, from that granted him by that town 10 May 1703. At the same date, their father gave them thirty acres each, from land granted him by that town 10 May 1703, adjoining that of Richard Tozer's hundred acres.

Martha Tozer, daughter of Richard and Judith (Smith) Tozer, sen., is referred to in the following from the Berwick (Me.) records of marriages and births: —

Martha, born 14 October 1679.
Nathan, born 13 May 1681.
William, born 20 March 1682–3.
Richard, born 1 March 1684–5.
Judith, born 29 March 1687.
Samuel, born 14 June 1689.
Mary, born 29 July 1691.
John, born 18 January 1693.
Sarah, born 28 March 1696.
Anne, born 27 May 1697.
Abraham, born 29 October 1699.

The above Samuel Lord, son of Nathan and Martha [Tozer] Lord, born 14 June 1689, was married at Kittery, Me., 19 October 1710, by Rev. Jeremiah Wise,* to Martha[3], born 9 February 1684, daughter of Paul[2] and Catherine Wentworth.

This marriage, copied from the Berwick records, does not correspond with the statement of Sullivan, in his History, that "Capt. Samuel Lord's wife was the granddaughter of Tozer, who was killed in 1675. She died since the year 1758, and has left a numerous posterity." To this day, the impression prevails among some of the Lord family, that Capt. Samuel Lord married Martha Tozer, daughter of Richard (jr.) and Elizabeth (Wentworth) Tozer; whereas he married Martha[3] (41), daughter of Paul[2] and Catherine Wentworth (whom see); and it was his father, Nathan Lord, who married Martha, daughter of Richard (sen.) and Judith (Smith) Tozer. Capt. Samuel Lord was the grandson of Richard Tozer, sen.; and his wife could not have been Richard's granddaughter, unless her mother, Catherine, wife of Paul[2] Wentworth, was daughter of Richard Tozer, sen. But there nowhere is any intimation that Richard, sen., had a daughter Catherine; if he had, then Capt. Samuel Lord and his wife were cousins, and both would have been grandchildren of Richard Tozer, sen. This impression of Sullivan, and others, must have arisen from the fact that those descendants of Capt. Samuel Lord who were cotemporaries of Sullivan, knowing that they were descendants of Richard Tozer, sen., and of Elder William[1] Wentworth, confounded the two Marthas, viz. Martha Tozer who married Nathan Lord, and Martha[3] Wentworth who married Capt. Samuel Lord, son of Nathan and Martha (Tozer) Lord.

Because Capt. Samuel Lord owned the farm which Richard Tozer, jr., inherited from Richard, sen., it may have been thought that he received it by inheritance, through his wife, from Richard Tozer, jr. But the records show that he had it by purchase; in 1734 Richard Tozer and wife Elizabeth sell to Samuel Lord the farm on which they lived and on which their father Tozer lived, "with all and singular their live stock of cattle, horse kind, and other creatures of every kind and quality, and household stuff of every sort, real or personal, movable or immovable, and all other property."

That the wife of Capt. Samuel Lord was not the widow of some Wentworth, it is only necessary to refer to the following provision in her Will: —

To my beloved brother William Wentworth, one bed, bedstead, & bedding for his sole use and improvement during his natural life; and at his decease, I give and bequeath the said bed & bedding to Ebenezer Lord & his heirs forever.

John Tozer, son of Richard and Judith (Smith) Tozer. It is suggested above that he may have been father of a John Tozer, of Georgetown (formerly called Rowsick Island), Sagadahoc co. (formerly in Lincoln co.), Me., which was incorporated in 1716. The descendants of this John Tozer, of Georgetown, live mainly in and around Waterville, Me., and, with the exception mentioned below, can give no account of his origin. John Tozer, of Georgetown, was constable there in 1758, warden in 1765. He died in Fairfield, Me., in 1806, aged 84, which makes him born in 1722. He married Sarah Pettis, who died about 1820, aged 99. They had:

1. Jeremiah Tozer, born in Georgetown, 26 December 1747.
2. Abigail Tozer, born 17 September 1749.
3. Jonathan Tozer, born 27 August 1751.
4. Sarah Tozer, born 1 July 1753.
5. Lemuel Tozer, born 19 August 1755. He was the first settler of Exeter, Me., in 1801. He married twice, and had children, viz. Polly Tozer, Simeon Tozer, Levi Tozer, George Tozer, John Tozer, Joseph Tozer and Benjamin Tozer (twins who died young), Joseph Tozer. William D. Tozer (living in Hudson, Me., in 1872), Richard Tozer, Elijah Tozer, and Sarah Tozer.
6. Patience Tozer, born 20 October 1757.
7. Elias Tozer, born 14 August 1759.
8. Simon Tozer, born 23 July 1761.

9. John Tozer, born 3 October 1763.

10. Benjamin Patten Tozer, born 13 October 1764; married Kezia Rose.

11. Amos Tozer, born 31 January 1769.

The only tradition found in this family as to their ancestry was from Kezia (Rose), who married Benjamin Patten Tozer just mentioned. She was born near the mouth of the Kennebec River, and died in Athens, Me., in 1872, said to be over a hundred years old, and was of sound mind. She was confident that her husband's grandfather was Richard Tozer, who married Elizabeth[2] Wentworth. This is necessarily an error, as John Tozer, son of Richard Tozer, jr., was born about 1665, and could not be the John Tozer (father of Benjamin P.) whose first child was born in 1747 and his last in 1769; but the tradition may easily have omitted one generation.

A John Tozer was in Sir William Pepperrell's expedition against Louisburg in 1745. The first child of John Tozer, of Georgetown, was born in December 1747. Sir William Pepperrell being of Kittery, Me., his forces were largely raised in that vicinity.

Returning to Elizabeth[2] Wentworth, who married, 1st, James Sharp; 2d, Richard Tozer, jr.

In no records yet found, save the Canada one, is she mentioned as wife of James Sharp.

The earliest information regarding Richard Tozer, jr., and his wife Elizabeth[2], is found in the affidavits of each (in the county records at Exeter, N. H.) among the papers to prove the title of Mrs. Elizabeth Wentworth* (widow of Benjamin[3] Wentworth, son of Ezekiel[2]) to her farm, once owned by John Lovering. In his affidavit, dated 26 January 1733, Richard Tozer gives his age as seventy-three, which makes him born about 1660, and to have been fifteen years of age when his father was killed in 1675. Mrs. Elizabeth Tozer (who calls herself "of full age"), at the same date, says it was sixty-four years since she first knew the farm, which would be in 1669. She testified that she was taken to the house by her father the day after John Lovering was drowned (which appears to be in 1668, from his inventory), but she does not give the name of her father, who might properly be Elder William[1] Wentworth, attending to his ministerial duties.

Richard and Elizabeth[2] Tozer, of Berwick, Me., 3 November 1698, deed land in York, Me., to Lewis Bane. How much earlier they were married, no records are yet found to show.

He was on the jury in York co. in 1694; surveyor of highways in 1695; chosen constable in 1702; was moderator of Berwick town-meeting in 1713 and 1716. He was called "Sergeant Tozer" in 1715. Land granted to his father was in several instances laid out to him alone, — apparent evidence that he had no brother in that region. In 1712 he was next to the highest tax-payer in Berwick.

At the residence of Daniel[5] (686) Wentworth, on the Berwick side of Salmon Falls River, being the farm of his ancestor Elder William[1] Wentworth's son Timothy[2], the author of this work found in an old white-birch box many old papers. Among them was the autograph of Richard Tozer (so spelled, and this spelling is adopted herein instead of Tozier) in 1720.

The capture of Mrs. Elizabeth[2] (Wentworth) (Sharp) Tozer in the memorable attack upon Salmon Falls,* by Hertel, in 1690, is already mentioned. It appears, also, that, like many other captives, she was baptized in Canada by a priest of the Catholic church, doubtless from the compulsion of circumstances incident to the captivity. How soon she returned home from this captivity is not known, but she was ransomed from one of her captures by Matthew Carey, agent for that purpose, in 1695, her name appearing in the list found in the Massachusetts Archives, Vol. "A, 38," and printed in the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, July 1870.

There is a tradition in the family that Richard Tozer, jr., was taken prisoner and carried to Canada twice, and his wife three times, — twice with him, and once alone. There are also many traditions touching the transactions of this Mrs. Elizabeth[2] (Wentworth) Tozer with the Indians. One is, that the Indians once attacking her while she was making soap, she threw it upon them so fast, while it was boiling hot, that they were obliged to retreat. Another is, that, dressed in man's clothes, with gun in hand, she was accustomed to act as sentry upon the house while the men worked in the field. The fearfully exposed position of Salmon Falls will justify such traditions.

* See Farmer's Belknap, page 132. Pike's Journal (he lived but a few miles off) says, 18 March 1689-90: "Salmon Falls was surprised by the Indians & French just after the manner of Cochecho. The whole place was destroyed w[th] fire, 27 persons slain, & 52 Carried Captive." A letter of Major Frost and others, dated 26 March 1690, eight days after the surprise, says, "Heard's Garrison at Cochecho being the ffrontier & the only Garrison on the North side of that River . . . having now left three men, one kil'd and two wounded, in the late fight at Salmon Falls." This refers to the pursuit after the destruction of the place.

The following is the family tradition regarding her last capture: Her husband saw the Indians approaching, and told her he would rather die than go again to Canada. She must do the best she could; but if taken prisoner, he would redeem her if he lived. So he took a feather bed upon his back to shield him from the fire of the Indians, started out of the back door, and managed to keep the house between him and the Indians until he reached Salmon Falls River, which was but thinly frozen over in the spring. He fell into the river, but got out again, leaving his bed. The Indians tracked him to the river, but seeing the bed and the hole in the ice, supposed that he was drowned. The Indians pillaged the house and burnt it, carrying off all its inmates as prisoners. Mr. Tozer, who had hid himself on the New Hampshire side of the river, saw all that took place. He went to Dover and alarmed the people, who pursued the Indians, but without effect.

It was after this that he built the block house, or garrison, which was preserved until October 1855, when it was taken down and a small house was built upon the old cellar. Some of the old timbers were used in the new house. The author of this work visited it when standing. It bore every appearance of an old garrison or block house except in height. The roof was blown off in 1830, and before repairing it the owner (Mr. Spencer) took off one story. This building was never disturbed by the Indians.

No evidence shows that they had any children. Those grandchildren of Richard Tozer, sen., who gave the deed to Capt. Samuel Lord in 1735, sometimes considered to be children of Richard (jr.) and Elizabeth[2] (Wentworth) Tozer, have already been shown to be children of his brother Simon, through whom only, so far as can be positively learned, the Tozer name (which has long since disappeared from Berwick*) has been continued.

Richard and Elizabeth[2] Tozer sold their farm and everything upon it, in 1734, to Capt. Samuel Lord. After that date, nothing whatever has been found regarding them. The farm itself was sold out of the family, by Rev. James[5] (614) Lord, son of Abraham[4] (201), and grandson of Capt. Samuel Lord, by his wife Martha[3] (41) (Wentworth) Lord.

* The town clerk of Berwick says that the name of Tozer in that town and region has been extinct beyond the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

PAUL[2] (6), son of Elder William[1] Wentworth, was the last son, so far as any accounts exist, to die. He was also among the elder of Elder William's[1] children. If twenty-five years of age when his first child was born, in 1680, Paul[2] would have been born in 1655; and this is probably very near the date.

He was taxed in Dover, N. H., in 1682; and he gave a deposition, with his wife, there, 21 April 1681. He received land from his father Elder William[1], and lived upon it. The deed appears not to have passed until Paul[2] was to convey it to his brother Benjamin[2]; and was of same date, 16 April 1696, in which William[1] and his wife Elizabeth convey twenty acres "joining the easterly end or side of my own land and lyeing betwixt the land of my other son Benjamin Wentworth & Thomas Downs." This was in Rollinsford, part of the Wentworth grants there. As seen below, he eventually conveyed it to his brother Benjamin[2].

From Dover he removed to Rowley, Mass. As to date of removal, he signed as "of Dover" in 1681; and Joshua Coffin, the historian of Newbury, Mass., in a letter to the author of this work, says, —

> I am inclined to think that Paul was of Rowley, as early as 1681 or 1682, as I find that his name was one of thirty-six members of the congregation when the Rev. Edward Payson was settled, which was 25 October 1682, although he commenced preaching there in 1680, and received a call 17 August 1681. The thirty-six names appear to have been in Mr. Payson's handwriting, and to have been written when he was settled.

Mr. Coffin thinks that the last three of Paul's children were born in Newbury, Mass., which was near enough to Rowley to have him keep up his church connection in those days; but the record of the baptism of these three is still preserved at Rowley with the others.

The records of the Rowley church show that Paul was admitted to the church 30 August 1696, perhaps from the Dover church. His wife was baptized the same day. All his children but the youngest two were baptized 16 May 1697. These two, Benjamin[3] and Edward[3], were baptized, as the same church records show, soon after their birth.

Paul[2], of Newbury, Mass., and Catherine, his wife, 16 April 1696, convey to brother Benjamin[2] Wentworth land in Dover, N. H., which was "formerly my seat in Dover," and which was "given me by my honored father William[1] Wentworth." He also sells some lands in Rowley, 18 December 1699.

Paul[2] was still of Rowley, Mass., 1 April 1707, and was then called "Paul, senior," in distinction from his son Paul[3], in a deed, then made to Biall Hambleton, of fifty acres of land in Kittery, Me., bounded north by Ichabod Plaisted, east by common land, west by Salmon Falls River. This land was evidently in the Berwick part of Kittery.

Paul[2] and his wife Catherine were dismissed from the church of Rowley, Mass., to that of New London, Conn., 29 June 1707. He lived in New London until the year of a deed dated 20 June 1715, which begins:

> Know ye that I, David Francis, of Norwich, in the county of New London and Colony of Connecticut, in New England, husbandman, for and in the consideration of seventy pounds in current money to me in hand paid by Paul Wentworth, of New London, in the county aforesaid, husbandman, etc.

This deed conveys thirty-five acres of land, with the dwelling-house, orchards, fruit trees, fences, and all other privileges, reserving the east room of said house, and cellar under the same, during the said David Francis' natural life; and the said Wentworth was to provide two good barrels of cider per year, a good horse for said Francis, wash his linen, etc.

This land was on the east side of Chetucket River, and on the west side of the road that leads to Stonington, in that part of Norwich which was set off in 1786 as Preston. Although Paul[2], by town grants and otherwise, secured other land in Norwich, there is every probability that he lived and died upon the premises that he bought of Francis.

He was "allowed to be an inhabitant" of Norwich by vote in town-meeting 20 December 1715; he was chosen surveyor of highways 6 December 1720.

Paul[2], 31 May 1726, gave to his son Edward[3], upon condition that the son support him and his (Paul's) wife, Catherine, the lands, etc., in Norwich. This deed was accompanied by a bond from Edward[3], in which, among other things, it is recited that "if it shall please God to prolong the life of his mother, Catherine Wentworth, beyond the life of his said father Wentworth, then said Edward shall take special care of his said mother in health and in sickness, and when it shall please God to remove her by death, give her a decent burial." Edward[3] died the next year. On the 13 May 1746, Paul[2] gave the same premises to his son Benjamin[3], "for the consideration of my comfortable and honorable maintenance during my natural life, to me secured." It is noticeable that in this paper no mention is made of Paul's wife, and it is therefore evident that she had died since the date of the conveyance to Edward[3].

Paul[2] died, probably in 1750, not far from ninety-five years of age.

The autograph here copied was written in 1705:

All efforts to find the name of Paul's[2] wife before marriage have proved unsuccessful. Perhaps the following may yet lead to it, although so far it has failed: —

Paul Wentworth, of Rowley, Mass., is made guardian, 19 December 1705, of Sarah Barnard, in her fifteenth year, and Benjamin Barnard, in his thirteenth year, children of Benjamin (deceased) and Sarah Barnard, of Watertown, Mass. Benjamin Barnard, senior, died 12 January 1694; and his widow married, 12 January 1698–9, Samuel Winch, of Framingham, Mass. Paul[2] is called in the papers on file the uncle of these children. Bond's History of Watertown gives the names of the sisters of Benjamin Barnard, but there is no Catherine among them. Paul's[2] wife Catherine, therefore, must have been a sister to Barnard's wife Sarah; or Barnard's wife Sarah must have been a sister of Paul[2] Wentworth. This question has been considered in connection with the daughters of Elder William[1], whom see.

Paul's[2] wife was living in 1726, but doubtless deceased before 1746, when Paul[2] gave property to his son Benjamin[3].

Nothing can be found in the burial-ground of Preston, Conn., about Paul[2] or his wife. The records of New London, Conn., were mostly destroyed in the Revolutionary war.

The births of Paul's[2] children were all recorded (as below) at one time, — some time between 1718 and 1721. There is an evident error somewhere in the dates given to the first two children, but the author is unable to correct it, and follows the record.

Paul[2] and Catherine Wentworth had:

37. William[3], born 25 December 1680. [184]
38. Sylvanus[3], born 28 February 1681. [185]
39. Paul[3], born 10 May 1682. [187]
40. Ebenezer[3], born 18 June 1683. [191]
41. Martha[3], born 9 February 1684 [5?]; married in Kittery, Me., Samuel Lord. [198]

42. Mercy[3], born 18 July 1686; baptized in Rowley, Mass., May 1697; married, 5 April 1707, John Chapman, of Rowley. Nothing more is known of her.

43. Aaron[3], born 1 January 1687. [204]

44. Moses[3], born 17 April 1689, baptized May 1697. Nothing found of him afterwards.

45. Mary[3], born 25 December 1692; married Joseph Chapman, of Rowley. [213]

46. Katherine[3], born 28 July 1694; married Daniel Chapman. [221]

47. Sarah[3], born 8 April 1697; married Colen Ffresior. [232]

48. Benjamin[3], born 28 December 1698. [234]

49. Edward[3], born 20 June 1700. [241]

Sylvanus[2] (7), son of Elder William[1] Wentworth, married (as by Rowley, Mass., Records, in Salem, Mass.), 7 November 1685, Elizabeth Stewart, of Rowley. She is believed to have been daughter of Duncan Stewart, of Rowley. (See Coffin's History of Newbury, p. 319.) This is the first mention yet found of Sylvanus[2].

The next is when his name was signed, 20 February 1689, at Dover, N. H., to "A petition of the Inhabitants and Train soldiers of the Province of New Hampshire," and he was of course a resident of Dover.

It appears also from a deed of his father, Elder William[1], to the Elder's son Benjamin[2], 9 May 1693, that Sylvanus[2] had received land from his father, and had lived upon it. In that deed, Elder William[1] gives to his son Benjamin[2], besides the "Corn that he hath sown and planted this year in my home lott and the black cow that he hath made choyce of," "the Land yt my son Sylvanus Wentworth lived uppon." Probably no deed of this land to Sylvanus[2] had passed; certainly none is on record. But it proves that Sylvanus[2] lived on the Rollinsford property.

The birth of "Elizabeth, daughter of Sylvanus and Elizabeth Wentworth, born 27 August 1689," is recorded at Rowley, Mass.

There is nothing to indicate when Sylvanus[2] moved from Dover to Rowley, unless it be the facts that he was residing in Dover in February 1689, and that his child was born in Rowley in the following August. It will be noted that his signature as "of Dover" in February 1689, was four months before the massacre of 28 June, while the birth of his child at Rowley was two months after that massacre. By that destruction the settlement at Cochecho had been temporarily broken up, except in the garrison houses; and the Wentworth property was beyond the last garrison.

There is nothing to show where or when he died, nor is there trace of any child except

50. Elizabeth[3], born 27 August 1689. Rowley Records say, "Nathaniel Dresser, of Rowley, Mass., married Elizabeth[3] Wentworth, 13 November 1707." This Nathaniel Dresser, born 27 August 1681, was alive in 1724. In 1711–12 John and Rebecca Dresser, of Rowley, give to son Nathaniel Dresser land in Rowley, for their maintenance.

After the most diligent search, the above is all that has been learned of Sylvanus[2] or his family.

Timothy[2] (8), son of Elder William[1] Wentworth. It is difficult to arrange the exact order of Elder William's[1] children; but with the tradition among the descendants of Timothy[2] that Elder William[1] was twice married, there is also the tradition that Timothy[2] was the last son of the first wife. The date of his birth can only be approximated. In his Will, made 3 May 1719, he made his son Timothy[3] executor. If Timothy[3] was only twenty-one years old at that time, the marriage of Timothy[2] must have been prior to 1698; if twenty-five years of age when he married, his birth must be dated as early as 1673. He was probably born before that time.

He lived at first in Dover, afterwards in Berwick, Me., about three miles from the residence of his brother Ezekiel[2] at Salmon Falls, Rollinsford, N. H.

In 1851 the author of this work, together with Major John B.[6] (1587) Wentworth, of Salmon Falls, N. H., visited the Berwick homestead of Timothy[2], which is now occupied by his descendant Daniel[5] (686) Wentworth, son of Timothy[4] (248), who was grandson of Timothy[2]. In an old box made of birch were many ancient and interesting papers. Among these papers was a deed from William[1] and Elizabeth Wentworth to son Timothy[2] Wentworth, dated 27 May 1696, of land between his orchard in Dover, N. H., and the house lot of Thomas Downs. The autograph of Elder William[1] is there, but Elizabeth, his wife, made her mark. Witnesses to the deed, Tristram Heard and Job Clements; and it was acknowledged before Job Clements.

Timothy[2] bought of Timothy Hanson, 27 April 1696, house and land in Dover, N. H., and he and wife Sarah, "of Dover, N. H.," sold the same to Richard Scammon 29 August 1702.

Benjamin[2] Wentworth and wife Sarah, of Dover, deeded to his "loving brother" Timothy[2] a lot of land 6 May 1698. The land was bounded northerly by land that was formerly his brother Paul's[2] seat in Dover; the deed was witnessed by William Gerrish and John Wingate, and the land was laid out by Ezekiel[2] Wentworth and Samuel Heard.

It is doubtful whether Timothy[2] was in Berwick (or that part then called Newichawannock) until after 1700. As just seen, he deeded house and land in Dover, 29 August 1702. Timothy[2] and Sarah, "of Berwick," conveyed thirty acres of land in Dover, 11 April 1705, to James Hamilton, who conveyed it, 5 April 1707, to Benjamin[2] Wentworth.

Timothy[2], "of Berwick," 7 April 1705, conveyed, for £20, to "cozen Paulle[3] (32) Wentworth," dwelling-house at Salmon Falls, on the Dover side of the river, about forty-seven rods from the mill. The deed is free of encumbrance, but without wife. The term "cozen" in early days comprehended nephews. That it was given by Timothy[2] rather than his son Timothy[3] is quite clear, from the fact that Timothy[3] was not of age in 1705.

Timothy[2] bought, 1 May 1705, of Edward Toogood, of Portsmouth, N. H., the homestead (formerly belonging to James Grant) which has never since been out of the possession of the family. He was described as of Newichawannock,* York, Me. The farm was mortgaged back to Toogood,† 10 May 1705; the mortgage

* Sullivan's History of the District of Maine, published in 1795, says, "Ten miles from the ocean we meet with the waters that issue from Exeter River [Swamscott], Durham or Oyster River [Shankhassick], Quochecho River [Cochecho], and Back River [Bellamy]. These all come from New Hampshire. Leaving the waters of these rivers, we proceed up the river Newichawannick to Berwick. The waters of the last mentioned river are sufficient to bear vessels of nearly one hundred tons burthen up to a place four miles within the town of Berwick. Below this, in the town of Kittery, is a small creek called Sturgeon Creek. . . . At the falls on Quamphegan are a set of saw and other mills. Here also is the Great Landing Place, where immense quantities are rafted, or carried in scows. From Quamphegan [now South Berwick] the river Newichawannick loses that name, and assumes the English name of Salmon Falls River. . . . There are only two rivers above the head of the tide which run into Salmon Falls River from the District of Maine. These are both in Berwick. The one is called Wooster River, and the other Little River." When Sullivan wrote, the cotton mills at South Berwick, Salmon Falls, and Great Falls, were not in existence, — all now on the Salmon Falls or Newichawannock Rivers.

† Edward Toogood had wife Cartwright Toogood, to whom he gave property bought of Samuel[3] Wentworth, of Portsmouth, N. H., 5 October 1699.

Toogood once occupied the farm he sold to Timothy[2], but was frightened away from it by the Indians. One day, while alone and unarmed, an Indian sprang was released to his sons Timothy[3] and Samuel[3], 18 July 1732. One of the witnesses to this release was Benning[4] (80) Wentworth, afterwards Governor.

Timothy[2] received, 2 July 1709, from Moses Wooster, a deed of part of the privilege of Wooster's River, which runs into Salmon Falls River.

Timothy[2] and wife Sarah, 8 June 1715, conveyed land to James Smith, of York, Me., as a gift.

He was a pew-owner in Kittery, Me., 1712, Berwick then being a part of Kittery. He was constable in 1715; a juryman in 1714 to 1718.

Timothy[2] had wife Sarah. The whole family concur in giving her name as Sarah Cromwell.* She is shown to be living when her son Timothy[3] died, about 1735; and as her great-grandson, Ebenezer[5] (657), remembered seeing her, she must have died after 1750.

from an ambush and captured him. While the Indian was preparing a line with which to tie his hands together, Toogood snatched the Indian's gun, and bade him stand off at his peril. There being no place to which he could safely escape but Dover, he forded the Salmon Falls River and made the best of his way thither. The Indian followed him nearly there, coaxing him to give back the gun. The other Indians used to taunt him with this Toogood affair, when he would reply, "Not Toogood, but No good."

An Edward Toogood married, at Portsmouth, N. H., 16 October 1711, Hannah Ayers; and had Mary Toogood, born 17 April 1713.

* Savage, in Geneal. Dictionary, says, "Philip Cromwell, of Dover, N. H., from 1657 to 1674, married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Leighton; had Ann, born 19 August 1674, and was probably too old to have more; called 74 years of age in 1686. By former wife or wives, he perhaps had enough children, of whom Sarah, who married Timothy[2] Wentworth, may have been one." Savage is in error about his age, which probably should refer to Philip Cromwell, of Salem.

Capt. Philip Cromwell, of Dover, is first taxed there, at Cocheco, in 1657, at Oyster River, 1664, and onward. He was selectman 1670 and 1671. In his Will, dated 19 May 1708, proved 5 April 1709, he mentions wife Elizabeth, sons Joshua Cromwell (lands on west side of Dover Neck), and Samuel Cromwell (executor), and daughters Joanna (Hobbs), Alice, Elizabeth, Sarah, Mary, and Ann. His wife (perhaps but not certainly a second) was Elizabeth, daughter of the first Thomas Layton, who mentions her as "Elizabeth, wife of Philip Cromwell," in his Will in 1671. Her daughter Ann was born 19 August 1674. Five daughters are not mentioned as married in the Will. He died 26 May 1708.

Joshua Cromwell, son of the above Capt. Philip, had land granted him in Dover in 1693-4. Samuel Cromwell, also son of Capt. Philip, had wife Rachael, and children (born in Dover), Dorothy Cromwell, born 13 May 1713; and Eliphalet Cromwell, born 12 November 1716; and it is probable that this Samuel Cromwell is the Samuel who married, 4 December 1727, Elizabeth Pinkham. It seems probable that Capt. Philip Cromwell had other children, — Philip Cromwell, who conveyed land west of Lamprey river, 7 December 1710, to his son John Cromwell, probably the John who marred in Dover, 25 December 1720, Mary Ridley;

Timothy[2] made his Will at Berwick, 3 May 1719. It was proved 8 July following (before John Wheelwright, Judge of Probate), his son Timothy[3] executor. He willed to his wife one half of his estate during her natural life, and after her death, the whole to his sons Timothy[3] and Samuel[3]. He gave to his daughters Mary[3] and Sarah[3] £20 each, not to be paid until the whole of his estate came into his son's hands. Joseph Pray, John Kye [Key], and John Pray were witnesses.

Timothy[2] and Sarah (Cromwell) Wentworth had children:

51. Timothy[3]. [242]
52. Samuel[3]. [245]
53. Sarah[3], married, 1st, Benjamin Hossum; 2d, John White. [250]
54. Mary[3], married James Gerrish. [254]

54*a*. ——[3], married Mary Key. In the probate records of York co., Me., vol. 3, page 6, is found the Will of John Key, sen., of Kittery, Me., which was made 13 April 1710; proved 30 October 1718. He gave to his "daughter Mary Wentworth," £2, 10*s*. Timothy Wentworth was an appraiser of his estate. Probably John Key, who witnessed Timothy's[2] Will, was son of this John Key, sen.

and John Cromwell, of Dover, who married, 13 January 1692, Elizabeth Thomas. Jeremiah Crommet (i. e. Cromwell) was killed at Oyster River in 1712.

Tradition says there was a Dolly Cromwell, a relative of the wife of Timothy[2], who married Samuel Pray,—doubtless the daughter of Samuel Cromwell, as above.

Hatevil Hall, son of Deacon John Hall, of Dover, married Mercy Cromwell, 14 March 1706–7.

Martha Critchet, widow of Elias Critchet, of Oyster River, 4 August 1729, being of "great age," divides her property by deed rather than Will. She was daughter of John Goddard, whose name appears in the articles of agreement between Capt. John Mason on the one part, and James Wall, William Chadbourne, and John Goddard on the other, 14 March 1633, to settle Newichawannock, — the original of which is preserved in the Mass. Archives. Goddard was afterwards of Oyster River, and Wall was on the Exeter combination of 1639. Martha Goddard married, 1st, James Thomas, 2d, Elias Critchet. In the deed she refers to herself as heir of "my own father John Goddard, so long ago deceased" (which was about 1659). She mentions, with others, "my daughter Elizabeth Cromett," the wife of John Cromwell, as married and mentioned above. She also directs her "grandson, Joseph Thomas" to pay a small amount to each of his sisters, viz. Patience Tash, Sobriety Cromett, Elizabeth Davis, and Mary Perkins. Widow Martha (Goddard) Critchett was living in 1730. In a paper, 30 April 1717, she calls herself "only surviving heir of my brothers John and Benjamin Goddard." The name Cromwell appears subsequently on Durham records as Cromett.

"Davey" (David) Cromwell was taxed in Dover, 1662, the entry reading "Philip and Davey Cromwell."

Other Cromwell families are mentioned by Savage, but they were not of this vicinity.

In 1714 Mary Wentworth was plaintiff, in suit in York county, vs. John Smith and Elizabeth, his wife.

No Wentworth has been found who could have been husband of this Mary. It is possible that Timothy[2] (8) could have had such a son.

EPHRAIM[2] (10), son of Elder William[1] Wentworth, was one of the younger of the children, and, according to tradition, son of the Elder's second wife, Elizabeth. He lived in Dover, N. H., on or adjoining the Wentworth grants. Pike's Journal says, in 1704:

> May 28. Sacrament day. An Ambush of 4 Indians lay betwixt Tristram Heards & Ephraim Wentworths, upon the north side of the Hill [Garrison Hill], but were happily discovered & escaped.

As he conveyed to John Waldron, 10 May 1726, the share in the Fresh Creek mill privilege and land granted to his father Elder William[1] in 1652, it is evident that he received it either by deed from his father or as his share in the inheritance. John Tuttle, sen., conveyed to Ephraim[2], 8 November 1708, one eighth of the lower fall of Salmon Falls on the west side. The Dover records say that a grant of two hundred acres, made to William Pomfret in 1656, was laid out 24 October 1719, one hundred acres of it to Ephraim[2] Wentworth, and one hundred to Thomas Downs and Stephen Varney. The land lay in "Cochecha woods Bordering on Mr. Rainer's fower hundred acors that Lieth above Tole End," laid out thus: Beginning at a tree near Benjamin Hanson's land, running south by west 76 rods to a tree on the southeast end of Mr. Rayner's land, then bordering on that land northwest 132 rods to a tree by a fresh marsh, then east by south 58 rods to Benjamin Hanson's land, then east southeast to the first bound, thus making thirty-seven acres. The remainder, running north by east from Hanson's, 232 rods to a hemlock near Gershom Wentworth's fresh marsh, then north by west 184 rods to a tree on a hill, then south by west 144 rods, then return. Ephraim[2] Wentworth's part was the lower half, adjoining to "Rayner's line on the north, which is now Laid out to Mr. John Waldron"; a little gore between Rayner's and Wentworth's is allowed to Wentworth.

He was surveyor of highways in 1702; viewer of fences in 1709.

He married, 1st, between 22 October 1696, and July 1699, Mary, daughter of Richard and Grace Miller, of Kittery, Me. She was sister of Martha Miller, who married his nephew John[3] (31), son of Ezekiel[2], and also sister of Samuel Miller, whose mother was the wife of Christopher Banfield, of Kittery, Me., 22 October 1694. When the first wife of Ephraim[2] died, does not appear; but in March 1735, and in November 1736, he had wife Elizabeth. She was probably the widow of Joseph Beard;* for when Samuel Beard, of Dover, N. H., 5 October 1737, sold land belonging to his father Joseph Beard, deceased, Ephraim[2] Wentworth and wife Elizabeth joined in the deed to "release any right of dower said Elizabeth might have therein."

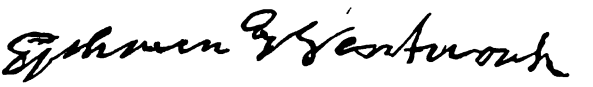
Ephraim[2] deeds land, 30 March 1735, to grandsons Ephraim[4] Wentworth, son of Ephraim[3], and Ephraim[4] Kimball, son of Nehemiah Kimball.

Ephraim[2] made his Will 16 March 1738; it was proved 29 June 1748. He mentions no wife, but all the children mentioned below, of whom there is no other record. All the daughters were married at the date of the Will, except Elizabeth. The homestead went to Ezekiel[3].



Ephraim[2] and Mary (Miller) Wentworth had:

55. Ephraim[3]. [256]

56. Spencer[3], married Kezia, daughter of Tristram and Abigail Heard,† and granddaughter of John and Elizabeth (Hull) Heard.

* Joseph Beard married Elizabeth Waldron, 24 March 1700–1. It does not appear of what Waldron family she was, but she was probably of the descendants of William Walderne, brother of Major Richard Walderne (now spelled Waldron).

† HEARD.—Tristram Heard, born 4 March 1667, was killed by the Indians, at Dover, N. H., in 1723. His mother made the remarkable escape from the Indian massacre of 1689, narrated in Mather's Magnalia, as given by Rev. John Pike, of Dover; and also in Belknap's History. She was daughter of Rev. Joseph Hull (not Benjamin, as given by Savage), who was minister (besides in Massachusetts) in Maine, and (in 1662) at Oyster River, when he went to the Isles of Shoals, and died there 19 November 1665; his widow Agnes brought in his inventory in which is an item, "The Islands indebted to my husband for his Ministry, £20."

John[1] Heard, early of Sturgeon Creek, in Kittery, Me., was of the Dover combination in 1640; in 1652, had grant of land near the Great Hill, where he built the garrison saved by Elder William[1] Wentworth in the massacre of 1689, and died 17 January 1688–9. He married, as above, Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. Joseph Hull; she died 30 November 1706. They had:

1. James[2] Heard, was dead in 1677; had: John[3] Heard (who left children), Elizabeth[3] Heard (married Samuel Small), and Abigail[3] Heard (married Job Clements). His widow Sarah married Richard Otis (his second wife).

2. Benjamin[2] Heard, born 20 February 1643; freeman 1669, died before 1703, and probably had the Benjamin Heard, jr., who married ——, at Salisbury, Mass., 23 May 1690, had three children, and was killed 29 August 1723.

She was born 1 December 1712. She was received to the Dover church 11 October 1741. Spencer[3] died childless, 5 August 1773, willing property to niece Phebe[4], daughter of Jonathan[3]; and niece Sarah[4], daughter of Samuel[3]; and the balance to wife Kezia. Widow Kezia married, 2d, 11 December 1776, Capt. Thomas Pierce, of Portsmouth, N. H.; survived him and lived with a nephew of Spencer[3], viz. Jacob[4] (282), who married Martha, daughter of Daniel Heard, whose (second?) wife was Anna[4] (264) Wentworth.

3. Mary[2] Heard, born 26 January 1649; married John Ham, of Dover, and left numerous posterity; her grandson, Ephraim Ham, married Anna[3] (61) Wentworth, as above.

4. Abigail[2] Heard, born 2 August 1651; married Jenkin Jones, of Dover.

5. Elizabeth[2] Heard, born 15 September 1653; married James Nute, of Dover.

6. Hannah[2] Heard, born 25 November 1655, not mentioned in her father's Will.

7. John[2] Heard, born 24 February 1658, not mentioned in his father's Will.

8. Joseph[2] Heard, born 4 January 1660–1, not mentioned in his father's Will.

9. Samuel[2] Heard, born 4 August 1663; married, 1686, Experience, daughter of Richard and Rose (Stoughton) Otis. He was dead in 1696. His widow was wounded 26 July 1696, and Pike's Journal says, "26 July 1696, Experience Heard, alias Jenkin, was scalped by the Indians July 26, 1696. Recovered & lived to have one child; died chiefly of her wounds bleeding, February 8, 1699" [-1700]. Samuel[2] had son John[3] Heard, born 1692.

10. Tristram[2] Heard, born 4 March 1665–7, mentioned above; he married Abigail ——; is said to have inherited the garrison house; made Will 18 April 1734, which was proved 3 June following. He had:

1. Joseph[3] Heard, born 15 February 1692–3.
2. Tristram[3] Heard, born 26 March 1695; married Jane Snell, and had four children; he died before 1726, and his widow married, 2d, Benjamin Hayes, son of the emigrant John Hayes.
3. Nathaniel[3] Heard, born 23 January 1696–7; was dead in 1734, leaving Mary[4] Heard and Nathaniel[4] Heard.
4. John[3] Heard born 1 January 1699–1700.
5. Abigail[3] Heard, born 15 April 1702, not mentioned in her father's Will.
6. Samuel[3] Heard, born 28 February 1703–4.
7. Elizabeth[3] Heard, born 8 February 1706–7; married —— Knight.
8. Mary[3] Heard, born 10 June 1709; married —— Warren.
9. Kezia[3] Heard, born 1 December 1712; married Spencer[3] (56) Wentworth, as above.

BENJAMIN[2] (11), son of Elder William[1] Wentworth, was probably the youngest child, and, according to tradition, was son of a second wife. He inherited his homestead from his father, it being part of the Elder's large tract. The following deed, dated 9 May 1693, is on record at Exeter, N. H.: —

Know all men by these p[r]sents yt I Will[m] Wentworth of Cochecho now liueing in Exeter Do giue and grant unto my son Benj[a] Wentworth of Cochecho all that Corn that he hath sown and planted this year in my home lott and the black cow that he hath made choyce of and the Land yt my son Sylvanus Wentworth liued uppon. In Witness hereof I here sett to my hand and seal.

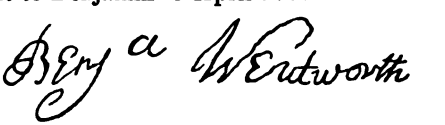
EPH[a]: WENTWORTH

The Elder was then preaching in Exeter, N. H. This homestead was about two miles northeast of Cochecho Falls, Dover, and east of Garrison Hill. It has never been out of the possession of the family. From Benjamin[2] it passed to his son Benjamin[3] (67) (the other heirs conveying their rights to him, 22 June 1737); he gave it to his sons Benjamin[4] (309) and Bartholomew[4] (310), and it is now owned by Bartholomew[5] (851), son of Bartholomew[4].

It will be noticed, also, in the account of Timothy[2], that Timothy[2], 11 April 1705, conveyed land in Dover to James Hamilton, who conveyed it to Benjamin[2] 5 April 1707.



Benjamin[2] was constable in Dover in 1711 and 1713, and surveyor of highways in 1703 and 1717.

At the date of the deed from his father, 9 May 1693, Benjamin[2] appears not to have been married. In a case regarding land title, 29 January 1756, his wife deposed that she was seventy-six years old, and that she came to live at Cochecho [Dover] fifty-nine years before. This would place her coming in 1697, and her age at that time to be seventeen years. Her descendants give her name as Sarah Allen,* from what place does not appear, but tradition says from Salisbury, Mass. She died at the house of her grandson Bartholomew[4], 12 July 1770, aged 91 years.

The following, from the New England Journal of 5 August 1728, gives the only account known of his death: —

> We are informed that some days ago, Mr. Benjamin Wentworth, riding over a bridge (otherwise called the boom) in the river in Cochecho, N. H., fell into the said river, where both he and his horse were drowned.

The boom referred to was where the bridge, a few rods above the lower falls, in Dover, N. H., now stands.

His wife, his son-in-law Daniel Plummer, and William Welland administered. His inventory amounted to £305, 7*s*. 6*d*.

Benjamin[2] and Sarah (Allen) Wentworth had children:

64. William[3], born 14 August 1698. [284]

65. Sarah[3], born 16 April 1700; was received to the Dover church, 9 August 1724; married, in Newington, N. H. (by Rev. Joseph Adams†), 28 January 1720, Deacon Daniel Plummer, of Dover, N. H. They deeded to brother Benjamin[3], 22 June 1737, her right in her father's estate and reversion of mother's dower. They had:

1. Ephraim[4] Plummer, born 12 October 1720, baptized 13 September 1724.
2. Hannah[4] Plummer, born 25 April 1722, baptized 13 September 1724.
3. Daniel[4] Plummer, baptized 24 July 1726.
4. Benjamin[4] Plummer, baptized 3 June 1728.
5. Ebenezer[4] Plummer, baptized 18 April 1731.
6. Gershom[4] Plummer.

* Savage's Geneal. Dictionary gives several pages of Allens. John Allen, of Salisbury, had daughter Sarah Allen, born 9 February 1677. That is nearest to the date of birth of the wife of Benjamin[2] of any found. There was an Edward Allen in Dover, son of Hope Allen, of Boston, in 1675, but none of his family are given.

THIRD GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF SAMUEL[2] WENTWORTH.

SAMUEL[3] (12), son of Samuel[2] and Mary (Benning) Wentworth, born 9 April 1666, lived in Portsmouth, N. H., until after the death of his father, in 1690–1, when he removed to Boston, Mass. Snow, in his History of Boston, speaks of him as one of the most eminent merchants of Boston. He married, 1st, Hannah, daughter of Andrew and Hannah (Bradstreet) Wiggin,* of Exeter, N. H.

* WIGGIN. — Andrew Wiggin was son of Capt. Thomas[1] Wiggin. Capt. Thomas[1] Wiggin came to Hilton's Point (afterwards Dover), N. H., in 1631; and in 1632 went back to England to procure additional men and supplies. Howes's letter from England to Gov. John Winthrop, in 1633, calls him "an honest man about to buye out the Bristoll men's plantation in Pascataque"; and in another letter says, "You all have cause to blesse God that you have soe good a neighbour as Capt. Wiggin." He returned to Dover, landing at Salem, Mass., 10 October 1633, with "about thirty" emigrants, as agent for the new owners, the Puritan Lords Say and Brooke, and others, and eventually became an important owner in the patent. He was at the head of affairs in Dover, until superseded by Rev. George Burdett about 1637; and he favored union with Massachusetts. He removed to Hampton, of which he was Representative in 1645; and he was of the Court of Assistants, 1650 to 1664. With Elder Edward Starbuck, he built the first mills at Cochecho second falls, in Dover. He died about 1667. He had wife Catherine, and children, so far as is known (all three baptized 20 September 1641):

1. Andrew[2] Wiggin, born 1635, of whom see below.
2. Mary[2] Wiggin.
3. Thomas[2] Wiggin, born about 1640; was of Dover, but later either of Hampton or Exeter, N. H. He married Sarah Barefoote, sister of Deputy-Governor Walter Barefoote, of N. H., who mentions her as his sister, in Will dated 3 October 1668. Thomas[2] died about 1700. He had:
    1. Catherine[3] Wiggin, who married, 1st, Robert Tufton Mason (son of the Robert Tufton who took the name of Mason in accordance with the Will of his grandfather, Capt. John Mason, and who inherited the claim to New Hampshire); he was lost at sea in 1696, and she married, 2d, her cousin Simon[3] Wiggin, son of Andrew[2], and died about 1738.
    2. Sarah[3] Wiggin, married Henry Sherburne. Unless he was son of John Sherburne, it is difficult to identify him.
    3. Susanna[3] Wiggin married —— Johnson. (Susanna, wife of John Johnson, of Andover, Mass., died 12 September 1683.)
    4. Thomas[3] Wiggin, of Sandy Point, who died 7 March 1726–7, having had seven sons, ancestors to numerous descendants.

She was born 10 August 1666, and died at Portsmouth, N. H., 21 February 1690–1. He married, 2d (by Rev. Isaac Addington, at Boston), 12 November 1691, Elizabeth Hopson, of Boston. He married, 3d, at Boston, 28 October 1699, Abigail, widow of Capt. Christopher Goffe, mariner. (Capt. Goffe left two children, viz. Daniel Goffe, who had wife Elizabeth; and Rachel Goffe, who Probably Capt. Thomas[1] Wiggin had other children. It is said that he had a daughter Sarah, who married Henry Sherburne; but the Sarah who became wife of the first Henry Sherburne was the widow of Walter Abbot, and was born as early as 1617. Probably the tradition mistakes such a Sarah for Sarah[3], daughter Thomas[2] as above. See note to Dorothy[3] (17) Wentworth.

Andrew[2] Wiggin, son of Thomas[1] as above, was taxed in Dover, N. H., in 1659, but resided in Exeter. He married Hannah, daughter of Governor Simon Bradstreet (who married, 1st, Anne, daughter of Governor Thomas Dudley, the mother of all his children, and 2d, 6 June 1676, Ann, daughter of Emanuel Downing, and widow of Capt. Joseph Gardner). Andrew[2] died 9 February 1709–10. In his Will he left land to his grandson Samuel[4] Wentworth. He had:

1. Thomas[3] Wiggin, born 5 March 1661–2; married Martha Denison, daughter of John Denison, of Ipswich, Mass. (by his wife Martha, daughter of Deputy-Governor Samuel Symonds, of Ipswich), and granddaughter of Major-General Daniel Denison (by his wife Patience, daughter of Governor Thomas Dudley). He died in early life, leaving but one child, Hannah[4] Wiggin. His widow married, 2d, July 1693, Capt. Jonathan Thing, of Exeter (who died 31 October 1694), and 3d, Matthew Whipple, of Ipswich, Mass., and she died 12 September 1728.
2. Simon[3] Wiggin, born 17 April 1664. His first wife is not known; his second was his cousin Catherine[3] (Wiggin), widow of Robert Tufton Mason as aforesaid. He died about 1720, having had three children, one of whom, only son, Lieut. Simon[4] Wiggin, born 12 August 1701, married Susanna Sherburne, born 13 March 1703, and died 9 July 1763, having had seven children, whose descendants are numerous,
3. Hannah[3] Wiggin, born 10 August 1666; married Samuel[3] (12) Wentworth, as above.
4. Mary[3] Wiggin, born 1668; married Capt. Jeremy Gilman, born 31 August 1660, son of Moses, and grandson of the first Edward Gilman, of Exeter.
5. Abigail[3] Wiggin married William French, of Stratham, N. H.
6. Andrew[3] Wiggin, born 6 January 1671–2; married twice (probably 1st, 2 September 1697, Abigail Follet, of Dover), and had seven children. He was Speaker of the New Hampshire House, and Judge of Probate for the Province. He died about 1756. (See probate of Will of Paul[3] (32) Wentworth.)
7. Dorothy[3] Wiggin, said to have married a Gilman, but none such appears in the Gilman Genealogy.
8. Bradstreet[3] Wiggin, born 25 March 1675–6; married, 21 August 1697, Ann, daughter of Joseph and Rachel (Partridge) Chase, of Hampton, N. H., born 9 January 1676–7; he died 18 January 1708–9, having had four children.
9. Sarah[3] Wiggin married William Moore; ancestress of the late Jacob B. Moore, of Concord, N. H., of "Farmer and Moore," authors of "Collections."
10. Jonathan[3] Wiggin, died in the Spring of 1738, having had seven children.

married William Partridge, of Boston. Both Daniel and Rachel were baptized, 13 June 1703, as children of Elizabeth Wentworth.) Samuel[3] died at Boston in 1736; and his widow Abigail was appointed administratrix of his estate 21 July 1736. Among his effects were: a negro man named Cato, valued at £100; negro Tom, £70; and negro woman Rose, £70.

Samuel[3] had, by his first wife,

76. Samuel[4], born (probably) 1690–91. A Samuel was baptized 25 October 1696. As Samuel's[4] mother died when he was a babe, he may have been with her friends when the children of the second wife were baptized. He died without issue.

The records at Exeter, N. H., say: —

16 Feby 1715–16. Warrant issued to appraise estate of Samuel Wentworth Jr. of Boston deceased, & one piece of land was returned in Qualmscot given by his grandfather Andrew Wiggin.

In an ancient burial-ground in Hartford, Conn., is a slab at the grave of Mr. Samuel Wentworth, who died 6 December 1711, aged 20. This Samuel can be traced to no other family, and he must have been left an infant when his mother died.

Samuel[3] had, by his second wife:

77. Nathaniel[4], baptized 28 August 1692, died 10 August 1693.

78. Edward[4], baptized 11 January 1694, died 24 July 1695.

79. Daniel[4], baptized 24 November 1695, of whom nothing is known.

Col. Joseph Lemuel Chester, of London, England, found the following item at the Herald's College, London: "Register of the John Baptist, Margate, Kent, 18 December 1730. Ebenezer Wentworth, of Boston, New England, was buried." At this date, Samuel[3] (12) was the only Wentworth living in Boston. He may have had a son Ebenezer. Samuel's[3] mother, Mrs. Martyn,* who died 20 January 1724–5, in her Will gives property to son Samuel[3],

* Item. I give and bequeath all ye Residue & Remainder of my Goods, Chattels, moveabells, money & estate whatsoever, and wheresoever both Reall and personal, unto my sons Samll, Jn° & Ebenezer; that is to saye, one half part thereof unto my son Samll for his seport, and not to pay any of his Debts; he haveing met with very Great Losses, I think Just so to Doe; and, what he has not need of During his & Wife's natural life, I will that his son shall have the same, and the other half part to be equly Devided betwixt my other two sons Jn° & Ebenezer, I haveing allready Don for my son Rymes his children very considerable and more than their Perpotion. to go to his son after his decease. This Ebenezer may have been that son.

JOHN[3] (14), known as "Lieutenant-Governor John,"* son of Samuel[2] and Mary (Benning) Wentworth, born 16 January 1671, resided at Portsmouth. In 1708 he was a sea-captain. He was appointed Counsellor, by Queen Anne, 14 February 1711–12, in place of Winthrop Hilton, deceased, as follows: —

ANNE R.

Trusty and well beloved. We greet you well. We, being well satisfied of the loyalty, integrity, and ability of our trusty and well beloved John Wentworth, Esq., have thought fit hereby to signify our will and pleasure to you that forthwith upon the receipt hereof you swear and admit him the said John Wentworth to be one of our Council of that our Province of New Hampshire, in the room and place of Winthrop Hilton, Esq., deceased.

And for so doing this shall be your warrant, and so we bid you farewell.

Given at our Court at St. James, the Fourteenth day of February 1711. In the tenth year of Our Reigne.

By Her Majesty's Command, DARTMOUTHE.

He was Justice of the Court of Common Pleas from 1713 to 1718. In 1717 he was appointed Lieutenant-Governor of New Hampshire, which office he held until his death, 12 December 1730. At this period, New Hampshire had only a Lieutenant-Governor resident, the governorship being the same with that of Massachusetts. His commission, published at Portsmouth 7 December 1717, bears the signature of the distinguished writer, Joseph Addison, then Secretary for the Crown.

From the date when Gov. Samuel Shute left for England, in June 1723, to the arrival of his successor, Gov. William Burnett, in America, in 1728, Lt.-Gov. John[3] Wentworth was in exclusive charge of the government of the Province. Gov. Shute left suddenly, while the people were in the distresses and perplexities of another Indian war, commonly known as Lovewell's war. The Lieutenant-Governor conducted affairs with prudence and energy. A system of garrisons and scouts being adopted, he saw that the garrisons were supplied with stores, and frequently visited the frontier posts personally, to see that duty was performed. For this and other service, he repeatedly received the thanks of the Assembly. Eventually, he joined with Lieut.-Gov. William Dummer, of Massachusetts, in sending commissioners to the Marquis de Vaudreuil, governor of Canada, to remonstrate vigorously with him on his breach of the treaty by his assisting the Indians, Theodore Atkinson being the commissioner from New Hampshire. After their return, still more vigorous measures were taken to carry on the war. Orders were issued for the encouragement of ranging parties, volunteer as well as militia, and in a short time the Indians asked for peace. Peace was concluded 15 December 1725. Belknap adds: —

* His son Benning[4] (80) Wentworth was Governor of New Hampshire 1741 till his death, 14 October 1770; succeeded by John[5] (371) Wentworth, grandson of Lieut.-Governor John[3], who served until the Revolution, and was the last royal governor.

> During the war, the lieutenant-governor had managed the executive department with much prudence; the people were satisfied with his administration, and entertained an affection for him, which was expressed not only in words, but by frequent grants of money [there was no regular salary], in the general assembly. When he returned from Boston, where the treaty of peace was concluded, they presented to him an address of congratulation, and told him that 'his absence had seemed long, but the service he had done them filled their hearts with satisfaction.'

He remained in office until his death, which took place 12 December 1730.

Adams, in his Annals of Portsmouth, under the year 1730, thus speaks of Lieut.-Gov. John[3] Wentworth: —

> He fell into a lethargy and died on the 12th of December, in the fifty-ninth year of his age. He was born in Portsmouth, 16 January 1671, of pious parents, who educated him in the principles of the Christian religion. His inclinations led him to a sea-faring life, and he soon obtained the command of a ship. In this situation he was very exemplary in his conduct, and constantly maintained the worship of God in his ship by morning and evening prayer. By careful attention to his business, he acquired a handsome fortune His engaging manners procured him the affection and esteem of all who knew him. His public spirit induced him to take an interest in whatever would benefit his native place He was appointed one of the Council in 1712, and he adopted the same prudential maxims in public life which he had found so very beneficial in managing his private concerns. After the administration of the Government devolved upon him, his unwearied endeavors were to promote the welfare of the Province. He had many difficulties to encounter; contending parties required great moderation to decide between them, and reconcile their conflicting interests; the utmost prudence was necessary to direct an Indian war. In the discharge of his official duties, he gained the approbation of the inhabitants, and the affairs of the Province flourished under his mild administration. He was constant in his attendance on public worship, regular in his family devotions and in the observance of all the ordinances of the Christian religion.

Belknap's History of New Hampshire, after giving a full history of his administration, thus closes: —

On his leaving the sea he had considerable business as a merchant, and always had the reputation of a fair and generous dealer.

He had approved himself to the general acceptance of his Majesty's good subjects throughout this Province, and under his mild administration we enjoyed great quietness.

He was a gentleman of good natural abilities, much improved by conversation; remarkably civil and kind to strangers; respectful to the ministers of the gospel; a lover of good men of all denominations: compassionate and bountiful to the poor; courteous and affable to all; having a constant regard to the duties of divine worship in private and public, and paying due deference to all the sacred institutions of Christ.

In the old church at New Castle, N. H., there is preserved a part of an altar-piece, on which is the following: —

Ex dono the Hon. John Wentworth, Lt. Governor, June 1718.

His Will was dated 7 August 1730. He gave to his wife Sarah £2,000, and made her residuary legatee. To son Benning[4], one half of land at Great Bay (Greenland), and £2,000. To son John[4], one half of land at Great Bay, and £1,000. To sons Hunking[4], William[4], and Samuel[4], each £1,000. To sons Mark[4], Ebenezer[4], Daniel,[4] and George[4], each £1,000 when of age. To Samuel Plaisted, husband of daughter Hannah[4], five shillings. To daughters Sarah[4] McPhedris, Mary[4] Nelson, Elizabeth[4], and Rebecca[4], £1,000 each. Thus fourteen children were alive at the date of his Will, and two others are said to have died previously.

His portrait is in the library of the Massachusetts Historical Society, and another is with his descendants, the sons of the late Ebenezer[6] (1021), at the residence of the last Provincial Governor, John[5] (371) Wentworth, at Portsmouth, N. H.

land as such. It is extremely difficult to identify this Mark Hunking among the several of that name.

There was a Mark Hunking, of Portsmouth, N. H., who made Will, 1 July 1667, and had wife Ann, and children Mark Hunking, Mary Hunking, and Archelaus Hunking. John Hunking witnessed the Will; perhaps the John below, and may have been a brother.

There was a John Hunking, who made his Will, 5 August 1681, and it was proved at Exeter, N. H., in 1682, giving property to wife, to sons John Hunking, Peter Hunking, William Hunking, and Mark Hunking, and to daughters Agnes Hunking and Elizabeth Hunking. His wife was Agnes, and they had:

1. John Hunking, born 2 March 1651, died in England, July 1666.
2. Hercules Hunking, born 11 July 1656. (Rev. Hugh Adams baptized at Durham, N. H., 4 June 1727, "Agnes, infant daughter of Archelaus Hunking.")
3. John Hunking, born 6 April 1660. (There was a John Hunking, of Boston, who married Mary (born about 1657), daughter of William and Catherine (Frost) Leighton.)
4. Peter Hunking, born 20 March, 1662.
5. Agnes Hunking, born 2 June, 1665.
6. William Hunking, born 6 January 1667. (A William Hunking married (by Rev. John Pike), 12 May 1692, Sarah Partridge.)
7. Mark Hunking, born 17 May 1670. (A Mark Hunking married (by Rev. John Pike), 29 June 1697, Mary Harvey.)
8. Elizabeth Hunking, mentioned in her father's Will.

A John Hunking, jr. (Pike says), died 16 July 1705.

There was a Mark Hunking, whose widow, Mary, married Rev. John Newmarch, 5 December 1699 (recorded in Kittery), who had, by this marriage, John Newmarch, born 3 October 1700, and others, including Hon. Joseph Newmarch, born 29 October 1707. The same record says that Rev. John Newmarch died 15 January 1754, aged 81 years. He graduated H. C. 1690, was preaching at Kittery, Me., as early as April 1695, was ordained 4 November 1714, and remained until his death. His intentions of marriage with Mary Cotton, widow of Theophilus Cotton, of Hampton, N. H., were published 9 September 1727.

Adams' Annals of Portsmouth speaks of a Mark Hunking as master of a vessel there 22 March 1680.

There was a Mark Hunking, who was Counsellor from 1710 to 1712, and Judge of Superior Court of New Hampshire from 1712 to 1727.

85. William[4], born 10 December 1705. [349]

86. Mary[4], born 7 May 1707; married, 1st, Temple Nelson; 2d, John Steele. [359]

87. Samuel[4], born 15 January 1708. [361]

88. Mark Hunking[4], born 1 March 1709. [370]

89. Elizabeth[4], born 16 February 1710–11; married, 1st, John Lowd; 2d, Capt. Benjamin Underwood,* a ship-master, of Kittery, Me.; and died childless, 19 October 1790.

90. Rebecca[4], born 16 April 1712; married, 2 January 1728–9, Thomas Packer† (Sheriff), and died September 1738. They had:

Evidently, the only persons possible to be considered in the above lists are:

1. Mark Hunking, whose widow married Rev. John Newmarch. The objection is, that Sarah (Hunking) Wentworth was born in 1673; if her mother, a widow, married Mr. Newmarch, and had a child born in 1707, that child must have been born when the mother was fifty-five years old, and the mother must have married, 2d, a man just the age of her daughter Sarah. There is a possibility of an earlier and older wife of this Mark Hunking.

2. Mark Hunking, master of a vessel in 1680. Nothing whatever is known of him. Savage assumes that he is the same as the Counsellor Mark Hunking.

3. Counsellor Mark Hunking. Some claim that he was the father of Mrs. Sarah (Hunking) Wentworth; but the same authorities claim that Counsellor Mark Hunking was son of John and Agnes Hunking, and so was born 17 May 1670. But this Mark could not have been the father of Mrs. Wentworth, as she was born 1673; and he may not have been the Judge, as neither the time of death of the Judge nor his age can be ascertained. It is certain that the Judge could not be thus born, and yet be the father of Mrs. Wentworth. If he was the ship-master of 1680, it might be possible.

* This Captain Underwood had, by a former wife, son John Underwood, who married Lydia, daughter of the Capt. Nathaniel Pickering who was killed at the head of his company while fighting the Indians at Casco, Me. Another daughter of Capt. Nathaniel Pickering, viz. Mary Pickering, married Deacon Samuel Drown, of Portsmouth, N. H., father of Hon. Daniel P. Drown who died at South Boston, Mass., 24 March 1863, aged 78.

John and Lydia (Pickering) Underwood had a son John Underwood, jr., who married, 23 July 1795, his cousin Sarah, daughter of Deacon Samuel and Mary (Pickering) Drown; she died at Concord, N. H., 23 March 1863, aged 88. Their daughter Clara Adelia Drown, married, 6 January 1833, Hon. Chandler E. Potter, the historian of Manchester, N. H., who died 3 August 1868, while on a visit to Flint, Michigan (after having had a second wife Frances Maria, daughter of the late Gen. John McNeil), leaving but two children, both sons, and by his first wife.

† Thomas Packer was sheriff of New Hampshire from 1741 to his death, 22 June 1771. After the decease of his wife, and before 1751, he married, 2d, Ann, daughter of Jotham Odiorne, of New Castle, and widow of John Rindge (who died 6 November 1740). Ann (Odiorne) by her marriage with John Rindge, was mother of Elizabeth Rindge, who married Mark Hunking[4] (88) Wentworth, whom see. She had no children by her marriage to Thomas Packer, and died 12 January 1762. Thomas Packer, by Will, gave his property to Gov. John[5] (371) Wentworth; on petition of Thomas Packer, jr., who set forth that his father, Thomas, sen., had so willed his property to Gov. John[5] Wentworth, and was not in his right mind when he did the same, and that the Judge of Probate, Hon. John[4] (84) Wentworth, being uncle of said Governor, had wrongfully confirmed said Will, a special act passed the Revolutionary Legislature, in 1779, giving him the right to appeal from the decison of the Provincial Judge of Probate. In a letter to the Secretary of American claims against Great Britain, for reimbursement for losses, dated at Halifax, N. S., 29 December 1788, Gov. John[5] (371) Wentworth, among other losses, claims pay for "a large property called the Packer estate," it being devised to him by Will. A Molly Packer was administratrix of the estate of Thomas Packer, 8 March 1794.

MARY[3] (15), daughter of Samuel[2] and Mary (Benning) Wentworth, born 5 January 1673; married, 1st, June 1691, Samuel Rymes; 2d, Dr. John Clifton. She was admitted to the church in Portsmouth 2 February 1693. In a legal instrument, 24 November 1740, she calls her children Samuel, William, and Christopher; and the husband's property (Rymes') was divided between them. He was a mariner, and was dead as early as 1712. She married Dr. John Clifton prior to 5 March 1717, and on that date speaks of her children as, — Samuel at Portsmouth, William at sea, and Christopher a minor. She was "widow Clifton" 25 October 1731, and died about 1743.

Samuel and Mary[3] (Wentworth) Rymes* had:

John Kelley, of Exeter, N. H., in articles on the New Hampshire Judges, says that Sheriff Thomas Packer was son of Col. Thomas Packer.

Col. Thomas Packer was a physician from London; was Judge of Probate and Counsellor in 1719, and died in 1728. He married, 7 August 1687, Elizabeth, widow of Joseph Hall (who was son of Sergeant John Hall, of Newington, and died of small-pox 19 December 1685); she was a niece of the celebrated Major Richard Waldron, of Dover, and died at Greenland, 14 August 1717, aged 62 years. Col. Packer had a daughter, Elizabeth Packer, who married Henry Deering (born 1 October 1684), whose daughter, Elizabeth Deering, born 20 November 1715, married Samuel[4] (87) Wentworth, son of Lieutenant-Governor John[3] (14) Wentworth. For "Deering," see note to Samuel[2] (2) Wentworth, preceding.

* In August 1740, there was in London a Capt. Rymes, about to sail for Portsmouth, N. H. There was a Samuel Rymes who married at Portsmouth, 1 May 1785, Sarah Pierce. Also a Polly Rymes, who married, December 1785, Robert Holbrook. A Christopher Rymes married, at Portsmouth, 31 December 1795, Lucy Walker. William Rymes, formerly Commissary-General of New Hampshire, died at Portsmouth, November 1854, aged 58.

September 1755, and was dead 26 November 1755. He gave property to wife Mary, to son Christopher[5] Rymes, and to daughters Ann[5] Rymes, Mary[5] Rymes (who married at Portsmouth, N. H., 6 January 1755, William Buck), Dorothy[5] Rymes (who married, 25 November 1753, John Gotwin), Catherine[5] Rymes, Elizabeth[5] Rymes, and Rebecca[5] Rymes.

95. William[4] Rymes, baptized at Portsmouth 11 February 1697, of whom nothing more is known than that he went to sea.

96. Christopher[4] Rymes, born about 1700, as he died 3 April 1741, aged 40. He married his cousin Dorothy[4] (104) Sherburne, whom see for three other husbands. He left property to his wife Dorothy[4] (supposed to be with child), to son Christopher[5] Rymes, to daughter Ann[5] Rymes, to mother Mary[3] Clifton, to wife's brother Richard[4] [Sherburne], to brother Samuel[4] Rymes, and to brother Samuel's[4] children, Christopher[5] Rymes and Dorothy[5] Rymes.

Ebenezer[3] (16), son of Samuel[2] and Mary (Benning) Wentworth, born 9 April 1677, was sometimes of Boston, Mass., and sometimes of Portsmouth, N. H. He was a sea-captain. In 1707 he was selected to command the store-ship of fourteen guns and twenty-eight men, sent in the expedition for the reduction of Port Royal (Annapolis). He died 14 September 1717. He married, 9 August 1711, Rebecca, daughter of David Jeffries* (who married Elizabeth, only child of Gov. John Usher by his first wife, who was daughter

* David Jeffries, born at Rhoad, Wiltshire, England, 18 November 1658, arrived in Boston, Mass., 9 May 1677. He was married, 15 September 1686, by Rev. Mr. Ratcliff (Episcopal), to Elizabeth Usher; she died (says Sewal's diary), 17 June 1698, leaving eight children, viz.:

1. Jane Jeffries, born 4 July 1687, died 13 March 1703.
2. John Jeffries, born 5 February 1688–9, a merchant in Boston.
3. David Jeffries, jr., born 15 June 1690, a merchant in Boston, died in Great Britain, 13 September 1715, leaving an only child, David Jeffries, of whom his uncle, John Jeffries, was guardian. This son David Jeffries married Sarah, daughter of George Jaffrey, of Portsmouth; see "Jaffrey" note to Sarah[4] (83).
4. Elizabeth Jeffries, born 6 December 1691; married, 1st, 13 January 1708–9, Charles Sheepreve, who died 28 May 1717; 2d, Benjamin Eliot; and died 25 July 1737.

of Peter Lidgett, of Boston). She was born 9 December 1693, and died at Piscataqua, 2 July 1721. Ebenezer[3] and Rebecca (Jeffries) Wentworth had:

97. Samuel[4], born 15 November 1714; married Rebecca, daughter of James and Rebecca (Lloyd) Oliver, of Boston, Mass.

5. Rebecca Jeffries, born 9 October 1693; married, 9 August 1711, Capt. Ebenezer[3] (16) Wentworth, as above, and died 2 July 1721.

6. Sarah Jeffries, born 4 May 1695; married, 10 January 1710, George Jaffrey, jr., of Portsmouth [the Counsellor in 1716, see "Jaffrey" note under Sarah[4] (83) Wentworth], and died 12 January 1734–5. Her husband was born 22 November 1682, "on the great Island in Piscataqua River."

7. Frances Jeffries, born 12 July 1696, died November 1714.

8. Peter Jeffries, born 18 November 1697, died 14 September 1698.

Some landed estate, given Mrs. Elizabeth Jeffries by her grandfather, Peter Lidgett, was deeded, 21 April 1748, to Benjamin Green, by the following parties: John Jeffries and Ann, his wife, of Boston; David Jeffries, of Boston, and Sarah, his wife (daughter of George Jaffrey, of Portsmouth, who was dead in 1754); Samuel[4] (97) Wentworth and Rebecca, his wife; Ebenezer[4] (99) Wentworth and Mary, his wife (Samuel[4] and Ebenezer[4] being the only surviving children of Ebenezer[3] (16) and Rebecca (Jeffries) Wentworth); Ebenezer Holmes (merchant in Boston, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Charles and Elizabeth Sheepreve); George Jaffrey, jr. (of Portsmouth, son of George and Sarah (Jeffries) Jaffrey); Samuel Solley and wife Elizabeth (daughter of George Jaffrey); Nathaniel Peirce and wife Ann (daughter of George Jaffrey, as see note to Mark Hunking[4] (88) Wentworth).

The following parties deed land, 11 August 1760, in shares: John Jeffries of Boston and wife, six sixtieths; Samuel[4] Wentworth, of Portsmouth, only surviving child of Ebenezer[3] and Rebecca (Jeffries) Wentworth, eighteen sixtieths; Nathaniel Peirce, of Portsmouth, and Ann, his wife, two sixtieths; George Jaffrey, of Portsmouth, and Lucy, his wife, two sixtieths; David Jeffries, of Boston, and Deborah, his wife, eight sixtieths.

Gov. John Usher (father of Elizabeth (Usher) Jeffries), was lieutenant-governor of New Hampshire 1692 to 1697 and 1703 to 1715. He was son of Hezekiah Usher, and married Elizabeth, daughter of Peter Lidgett, a wealthy merchant of Boston, who was made freeman in 1673. "May 1676, Hezekiah Usher, one of the chief merchants in ye Bay Colony, dyed. Also Mr. Leiget, a merchant of great estate." — Gov. Bradstreet's Journal. Peter Lidgett gave land to his granddaughter Elizabeth Usher, jr., 21 April 1676. ("Col. Lidgett dies 13 July 1698."—Sewal. This was Charles Lidgett, son of Peter.) (Lady Alicia Lisle, Mr. Hezekiah Usher's mother, beheaded at Winchester, 2 September 1685. — Sewal's Diary. See N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Register, 1861. Lady Lisle was mother to the wife of the second Hezekiah Usher, who was brother to Lt.-Gov. John Usher.) Lt.-Gov. John Usher died at Medford, Mass., 5 September 1726, in the 78th year of his age. His first wife, mother of the wife of David Jeffries, died 17 August 1698. He had a second wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Gov. Samuel Allen; she survived him, and was living 5 May 1732.

Samuel[1] Allen was lieutenant-governor of New Hampshire in 1698 and 1699, but his commission for the government of that Province had been made out in 1692, with Usher (his son-in-law) to act in his absence. He purchased the Masonian title in 1691, and spent the remainder of his life in fruitless efforts to enforce it. He died 5 May 1705, in his 70th year. He had:

She was granddaughter of Nathaniel Oliver (born 1652), who married Elizabeth, daughter of Capt. Thomas Brattle. Samuel[4], in deed dated 11 August 1760, calls himself only surviving child of Ebenezer[3] (16). He removed from Portsmouth to Merrimack, N. H., about 1771, where he died childless, aged about 70. His widow (as such appears in deed 17 July 1789) married a Simpson, of Merrimack, who died suddenly while on a visit to Portsmouth.

1. Thomas[2] Allen, who continued the suit after his father's death. He left one son and two daughters.

2. Elizabeth[2] Allen, who married Lt.-Gov. John Usher, and had sons Hezekiah[3] Usher, of Charlestown, and John[3] Usher, of Bristol (who had son Hezekiah[4] Usher); and had daughters (one account says) Elizabeth[3] Usher (married and survived Stephen Harris, of Boston), and Frances[3] Usher (married Joseph Parsons, jr., of Bradford, Mass.). Another account gives the two daughters to be: Elizabeth[3] Usher (married —— Francis), and Jane[3] Usher (married —— Dowse.)

3. Jane[2] Allen, married —— Steel, and left one son, viz. Samuel[3] Steel; and three daughters, viz. Elizabeth[3] Steel, Jane[3] Steel, and ——[3].

4. Frances[2] Allen, married George Walton, of whom see below.

5. Ann[2] Allen, married Thomas Locklin.

Walton. — George Walton, who married Frances[2] Allen, above, was grandson of George Walton. George[1] Walton, born in England in 1615 or 1616, was one of the signers of the Exeter, N. H., Combination in 1639; was of Dover in 1648; and was licensed, 20 December 1648, to keep an "ordinary"; went to Great Island (New Castle), N. H., about 1650; made Will 14 February 1685–6, which was proved 11 March 1685–6, Robert Mason, Esq., and William Bockam, witnesses. Bequests to wife Alice, son Shadrach Walton, and to Alice Taprell, Priscilla Taprell, and Grace Taprell (to her "the house her mother died in"); to Samuel Walton; and to Thomas Roby, Walton Roby, and Elizabeth Treworthy (these three were under age). George[1] and Alice Walton had:

1. George[2] Walton, born 1649, living in 1671, but probably dead before 1685; and probably Samuel Walton, mentioned in Will above, was son of George[2].

2. Martha[2] Walton, married Edward West, of Portsmouth, N. H., and had John[3] West, born before 1665.

3. Dorcas[2] Walton, made deposition 26 March 1666, as "daughter of George[1] Walton."

4. Child[2], drowned 5 May 1657.

5. Shadrach[2] Walton, born 1658, of whom see below.

6. Mary[2] Walton. A Mary Walton married Samuel Rand, 14 March 1679.

7. Daughter[2], married —— Taprell, unless it be one of above daughters.

8. Daughter[2], married —— Robie, unless it be one of above. George[1] Walton conveyed a house and land to Henry Robie, 1 August 1662.

Probably a daughter also married a Treworthy.

Shadrach[2] Walton, son of George[1] above, was a resident of Great Island, and a man of wealth and influence. He was Ensign in 1691; was actively engaged in the Indian War of 1707; was Major in the N. H. troops in the unsuccessful attack on Port Royal, in 1707, and their Colonel in the successful attack of 1710; was Colonel of the Rangers, and actively employed against the Indians in 1710. He was appointed Counsellor in 1716, and was senior member and President pro tem.

in 1733. He was Judge C. C. P., 1695 to 1698; Judge S. C., 1698–9; and again Judge C. C. P., 1716 to 1737. He died 3 October 1741. His Will was made 5 December 1737; John[4] (84) Wentworth, jr. (son of Lieut.-Gov. John[3] (14), Peter Greley, and William Parker, witnesses. Having already given property to son George[3], in his Will he gives him £5 more; and after giving all his personal property and the use of his real estate to his wife (name not given), he directs that his property be eventually divided equally among his other children, the daughters being all married, and whom he mentions by name. Children were:

1. George[3] Walton, who married, as above, Frances, daughter of Gov. Samuel Allen, of whom see below.

2. Benjamin[3] Walton, graduated H. C. 1729, was a teacher in Portsmouth, N. H.

3. Elizabeth[3] Walton, married Henry Keese. Shadrach[2] Walton conveyed lands in Canterbury, N. H., to "son-in-law" Henry Keese, 23 August 1738.

4. Abigail[3] Walton, married a Long, apparently Pierse Long.

5. Sarah[3] Walton, married, 27 November 1711, Sampson Sheafe, jr., son of the Counsellor of the same name, and had issue.

6. Mary[3] Walton, married (James?) Randall, and her son Benjamin[4] Randall was father of Shadrach Walton[4] Randall, and of Elder Benjamin[4] Randall, founder of the Free Will Baptist denomination, whose eldest son was Benjamin Walton[5] Randall.

George[3] Walton, son of Col. Shadrach[2] Walton as above, married Frances, daughter of Gov. Samuel Allen. He lived in Newington, N. H., where one of his sales of land was, 22 February 1718–19, of a field "which field is called Hall's field, and was once Henry Langstar's," bounded "easterly on y^e^ highway y^t^ leads from y^e^ meeting-house to y^e^ ferry." Tate says, "Mr. George Walton, of Newington, Dy'd Wed. Dec. 13, 1769." His Will was dated 24 September 1764. They had:

1. John[4] Walton, of Newington, mentioned in Will of his father.

2. George[4] Walton, who appears to have had wife Patience. "George and Patience Walton" admitted to full communion in Newington church, 29 September 1728. His father and mother convey to him, 17 November 1722, lands belonging to them "in common with the other heirs of Hon. Samuel Allen." He is "of Portsmouth," in his father's Will, 1764. It is possible, however, that this George[4] Walton is the George who married Temperance, daughter of Jotham Odiorne; see "Odiorne" note to Mark Hunking[4] (88) Wentworth.

3. Shadrach[4] Walton, in father's Will, of Durham, N. H., in 1764.

4. Samuel[4] Walton, admitted to full communion in Newington church 23 October 1726; married, being "of Newcastle," 26 May 1727, Elizabeth Pray, of Kittery. He was afterwards of Somersworth, N. H., where he made his Will 25 October 1753, proved 30 January 1754; mentions wife Elizabeth; sons Allen[5] Walton, George[5] Walton (land at Quamphegan), Samuel[5] Walton (perhaps the one who was of Souhegan West, now Amherst, N. H., whose Will is on record at Exeter, N. H., dated 18 December 1755, mentioning wife Rebecca, son Samuel[6] Walton, and "other children"), John[5] Walton, Shadrach[5] Walton, Benjamin[5] Walton, and daughters Elizabeth[5] Walton (who as Elizabeth Morgan, widow, of Frenchman's lane, Portsmouth, with Mary[5] Walton, of Somersworth, quitclaimed to Ebenezer Smith, 5 September 1786, all their right in Masonian patent "by virtue of our being heirs of Samuel[4] Walton, late of Somersworth, Gentleman, who was one of the heirs to the aforesaid [Gov.] Samuel Allen"), Jane[5] (Walton) Dowse, Mary[5] Walton, and Frances[5] Walton. Wife Elizabeth, Dr. Moses Carr, and "Hon[d] father George[3] Walton," executors.

99. Ebenezer[4], born 20 May 1720. By deed dated 21 April 1748, he had wife Mary. His brother Samuel[4] (97), in a letter from Portsmouth, 19 March 1757, to his maternal cousin David Jeffries (3d), Boston, Mass., mentions the recent death of Ebenezer[4], who appears to have been in partnership with him in business at Portsmouth.

5. Elizabeth[4] Walton married, 24 October 1734, William Hight (sometimes Hoyt), in Newington. They lived in Berwick, Me., where the records, much worn, give a partial list (recorded in 1752) of the family of "William Hight and M[rs] Elizabeth Hight, who is a daughter of George[3] Walton, Esq[r] and M[rs] Frances Walton, of Newington." They had:

1. Jane[5] Hight, born 10 June 1735; married, 1st, 8 April 1752, William Plaisted; 2d, Elder Ebenezer[4] (203) Lord, whom see.
2. Elizabeth[5] Hight, born 14 April 1737; married Joseph Brewster.
3. Temperance[5] Hight, born 16 January 1739–40, died 16 February following.
4. George[5] Hight, born 4 March 1743; married, 1764, Eunice Hill.
5. Frances[5] Hight, twin with George[5], died 20 April 1743.
6. [Torn off, but doubtless] Mary[5] Hight, born 18 July 1745; married, 1st, John[5] (199.3) Lord (whom see); and 2d, Dr. Ivory Hovey.
7. [Fran]ces[5] Hight, born 21 January 1747–8.
8. Temple[5] Hight, born 5 December 1749; married Sarah Goodwin.
9. Sarah[5] Hight, married, 1776, Joseph Brewster.

6. Frances[4] Walton, baptized 22 January 1716, died before her father, who, in his Will, gave "the sundry things that I intended for her" to son John[4] Walton.

Tate says, 3 October 1762, that a Walton, his wife, wife's sister, and wife's brother, were drowned near Dover Point, N. H. Probably "Samuel Walton," whose estate was to be settled, as by notice in N. H. Gazette of 21 October 1763.

Rev. Joseph Walton was long a minister in Portsmouth, N. H. "One of his ancestors [Col. Shadrach[2] Walton] was a long time President of the Provincial Council," says Adams' Annals of Portsmouth. He was born 27 May 1742; his father died in his infancy, and he "was left in the care of his mother, a daughter of Joseph Jackson, Esq., of New Castle"; was bred a cooper; was Ruling Elder of the Independent church, Portsmouth, from 1771, pastor from 22 September 1789 till near his death, which took place 10 January 1822. He married, 1st, 14 March 1768, Mary, daughter of Paul Couch, of Medway, Mass., who died 30 July 1784; 2d, widow Hannah (Ayers) Moses, who died 20 January 1827. By his first wife he had eight children, — one son living in Portsmouth to be over eighty years of age.

DOROTHY[3] (17), daughter of Samuel[2] and Mary (Benning) Wentworth, born 27 June 1680; married Henry Sherburne,* mariner, and lived in Portsmouth. He was born 16 February 1674; became Counsellor in 1728; was Chief Justice; and died 29 December 1757, aged 83. She died 3 January 1754, aged 74. The Sherburnes are numerous in and about Portsmouth, and it is difficult to trace the descendants of Dorothy.

The children of Henry and Dorothy[3] (Wentworth) Sherburne were:

100. Henry[4] Sherburne, born 4 April 1709. [380]

100*a*. Richard[4] Sherburne, mentioned in the Will of his cousin Christopher[4] (96) Rymes, who died in 1741.

* SHERBURNE. — He was son of Samuel Sherburne, who married Love Hutchins, of Haverhill, Mass., 15 December 1668; lived at Hampton, and was killed at Casco Bay, 4 August 1691. Another account says, that Samuel Sherburne's wife was Love Lucretia Brewster, and had a son William Brewster Sherburne, born 3 October 1669; there is a confusion of two Samuels, or of the wives of the same Samuel. Dr. Belknap (Hist. N. H.) says, "Capt. Sherburne of Portsmouth, a worthy officer, was this year [1691] killed at Macquoit."

There appear to have been two brothers named Sherburne, and perhaps others who originally settled at or near Portsmouth.

John[1] Sherburne, brother of Henry[1], born 1617, of Portsmouth in 1653, died 1693; made Will 12 November 1691, which was proved 29 November 1693; had wife Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Tuck, of Hampton; and children, — Henry[2] Sherburne, John[2] Sherburne, Mary[2] Sherburne, and Elizabeth[2] Sherburne.

Henry[1] Sherburne, brother of John[1], born 1612, came to Portsmouth in 1631; was an "innkeeper" at Hampton, and died in 1681; inventory taken by Samuel and John, 26 March 1680[-1]. He married, 1st, 13 November 1637, Rebecca, daughter of Ambrose Gibbons; she died 3 June 1667; 2d, Sarah, widow of Walter Abbot, who died in Jamaica, before 1675; and had brother Thomas Abbot for administrator, and left son Peter Abbot, who had sons John Abbot and Peter Abbot. The widow Abbot was 64 years old in 1681.

Henry[1] Sherburne had children:

1. Samuel[2] Sherburne, born 4 August 1638; married Love Hutchins, as above, and was father of the Henry[3] Sherburne who married, as above, Dorothy[3] (17) Wentworth. The confusion between Love Hutchins and Love Lucretia Brewster arises from a record of Mrs. Mary Sloper, sister of a Samuel Sherburne, which states that her brother Samuel married, 15 December 1668, Love Lucretia Brewster, who was born 3 May 1636, and died in child-bed, in 1674. The Love who was a Hutchins, died at Kingston, N. H., in 1739, aged 94.

2. Elizabeth[2] Sherburne (twin with Samuel), born 4 August 1638; married, 1st, 10 June 1656, Tobias Langdon, who died 27 July 1664 (by which marriage she had four children, one of whom, Tobias[3] Langdon, was grandfather of Gov. John[5] Langdon who married Elizabeth[5] (385) Sherburne, whom see for "Langdon"); 2d, 11 April 1667, Tobias Lear, and had Elizabeth[3] Lear, born 11 February 1669, another daughter[3], and Tobias[3] Lear (which Tobias[3] Lear was twice married, and

102. Mary[4] Sherburne.

103. John[4] Sherburne. [383]

104. Dorothy[4] Sherburne, born about 1711, as she was aged 49 when she died, at Exeter, N. H., 25 January 1761. She married, 1st, her cousin Christopher[4] (96) Rymes, who died 3 April 1741; 2d (as his second wife), Dr. Nathaniel Rogers (whose first wife was Olive Plaisted), son of Rev. Nathaniel and Sarah (Purkiss) Rogers, and brother of Elizabeth (first wife of Rev. John Taylor, of Milton, Mass.), and also brother of Daniel Rogers (who married Mehitable Rindge, mentioned in note to Mark Hunking[4] had by his first wife Hannah, Tobias[4] Lear, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Josiah Hall, and was grandfather to Tobias[6] Lear, H. C. 1783, Washington's private secretary); 3d, Richard Martyn, of Portsmouth, whose last wife was the widow of Samuel[2] (2) Wentworth and mother of Lieut.-Gov. John[3] (14). This Elizabeth[2] Sherburne was an ancestress of the author of this work, her daughter Oner[3] Langdon, marrying John Leighton, whose daughter Elizabeth[4] Leighton married Benjamin[3] (33) Wentworth, son of Ezekiel[2].

3. Mary[2] Sherburne, born 20 November 1640; married 21 October 1658, Richard Sloper, who was born November 1630. She died 22 September 1718.

4. Henry[2] Sherburne, born 11 January 1642, died at sea, 10 July 1659.

5. John[2] Sherburne born 3 April 1647, was of Portsmouth, mariner; married Mary Jackson, daughter of Thomas Jackson and Hannah, his wife (who was daughter of James Johnson). John[2] Sherburne had John[3] Sherburne, jr., Joseph[3] Sherburne, and a daughter who married Capt. Thomas Westbrook.

6. Ambrose[2] Sherburne, born 3 August 1649.

7. Sarah[2] Sherburne, born 10 January 1651.

8. Rebecca[2] Sherburne, born 21 April 1654, was deaf and dumb, and died 29 June 1696.

9. Ruth[2] Sherburne, born 5 June 1660; married, 1 June 1676, Aaron Moses.

By the Will of Ambrose Gibbons, dated at Oyster River (now Durham), N.H., 11 July 1656 (he dying the same day), proved 9 May 1657, Samuel[2] Sherburne was made sole heir, he paying a certain amount to his brothers and sisters, being all as just mentioned except Ruth[2] who was not then born. Savage, in Winthrop's Journal, says, "Ambrose Gibbons, trader, came with Neal in Bark Warwick, having written to Eyre, 8 April 1630, from Plymouth in old England; and from Piscataqua, New England, on the 21st of July, and 14th of August." He was the first settler of Newichawannock, Me. His wife and child came in 1631. In 1632, he was living at Sanders' Point, near Salmon Falls, N. H.; was member of the church in 1640. He afterwards lived at Oyster River, in Dover, N. H., and was a magistrate. It appears that he had but one child, Rebecca Gibbons, who married, as above, Henry Sherburne. Mrs. Gibbons died 14 May 1655. Ambrose Gibbons was an ancestor of the author of this work, by his daughter Rebecca, who married Henry Sherburne, whose daughter Elizabeth Sherburne married Tobias Langdon, whose daughter Oner Langdon married John Leighton, whose daughter Elizabeth Leighton married Benjamin[3] (33) Wentworth, son of Ezekiel[2] (5), and had John[4] (160).

(88) Wentworth) ; 3d, Rev. John Taylor,* of Milton, Mass. (whose first wife was Elizabeth Rogers (died in 1735), sister to Dr. Nathaniel Rogers, second husband to the said Dorothy[4] (104), as above). Rev. John Taylor died 26 January 1749–50, and Dorothy[4] married, 4th, Hon. Peter Gilman,† of Exeter, N. H., being his second wife, his first wife being Mary (Thing), widow of his cousin John Gilman (see "Thing" note to Thomas[3] (30) Wentworth, and "Gilman" note to Col. John[4] (160) Wentworth). Hon. Peter Gilman, surviving his wife Dorothy[4] (104), married, 3d, Jane (Bethune), widow of Dr. Moses Prince; she died 9 March 1795, her husband, Hon. Peter Gilman, having died 1 December, 1788, aged 84.

As each of the last three husbands of Dorothy[4] (104) had other wives, and as so many dates are wanting, it is difficult to tell who were her children ; but her brother Samuel[4] (101) Sherburne, in his Will made in 1765, speaks of her as his sister Dorothy[4] (104), wife of Hon. Peter Gilman, and as deceased, and gives property to her children Christopher[5] Rymes, Nathaniel[5] Rogers, and Dorothy[5] Taylor, and to her granddaughter Nancy[6] Barrell [perhaps daughter of Ann[5] Rymes, who may have married a Barrell]. This implies that she had no children by her last husband, Hon. Peter Gilman. Abigail Gilman, daughter of Hon. Peter Gilman (Dorothy's[4] last husband), who married, 1st, Rev. John Strong, and 2d, Rev. Woodbridge Odlin, has been asserted to be daughter of Dorothy[4] (104) ; but this Abigail Gilman married in 1750, whereas Rev. John Taylor, Dorothy's[4] (104) third husband, did not die until 1749–50, and the marriage of Abigail's father, Hon. Peter Gilman, to Dorothy[3] (104), was of course after that date.

* Rev. John Taylor, H. C. 1721, was ordained pastor of the church in Milton, Mass., 1728, and died 26 January 1749–50. He married, 1st, 9 April 1730, Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. Nathaniel Rogers, of Portsmouth, N. H.; she died in 1735. He married, 2d, as above, Dorothy[4] (104) (Sherburne) (Rymes), widow of his wife's brother Dr. Nathaniel Rogers. He had, by his first wife:

1. John Taylor, born 1731.
2. Ann Taylor, born 1732, married Hon. Nicholas Gilman, of Exeter, N. H., as see note to first wife of Col. John[4] 160 Wentworth.
3. Nathaniel Taylor, born 1734.
4. William Taylor, born 1735.

† Hon. Peter Gilman was son of John and Elizabeth (Coffin) Gilman, and born 6 February 1703–4. For him, and for children by his first or third wives, see "Gilman" note to Col. John[4] (160) Wentworth.

By her first marriage,—

1. Christopher[5] Rymes.
2. Ann[5] Rymes, probably married —— Barrell, and had:
   1. Nancy[6] Barrell.

By second marriage,—

3. Nathaniel[5] Rogers, who became Judge, and is perhaps the one who married Elizabeth[5] (364) (Wentworth) Gould.

By third marriage,—

4. Dorothy[5] Taylor.

105. Ann[4] Sherburne, married —— Langdon, and died childless.

CHILDREN OF JOHN[2] WENTWORTH.

JOHN[3] (19), son of John[2] and Martha Wentworth, born in or near 1676, lived in Stoughton, Mass., where his father John[2] (3) Wentworth had leased land of the Indians as early as 1704. John[3] was called "junior" in the records in 1716; after that date the "junior" is dropped.

In the Registry of Deeds, at Boston, Mass., page 86 of Book XL, we find that Amos Ahauton, Thomas Ahauton, Simon George, Hezekiah Squamoag, and George Hunter, all resident in Punkapaug, an Indian plantation in the town of Dorchester, Mass., for themselves, the native Indian proprietors, and other Indian proprietors, and other Indians who may be interested, deeded to John Wentworth, one of the Indian tenants or lessees of said Indian lands, 22 March 1725, certain lands then in his possession. The Indians had to petition the Legislature for permission to sell; and it appointed a committee to take charge of the selling. So the deed recites that the sale was done by the allowance of Nathaniel Byfield, Paul Dudley, Jonathan Remington, John Quincy, and Ebenezer Stone, being a committee appointed and empowered "by the great general court" at the session in Boston in 1724.

The above deed was to John[3]. Page 102 of Book XL shows that Charles[3] Wentworth was similarly situated, and got his title in the same way; and Book XLIX shows the name of Shubael[3] Wentworth.

There are similar deeds from the same Indians to many other persons called "English tenants," upon the Boston records.

John[3] married Elizabeth, daughter of Henry (and sister of Edward) Bailey.* They deeded land to Jonathan Woodward, 4 September

* There was a John Bailey, of Watertown, Mass., who died December 1697. Also, Thomas Bailey, of Watertown, who died 21 January 1690.

1708. She died 14 January 1761. He died, at Stoughton, 6 January 1772, aged 95. They had:

106. *Mary[4], born 15 August 1705; married, 1st, 22 June 1742, Nathaniel Adams; 2d, Benjamin Smith. See her brother Aaron[4].

107. John[4], born 8 November 1709. [385]

108. Mercy[4], born 8 May 1713; married, 24 October 1731, John Clark, of Stoughton.

109. Martha[4], born 23 March 1716; married, 22 January 1746, John Withington, jr., and had:

1. Elizabeth[5] Withington, married Samuel Capen.

110. Moses[4], born 4 April 1720. [389]

111. Aaron[4] (twin with Moses), born 4 April 1720. He married, 11 September 1766, Ruth Blackmer, and died 15 November 1784. His widow survived him, and married Benjamin Lyon, of Dorchester, Mass. He had no children. His estate was divided, 13 February 1786, between Ruth his widow, Benjamin Smith and Mary his wife (widow of Nathaniel Adams), Lemuel Stoddard, of Boston, and Mercy his wife (daughter of brother John[4]), Moses Wentworth (probably his brother), and Samuel Capen and Elizabeth his wife (daughter of Martha[4] Withington).

112. Ebenezer[4]. [394]

Henry Bayley, of Dorchester, Mass., deeds land to John[3] Wentworth, jr., of Dorchester, 20 July 1710; also 23 March 1716, and the "Junior" is used throughout the deed. Henry Bayley, weaver, of Dorchester, made his Will 3 September 1716, which was proved 25 November 1717. He gave to his son Edward half his lands at the Eastward, and to Elizabeth Wentworth half his lands at the Eastward. These lands were in Falmouth, Me., where he lived prior to 1690. He also gave lands to his cousin Henry "if he come out." Henry and wife Mary had given lands, 1 May 1716, to son Henry Bayley; and in case he has no heir, then the family of his father Henry, in England, to inherit.

Edward Bailey, of Dorchester, gives to John[3] Wentworth, 20 July 1719, all the land in Falmouth which his father Henry Bailey, late deceased, gave him by Will.

EDWARD[3] (20) son of John[2] and Martha Wentworth, born at Newbury, Mass., in 1693, lived in Stoughton, Mass. In 1749 he was called "innholder." He married, 1st, in 1717, Kezia, daughter of Deacon Benjamin Blackman, of Stoughton, who was son of John Blackman. She was baptized 18 June 1693, and died 16 October 1745, aged 55. CHARLES[3] (21), son of John[2] and Martha Wentworth, born in or about 1684. He lived in Canton, Mass., then a part of Stoughton, which was, until 1726, included in Dorchester. The house in which he lived is still standing, and is next door to that where his descendant Abel[6] (1157), (who died in 1863), of Canton, lived. Forty acres of land in the "West precinct of Dorchester" (now Canton), was deeded to Charles[3], 1 January 1710, for £9, lawful money, — bounded on one side by land which three persons hired

He died at Canton, Mass., 8 July 1780, aged 96. John Kenney, of Stoughton, was appointed administrator. His inventory was returned at £8,954 9*s.* 4½*d.* He once held slaves. In book LXXI, p. 17, Boston Registry of Deeds, is his autograph:

In his Will, dated 19 May 1780, he made bequests to the following persons, viz. to Amariah[4], oldest son, and his wife Sarah (probably a second wife), a double portion; to Jerusha, widow of son William[4], and their son John[5]; to son Samuel[4], land near Mount Hungar; to daughters, Rachel[4] Atherton, Bethiah[4] Gill, and Jerusha[4] Capen; to granddaughter Bethiah[5], daughter of Samuel[4] (she had "the old white-faced cow"); and to grandsons Samuel[5], jr., Nathaniel[5], Abel[5], and John[5], sons of Samuel[4].

Charles[3] married at Dorchester, 15 December 1713, Bethiah, daughter of John Fenno, of Stoughton. She died 29 April 1780, aged 89. (John Fenno was dead as early as 7 January 1745. have been the one who married his sister Abigail[3]). He purchased land of the Indians, as in book XLIX, Boston records, and in the same manner as his brother John[3] (19), whom see. He was clerk of the precinct of Stoughton. He married, 1st, 11 April 1717, Damaris Hawes,* who died at Stoughton, 7 December 1739. He married, 2d, 10 September 1741, Hannah Andrew,† Rev. Samuel Dunbar officiating (ordained at Stoughton, 15 November 1727), of whose church both he and his wife were members. He had no children by this wife. He died in 1759, and his inventory was taken 19 April of that year. His widow, 1 December 1759, willed her property to her only son and child, John Harris, of Dedham, who was baptized, in 1720, as son of John and Hannah. She sold, 31 March 1760, her right in her husband's estate to Philip Liscomb, whose wife was Miriam. Shubael[3] and Damaris (Hawes) Wentworth had:

128. David[4], born 13 January 1718. He was a blacksmith. * Inventory of Richard Hawes, deceased, was taken in Dorchester, Mass., 27 November 1656; he had Oliver Hawes and other sons and daughters.

John Bird, of Dorchester, Mass. (son of Thomas), married Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Williams, of Taunton, Mass., and had Damaris Bird, born 18 September 1675, who married —— Hawes.

† Jackson's History of Newton says: Isaac Wilson married Susanna Andrew, July 1685, and had Isaac, 14 May 1686, Samuel, Ebenezer, Susanna, Hannah, and Abigail. Hannah married John Harris, of Brookline, 8 December 1718. Next appears "John, son of John and Hannah Harris, baptized 1720." This John was born 14 October 1720.

It has been suggested that John Harris, sen., might have died soon after the birth of John Harris, jr., and that she might have married an Andrew who died leaving her a widow, who then married Shubael[3] Wentworth.

John Harris, who married Hannah Wilson, was born at Brookline, 9 April 1686, and was the seventh child of John, born in 1647, who was the oldest son of Robert Harris.

132. Sion[4], born 31 March 1725. [455]

133. James[4], born 13 April 1727. [463]

134. Bathsheba[4], married, 4 June 1752, Francis Moore, of Dorchester, Mass. She was a widow 1 May 1759, and of Stoughton, when she released her right in her father's property to her brother David[4].

135. Amy[4], born 26 February 1732; married Andrew Kennedy, of Milton, Mass. [471]

136. Lemuel[4], born 20 February 173–. He sold to Philip Liscomb, jr., one eleventh of his father's estate (save right of dower of his mother-in-law). Nothing else is known of him.

137. Benjamin[4], died at Stoughton, about 1760. He was a blacksmith.

The army records show that there was a Benjamin Wentworth in Gen. John Winslow's expedition, in the army of 1755, against Annapolis Royal, a blacksmith, native of Uxbridge, Mass., aged 21. He was a private in Capt. Nathaniel Perry's company, and his last residence was Norwich, Conn. This makes him born about 1734, and his birth in Uxbridge explains why there is no record of him on the Stoughton books.

138. Sylvanus[4], born 8 November 1737, died single.

CHILDREN OF GERSHOM[2] WENTWORTH.

JOHN[3] (26), son of Gershom[2] and Hannah (French) Wentworth, was of Rochester, N. H. His father gave him the 46th lot in that town, 8 January 1729. This is all that is found regarding him, until the following, given by Belknap in History of New Hampshire:—

> June 27, 1746. A party of Indians came down to Rochester, within twenty miles of Portsmouth. Five men were at work in a field, having their arms at hand. The Indians concealed themselves. One of them fired, with a view to induce the men to discharge their pieces, which they did. The enemy then rushed upon them before they could load again. They retreated to a small deserted house, and fastened the door. The Indians tore off the roof, and with their guns and tomahawks despatched Joseph Heard, Joseph Richards, John[3] (26) Wentworth, and Gershom Downs.

John[3] married Jane Richards. She was admitted to the church in Rochester, N. H., 25 February 1739. She survived him, and, some time prior to 21 December 1748, married Daniel Palmer. The family moved to Bristol, Me.; but it is said that Mrs. Palmer died in the family of her daughter Hannah[4], of Goffstown, N. H.

John[3] and Jane (Richards) Wentworth had:

139. Hannah[4], born in 1735; married Enoch Page, of Goffstown, N. H., and died there, childless, in 1812.

140. Abigail[4], born 15 August 1738; married William Kelsey. [480]

141. James[4], born 25 December 1741. [485]

142. Gershom[4], born 10 May 1744. [490]

Samuel[3] (27), son of Gershom[2] and Hannah (French) Wentworth, born 5 December 1699; married, 1st, Elizabeth French, of Salisbury, Mass., 9 December 1731. She was alive 4 December 1734, but died, with all three of her children, prior to 1737.

Samuel[3] Wentworth, at Hampton, N. H., married, 2d, 3 November 1737 (by Rev. John Tufts, of Hampton, N. H.), Sarah Williams, of Newbury, Mass. She survived him. This marriage was recorded in the Hampton town records. He was published as "of Somersworth."

He died in Somersworth, N. H. (then in Dover), on the place given him by his father. His inventory was returned, 19 September 1758, at £6,265 0*s.* 6*d.* Widow Sarah gave bonds as administratrix, 28 June 1758.

Samuel[3] had by his first wife three children:

143–'5, who all died before 1737.

Samuel[3] had by his second wife:

146. Joshua[4], born 30 November 1740. He was a soldier in the Old French War. He died, single, in 1805, aged 65 years. His Will was made 23 October 1805, proved 19 November 1805. He willed the homestead of his father and grandfather, on which he lived, to his brother Henry[4].

147. James[4], born 5 January 1744. [497]

148. Rebecca[4], born 20 September 1745, died single.

149. Henry[4], born 8 October 1747. [503]

Ezekiel[3] (28), son of Gershom[2] and Hannah (French) Wentworth, born 4 February 1702, in that part of Dover, N. H., afterwards incorporated as Somersworth. His wife's name was Elizabeth. Tradition has it that either he or his brother Moses[3] (29c) married Elizabeth Day. The warrant to appraise his property was made out 29 June 1757. He had fifty acres of land in Dover. His widow says, 20 July 1768, that her husband was Ezekiel[3],* son of Gershom[2], and that he left but one son, viz. Moses[4], who died without issue; and she conveys to Daniel Heard, jr.,† one half of the farm where she dwells; also, furniture, beds, etc. Daniel Heard, jr., was executor of her Will, 10 September 1777.

The following is a list of children baptized as "of Ezekiel," who doubtless were children of Ezekiel[3] (all of whom died without issue):

150. Neiobe[4], baptized 2 July 1732.

151. Moses[4], baptized 17 August 1735.

152. Moses[4], baptized 31 May 1741, who died single, 21 October 1760, in Capt. Gerrish's company at Crown Point. There is some confusion between him and his cousin Moses[4] (29*c*), son of Moses[3]. Moses[4] Ricker, son of Sarah[3] (29*a*) (Wentworth) Ricker, was at Crown Point at the same time.

153. Aaron[4], baptized in private, 21 February 1743.

CHILDREN OF EZEKIEL[2] WENTWORTH.

THOMAS[3] (30), son of Ezekiel[2] and Elizabeth Wentworth, appears for the first time in the deed of land at Salmon Falls, from his father and mother, 3 February 1708, in which he is called "mariner." He probably followed the sea to the end of his life, as his inventory, returned 31 August 1719, showed no property but real estate. The warrant to appraisers was issued 29 June 1719, and his widow Love, then wife of John Thing,‡ of Exeter, N. H., was

* There was an Ezekiel Wentworth in expedition against Louisburg, under Col. William Pepperrell, in 1745.

† A Daniel Heard, who married (probably 2d) Anne[4] (264) Wentworth, was son of John and Charity (Day) Heard. If the wife of Ezekiel[3] (28) above was Elizabeth Day, the Daniel Heard, jr., to whom she conveyed property, can easily be considered her nephew. See Jacob[4] (282) Wentworth.

‡ John Thing, who married Love, widow of Thomas[3] (30), as above, was son of Capt. Jonathan Thing. Capt. Jonathan Thing, early of Exeter, N. H., married, 1st, 26 July 1677, Mary, eldest daughter of Counsellor John Gilman; she was born 10 September 1658, and died August 1691. He married, 2d, Martha, daughter of John Denison, of Ipswich, Mass., and widow of Thomas Wiggin. Capt. Jonathan Thing died, by accident, 30 October 1694. He was riding in the woods with his gun, and in company with his brother Capt. Samuel Thing and Peter Folsom. Coroner Redfield held inquest the day following, and it was found that "Capt. Jonathan Thing was, on the 30th of this inst., October, shot to death by his own gun accidentally going off, and that no other reason was the cause of his death." By first wife he had:

administratrix. Of Love and John Thing, nothing has been found after 1720. When and where Thomas[3] married is unknown. When he died, he had land near Indigo Hill, a right in the Salmon Falls mill privilege, and in other places in or near what is now Rollinsford. There were eight acres of land laid out to his heirs, 20 March 1727, as compensation for a highway; also, 25 October 1732, eight acres to his heirs, near Salmon Falls, at the request of Paul[3], his brother.

Thomas[3] had one child:

gail, daughter of Edward and Abigail (Maverick) Gilman. He was dead in 1737; had seven children, of whom Mary Thing, the eldest, married Benjamin Gilman.

2. John Thing, born 16 June 1680; he married, 1st, Mehitabel Stevens; 2d, as above, Love, widow of Thomas[3] (30) Wentworth, by whom he had two children, Josiah Thing and Anne Thing. By his first wife he had four children; one of whom, Mary Thing, born 3 May 1702, married, 1st, 3 November 1720, John Gilman, son of Hon. Nicholas, and grandson of Counsellor John Gilman; he died childless, and she married, 2d, his cousin Hon. Peter Gilman, as mentioned in "Gilman" note to Col. John[4] (160) Wentworth, whom see.

3. Bartholomew Thing, born 25 February 1681–2; married, 1st, Abigail, daughter of Tristram and Deborah (Colcord) Coffin, born 30 May 1686, died May 1711, their two children dying in childhood; 2d, Sarah, daughter of Capt. Joseph Little (some say "widow Kent"), of Newbury, Mass., and died 28 April 1738. By the second wife he had Mary Thing, born 11 January 1712–13, who married, 22 October 1730, Rev. Nicholas Gilman (brother of the wife of Col. John[4] (160) Wentworth), survived him, and died 22 February 1789.

4. Joseph Thing, born March 1684; married Mary, daughter of Peter Folsom, and had six children.

5. Elizabeth Thing, married, 1st, Edward Stevens; 2d, Daniel Young; and had children by each marriage.

6. Benjamin Thing, married, 1st, Parnel, daughter of Tristram and Deborah (Colcord) Coffin, of Dover, N. H., sister to the wife of his brother Bartholomew Thing; and second, Deborah, daughter of Col. Winthrop Hilton, and widow of Samuel Thing (son of Samuel, as see below); and had children by each marriage.

7. Josiah Thing, died young.

By second wife:

8. Daniel Thing, born 12 May 1694; married Elizabeth, daughter of Nathaniel Clark, of Newbury, Mass.

Samuel Thing, son of Jonathan and Joanna Thing, of Exeter, N. H., and said to be brother of the above Capt. Jonathan Thing, married, 8 July 1696, Abigail, daughter of Counsellor John Gilman, and sister to the wife of Capt. Jonathan Thing; she was born 3 November 1674, and died 7 November 1725; he died in 1748. They had eleven children, among whom was Samuel Thing, born 28 March 1699, who married Deborah, daughter of Col. Winthrop Hilton, who, after his decease, married Benjamin Thing, as mentioned above; and Lydia Thing, born 14 February 1707–8, married Antipas Gilman, born 1705, son of Edward and grandson of Edward and Abigail (Maverick) Gilman.

The Gilman Genealogy mentions many intermarriages of the Thing and Gilman families.

(32) Will (3 February 1747–8), as all her Wentworth cousins were, the inference is that she was then dead.

Upon the Registry at Exeter, N. H., is found a deed from Elizabeth Wentworth, of Boston, dated 2 November 1730, conveying to Paul[3] (32) lands at Salmon Falls, Indigo Hill, etc., part of the identical estate of Ezekiel[2]. It was acknowledged, "York, s. s.," 3 November 1740, before Humphrey Chadbourne, and left at Exeter for record the same day. It was witnessed by Rev. James Pike and Elizabeth Pike, who lived but a short distance from Paul[3]. Paul[3] was a member of Mr. Pike's church. Humphrey Chadbourne* lived on the Berwick side of the river. The description of the land shows that this Elizabeth was the one who was daughter of Thomas[3] (30), son of Ezekiel[2], as it is the same land conveyed by Ezekiel[2] to Thomas[3].

Among the "publishments" at Exeter, N. H., is this: "October 2, 1725, John Leighton, of Kittery, and Elizabeth Wentworth, of Exeter, intend marriage." The same is on the Kittery (Me.) records. But no record of marriage appears, and the Kittery records give the marriage of John Leighton and Mary, daughter of John Hill, 29 December 1726.

There were married at Boston, 31 December 1730, Caleb Phillips† and Elizabeth Wentworth. Whether this Elizabeth was or

* He was son of Humphrey, and grandson of Humphrey Chadbourne who came over in 1636, and who purchased land of Sachem Knowles in 1643. Judge Benjamin Chadbourne, in 1796, aged 78, said in 1793 that he could remember when there was no house between his and Canada. Judge Benjamin Chadbourne was nephew of the (third) Humphrey Chadbourne mentioned above, being son of his brother William Chadbourne.

† PHILLIPS. — There was a Caleb Phillips, sen., in Bellingham, Mass., in 1731. In 1732 he was chosen Treasurer. There was a Caleb Phillips, jr., chosen constable in 1733–4; assessor in 1738; and selectman in 1742–3, and many years afterwards. Caleb Phillips, sen., died 24 December 1761, aged 91 years. His son Caleb Phillips, born in Roxbury, Mass., also moved to Bellingham, and on the 12 September 1733, married Susannah Hawes, of Dedham. (There was a Damaris Hawes, of Stoughton, Mass., married 11 April 1717, to Shubael[3] (22) Wentworth, son of John[2].)

Caleb Phillips, sen., of Roxbury, Mass., was a grantee of land in Bellingham, Mass., in 1727. He was son of Caleb and Elizabeth Phillips, and was born in Roxbury, Mass., 9 July 1682. He married Hannah, daughter of Nathaniel Gerry (or Gary), of Roxbury, Mass., 2 August 1703. She was born 4 July 1671. She died, his widow, 12 January 1762, aged 91; so it was not this Caleb, sen., who married this Elizabeth Wentworth.

Caleb and Hannah Phillips had: Hannah Phillips, born 5 July 1704; Caleb Phillips, born 5 October 1705 (no doubt the Caleb, jr., of Bellingham, Mass.); Joshua Phillips and John Phillips, born 10 July 1707, and died soon after; Elizabeth Phillips, born 1 February 1708.

was not the one who signed the conveyance of 1730, there is nothing to show, but it is extremely probable.

JOHN[3] (31), son of Ezekiel[2] and Elizabeth Wentworth, married (by Rev. John Pike) Martha, daughter of Richard and Grace Miller,* of Kittery, Me., 24 December 1703. This is the first heard of him. This wife is erroneously given by Savage, in his Genealogical Dictionary, to his uncle John[2]. He was a farmer and lumber dealer. He lived in that part of Dover known as "Sligo," down the Salmon Falls River from the village, and some miles below the present South Berwick bridge. He owned land at the Falls, and also a portion of the mill privilege. He was surveyor of highways, 1709, 1711, and 1714, and constable in 1715. He was alive 24 December 1717, but dead before 20 July 1718. His inventory was returned by Hatevil Roberts and James Warren, 15 June 1719. His widow Martha declining to administer, William Cotton was appointed administrator for property in both Maine and New Hampshire. His widow was alive as late as 3 January 1755, when she gave to her son Thomas[4] "part of the sawmill concern." She had been admitted to the church in Dover, 20 September 1719,

If it was this Caleb Phillips, jr., who married Elizabeth Wentworth, he must have married her and she died before he married Susannah Hawes in 1733. As she is not named in her uncle Paul's Will, this is not improbable. If it was not this Elizabeth[4] Wentworth, the question arises, what other Elizabeth Wentworth was there?

When Frances[5] (367), daughter of Samuel[4] (87) Wentworth and wife of Gov. John[5] (371), was christened in Boston in 1745, a Mrs. Phillips was one of the sureties.

* This is derived from the York co. (Me.) records, where it appears that Samuel Miller, with wife Mary, deed land, 19 October 1696, in Kittery, Me., which formerly belonged to his father Richard, to Joseph Hill, of Kittery, Me. He also deeds land in 1695, to his mother Grace, who married, 15 March 1695, Christopher Banfield, "carpenter," and widow of the late Richard Miller.

A deed dated 22 October 1696, speaks of Martha and Mary Miller. A release of John[3] (31) Wentworth and wife Martha, dated 8 January 1703-4, refers to the deed to Joseph Hill above, and says, "out of which land Martha Miller, daughter of Richard, and now wife of John[3] (31) Wentworth, of Dover, N. H., was to have her portion, for which said Hill gave bill for payment when said Martha became of age." The bill bears date 20 October 1696, and she was then of course under age. A similar release was given by Ephraim[2] (10) Wentworth, who married her sister Mary Miller, dated July 1699.

There was a Richard Miller living at Kittery, Me., 16 February 1671.

and afterwards dismissed to the Somersworth church (which is now extinct).

There is no way of arriving at the order of birth of the following five children, except the order of baptisms of four of them as recorded in the Dover (N. H.) church records, 5 July 1719, as children of Martha Wentworth, viz. Richard, Thomas, Ezekiel and Damaris.

He willed property to wife Mercy[4]; to children, Moses[5], Thomas[5], Charles[5], James[5], John[5], Elizabeth[5], Sarah[5] (Nason), Mercy[5], and Love[5] Butler. Widow Mercy[4] was alive in 1759.

159. Damaris[4], married —— Brock. She was living when her uncle Paul[3] (32) made his Will, 3 February 1747–8. After all possible researches, the writer has been unable to find her husband's first name.* Several Wentworths report that in olden time there

The names of the children of Damaris[4] Brock are learned from the manuscript record of "Master Tate,"* which is preserved in Rollinsford, N. H. It says (the author of this work inserts the generation figures):

Widow Damaris[4] Brock, who was Damaris Wentworth, had:

A William Brock, apparently the same William, had baptized in Dover: Sarah Brock and Martha Brock, 14 September 1777; Luke Wentworth Brock, 16 July 1780; William Brock, 18 May 1783; and John Brock, 20 February 1785. Elizabeth, wife of Isaac Mason, had been received to Dover church 8 October 1769.

A Simeon Brock witnessed a deed for Col. PAUL[3] (32), son of Ezekiel[2] and Elizabeth Wentworth, known as "Col. Paul," was born in 1678. He lived at Salmon Falls, N. H., and built the dwelling-house now occupied by the family of the late John B.[6] (1587) Wentworth, great-grandson of his brother Benjamin[3].

Eighty acres of land were laid out to him, 23 March 1702, at "Great Ash Swamp," between Salmon Falls and Cochecho; also fifteen acres west of Blackwater, in the northwest part of Dover, N. H.

Paul[3] purchased of John Wingate, 5 November 1702, sixty acres lying on Salmon Falls River, on the north side of Anthony's brook, marked R. E.

Timothy[2], of Berwick, Me., conveys 7 April 1705, to "my cozen Paulle[3] Wentworth," for £20, a dwelling-house and fourteen acres of land "near Salmon Falls in Dover," described thus:

beginning at aboute ffluety-seuen Rods westward distant from the Mill on the West side of said ffall, and from thence Runes alonge on the north side of Sallmon fall Roode till it comes to Joyne to Cap[n] John Tuttle's Land on the North, on the Este on a Parsell of Land in the Possession of Capt[t] John Tuttle, and Ezekiel[2] Wentworth, and on the South on Salmon falle Roode w[ch] said Parsell of Land is nere about forty-nine Rods and half in Length, and forty-eight Rods & halfe in bredth.

Ezekiel[2], his father, conveyed to him, 18 November 1709, one-sixteenth of the mill accommodation at Salmon Falls (excepting two acres of the land), as by Dover grant.

Many other purchases are alluded to in his Will, which is given below.

Paul[3] and his sister Elizabeth[3] (36) Brown quitclaimed, 9 December 1715, all their right in the estate of their father Ezekiel[2] to their brothers Benjamin[3] (33) and Gershom[3] (34), who should take care of their mother Elizabeth. This was not put on record until 9 March 1726, when their mother was probably dead.

Paul[3] married, as below, in Salisbury, Mass., and it would appear that he lived at Salisbury a while after his marriage, as the town records* say:

Paul Wentworth's ear-mark. A crop off the top of the right ear, and half a crop on the under side of the left ear.

But if he did live in Salisbury, it was but for a short time.

* If this mark did not belong to Paul[3] (33), it must have belonged to his uncle Paul[2] (6), who once lived in Rowley, Mass., and moved to Norwich, Conn.

Paul[3] was one of the wealthiest men of the time, and a leading man in both Church and State. He was a merchant and an extensive dealer in lumber, of which his mills at Salmon Falls sawed as much as those in any other portion of the country. The lumber was rafted down the river to Portsmouth, N. H., and thence shipped to all parts of the world.

Paul[3] was called "Ensign Paul," 1716 and 1717; "Captain Paul," 1727; and "Colonel Paul" for many years before his death.* He was one of the Selectmen of Dover fourteen years, between 1716 and 1740; one of its Representatives, 1732 to 1738; Moderator in 1733, and probably in other years (the records of some being lost).

He married (by Rev. Caleb Cushing†), 24 May 1704, Abra Brown,‡ of Salisbury, Mass. Among the admissions to the First Church in Dover, N. H., other than by immediate baptism, was that of Abra, wife of Paul[3], 30 March 1718. She was living 9 May 1740, but, as she is not mentioned in his Will, she doubtless died before him. They had no children.

Col. Paul[3] died 24 June 1748. The Boston Weekly News Letter, of Thursday, July 14, 1748, says: —

New Hampshire, June 24, 1748. This day, after a short fit of sickness, died Col. Paul Wentworth, of Somersworth, Esq.; in the 70th year of his age: who left a very handsome Inheritance, out of which he gave (as it is judged) near 1500 Pounds (old Tenor) for pious and charitable uses. That is to say, the Improvement of said Legacy, the Principal not to be diminished. A very laudable Example, worthy of Imitation.

1. Hannah Brown, born 3 April 1668; married, 30 September 1686, Thomas Evans.
2. Abigail Brown, born 1 February 1674–5; married, 30 May 1695, Isaac Merrill.

His Will, made 3 February 1747–8, and now preserved, is considered one of the most valuable relics of the early Dover and Somersworth Wentworth families. The Will was proved 29 June 1748, and is appended; but it is probable, from the want of uniformity in spelling, that the copyist has departed from the original in that respect in several instances:

In the name of God. Amen. The third day of February, one thousand seven hundred forty seven, eight, I, Paul Wentworth, of the Parish of Somersworth in the Province of New Hampshire, in New England, Esq., being much indisposed in body, but of perfect mind and memory (thanks be given unto God), and calling to mind the mortality of my body, and knowing that it is appointed for all men once to die, do make and ordain this my last will and testament: that is to say, principally and first of all, I give and commend my soul into the hands of God that gave it, and my body I recommend to the earth to be buried in a decent Christian burial at the discretion of my Executors nothing doubting but at the general resurrection I shall receive the same again by the mighty power of God. * Ruth Brown married William Carr.

† Doubtless referring to his wife. The tradition is that the silver tankard was destroyed when the house of Rev. Pearson Thurston at Somersworth was burned. The first meeting house in Somersworth (Rev. James Pike, minister) was erected in 1729 and taken down in 1773. The second was erected in 1772, and was struck by lightning and consumed 4 May 1779. The second minister was Rev. Pearson Thurston, born at Lancaster, Mass., December 1763, graduated D. C. 1787, ordained 1 February 1792, moved away 2 December 1812, and died at Leominster, Mass., 15 August 1819. His dwelling house at Somersworth was consumed by fire 22 January 1812, together with the church records, communion vessels, library, etc. The church had no settled pastor after he left, and gradually became extinct. In 1829 it had two members. The house was destroyed by fire (incendiary), 1 May 1848. It stood inside of the cemetery ground close to the junction of the Great Falls branch and main line of the Boston and Maine Railroad. This last house was erected in 1780, and was built upon the same spot where the second one was destroyed. The first house stood somewhere in the cemetery, but not on the same precise spot where the second one did, as that was erected before the old one was torn down.

BENJAMIN[3] ‡ (33), son of Ezekiel[2] and Elizabeth Wentworth, lived in Dover, N. H. The only guide to the date of his birth is in the fact that his uncle Benjamin[2] had, in 1713, the affix of "senior," which he did not have in 1711; the implication that Benjamin[3] had now come of age would make him born about 1691. In 1716, Benjamin[3] was chosen constable, as "junior," and paid his fine of £5 in preference to serving. He was "sargeant" in 1717, and "captain" when he died. He was baptized and received to the church, 25 November 1722. He was one of the Committee of the Proprietors of the town of Rochester (next north of Dover line), in 1722. He was one of the Selectmen in 1724, and the

See note to descendants of Mary (163), daughter of Benjamin[3] (33), who was son of Ezekiel[2]. Rev. James Pike, born at Newbury, Mass., 1 March 1703, graduated H. C. 1725, was ordained as first pastor of the church at Somersworth (now Rollinsford) 28 October 1730; died 19 March 1792, and was succeeded by Rev. Pearson Thurston. He must not be confounded with Rev. John Pike, of Dover, N. H., ordained 1681. Rev. James Pike was grandson of Joseph Pike (Representative and Deputy Sheriff), who was killed by the Indians in 1694. same year was elected Representative. The Journal of the House, 10 June 1724, says, "Capt. Benjamin Wentworth, sworn and admitted"; the Sheriff having returned him as "chosen a proper person to serve in Assembly for town of Dover, in room of Capt. Timothy Gerrish, who is removed out of the Province."

He was living 18 September 1724.

The Legislature was prorogued 8 January 1725, to 11 April 1725. The Journal says: —

TUESDAY, 14th April 1725-6.

Whereas Capt. Benjamin Wentworth, late one of the Representatives of the town of Dover, is lately deceased, ordered that the Speaker issue his warrant.

Col. Paul Gerrish succeeded him.

This is as near the date of his death as can be ascertained.

Benjamin[3] dealt much in land about Salmon Falls, and considerably with his brother Paul[3]. His inventory was returned 12 January 1729, at £1,953.

The home of Capt. Benjamin[3] was on the New Hampshire side of Quamphegan, adjoining the river, in the present town of Rollinsford, and was apparently not two miles below the Salmon Falls, and near the bridge on the turnpike from Dover to South Berwick. It was near, if not embracing, the land of the late James[6] (1559) Rollins. His widow lived there 26 January 1733, as appears by affidavits of various parties, bearing that date, regarding the subsequent title, recorded at Exeter, N. H., including Thomas Butler, "aged 59 years," Martha Lord, jr., "of full age," John Cooper, "aged 67 years," Thomas Holmes, "aged 63 years," Richard Tozer, "aged 73 years," John Plaisted, "aged 74 years," Elizabeth Emery, "aged 76 years," Mary Warren, "aged 67 years," and Elizabeth Tozer, "of full age."

These affidavits state that Capt. Benjamin[3] built a barn, but that the house in which the widow lived was built long before he purchased the farm. It appeared that he bought it of —— McPhedris, who bought of Joseph Abbot. Abbot lived on it twenty years, having had it of his father, Capt. Thomas Abbot, who lived on it about thirty-three years. Capt. Abbot had it of John Lovering, who inherited it from his father John Lovering, who moved from Ipswich, Mass., and was drowned in 1668 or a little earlier.

Capt. Benjamin[3] married, 23 September 1717, Elizabeth, daughter of John Leighton,* of Kittery, Me. She was born 30 May 1691; admitted to the Dover church "other than by immediate baptism," 22 January 1729, while a widow. By the Will of her father, Capt. John Leighton, made 7 November 1724, she received £100. Her autograph, signed in 1726 to her bond as administratrix, is as follows:

The time of her death, which took place at the house of her youngest child, Mary[4], wife of Ebenezer Wallingford, is approximated by the record from the family Bible of her son, Col. John[4] Wentworth: "My mother died last week in October 1779." This makes her eighty-eight years of age, and to have survived her husband more than half a century.

Frost (see note on Frost family at John[5] (531) Wentworth, son of John[4] and grandson of Capt. Benjamin[3] (33) Wentworth), about the year 1655; she was born at Kittery, Me., 1632. One of those traditions is, that three brothers emigrated from England prior to 1650; that one settled at Dover, N. H. (if so, Thomas Leighton ("Layton" on the Dover records), an early settler in Dover); one in Massachusetts; and one (William Leighton, who was a seafaring man and shipmaster) in that part of Kittery now called Eliot. Another tradition is, that he was taken from a wreck at sea and carried into Kittery. Folsom's History of Saco and Biddeford encourages the idea that he was a branch of the family of a Leighton who, at a very early period, was a resident of Saco, Me. He had a son, John Leighton, who was born, probably, as early as 1640. William Leighton, who went to Kittery, now Eliot, may have been another son of his, or he may have been a younger brother of the first John Leighton, in Saco, Me. At any rate, he was a seafaring man and shipmaster. He settled first at Kittery (at Fore-side, as it is now called), at a place called "Crooked Lane," where he received from the town of Kittery, in 1659, a grant of thirteen acres of land. Very soon after, he removed to Watts, now Leighton Fort, in Eliot, then Kittery, and died there in September 1666. After her husband's decease, Mrs. Leighton married Major Joseph Hammond, of Kittery, by whom she had one child, viz. Col. Joseph Hammond, the common ancestor of all by the name of Hammond, in that and some other places. She died 15 August 1715, aged 82. Her children by William[1] Leighton were as follows:

1. Mary[2] Leighton, born about 1657; married John Hunking, of Boston.
2. William[2] Leighton, born about 1659, died young.
3. John[2] Leighton, born May 1661.
4. Elizabeth[2] Leighton, born about 1664, and probably died young.

John[2] Leighton, son of William[1] and Catherine (Frost) Leighton, born 1661, married, 13 June 1686, Oner, daughter of Tobias and Elizabeth (Sherburne) Langdon. (York co., Maine, records say John Leighton of Kittery, Maine, to Honor Langdon of Portsmouth, N. H. For her family, see Dorothy[3] (17) under Samuel[2] Wentworth.) About 1690, this John[2] Leighton built a house near his father, in Eliot (then Kittery), which was taken down within a few years past. He was frequently employed in the town and parish affairs. He owned a large property, and was one of the prominent men of the place. He was for several years Sheriff of the County of York, Me. (then embracing the whole State), from and after 1717. (See N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, April 1851.)

John[2] Leighton died in Eliot, 10 November 1724, aged 63, and his widow died in Eliot, 21 November 1737, in her 75th year. Their children were:

1. Elizabeth[3] Leighton, married the above Captain Benjamin[3] (33) Wentworth.

2. Mary[3] Leighton, born 7 May 1693; married Col. Paul Gerrish, of Dover, N. H., who was chosen Representative to succeed his brother-in-law, the above Captain Benjamin[3] Wentworth, after his death, and was annually elected, with but few exceptions, until 1740. He was town clerk from 1727 until his death. He died 6 June 1743. This Col. Paul Gerrish was brother of Capt. Timothy Gerrish, who succeeded Ezekiel[2] (5) Wentworth in the Legislature, and who was succeeded by Capt. Benjamin[3] (33), son of Ezekiel[2] (5). The House Journal of 10 June 1724 shows Capt. Benjamin[3] (33) Wentworth chosen in place of Capt. Timothy Gerrish "removed out of the Province." Among the seven children of Col. Paul and Mary[3] (Leighton) Gerrish was Mary[4] Gerrish, born 15 August 1719, who married Dr. Moses Carr, the father of Col. James Carr, of Somersworth (who married Capt. Benjamin[3] (33) Wentworth's granddaughter, Susannah[5], daughter of Col. John[4] (160) Wentworth).

3. William[3] Leighton, born 9 September 1696; married, November 1720, Sarah, daughter of John Hill, of Berwick, Me.

4. John[3] Leighton, born 27 May 1699; married Mary Hill, another daughter of John Hill, of Berwick, 19 December 1726. She died 26 April 1763, in her 69th year. (See family of Thomas[3] (30) Wentworth, son of Ezekiel[2] (5), for a former publishment of this John Leighton to Elizabeth[4] (154) Wentworth). John Hill was Major, Judge, and Counsellor; and he married the widow of Rev. John Blunt, of New Castle, N. H., who was Sarah (born 1 February 1713), daughter of Major Charles Frost, of Kittery.

5. Tobias[3] Leighton, born 17 November 1701; married, 1st, Grace Staples, of Kittery, 15 November 1727; she died, after having four children by him, 7 November 1736, aged 27 years. He married, 2d, 20 January 1738, Sarah, daughter of James and Sarah Chadbourne, and had by her two children. He died in middle age and left one son, who was born 31 August 1742, and lived to old age, and on a farm since owned by the Field family in Eliot. In his last years, he lived at Waterborough, Me.

6. Samuel[3] Leighton, born 22 November 1707, was killed by the fall of a tree, 24 December 1735.

house" (which was burned in 1848), in the house lately occupied by Samuel Paul. He must have been among the youngest of the children of Ezekiel[2], and outlived all his brothers and sisters. He was named for his uncle Gershom[2] (3), and, like him, was a deacon. He was admitted to the church in Dover, 9 August 1730, with Sarah, his wife. His Will was dated 2 August 1758, and proved 27 June 1759. The following is a copy of the signature:

This Will gives us the only trace to his family. He bequeathed property to his wife Sarah, to sons Gershom[4] (164) and Benjamin[4] (165), and to Sarah[5] Baker, child of deceased daughter Lydia[4] (166).

Tradition says that his wife Sarah was a Twombly. The only references bearing on this tradition are these: Gershom[3], 15 February 1753, gives to Samuel Twombly lands in Rochester, N. H., in consideration of love and good-will. Was this Samuel a nephew of his wife? Benjamin[4] (165) and Gershom[4] (164), sons of Gershom[3] (34), deed land in 1762 to Samuel Twombly, jr.,* of Rochester. Benjamin[4] (165) deeds to Samuel Twombly, jr., 27 October 1765; Twombly to Benjamin[4] (165) in 1763.

There was a John Twombly, son of Ralph (the emigrant) and Elizabeth Twombly, who married, 1st, 18 April 1687, Mary Kenney; and 2d, 3 October 1692, Rachel Allen. His Will was made 18 July 1724, proved 2 August following. He left wife and several children, among whom was Sarah Twombly (probably who married Gershom[3] (34) Wentworth), and Samuel Twombly, born 10 March 1699, who married, 26 September 1723, Judith, daughter of Tobias and Ann (Lord) Hanson, and had son Samuel Twombly, born 18 March 1726. Samuel Twombly, sen., died in September 1769. It seems proper to take it for granted that Sarah, wife of Gershom[3] (34) Wentworth, was Sarah, daughter of John Twombly, of Dover. See "Twombly" note to Sarah[4] (316) Wentworth.

* There was a Samuel Twombly, jr., who died 12 March 1794, and whose wife was Sarah[4] (316), born 6 February 1729, daughter of Ebenezer[3] (68), and granddaughter of Benjamin[2] (11) Wentworth. Various indications make it quite certain that this Samuel, jr., was the Samuel Twombly, jr., above, and son of Samuel and Judith (Hanson) Twombly. See "Twombly" note to Sarah[4] (316) Wentworth. Tobias[5] (857) Twombly, son of this Samuel Twombly, jr., married Lois[5] (562) Wentworth, daughter of Benjamin[4] (165).

164. Gershom.[4] [552]

165. Benjamin.[4] [558]

166. Lydia[4], married Otis Baker. [564]

TAMSEN[3] (35), daughter of Ezekiel[2] and Elizabeth Wentworth, born in 1687, is not heard of prior to being the wife (married by Rev. John Pike, 29 December 1704) of James Chesley, son of Philip Chesley, and grandson of Philip Chesley.* James was killed by the Indians, 17 September 1707. She married, 2d, John Hayes, a deacon of the First Church in Dover. He was son of John Hayes, the emigrant, who came from Scotland about 1680, settled at Dover (N. H.) Corner, and married Mary Horne. His family is given in the N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Register, October

* CHESLEY. — Philip[1] Chesley, emigrant, was early of Dover Neck, where he had a house lot which he sold to Thomas Leighton; and in 1644 in Oyster River part of the town, where, in later days, on the north shore of Great Bay, his sons had a garrison house. "Five Chesleys, near Jones' garrison, were shot" in the Oyster River massacre of 1694. He had first wife, Elizabeth (living in 1661); 2d, Joanna, living in 1685. He was "freeman" in 1665. He conveyed the bulk of his property, by deed, 28 April 1661, to his wife and children. He had children:

1. Thomas[2] Chesley, born about 1642; married, 12 August 1663, Elizabeth Thomas; was Selectman 1688 and 1695, and was killed by the Indians, 15 November 1697. Pike says, "Thomas Chesley, sen: slain by y^e^ Indians not far from Johnsons Creek. Will Jackson taken at the same time, & at same time made his escape." He had:

   1. John[3] Chesley, had wife Hannah; received land from sister Susannah[3] in 1718.

   2. Thomas[3] Chesley, born 4 June 1664, was dead in 1708 (believed to be killed by the Indians), leaving son Samuel[4] Chesley, born in 1691.

   3. George[3] Chesley, had a mill at Oyster River second falls, and appears to be dead in 1711, leaving widow Deliverance.

   4. Joseph[3] Chesley, lived on the homestead, at Lubberland, north shore of Great Bay, Durham, N. H., had wife Sarah and was dead in 1731, leaving Thomas[4] Chesley, Joseph[4] Chesley (who inherited the estate at Lubberland), and James[4] Chesley. ("Sarah Chesley (formerly Huggins), wife of James Chesley of Oyster River," died 14 October 1705. — Pike.)

   5. Elizabeth[3] Chesley, married a Davis, probably Joseph Davis.

   6. Sarah[3] Chesley.

   7. Susannah[3] Chesley, married, 17 June 1694, Capt. John Smith, of Lubberland, who successfully defended his garrison in the attack of that year; and had eight children.

   8. Mary[3] Chesley.

2. Philip[2] Chesley, born about 1644; had wife Sarah; lived at Oyster River; made Will 18 December 1695. He had:

   1. Samuel[3] Chesley, lived at Oyster River, was captain. He was in command of a company at Port Royal, 1707, and did (with Major Shadrach Walton) one of the few brave things in that expedition. (See Farmer's Bel-

1852. Deacon John Hayes lived in Dover, at what is known as "Tole-End," a farming locality, a few miles up the Cochecho River from the falls, on its west side. Tamsen[3] died 30 December 1753, aged 66. He married, 2d, Mary (Roberts), widow of Samuel Wingate, and died 3 July 1759; his tombstone is standing in Pine Hill burial-ground.

Tamsen[3] had by her first marriage:

167. James[4] Chesley, born 18 May 1706. [566]

Tamsen[3] had, by her second marriage:

168. John[4] Hayes, born 9 October 1711, lived in Barrington, N. H. He died single, 7 May 1776, and by Will dated 3 May 1776, gave his property to his brothers and sisters and their children.

knap, p. 174.) He was killed by the Indians 17 September 1707. Pike's Journal says, "Capt. Samuel Chesley — his bro: James Chesley, & six more stout young men were slain by the Indians as they were Cutting and halling timber, not far from Capt. Chesley's house. The Indian y^t^ kill^d^ James Chesley was slain upon y^e^ spot by Rob: Thomson. Philip Chesley and 3 more escaped." Belknap says, "A party of French Mohawks, painted red, attacked, with a hideous yell, a company who were in the woods, some hewing timber, and others driving a team, under the direction of Capt. Chesley, who was just returned the second time from Port Royal. At the first fire, they killed seven and mortally wounded another. Chesley with the few who were left fired on the enemy with great vigor, and for some time checked their ardor, but being overpowered he at length fell. He was much lamented, being a brave officer. Three of the scalps taken at this time were soon after recovered at Berwick, Me." Samuel[3] Chesley left widow Elizabeth, who married, 2d, Amos Pinkham (whose first wife, Katherine, died 22 May 1709).

2. James[3] Chesley, who married, as above, Tamsen[3] (35) Wentworth, and was killed by the Indians 17 September 1707, with his brother Samuel[3].

3. Philip[3] Chesley was lieutenant. A grant to his grandfather Philip[1] Chesley, "near y^e^ Indian Graves" in Durham, N. H., was bounded to him in 1715.

4. Ebenezer[3] Chesley.

5. Hannah[3] Chesley, married —— Ash, probably Thomas Ash (the only one mentioned in Dover records), who had a grant in 1693–4.

3. Esther[2], doubtless child of the second wife, married, 9 August 1705, John Hall, son of John Hall, and grandson of Deacon John Hall, of Dover, and had children. Her grandson, William Hall, married Lydia[4] (314), daughter of Benjamin[3] (67) Wentworth, of Somersworth, N. H., and her granddaughter, Ruth Hall, married Bartholomew[4] (310) Wentworth. Her great-granddaughter, Joanna Hall, married her great-grandson, John Hall[5] (842) Wentworth. See "Hall" note under Bartholomew[4] (310) Wentworth.

4. Mary[2] Chesley married, 26 May 1701 (second wife), Ralph Hall, son of Deacon John Hall, of Dover, and had children. Deacon John Hall was probably brother to Ralph Hall of the Exeter Combination of 1639.

CHILDREN OF PAUL[2] WENTWORTH.

WILLIAM[3] (37), son of Paul[2] and Catherine Wentworth, born 25 December 1680. The most certain knowledge of him is in the bequest by his sister Martha[3] Lord, of "one bed, bedstead, and bedding," which after his death was to go to Ebenezer Lord. From the terms of this bequest, it seems clear that William[3] did not go to Connecticut with his father, but was living in Berwick. At the time of the bequest, he was eighty-four years of age.

The York (Me.) County records say, —

> Joseph Gunnison, tried at Kittery Court for killing Grace, the wife of William Wentworth, on 27th day of September 1707, and was acquitted.

Pike's Journal, 16 September 1707, says, —

> A poor woman was inadvertently slain near Elihu Gullisons† workhouse at Kittery-point (by Joseph Gullison) as [she] Came up from the River side in the night — her name was Wentworth.

Nicholas Tucker, cooper, of Kittery, Me., who had wife Jane, wills property, 21 January 1716–17, to his sons William Tucker and Joseph Tucker, to daughter Margaret Tucker, and to grandson William Wentworth, five shillings in full of his mother's portion, who, of course, must have been dead at the time. The Will was proved 2 April 1716–17. No other Wentworth but William[3] appears who could have married a Tucker and had a son William, whose mother was dead before 1717, unless it was her brother Sylvanus[3] (38), whom see. William[3] was about twenty-seven years old when his wife was killed. That she left an infant is not against probability: if so, he must have died young, or at least single, as he is not heard of afterwards, unless he was William[4] (185), son of Sylvanus[3] (38) Wentworth.

There was a William Wentworth who died at Lisbon, Conn. (which was originally a part of Norwich, where Paul[2] (6) settled), 25 December 1792, and, according to Lisbon (town) records, 84 years of age; but it is asserted by his descendants that he was son of Sylvanus[3] (38), who was twice married, and whose first wife may have been a Tucker.

Sylvanus[3] (38), son of Paul[2] and Catherine Wentworth, born 28 February 1681. He was on the jury list in York co., Me., yearly, from 1717 to 1721; was sealer of leather at Berwick, Me., 1713 to 1723. He sold land in Berwick, Me., 12 June 1723, and this is the last found regarding him until he recorded ear-marks for his cattle, in 1727, at Norwich, Conn. He was appointed administrator of his brother Edward's[3] estate, 23 November 1727. He bought, 5 February 1727–8, land of his brother Aaron[3], — twenty acres on the east side of Chetucket River, and westward from the house that belonged to David Francis. He lived, in 1746, on the road to Stonington, on the east side of the Chetucket. John Williams released, 31 May 1729, to Sylvanus[3], his interest in lands of the late Edward[3]. He was appointed tithingman of the East Society, 19 December 1732; surveyor of highways, 8 December 1735. He received of his father Paul[2], 13 December 1743, six acres of land on the east side of the Chetucket. He deeded, 31 January 1750, all his interest in the land that Paul[2] formerly gave his son Edward[3], both deceased, to Sherebiah Tracy, who married the only child of Edward[3]. He deeded land, 29 December 1750, to his son Samuel[4]. The last we have of him is a deed dated 4 May 1762; he was then over 80 years old.

There is no record found of a wife before his marriage in Rowley, in 1723. But he must have had one in Berwick, Me., or Kittery, Me., the mother of William[4] (185), and of Samuel[4] (186), to the latter of whom he conveyed property in 1750, and who married in 1736. And if Samuel[4] was but twenty-one years of age when married, he would have been born in 1715, but he was probably born earlier. Thus he, as well as William[4] (185), would have been born before the Will of Nicholas Tucker given under William[3] (37). Had he been living at the time of that Will, he would probably have been remembered as well as William[4] (185), who married in 1731, aged 23. Thus, whether the murdered wife of William[3] (37) or the first wife of Sylvanus[3] (38) was a Tucker we have no means of knowing. Joseph Fuller[6] (1690) Wentworth, born 24 November 1792, says that his father Sylvanus[5] (581), born in 1746, died at his house in 1832, and that he has heard him (Sylvanus[5]) say that his grandfather was Sylvanus[3] (38). This Sylvanus[3] was living as late as 1762, at which time Sylvanus[5] would have been sixteen years of age. This information was communicated by Joseph Melvin[7] (3744) Wentworth, nephew of Joseph Fuller[6] (1690), and son of Sylvanus[6] (1686). Sylvanus[5] (581) lived with his grandfather Sylvanus[3], and was with him when he died. Sylvanus[3] was taken with a fit, in the woods, was carried to the house and never recovered. None of his descendants ever heard the suggestion that William[4] (185) was not his son. Sylvanus[3] married, in Rowley, 3 April 1723, Eleanor Davis, of that place. The last we hear of her is in a deed dated 25 October 1754. She survived her husband.

Sylvanus[3] had by first wife:

185. William[4], born 1708. [571]

186. Samuel[4]. [585]

Sylvanus[3] had by his second wife:

187. Sylvanus[4], born (as by Norwich records) 9 May 1724; but nothing further is known of him.

Paul[3] (39), son of Paul[2] and Catherine Wentworth, born 10 May 1682. The Kittery (Me.) church records say, 1 May 1715, "Paul Wentworth owned the covenant." The town of Kittery granted, 30 April 1717, to Paul[3] Wentworth, eight rods square of land on the east side of the highway, against his house, if it be there to be had, to be laid out by Deacon Christopher Huntington. In a deed from Mary Price, of Kittery, Me., 14 September 1717, he was called "Paul Wentworth, ferryman, of Kittery." He received license to keep a house of public entertainment, annually, from 1719 to 1736. In 1720 a license was granted to Stephen Eastwick, of Kittery, to keep a public house where Paul[3] Wentworth now does, and which said Eastwick owns, if said Wentworth remove therefrom. Paul[3] was called "innholder" in a deed in 1734. He was fence-viewer, 23 March 1723–4; in 1728 he was deputy sheriff; in 1731, 1734, and 1736, was juryman. His father Paul[2], of Norwich, Conn., deeds to son Paul[3], of Kittery, Me., all his lands in Dover, N. H., 3 November 1730. Paul[3] and Rebecca deed land in Kittery, 7 July 1736, to Richard Rice; after this date nothing is known of him. Probably they moved away, but no traces of them have yet been found.

Paul[3] married, 1st, Jane ——, of whom nothing can be discovered, except that she had four children. He married, 2d, 16 December 1724, widow Rebecca (Pickering) Jacques, of Newington, N. H. She had been married, 1st, by Rev. John Pike, of Dover, 28 June 1706, to Henry Jacques. The Portsmouth church records say, "January 6, 1716–17. Rebecca Jacques received the covenant of baptism, and her children Paul and Sarah were baptized." Paul[3] had, by his first wife:

188. Jane[4], born 19 November 1715; baptized 1 April 1716; intentions of marriage to Isaac Chatman were published at Kittery, Me., 15 August 1741. Isaac and wife Jane[4] owned the baptismal covenant, at Kittery church, 6 June 1742. An Isaac Chatman (perhaps this Isaac, perhaps a son) was published to Mary Grace, 5 November 1763.

MARTHA[3] (41), daughter of Paul[2] and Catherine Wentworth, born 9 February 1684; married at Kittery, Me., 19 October 1710 (by Rev. Jeremiah Wise), Capt. Samuel Lord. He was born 14 June 1689, and was son of Nathan Lord, who married, 22 November 1678, Martha, daughter of Richard (sen.) and Judith (Smith) Tozer. He was admitted to Berwick (Me.) church 14 May 1721, and his wife 2 February 1734–5. Samuel Lord made his Will 23 February 1761. He was dead before 7 September 1764, when his widow made her Will. He willed property to sons John[4], Nathan[4], Abraham[4], Samuel[4], and Ebenezer[4], and to daughter Mary[4] Grant. He willed to wife Martha[3] his dwelling-house in Quamphegan; to son Abraham[4] the farm which was formerly his uncle Tozer's, at Salmon Falls, meaning his (Samuel's) mother's brother Richard Tozer, jr., and also meaning the farm where Richard, jr., built the garrison-house which remained until October 1855 in South Berwick, Me., near Salmon Falls. (See the account of Elder William[1] Wentworth's daughter Elizabeth[2] (5*a*) for "Lord" and "Tozer.") Widow Martha[3] made her Will 7 September 1764, which was proved October 1766. She willed property to the sons and daughter above mentioned, and to granddaughter Martha[5] (Lord), who married Nahum Marshall. She willed to the second parish in Berwick a pewter flagon, and to

"my beloved brother William (37) Wentworth one bed, bedstead, and bedding for his sole use and improvement during his natural life, and at his decease, I give and bequeath the said bed and bedding to Ebenezer Lord and heirs forever."

This implies that William[3] (37), whom see, did not go to Connecticut with his father.

Samuel and Martha[3] (Wentworth) Lord had children as mentioned in Wills:

199. John[4] Lord; had wife Bridget, and (besides two who died in infancy):

TIMOTHY[3] (51), son of Timothy[2] and Sarah (Cromwell) Wentworth, married Elizabeth Hodgdon. He died about 1735, his inventory being taken 16 July 1735. His widow Elizabeth married John Pierce; and John Pierce and wife Elizabeth, late widow of Timothy[3] Wentworth, in June 1739, petitioned Court for leave to sell some of the real estate, as the personal property was not sufficient to pay the debts of her late husband Timothy[3] Wentworth. Among the bills against his estate at its settlement, 18 July 1738, were the following: "Maintainance of two of the children of deceased 21 months until they died, at £7 per year." "Maintainance of one child 3 years and 7 months, at £5 per year." Taking the three years and seven months from the date of settlement would give January 1735, as the time of his death. They had:

243. Child[4], died 1737.

244. Child[4], died 1737.

What children survived their father is shown by the record that William[4] Wentworth and wife Hannah, of Somersworth; Reuben[4] Wentworth and wife Eleanor, of Rochester; Ephraim[4] Wentworth and wife Phebe, of Rochester, — deeded, 6 March 1778, their right in their father's estate to their brother Spencer[4]. JOSEPH[3] (70), son of Benjamin[2] and Sarah (Allen) Wentworth, born 22 December 1709; was called, in deeds, sometimes "yeoman," sometimes "husbandman." He was owner of the highlands now known as "Prospect Hill," at Great Falls, N. H., and old records indicate that he owned the land on which is now part of the village of Great Falls.* He died 26 January 1765. He had wife Rachel, who had dower set off 18 May 1769, land on southerly side of road "leading to the Great Falls, by Benjamin[4] (309) Wentworth's land," and one-third of the mill privilege. She died in Somersworth, 1 May 1774; it has been impossible to find her maiden name. They had:

* From York co. (Me.) records, page 296, vol. XXVI, Thomas Butler, of Berwick, deeds to Joseph Wentworth, of Somersworth parish, Dover, N. H., yeoman, seven and one half acres of land granted to Thomas Abbot, jr., by the town of Kittery, 24 May 1699. [The whole grant to Abbot was fifty acres].

† DORE. — Savage, in his Genealogical Dictionary, does not mention the name of Dore. Richard Dore was of Portsmouth, N. H., as early as 1675, and his Will was proven 17 March 1715–16. He mentions wife Tamsen, and "children" but gives no names. Among them was probably, Philip[2] Dore, who lived there in 1714, and in Newington, N. H., in 1717; having wife Sarah, who "owned the covenant," and had children, Henry[3] Dore, Elizabeth[3] Dore, and Frances[3] Dore, baptized 6 August 1727; also, Philip[3] Dore, baptized 11 March 1728, and John[3] Dore (above), 5 July 1730. Of these:

Henry[3] Dore had wife Mary, and removed from Rochester, N. H., to Lebanon, Maine.

FOURTH GENERATION.

GRANDCHILDREN OF SAMUEL[2] WENTWORTH.

BENNING[4] (80), son of Lieut.-Gov. John[3] and Sarah (Hunking) Wentworth, was born 24 July 1696; graduated at Harvard College 1715. He was one of the leading merchants of Portsmouth for several years, and his business avocations required him to make frequent visits to England and to Spain, where his acquaintance was extensive. He frequently represented Portsmouth in the Assembly, and was promoted to the Council 12 October 1734, at the same time with his brother-in-law, Hon. Theodore Atkinson. In 1741 New Hampshire was allowed a Governor, having hitherto only a Lieutenant-Governor. Benning[4] Wentworth was appointed, and entered upon the duties of the office 13 December of that year. He continued in the position until 1767, when, under the infirmities of age, he resigned in favor of his nephew, John[5] (371) Wentworth, son of his brother Mark Hunking[4] Wentworth.

The history of his administration is a history of the State for the period, and Belknap's History affords full information to all who feel an interest in it. His service of twenty-five years was longer than any other Governor in America ever held a commission. While in office he presented to Dartmouth College five hundred acres of land, on which the college buildings are erected.

It was objected to him that too many of the important offices were in the hands of his family; and a scrap to the following effect, headed "Family Government," found among Secretary Richard Waldron's papers, shows upon what ground the objection was founded:—

* Ellis Huske resided at Portsmouth, N. H. He was Counsellor from 1733 to his death, in 1755. His Will, made 14 December 1751, was proved 30 April 1755. He married, at Salem, Mass., 25 October 1720, Mary, daughter of Ichabod and Mary (Jose) Plaisted; she was born 6 October 1702, and died 8 March 1745–6. Her brother Samuel Plaisted married Hannah[4] (82) Wentworth, Gov. Benning[4] Wentworth's sister. Ellis Huske was a brother of Gen. Huske, who distinguished himself at the battles of Dettingen and Culloden. Among the children of Ellis Huske were:

1. Mary Huske, born 6 October 1721–2; married a John Sherburne, and died childless, before her father.

2. Ann Huske, born 25 April 1723; married Edmund Quincy, jr., of Braintree, Mass., who died 4 July 1788, aged 85; he was brother of Dorothy Quincy (who married, 1st, Gov. John Hancock; 2d, Capt. James Scott). Edmund Quincy, jr., had:

    1. Mary Quincy; married Jacob Sheafe, jr., of Portsmouth, N. H., son of Jacob.

3. John Huske, born 3 July 1724; was a merchant in Boston, Mass. He removed to England, was elected to Parliament in 1764, supported the Stamp Act in 1765, and died about 1773.

4. Olive Huske; married Daniel Rindge, of Portsmouth, N. H., and died childless.

5. Ellis Huske, jr., who established the Boston Weekly Post Boy, in 1734, and continued it about twenty years. He was postmaster at Boston, and deputy-postmaster for the Colonies until superseded by Benjamin Franklin.

† Nathaniel Solley, formerly of London, was of Portsmouth 10 November 1702. —Samuel Solley notifies, 9 December 1757, those who have claims against him to present them, as he is about to leave for England. He left Portsmouth soon after, as the N. H. Gazette, published at Portsmouth, 20 March 1761, announces the death, in London, of Lucy, wife of Hon. Samuel Solley. His former wife, Elizabeth, daughter of George and Sarah Jaffrey, died at Portsmouth, 13 March 1753, aged 34. His last wife (married 5 February 1756) was Lucy, born 5 March 1710–11, daughter of Thomas Lechmere (who married, 17 November 1709, Ann, daughter of Waitstill Winthrop; see N. E. Hist. and Gen. Reg., October 1859). The first wife's connection with the Governor was in being the daughter of George Jaffrey, who married, for his last wife, the Governor's sister Sarah[4] (83), daughter of Lieut.-Gov. John[3] (14) Wentworth.

Gov. Benning[4] Wentworth married, 1st, 31 December 1719, Abigail, daughter of John Ruck, of Boston. She was baptized,* as by records of the Second Church in Boston, as the first of eight children, 17 September 1699. She died 8 November 1755. No record of their children's births appears; but the baptisms of John[5] and Benning[5] appear on the records of the Boston Second Church. Gov. Benning[4] married, 2d, 15 March 1760, Martha Hilton, said to have been a granddaughter of Hon. Richard Hilton, of Newmarket, who was Justice of the Superior Court in 1698 and 1699, and who was grandson of the first Edward Hilton. This marriage, owing to the inequality of ages (she being but twenty-three years of age) as well as of position, caused much excitement at the time, and the excitement was greatly increased by his making her his sole heir. The Christian name of her father and the name of her mother have not been preserved, nor is it known that she had brothers or sisters. She had been his housekeeper for some years, and had won much admiration by her ease and elegance of manner in entertaining his numerous guests, some of whom were of the British nobility. She may have been adopted by his wife, and educated in the family. Certainly, after his wife's death she had sole charge of his household affairs, and as much before as after her marriage to him. Her memory is immortalized in Henry W. Longfellow's poetic fiction, "Lady Wentworth." Gov. Benning[4] Wentworth died 14 October 1770.

A writer in the Portsmouth (N. H.) Journal, 5 September 1857, thus speaks of the old mansion of Gov. Benning[4] at Little Harbor:

It was not until 1750 that he built the retired and romantic residence at Little Harbor (about two miles from the centre of business), which became his residence ever after, — to the termination of the prolonged term of

4. John Ruck, 26 May 1706.
5. Peter Ruck, 4 July 1708.

twenty-five years, during which he held his commission. It is not so much to his merits or demerits as a Governor that we shall advert here as to the incidents which belong to the locality, and give interest to the old walls when visitors look upon them.

The house is generally of two stories, with wings forming three sides of a square. It contained formerly fifty-two rooms; a part of the house was a few years since removed, leaving now only forty-five rooms. It is so hid behind an eminence that the house is not visible from the road, and cannot be seen until you reach the gate. It is open to the water. The cellar is extensive, and, for safety, the Governor used to keep his horses there in time of danger.

The mansion has yet the Council Chamber, an imposing room of high story, where meetings important to the State and nation were held by the Council for many years. By its side opens the billiard room, where the ancient spinnet is still located, and in its corner the buffet, which has held many a full and empty punch-bowl. At the entrance of the Council Chamber still stand the racks for twelve guns, which were for guards when occasion required. The Council Chamber is finished in the old style, — the carved work around the mantel being more than a year's work with a knife and chisel of a carpenter. Ascending a short flight of steps, we enter the spacious parlor, — still as rich in its original finish as it was a hundred years ago.

The author of this work has often visted the premises, and he found them in a fair state of preservation as late as 1871.

Gov. Benning[4] Wentworth had children, by his first wife:

336. John[5], baptized 29 January 1720–21. He was a Major in the Canada expedition of 1746, and died, single, 8 November 1759. Adams, in Annals of Portsmouth, calls him, "Only son of His Excellency," and says, —

He died greatly lamented. His remains were interred on the 22d of same month. A discourse, suitable to the solemnity, was delivered in Queen's Chapel, by the Rev. Arthur Brown. Mr. Wentworth's benevolent and charitable disposition, inoffensive life and conversation, had justly recommended him to all his acquaintances.

His portrait is with Mark Hunking[7] Wentworth, son of Ebenezer[6] (1021), at Portsmouth, together with that of his father, Gov. Benning[4], and that of his grandfather, Lieut.-Gov. John[3]. Mr. Ebenezer[6] Wentworth procured them from John[6] (997) Wentworth, who married the daughter of Col. Michael[26] Wentworth (who married the widow of Gov. Benning[4]), upon John[6] (997) Wentworth's leaving Little Harbor to reside in England.

337. Benning[5], baptized 1 July 1722. He was a captain in the Canada expedition of 1746. His name appears as witness to a deed, 22 April 1746. Nothing further is now known regarding him.

338. Foster[5],* also a captain in the expedition of 1746. His name appears as a witness to a deed, in Portsmouth, 3 July 1745. In the life of Sir William Pepperrell, by Dr. Usher Parsons, there appears a letter from the Governor, dated 9 May 1751, in which he speaks of being under great anxiety for his son Foster[5], whose life he almost despaired of; and another from Sir William, dated at Kittery, 10 June 1751, condoling the Governor on the son's death.

Gov. Benning[4], had by his second wife, one or more children, who died in infancy. Their names are not preserved.

Two months after Gov. Benning's[4] decease, his widow married, 19 December 1770, Col. Michael[26] Wentworth. (See English Genealogy, preceding.) She died 28 December 1805, aged 68. Col. Michael[26] died 25 September 1795, while on a visit to New York.

Col. Michael[26] Wentworth was second son of Matthew[25] Wentworth, of Wakefield, England (Peregrine[26] being the elder and only brother), by his wife Anne, daughter of James Sill, Esq., of Wakefield. His line of descent was through Matthew[25], of Wakefield; Sir Michael[24] and Dorothy (Copley), of Woolley; John[23] and Elizabeth (Aldburgh), of Woolley; Michael[22] and Frances (Downes), of Woolley; Thomas[21] and Susan (Hopton), of Whitby, co. York; Michael[20] and Isabel (Whitley), of Mendham Priory. William[20], of Wentworth-Woodhouse, brother of this last named Michael[20], was great-grandfather of Thomas[23], first Earl of Strafford.

He was born at Yorkshire, in England, and was nearly allied to the Marquis of Rockingham, and Earl of Strafford, who were distinguished members of the Wentworth family in that country. His elder brother, Peregrine[26] Wentworth, inherited the paternal estate; and, as is commonly the case there, other provision was to be made for the younger son. Col. Wentworth accordingly entered the army very early in life, and served under the Duke of Cumberland, in Great Britain, and on the continent. He acted as a volunteer in the battle of Culloden, on the 15th April, 1745, when the Duke obtained the decisive victory over the rebels which put an end to the hopes and prospects of the Pretender, Charles Stuart. The May following he was in France, and was engaged in the famous battle of Fontenoy, when the French troops, commanded by Marshal Saxe, gained a complete victory over the allied army under the command of the Duke of Cumberland; but although the English and their allies were unfortunate in the issue of this engagement, the celebrated solid column, in which Wentworth held a subordinate command, routed the French guards during the engagement. He continued his connection with the army some time after the peace of 1748 by the treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle, and having disposed of his commission, he returned to England, and passed a few years with his brother and other friends. He came to this country in 1767; and in 1770 married the widow of the late Gov. Benning[4] Wentworth, who possessed an ample fortune, and fixed his residence at Little Harbor, the seat of the late Governor, where he enjoyed during the remainder of his life otium cum dignitate.

* The name "Foster" is supposed to have been in honor of some relative of his mother. Mr. John Foster, a graduate of Harvard College, 1667, set up a printing office in Boston, in 1676, and prepared an Almanac in 1679. A Miles Foster, a Quaker, was in Boston, at the same time. Col. John Foster, a wealthy merchant and prominent man, died in 1711, and his wife followed him a month thereafter. Thomas Hutchinson married his daughter, Sarah Foster, and they were the parents of Thomas Hutchinson, Governor of Massachusetts 1771 to 1774.

He possessed an excellent constitution, which he preserved by frequent exercise. He always rode on horseback when he had occasion to travel, and generally enjoyed good health and a fine flow of animal spirits. He thought no man old, notwithstanding he had lived many years, where mental faculties, vigor, and activity were unimpaired. He was remarkably fond of music, and excelled in playing on the violin. His manners were those of an accomplished gentleman; his acquaintance with mankind and social habits rendered him a very pleasing companion.

Col. Michael[36] left one child — Martha[27], who, 7 January 1802, married John[6] (997) Wentworth, son of Thomas[5] (372), nephew of Gov. John[5] (371), and grandson of Mark Hunking[4] (88) Wentworth. Her father's brother, Peregrine[26], born 31 July 1722, died 30 August 1809 (buried in the Earl of Strafford's vault); and leaving no children by either of his two wives, left to her £8,000. She died in the borough of London, 1 May 1851, aged 79. The history of her husband will be given under his appropriate family.

Hunking[4] (81), son of Lieut.-Gov. John[3] and Sarah (Hunking) Wentworth, born 24 July 1696, lived in Portsmouth, N. H.

He was Clerk of the Court of Common Pleas from 1742 to 1770. He was an efficient friend of the American Revolution from the first agitation of the subject, and was chairman of the Committee of Safety as long as his health and age would admit. His conduct was the more commendable, as his immediate relatives had been for many years, and were then, the recipients of almost all the favors from the crown of England. His father had been Lieut.-Governor when New Hampshire was united in government with Massachusetts. His brother had been the first Governor after the separation. His nephew was then Governor; and so numerous were his relatives in other official positions that, in taking sides with the people he seemed but to be quarrelling with his own family. In a letter to the Earl of Dartmouth (given entire in Belknap's Hist. of N. H., Vol. III, Appendix), Gov. John[5] (371) Wentworth says, in allusion to his uncle: —

> They also proceeded to choose a committee of forty-five persons, chiefly out of the number then present, who style themselves a Committee of Ways and Means. I hear half the number refused to act. The remainder convened together, and prevailed upon Mr. Wentworth, an old gentleman of 78 years, and lately extremely impaired by frequent epileptic fits, to be their chairman.

Old as he then was, he lived to see his country's independence acknowledged. The American archives show many letters and proclamations written by him as Chairman of the Committee of Safety. One, 10 February 1775, is against cards, gaming, etc., and recommends that the merchants do not take advantage of the times to raise the price of their goods. One, 12 August 1775, forbids boats to pass or re-pass to the British ship of war, the "Scarborough," from the town. One, 2 October 1775, informs Gen. Washington of the capture of the British ship, "Prince George," loaded with supplies for Gen. Thomas Gage's army. One, 13 November 1775, recommends to the New Hampshire Congress to pay Dr. Hall Jackson for going from Portsmouth, N. H., 19 June, and attending to those wounded at the battle of Bunker Hill.

* About 1700, Richard Wibird came to Portsmouth, as poulterer under the steward to one of the king's ships. He married a Mrs. Due, of Hampton, who brought articles to the market to sell, and afterwards kept a retail shop in what is now Market st., in Portsmouth. Wibird engaged successfully in navigation, and by the joint endeavors of himself and wife accumulated a large fortune. He erected the first brick house ever built in Portsmouth. He became a man of influence, and was made one of the King's Council in 1716, and continued such until his death, in October 1732. He willed property to his brother Anthony Wibird, to his brother Anthony's daughter, and to his grandson Anthony Wibird, son of his son John, deceased.

Richard Wibird may have been twice married. For while Adams, in his Annals, calls his wife, "Mrs. Due of Hampton," old records found at Portsmouth say he married Mrs. Elizabeth Redford, 10 August 1701. (There was a Charles Redford, of Salem, merchant, who died 1692. A William Redford was Register of Probate, at Portsmouth, 1693–1697.) This "Mrs. Due" may have been an remonstrate with the Governor of that Province against his exciting the Indians to war. He was Colonel of the 1st Regiment of New Hampshire militia, and was several times called into active service during the French and Indian War. He was Collector of Customs, Naval Officer, and Sheriff of the Province. In 1732 he was appointed Counsellor. In 1741 he was appointed Secretary of the Province, and kept the place until his son was appointed to succeed him. He was one of the delegates to the Congress at Albany in 1754. Soon after his return, in 1754, he was appointed Chief Justice, and after the death of his son re-appointed Secretary of the Province. He continued in both offices until the Revolution, and then refused to hand over the Government books, records, etc., to the revolutionary authorities, as "against his oath and his honor." A committee appointed for the purpose took possession of them against his will. In his Will he gave £200 to the Episcopal Church in Portsmouth, the interest to be forever expended for bread, to be distributed on Sunday to the poor of the parish, and the fund has been preserved to this day. He outlived all his family, and died 22 September 1779, aged 82.

After his decease, his effects passed principally into the hands of one whom he called in his Will "my relation George King," who, in December 1779, changed his name, as the Will required, to Atkinson.*

Hannah[4] (80) had daughter Hannah[5] Atkinson, baptized 17 March 1734, who must have died young, and but one child to live to maturity, viz. —

2. Theodore[8] Atkinson, married Martha Palmer, of South Berwick, Me., and lives in Boston, Mass.

On the death of her parents, she came into possession of many very interesting relics of the Atkinson family. Among them are portraits of Theodore Atkinson (the fourth) and his wife Hannah[4] (82), and of his son Theodore, jr. (341), by Blackburn, and of his wife Frances[5], afterwards the wife of Gov. John[5] (371) Wentworth, painted by John Singleton Copley (see "Copley" note to Gov. John[5] (371) Wentworth); also, a silver waiter, with the dates of the death of most of the prominent persons dying in Portsmouth from 1740 to 1771 engraved thereon. The writer of this work, who was, with his wife, at the Freeman mansion in September 1851, saw the portraits and other relics, and caused this list to be copied, with appropriate notes, into the Portsmouth (N. H.) Journal about 1855; and it was reprinted in the Dover (N. H.) Enquirer, and also into Brewster's Rambles about Portsmouth. Frances[7] had:

* The Concord (N. H.) Statesman, in July 1857, had the following respecting the old McPhedris house at Portsmouth (N. H.), when occupied by the late John N.[7] (340.2) Sherburne, Esq., and to the truth of which the author of this work, after visiting the premises, can bear testimony:

"The McPhedris (or Warner) Mansion is of brick, which, with some other of the materials, were brought from Holland. Quarried stone was not then used for underpinning, and the brick extend beneath the earth, and are laid 'headers and stretchers.'

"The house is of three stories, and is high for that period. Capt. McPhedris was a leading projector of the first iron works in America. He was at the head of a small company which commenced the manufacture of iron from the ore at Lamprey River. In 1719 the General Court of Massachusetts granted to this company, by way of encouragement, a slip of land two miles wide, at the head of Dover line. This land was to furnish fuel for the iron works and a location for settling the foreign operatives. How long the work was continued, or to what extent, we have no knowledge; but some of the iron fixtures now in use in this mansion were from the Lamprey River Iron Works. The land of the company is now embraced in the town of Barrington.

"Capt. McPhedris married Sarah[4] (83) Wentworth, one of the sixteen children of Gov. John[3] Wentworth. He occupied the mansion but six years, and died in 1728. He had but one daughter, Mary[5] (342) who married, 1st, John Osborne, and 2d, Hon. Jonathan Warner.

"The portraits of the mother and daughter, in Copley's best style, still ornament one of the parlors of the house, and have as lifelike appearance as if recently from the artist, although painted in 1754. The expression of a painter who re-infancy, or the mother herself. She married, 2d, 9 March 1738–9, (his second wife), George Jaffrey, jr.,* who was born at Great Island (now Newcastle, N. cently saw them, was, 'I can all but hear those satin gowns rustle.' At the head of the stairs, on the broad space each side of the hall windows, there are pictures of two Indians, life size, and highly decorated.

"These pictures have always been in view there, and are supposed to represent some with whom the original owner traded in furs, in which business he was also engaged. In the lower entry of the house are still displayed the enormous antlers of an elk, presented to Capt. McPhedris by the Indians more than one hundred and thirty years ago.

"Not long since, the spacious front entry underwent repairs. There had accumulated four coatings of paper. In one place, on removing the under coating, the picture of a hoof of a horse was discovered. This led to further investigation. The horse, as life size, was developed, and a little further work exhumed Gov. [William] Phips, on his charger, in the full costume of a British officer. The progress of clearing the walls was now entered upon in earnest, with as much interest as if delving in the ruins of Pompeii.

"The next discovery was that of a lady at a spinning-wheel (ladies spun in those times), who seems interrupted in her work by a hawk lighting among her chickens. Then came a Scripture scene, Abraham offering up Isaac, — the angel, the ram, etc. There is a distant city scene, and other sketches on the walls, covering perhaps four or five hundred square feet. The walls have been very carefully cleared, and the whole paintings, which are evidently the work of some skilful artist, are now presented in their original beauty.

"No person living had any knowledge of the hidden paintings. They were as novel to an old lady of 80, who had been familiar with the house from her childhood, as to her granddaughter who discovered the horse's foot.

"They have within this residence of a far distant period, a large basket, filled with the rich and elaborate ornamented garments of auld lang syne, — vests, dresses, etc., etc., some of wool and others of silk, upon some of which are beautiful unfaded figures in needle-work, memorials of the splendor and expense with which people in high life were arrayed an hundred years ago.

"About the year 1762 Dr. Franklin says that he visited many of the States to make postal arrangements, etc. In his visit at that time to Portsmouth, he personally gave attention to the erection of the lightning rods on this mansion, which now remain, the first and the last one erected in New Hampshire by the man who first harnessed the lightning."

* JAFFREY. — The old family record at Portsmouth, N. H., calls George Jaffrey, jr., "only son of George and Anna."

George[1] Jaffrey, sen., was of Newbury, Mass., where he married, 1st, 7 December 1665, Elizabeth Walker, and had Sarah[2] Jaffrey, born 26 February 1666–7. He removed to Boston, Mass., and about 1667 to Great Island (now New Castle, then part of Portsmouth), N. H., where he married, 2d, Anna ——, who died 6 December 1682. He married, 3d, Hannah ——, who survived him and married Penn Townsend, of Boston, Mass. (who died 21 August 1727). She was buried 1 November 1736. George[1] Jaffrey, sen., was Speaker of the Assembly, and Counsellor in 1702. Pike's Journal says, 13 February 1706–7: "Thrsday. George Geffrey sen: of Portsmouth esq:— & one of the Councill, journeying from Boston

George[3] Jaffrey, jr., born at Great Island, N. H., 22 November 1682 (who married widow Sarah[4] (83) (Wentworth) McPhedris, as above), had had a prior wife, viz. Sarah, daughter of David and Elizabeth (Usher) Jeffries, of Boston, born 4 May 1695, whom he married 10 January 1710; she died 12 January 1734. (For "Jeffries," see note to Ebenezer[3] (16) Wentworth.)

George[2] and Sarah (Jeffries) Jaffrey had:

1. George[3] Jaffrey, 3d, born 8 February 1717–18. He graduated at H. C. 1736, and was the first graduate of any college on the bench in New Hampshire. He was clerk of Superior Court from 1744, twenty-two years. He was Counsellor in 1766, Chief Justice of the Superior Court, and Treasurer of the Province. He refused to serve as Treasurer under the Revolutionary government, but promptly paid over the balance in his hands, £1,516, 4*s*., 8*d*., to Hon. Nicholas Gilman, the successor appointed by the revolutionists. (See "Gilman" note under John[4] (160.) He was a gentleman of large estate and great influence. His wife (married 9 November 1758) was Lucy, daughter of John Winthrop, of Boston (who married 16 December 1707, Ann, daughter of Gov. Joseph Dudley, born 27 August 1684). She died 10 January 1776, aged 54. He died 25 December 1802, aged 86, childless, and left his property to his relative on his mother's side, George Jeffries (son of Dr. John Jeffries), who changed his name to Jaffrey, and died at Portsmouth, 4 May 1856, aged 67. The author of this work saw him just before he died, and had the examination of all the old family papers. He left an only child, Mary Jaffrey, who married Capt. —— Field, of the U. S. Army (now dead); she lives at Portsmouth, N. H.

2. Elizabeth[3] Jaffrey, born 20 July 1719; married, 20 October 1741, Samuel Solley, a Counsellor. She died 13 March 1753; and he died in England, June 1785. See "Solley" note upon family of Gov. Benning[4] (80) Wentworth.

3. Sarah[3] Jaffrey, born 25 March 1722; married, 20 October 1741, David Jeffries, who died 26 December 1785. She died 11 July 1753.

4. Ann[3] Jaffrey, born 26 October 1723; married, 1st, 20 December 1744, Nathaniel Peirce, who died 27 August 1762, aged 50 years, leaving two sons, and a daughter, viz. Sarah[4] Peirce, who married Col. Joshua[5] (378) Wentworth, son of Daniel,[4] and grandson of Lieut.-Gov. John.[3] Widow Ann married, 2d, 6 December 1769, Judge Leverett Hubbard, who graduated at H. C. 1742, died 2 January 1793, aged 69. She died 17 December 1790, aged 67. See "Peirce" note to Mark Hunking[4] (88) Wentworth.

There was an Anne Jaffrey, who, in deposition made in 1703, at Kittery, Me., before Col. William Pepperrell, stated that she was 85 years of age.

There was a George Jaffrey who had wife Agnes (perhaps an error for Anne, above), in Portsmouth, N. H., 10 July 1682. In 1720 there was a James Jaffrey in Portsmouth, whose wife was Anne, widow of Andrew Brock, of Portsmouth, mariner.

JOHN[4] (84), son of Lieut.-Gov. John[3] and Sarah (Hunking) Wentworth, born 19 October 1703; graduated at Harvard College 1723; was Judge of the Court of Common Pleas from 1754 to 1773, and also Judge of Probate from 1765 until his death in 1773. The New Hampshire Gazette of that day says that he filled his offices with integrity, and was esteemed a truly benevolent, generous, and honest man. He married Sarah, daughter of Hon. —— Hall, of Bridgewater, Island of Barbadoes, and sister to Hugh Hall* of Boston. She was also sister to Mary Hall, who was second wife to her husband's brother, Capt. William[4] (85) Wentworth. The sisters, after they became widows, lived together at Portsmouth, N. H. The portraits of both are with the descendants of the late Henry Barlow Brown, of Woodstock, Vt., who married Rebecca[6] Appleton, daughter of Mary[5] (344), and granddaughter of this John[4] and Sarah (Hall) Wentworth. The New Hampshire Gazette thus announces the death of the sisters:

February 3d, 1790. Since our last, died Mary, widow of Capt. William Wentworth, aged 77.

March 3d, 1790. Since our last, died Sarah, widow of Maj. John Wentworth, aged 79.

This John[4] (84) Wentworth, son of Lieut.-Gov. John[3] is often confounded with Col. John[4] (160), of Salmon Falls (Somersworth), N. H., now Rollinsford, who was made Judge of the Court of Common Pleas at the organization of Strafford County, in 1773, and Judge of the Superior Court after the Revolution commenced, and who was son of Capt. Benjamin[3] (33) and grandson of Ezekiel[2]; and he is also sometimes confounded with Col. John's[4] (160) son Hon. John[5] (531) Wentworth, jr., attorney-at-law in Dover, N. H., who was made Register of Probate at the organization of Strafford County in 1773, and who was the grandfather of the author of this work.

* There was a Charles Hall who corresponded from Barbadoes, in 1771, with Joshua[5] (378) Wentworth, son of Daniel[4] Wentworth.

There was a Hugh Hall, a member of the South church in Boston, who helped form the West church, in 1726-7. He was at Boston, had a warehouse there, and advertised some "very likely young negroes" for sale, in May 1727. He was appointed Judge in 1732, his associates being Anthony Stoddard and Francis Fullam. He died at Cambridge, 20 September 1732, soon after his appointment as Judge.

WILLIAM[4] (85), son of Lieut.-Gov. John[3] and Sarah (Hunking) Wentworth, born 10 December 1705, usually called "Captain William," lived at Spruce Creek, Kittery, Me. He served in military expeditions under his father-in-law, Capt. Andrew Pepperrell, and his wife's uncle, Sir William Pepperrell. The latter remembered him in his Will.

Brig.-Gen. John Frost,* grandson of Counsellor John Frost (who married Mary, sister of Sir William Pepperrell), was a lieutenant in the army at the age of twenty, and in 1760 marched from Eliot, Me., where his father then lived, to Isle au Noix, near Montreal, and was in the fight under Gen. Jeffery Amherst. In his diary for 1760, he says: —

July 11th. Capt. Wentworth went with me to see the wounded soldiers.

August 30. This day our army set off for St. John's and I to the Isle au Noix, where Capt. Wentworth and I took a house to live in.

Sept. 14. This day our army set out for Crown Point, but I was ordered to stay here with Capt. Wentworth.

He did so, and on the death of his grandfather, in 1759, inherited the property. He marrried Elizabeth, daughter of Isaac Royall, of Medford, Mass. He was created Baronet in 1774; was a royalist and went to England, and died at Portman Square, London, 2 December 1816, aged 70 years, having survived his wife and his only son (William[5] Pepperrell), but leaving three married daughters. The second Baronetcy thus became extinct.

PORTSMOUTH, February 2, 1775.

My Dear Sister, — I had the pleasure to receive your favor of the 10th December, in which you make no mention of any from me. I wrote some time past and trust it met your hand. Mrs. Wentworth is safe a bed with a fine, hearty boy, with another blessing added, in being able to nurse him herself. I need not attempt to tell you the pleasure this child has brought with it to all its connections. The Governor's happiness seems to be complete; and, had a young Prince been born, there could not have been more rejoicing. The ships fired their guns. All the gentlemen of the town and from the King's ships came, the next day, to pay their compliments. The ladies followed and, for one week, there were cake and caudle wine, &c. passing. I forgot to mention that this young gentleman made his appearance on the 20th January, and this house has been full ever since. Adieu, my dear sister, and be assured you have not a more affectionate one than

ELIZABETH WENTWORTH.

Mark Hunking[4] (88), son of Lieut.-Gov. John[3] and Sarah (Hunking) Wentworth, born 1 March 1709, lived in Portsmouth, N. H. He was one of the most extensive merchants and one of the wealthiest men in New England. His house, which was one of the most costly for the times, was preserved until the summer of 1855, when it was taken down to make room for a schoolhouse. His position towards the Revolutionary government was a very delicate one, his son John[5] (371) being the Provincial Governor, and himself being Counsellor from 1759 to the Revolution. But his friendly relations with the revolutionists were never disturbed. When his son's estate was settled under the order of confiscation by the government, he magnanimously withdrew all his claims, although his son was largely his debtor, until all the other claimants were settled with.

his noble relatives, was, under the patronage of those, admitted as student of the Temple, at which period he first met Miss Lane. The love was prohibited, and the lover banished from his mistress, who, though closely imprisoned in her own apartments, found means to preserve an epistolary connection, — the correspondence increasing the enthusiasm of restricted passion, until every possible hope of their union being extinguished, a deadly vial was obtained, and the contents, equally divided, were at one desperate moment swallowed by both. Their last desire, of being buried in the same grave, was denied.

"These frantic and too affectionate lovers finished the short career of their miseries on the birthday of Wentworth, being that which completed the nineteenth year of his age."

Gov. John[5] (371) Wentworth writes to London, 13 December 1768, expressing anxiety for his much-loved cousin Samuel[5] (369) Wentworth, and "fears some rash act from his despair." He writes again, 2 May 1769, stating that "the unhappy fate of his kinsman at Oxford distressed him extremely, and was a most grievous event to him."

THOMAS[4] (157), son of John[3] and Martha (Miller) Wentworth, lived in Somersworth, N. H. He married Mary Knox (then Nock), sister of Rebecca (Knox), wife of his brother Richard[4]. (See "Nock" or "Knox" note to Ezekiel[3] (57) Wentworth. She married, 2d, —— Hanson, who died soon after, and she went to live with her son Caleb[5] Wentworth, in Lebanon, Me., and died there 6 December 1802, aged 88 years. The warrant to appraise the property of her husband, Thomas[4], was taken out 29 November 1758. There were a Thomas Wentworth and a Moses Wentworth in the expedition against Canada in 1758, who may have been this Thomas[4] and his son. A Thomas died in the expedition, 4 October 1758. There is a confusion between this Thomas and Thomas[3] (29*b*); between this Moses and Moses[3] (29*c*) and his son Moses[4], whom see under children of Dea. Gershom[2] (4) Wentworth; yet as the warrant to appraise the property of the Thomas[5] of this paragraph was taken out in 1758, he evidently died in that year whether in the expedition or not. His children mostly settled in Lebanon, Me., but whether before or after their father's death is not known.

The autograph here copied was signed 2 August 1758, as witness to his uncle Gershom's[3] (34) Will.

Thomas[4] and Mary (Nock) Wentworth had:

522. Martha[5], born 17 January 1738; married Ebenezer Hanson. [1502]

523. Moses[5], born 8 November 1740. [1505]

524. Mary[5], born 11 April 1742; married, 23 November 1769, William Grant, jr.; lived in Lebanon, Me., and died, childless, 4 September 1822. He was a soldier of the Revolution, and there is a story that he had fifteen bullets shot through his coat and hat in a single battle, and was not wounded. He drew a pension. Having no children, he adopted his nephew John[6] (1538) Wentworth, and gave him the homestead in Lebanon, Me., where John[6] died. The family still has the farm.

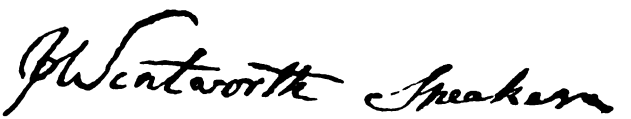
The descendants of Thomas[4] are far more numerous than those of any other one of the fourth generation.

JOHN[4]* (160), son of Capt. Benjamin[3] and Elizabeth (Leighton) Wentworth, generally known as "Col. John" or "Judge John," was born 30 March 1719, in that part of Dover which became Somersworth,† and in that part of Somersworth which is now Rollinsford. He was baptized (Dover church records) 26 December 1722.

Left fatherless at the age of six years, with three sisters younger than himself, he was much indebted to his uncle, Col. Paul[3] (32), for his early advantages. Col. Paul[3] took a deep interest in him, and made him his chief heir, willing him the homestead at his death.‡ and the house, still standing at Salmon Falls.

He was chosen one of the Selectmen of Dover in 1747, as "Capt. John," and was frequently re-elected while Somersworth continued to be a part of Dover. He was chosen Representative to the Legislature from Dover in 1749, and various years until the separation of Somersworth. He was first chosen to represent Somersworth, 21 October 1755, was in the Legislature in 1767, and annually thereafter. He was chosen Speaker of the House in 1771, and was continued in office during the existence of the Provincial government. The Provincial House did not meet after 1775.



Upon the organization of Strafford County, 1773, he was made Chief-Justice of the Court of Common Pleas, and held the place till the Provincial government ended.§ Under the Revolutionary Judge Baker lived at Dover, and his history is given in this work in connection with his marriage with Lydia[4] (166) Wentworth, daughter of Dea. Gershom[3]. He was the maternal great-grandfather of the author of this work. He continued on the Bench until 1785.

Judge Plumer lived at Rochester, N. H., and died there, 19 November 1815, aged 95. He continued on the Bench until 1796.

Judge Frost remained on the Bench until 1793; lived at Durham, N. H., and died 21 June 1796, aged 76. He was born at New Castle, 26 April 1720. He was son of John Frost, who married Mary Pepperrell, sister of Sir William Pepperrell. (For "Pepperrell" family, see note to the name in the family William[4] (85) Wentworth, son of Lieut.-Gov. John[3], and grandson of Samuel[2] Wentworth.) He was grandson of Maj. Charles Frost, of Kittery, who was killed by the Indians 4 July 1697. (For "Frost" family history, see note to John[5] (531) Wentworth, son of the above John[4].)

Judge Frost was delegate to the Continental Congress in 1776, 1777, and 1779, and Counsellor three years, from 1781. For a more extended notice of him and his family, see N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, July 1849 and April 1851.

Cogswell, in his statistics of Strafford County, N. H., records this Col. John[4] (160) Wentworth as Judge of Probate for the Province. This is a mistake. The Judge of Probate was John[4] (84), of Portsmouth, N. H., son of Lieut.-Gov. John[3] (14), son of Samuel[2].

* Plumer, in the biography of his father, Hon. William Plumer, erroneously calls him a lawyer. Judge John[4] never studied law, nor even had an academical education. Plumer confounds him with his son John[5] (531), who never was a Judge, who was a lawyer, but never had time to practise much, as he died early, and was engaged almost exclusively in governmental affairs while he lived.

† Concerning Otis Baker, Lieut.-Col. on that occasion, see note to Lydia[4] (166) (Wentworth) Baker.

‡ Josiah Bartlett was a physician at Kingston, N. H.; born at Amesbury, Mass., 21 November 1729; delegate to the Continental Congress, 1775 to 1779, and a signer of the Declaration of Independence; Judge of the Supreme Court of N. H., 1782 to 1790, and Chief Justice in 1790; President of the State, 1790 to 1792, and Governor, 1792 to 1794. He was father of Hon. Josiah Bartlett, of Stratham, N. H. He died 19 May 1795.

and John Pickering,§ Esquires, be a committee of this House to correspond, as occasion may require, with the committees that are or may be appointed in our sister colonies, and to exhibit to this House an account of such their proceedings when required.

He was in the Speaker's chair when Gov. John[5] (371) Wentworth sent in the following message: —

MR. SPEAKER AND GENTLEMEN OF THE ASSEMBLY:

As I look upon the measures entered upon by the House of Assembly to be inconsistent with his Majesty's service and the good of this Government, it is my duty, as far as in me lies, to prevent any detriment that might arise from such proceedings. I do, therefore, hereby dissolve the General Assembly of this Province, and it is dissolved accordingly.

J. WENTWORTH.

PORTSMOUTH, June 8, 1774.

The following letter, written by Col. John[4] Wentworth, only three days after the dissolution of the Provincial House of Representatives, of which he was Speaker, will be read with interest: —

SOMERSWORTH, June 11th, 1774.

GENTLEMEN: — Your favor of the 28th ult., and 4th instant, made their journey from Portsmouth here so slowly as not to arrive before the 9th instant — after I had seen the tremendous act, and pending bills which they caused.

I enclose you a vote of the late assembly, which, with the aid of one (not by me) for a committee to correspond with our sister colonies, I apprehend, produced a dissolution of them and their committee at a stroke on the 8th instant. This measure, I conceive, took its rise from ministerial influence, by express instructions to our amiable governor; similar to which, I suspect, reach all of his order on the continent.

A rivetted opinion of the good and gracious intentions of our lawful sovereign constrains me to believe that, to reinstate in his royal favor, he needs only be divested of the unfavorable impressions of America's inveterate foes, whose secret machinations evidently tend to disunite what, when disunited, will be no longer powerful.

The sons of freedom in New Hampshire, I believe, sympathize with your metropolis in its present distress. So mighty a display of ministerial vengeance can be accounted for only from your noble efforts to stem the torrent of oppression.

Any notices on the present critical situation of America which you shall please to favor me with (whether I am or not a member of the next Assembly) shall be acknowledged and faithfully communicated, by

Gentlemen,

Your friend and countryman,

JOHN WENTWORTH.

By order of the members of the Assembly so abruptly dissolved, he issued the following circular: —

To the Parish of ———

Whereas the colonies in general upon this continent think it highly expedient and necessary, in the present critical and alarming situation of their public affairs, that DELEGATES should be appointed, by and in behalf of each, to join a general CONGRESS, proposed to meet at Philadelphia, the first day of December next, to devise and consider what measures will be most advisable to be taken and pursued by all the colonies for the establishment of their RIGHTS AND LIBERTIES upon a just and solid foundation, and for the restoration of union and harmony between the mother country and the colonies. And whereas the members of the late House of Representatives for this Province now met to deliberate on this subject, are unanimously of the opinion that it is expedient and necessary for this province to join said CONGRESS for the above purpose, and recommend it to the towns in this province respectively to choose and empower one or more persons, in their behalf, to meet at Exeter on the 21st day of this instant, at ten of the o'clock in the forenoon, to join in the choice of DELEGATES to the GENERAL CONGRESS. In order to effect the desired end it is necessary that each town, as soon as may be, contribute their proportion of the expense of sending: it is therefore desired that the same may be raised by subscription or otherwise, and if convenient sent by the person by your parish appointed: Your proportion of which is —— pounds lawful money.

The utility of which measure is so apparent we doubt not your ready compliance with this proposal.

By desire of the meeting,

JOHN WENTWORTH, Chairman.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 6, 1774.

P. S. Considering the distressing situation of our public affairs, Thursday, the 14th inst., is recommended to be kept as a day of fasting, humiliation, and prayer throughout this Province.

This, the first Revolutionary Congress in New Hampshire, met at the appointed time, and Col. John[4] Wentworth was chosen Chairman, and as such signed the credentials of Gen. John Sullivan and Nathaniel Folsom as delegates to the first Continental Congress in Philadelphia, 5 September 1774.

The first Congress having recommended another to be held 10 May 1775, Col. Wentworth issued the following circular: —

Whereas the American Continental Congress have recommended another on the 10th May next, we, the Provincial Committee, conceiving it highly expedient and necessary to send DELEGATES for this province to the Congress proposed to be held then, recommend it to the respective towns in this government to appoint deputies on their behalf to meet at Exeter on Wednesday, the 25th day of January next, for the choice of delegates to represent this Province at such intended Congress: and also to empower such deputies, when so met, to choose a committee of their body to proportion the sum each town ought to pay towards sending such delegates.

By order of the Committee.

That convention organized at the appointed time, and made Col. John[4] Wentworth President. Gen. John Sullivan and Gov. John Langdon were elected delegates to the Continental Congress, to be held at Philadelphia 10 May 1775; suitable committees were chosen, and an address to "The inhabitants of the Province of New Hampshire" voted, which was signed "J. Wentworth, President."

This address was published in the New Hampshire Gazette (Portsmouth), of 3 February 1775, and is herewith given, with other transactions: — in behalf of this Province to call a Provincial convention of deputies, when they shall judge the exigencies of public affairs require it; and that they together with Samuel Cutts, and John Pickering, Esq., be a Committee of Correspondence for this Province.

Voted, The following Address to the inhabitants of the Province of New Hampshire:

BRETHREN: — When we consider the unhappy condition to which you and your American brethren are reduced; when we reflect that for near ten months past you have been deprived of any share of your own government, and of those advantages which flow to society from legislative assemblies; when we view the lowering clouds, charged with ministerial vengeance, fast spreading over this extensive continent, ready to burst on the heads of its inhabitants, and to involve the whole British Empire in one common ruin, — at this alarming juncture, duty to Almighty God, to our country, ourselves, and posterity, loudly demand our most strenuous exertions to avoid the impending danger.

Such are the means adopted by the British Ministry for enslaving you, and with such incessant vigilance have their plans been prosecuted, that tyranny already begins to wear its banner in your borders, and to threaten these once happy regions with infamous and detestable slavery. Shall we, knowing the value of freedom, and nursed in the arms of liberty, make a base and ignominious surrender of our rights, thereby consigning succeeding generations to a condition of wretchedness, from which perhaps all human efforts will be insufficient to extricate them? Duty to ourselves and regard for our country should induce us to defend our liberties and to transmit the fair inheritance unimpaired to posterity.

Should our restless enemies drive us to arms in defence of everything we hold dear, we should be reduced to a state dreadful, even in contemplation; for should we prove victorious, the blood of our brethren shed in the unhappy contest would cause the laurels to wither on our brows, and make the conquerors mourn with the vanquished.

But should our enemies be successful, they will thereby rivet the chains of slavery upon us and our posterity. Thus surrounded with dangers and distresses on every side, it behooves us to adopt and pursue such peaceful measures as under God will be most likely to prevent those dreadful calamities with which we are threatened.

Firstly: Sensible that to point out with any degree of certainty the methods by which you may shun the threatening evils would require more than human wisdom, we can only recommend such measures as appear to us most likely to answer that desirable end, and best calculated to restore to you that peace and harmony so ardently wished for by every good and honest American. We therefore earnestly recommend: —

1st. That you discountenance and discourage all trespasses and injuries against individuals and their property, and all disorders of every kind; and that you cultivate and maintain peace and harmony among yourselves.

2d. That you yield due obedience to the Magistrate within this Government, and carefully endeavor to support the laws thereof.

Digitized by Google

3d. That you strictly adhere to the association of the late Continental Congress, and deal with the violators of it in the manner therein recommended.

4th. That you endeavor particularly to enforce the laws of the Province against hawkers, pedlers, and petty shopmen.

5th. That you abstain from the use of East India tea, whenever or by whatever means it has or may be imported.

6th. That you encourage and support your several committees of correspondence and inspection in discharging the very important trust you have reposed in them.

7th. In case any of the inhabitants of these Colonies should be seized in order to be transported to Great Britain, or other parts beyond the sea, to be tried for offences supposed to be committed in America, you conduct yourselves agreeable to the advice of the late Continental Congress.

8th. That in your several stations you promote and encourage the manufactures of this country, and endeavor, both by precept and example, to induce all under you, and with whom you are connected, to practise economy and industry, and to shun all kinds of extravagance.

9th. That the officers of the several regiments strictly comply with the laws of this Province for regulating the militia; and as the militia upon this continent, if properly disciplined, would be able to do great service in its defence, should it ever be invaded by its Majesty's enemies, that you acquaint yourselves with the manual exercise, particularly that recommended and enjoined by the Captain General; the motions being natural, easy, and best calculated to qualify persons for real action; and also to improve themselves in those evolutions which are necessary for infantry in time of engagement.

10th. That, as your enemies are using every art to impoverish and distress you in order to induce submission to their arbitrary mandates, you carefully shun those measures which may have a tendency to distress your brethren and fellow-sufferers; and avoid all unnecessary lawsuits, and endeavor to settle disputes between you in the most amicable and least expensive manner. That all debtors exert themselves in discharging their just debts, and all creditors exercise such lenity as their circumstances will admit of.

11th. That, as the inhabitants of the town of Boston, in the Province of Massachusetts Bay, are now laboring under a load of ministerial vengeance, laid upon them to enforce obedience to certain arbitrary and unconstitutional acts, which if once submitted to must involve all America in slavery and ruin; conscious that all these Colonies are largely indebted to the virtue and fortitude of those patriotic asserters of freedom, we heartily recommend a continuation of your contributions for the relief of that oppressed people; and that you keep yourselves in constant readiness to support them in their just opposition whenever necessity may require.

Lastly, We earnestly entreat you at this time of tribulation and distress, when your enemies are urging you to despair, when every scene around you is full of gloom and horror, that, in imitation of your pious forefathers, with contrition of spirit and penitence of heart, you implore the Divine Being, who alone is able to deliver you from your present unhappy and distressing situation, to espouse your righteous cause, secure your liberties, and fix them on a firm and lasting basis; and we fervently beseech him to restore to you and your American brethren that peace and tranquillity so ardently sought for by every true friend to liberty and mankind.

By order of the Convention.

JOHN WENTWORTH, President.

The Massachusetts Provincial Congress was in session at Concord, Mass., 11 April 1775, and voted to send an address to the people of the other States; and that the one to New Hampshire be addressed to the Hon. John Wentworth, Esq. This address was dated 22 April 1775, at Cambridge, Mass., and gave the first account of the battle of Lexington and Concord. It described the British as then encamped on Bunker's Hill.

After the battle of Lexington there was a Convention called at Exeter to deliberate upon the crisis. It met 21 April 1775, it being on Friday, and two days after the battle. They raised a committee who went to Concord, Mass., to consult with the Congress there; and then they adjourned to Tuesday, the 25th inst. Col. Wentworth was President of this Convention.

The following is a copy of his letter to the Town Committees:—

GENTLEMEN: This moment melancholy intelligence has been received of hostilities being commenced between the troops under the command of Gen. Gage and our brethren of the Massachusetts Bay. The importance of our exerting ourselves at this critical moment has caused the Provincial Committee to meet at Exeter, and you are requested instantly to choose and hasten forward a delegate or delegates to join the Committee, and aid them in consulting measures necessary for our safety.

JOHN WENTWORTH,
In behalf of the Committee of Safety.

SOMERSWORTH, April 25, 1775.
TUESDAY, 6 o'clock.

GENTLEMEN:

My health is such, it is impracticable for me to be at Exeter this day. I was very ill able to attend last week. Hope you will agree on some method to prevent the soldiers being mustered on every false alarm, otherwise we shall soon be distressed for want of provisions. It was surprising to see the number that collected when I came from Exeter, at New Market, Durham, Dover, Somersworth, etc.; some of whom came to Dover, twenty miles or more. You must know the consequences if not prevented. I heartily wish the Divine direction and blessing may attend your consultations and determinations; and, after assuring you that I am engaged in the same cause with you, am your sincere friend, and most obedient and humble servant,

JOHN WENTWORTH.

To the Gentlemen of Congress assembled at Exeter, N. H.

At a meeting of the Provincial Legislature* on Thursday, 4 May 1775, Col. John[4] Wentworth was unanimously chosen Speaker, and his name sent up to Gov. John[5] Wentworth for confirmation, and was accordingly confirmed.

At the request of the members of the Legislature, who wished time to consult their constituents, the Governor adjourned them soon after organization to 12 June 1775.

The Legislature met again on the 12th of June, and Gov. John[5] Wentworth† adjourned it to 11 July. It then re-assembled, and he addressed it from Fort William and Mary, whither he had repaired for protection, and adjourned it to Tuesday, the 28 September 1775. His last official communication to the Legislature of New Hampshire was dated Isle of Shoals, September 1775, proroguing it to the next April.

On 5 January 1776, the State Congress at Exeter resolved to form a Government "to continue during the present unhappy and unnatural contest with Great Britain," and assign as a reason therefor "The sudden and abrupt departure of his Excellency

John[5] Wentworth, Esq., our late Governor, and several of the Council, leaving us destitute of legislation."

It was at this, the first session under the independent government, that Col. John[4] Wentworth, of Somersworth, was elected Counsellor and one of the Judges of the Superior Court, which offices he held until the day of his death.

The last date at which he was present at the Council Board was 22 March 1781, and he died 17 May 1781, at 11 o'clock, P. M. Thus he did not live to see acknowledged the independence of his country, for which he so indefatigably labored.

He was buried at 4 o'clock, P. M., 21 May 1781, in the family burial-ground at Salmon Falls, on the farm now occupied by the heirs of the late John B.[6] (1587) Wentworth, earlier owned by Col. Paul[3] (32), and probably by his father Ezekiel[2] (2), and where, undoubtedly, most of the descendants of Ezekiel[2], dying about Salmon Falls, were buried. His grave and those of his three wives are still pointed out.

Henry Somerby, baptized 17 March 1612, at Little Bytham; married after his arrival in this country, Judith, daughter of Capt. Edmund and Sarah Greenleaf, of Newbury. She was born in 1628. Widowed awhile she waited, wish't for rest
With her dear husband in her Savior's breast."

Perhaps there were others.

Howard Henderson, jr., was a ship-master, and afterwards ship-builder. He lived on Dover Neck, N. H., near "Bloody Point Ferry," over the Piscataqua, which he carried on. He married Elizabeth[4] Millet, as above, and died in Dover, November 1792, "aged 82." He had (perhaps with others):

John S. Durell was brother of Hon. Daniel M. Durell, M. C., of Dover, who married Elizabeth[6] (1560), daughter of Hon. John[5] (531), brother of Abra[5].) Mary[4] (163), daughter of Benjamin[3] and Elizabeth (Leighton) Wentworth, born 29 July 1725. 1. John[3] Wallingford, born 14 December 1688. He lived in Rochester, N. H. 2. Nicholas[3] Wallingford, born 28 October 1691; had wife Rachel, and daughter Margaret[4] Wallingford, born 4 April 1714. He was probably the "Nicholas Wallingford, of Dover," in 1715. A Rachel Wallingford married, 14 April 1719, Stephen Hawkins.

Master Tate's record says, "Mrs. Elizabeth Wallingford, wife of John Wallingford deceased, died on Sunday, 9 February 1772." It is not known to whom this refers.

Thomas[3] Wallingford, son of John[2] as above, came to the Somersworth part of Dover, N. H. Records in New Hampshire say that Thomas Wallingford, of Bradford, Mass., 2 March 1716, bought land of Daniel Gordon, of Kingston, N. H. He was a merchant in Somersworth, and one of the wealthiest men in the Province of New Hampshire. He lived on the old road from Dover to Salmon Falls, near the site of the old Somersworth meeting-house, between the meeting-house and the Falls, being the last house on the left-hand side as one approaches the Falls. GERSHOM[4] (164), son of Deacon Gershom[3] and Sarah (Twombly) Wentworth, lived most of his life in Somersworth, N. H., in which town he was born; and on the farm latterly owned by Daniel Dover in 1739, 1745, 1746, 1748; one of the selectmen in 1733, 1739, 1741 to 1746, and 1748; and was Judge of the Superior Court from 1748 until his death. He was Colonel.

Col. Wallingford died at Portsmouth, N. H., while on a visit there. "Col. Thomas Wallingford died at Capt. Stoodley's, in Portsmouth, N. H., 4 August 1771, on Sunday, Aged Seventy Four years on 28th July previous."

Col. Thomas[3] Wallingford married three times. His first wife, Margaret, who signed deed in 1721, is believed to be Margaret Clements; and if so, was the Margaret who was the daughter of Job and Abigail (Heard) Clements, of Dover, N. H., and granddaughter of Counsellor Job Clements, of Dover. He married, 2d, —— Pray, apparently Mary Pray, as the record of baptisms in Dover gives as baptized 18 February 1728-9, "Mary, wife of Thomas Wallingford." The Somersworth church being formed immediately after, the absence of further mention of the family on Dover church records is accounted for, and the Somersworth church records were lost in the burning of Rev. Pearson Thurston's house in 1812. He married, 3d, Elizabeth (Swett), widow of Dr. Mark Prime, of York, Me. (By her marriage with Dr. Prime she had two children, Joseph Prime and Olive Prime.) She, a widow, was made guardian of children Samuel[4] and Olive[4] Wallingford, minors, upwards of 14 years of age, 1 December 1773. She died at Berwick, Me., 3 December 1810, aged 93 years.

The records of births or baptisms do not give a full list of his children. By his first wife, Margaret, records mention:

1. Hannah[4] Wallingford, born 5 May 1720.
2. Judith[4] Wallingford, born 25 March 1722.
3. Ebenezer[4] Wallingford, born 21 July 1724.
4. Abigail[4] Wallingford, born 30 September 1726.

By his second wife, Mary (Pray), most of his children must have been born, but there is no list.

By his third wife, Elizabeth (Swett) Prime, he had but two:

1. Samuel[4] Wallingford, born 4 February 1755.
2. Olive[4] Wallingford, born 29 May 1758, was youngest child; married John Cushing, of South Berwick, Me., and lived until about 1855, when she died at the house of H. H. Hobbs, Esq., attorney at law, at South Berwick, who married her daughter.

The complete number and names of Col. Thomas[3] Wallingford's children can only be got at from a schedule of his property divided among thirteen children (evidently not in order of birth), or their heirs, viz.:

1. Moses Dow, of New Durham, for his wife. (Was she Judith[4]?)
2. Thomas[4] Wallingford; was Captain; married Abigail, daughter of Hon. John Hill, of Berwick, Me., born 31 July 1729. He died 8 November 1792. They had:

    1. Margaret[5] Wallingford; married, in 1767, Robert Tate, son of "Master" Joseph Tate; see "Tate" note under John B.[6] (1587) Wentworth.

1. Mary[5] Cole, born 22 August 1756; married, June 1778, Capt. James Adams, of Rochester, N. H. (son of Benjamin Adams, who was son of Rev. Joseph Adams, of Newington, N. Col. Otis Baker was son of Capt. Thomas and Christiné (Otis) Baker, of Northampton, Mass.; Capt. Thomas was son of Timothy Baker,* who was son of Edward Baker, a freeman at Lynn, Mass., in 1638. Col. Otis Baker was member of the Provincial House of Representatives at Portsmouth, N. H., 1768, 1770–2–3, and also in 1775, when the Provincial government was abandoned. December 21, 1775, he was chosen a Representative to the revolutionary legislature at Exeter, which resolved itself into an independent State government, and elected him one of the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas, which office he had held under the Provincial government from the organization of Strafford County,

* Timothy Baker was a leading character in Northampton, often selectman, on important committees of Town and Church, was called "Mr." from the first, then "Ensign," and finally "Lieutenant." The final record is, "30 August 1729, Lieut. Timothy Baker died." He married, 1st, 16 January 1672, Grace Marsh, and had Grace Baker, born 1673, died 10 February 1673; and Timothy Baker, born in 1675, died in infancy. His wife died 31 May 1676; and 1678 or 9, he married, 2d, Sarah Atherton, the widow of Rev. Hope Atherton, minister of Hatfield, who was chosen chaplain of Capt. Thomas Lathrop's Company, which was cut to pieces by the Indians at Bloody Brook (Deerfield), Mass. She was a daughter of Lieut. John Hollister, of Wethersfield, and married Mr. Atherton in 1674. She had by him three children. Timothy Baker had by her, John Baker, born 3 February 1680; Thomas Baker, born 14 May 1682; Edward Baker, born 12 November 1685 (left no male issue); Prudence Baker, born 14 May 1687; and Deliverance Baker, born 13 November 1689, died 1710.

Capt. Thomas Baker (for whom see N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, 1851) married Christiné Otis, daughter of Richard and Grizzel (born 6 March 1662, daughter of James and Margaret Warren, of Kittery, Me.) Otis, of Dover, N. H., who was born at Dover, N. H., in March 1688–9, and when the town was taken and destroyed by the Indians, on the morning of 28 June following, she was carried captive with her mother to Canada. The French priests took this child, then three months old, under their care, baptized her by the name of Christiné, and educated her in the Romish religion. She passed some time in a nunnery, but declined to take the veil. About the age of sixteen she married a Frenchman, whose name was recorded on the Brookfield, Mass., Records, Lé-Bue, and in Col. Stoddard's Journal (see N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, April 1851), Le-Beau.

But her desire to see New England was so strong that, upon an exchange of prisoners in 1714, being then a widow, she left her children, who were not permitted to come with her, and returned home, where she abjured the Romish faith. M. Seguenot, her former confessor, wrote her a flattering letter in 1727, warning her of her danger, repeating many gross calumnies which had formerly been vented against Luther and the other reformers. This letter being shown to Gov. William Burnet, he wrote her a sensible and masterly answer, refuting the arguments and detecting the falsehoods it contained. Both these letters, written in French (as neither Christiné at that time nor the priest understood English), were translated and printed. A copy may be found in the Athenæum Library, Boston; it is also reprinted in the Collections of the New Hampshire Historical Society.

She had three children by her French husband; they remained in Canada. Col. Otis Baker was the sixth of her seven children by her second marriage.

in 1773, and so continued to hold it until he was elected a State Senator in 1785, which office he held two years. He was one of the N. H. Committee of Safety from 1776 to 1777, and he succeeded Col. John[4] (160) Wentworth, of Somersworth (the fourth in descent from Elder William[1] by his son Ezekiel[2], and grandson Capt. Benjamin[3]) in command of the old 2d N. H. Regiment. Col. Baker resided in Dover, N. H., on Silver Street (now so called),

Christiné (Otis) Baker removed to Dover, N. H., about 1734, with her husband, Capt. Thomas Baker. They resided on the northwest corner of Pleasant and Silver Streets. She died 23 February 1773. The New Hampshire Gazette, Portsmouth, 5 March 1773, says, "She joined the church under the care of Rev. Solomon Stoddard, of Northampton, Mass., and removing to Dover, she there lived in good reputation, being a pattern of industry, prudence, and economy. She bore a tedious illness with much patience and calmness. The number of her posterity of three generations is seventy-two, and fifty-seven of them are now living."

"Richard Otis, smith, may inhabit," is the first mention of this emigrant, and is on the Boston records, 28 May 1655. He was taxed at Dover, N. H., the next year, and was a blacksmith there until his death. His first wife was Rose, daughter of Anthony Stoughton, who probably came over with him, and by whom he had seven children. His second wife was Shuah, widow of James Heard, by whom it is supposed he had no children. By his last wife he had two children. He was killed on the morning of 28 June 1689, in the attack on Dover, in which twenty-two were killed and twenty-nine carried into captivity. The garrison houses there were surrounded with timber walls, the gates of which, as well as the house-doors, were secured with bolts and bars. The neighboring families resorted to these houses at night for safety. Approaching the place with professions of peace, the Indians sent two of their squaws to each house to ask lodgings for the night, with the intention of opening the doors after the inmates were asleep, and giving the signal, by a whistle, to the savages to rush in. The stratagem succeeded.

On the night of Thursday, 27 June 1689, in unsuspecting confidence the families retired to rest. When all was quiet the gates were opened and the signal was given. The Indians rushed into Major Waldron's house, and though seventy-four years old, he with his sword drove them from room to room until stunned by a hatchet thrown by an Indian, who came through another room behind him. They then cut him in pieces and set the house on fire.

Otis's garrison met with the same fate. He was shot as he was rising up in bed, and his son, Stephen Otis, and daughter, Hannah Otis, were killed, the latter — then two years old — by dashing her head against the chamber-stairs. Another account is that Richard Otis was shot whilst looking out the window on the first alarm. The wife and infant child (of three months old) of Richard Otis with the children of his son, Stephen Otis, and others, twenty-nine in all, were carried captive to Canada, where they were sold to the French, — the first English prison-his house being next east to that of Rev. Dr. Jeremy Belknap, until Dr. Ezra Green built between; and on the present western corner lot of Silver and Atkinson Streets.

After the death of Lydia[4], Col. Baker married, 2d, Tamsen[5] (567), daughter of James[4] (his first wife's cousin) and Mehitable (Waldron) Chesley, and widow of John Twombly; she was born 1728, and died 6 November 1801, and had issue, for which see Tamsen[5] (567) Chesley.

ers ever carried to that country. Three daughters of Richard Otis by his first wife, then young, were also taken, but were recaptured in Conway by a company of men who collected and pursued them. It was the custom of the Indians to divide their prisoners into different parties, and to take them to Canada by different routes.

The garrisons of Peter Coffin and Tristram Coffin (father and son) were also destroyed, the Heard garrison alone being preserved, which was saved by Elder William[1] Wentworth.

Mrs. Grizel (Warren) Otis, widow of Richard Otis, and mother of Christiné Otis, remained in Canada, was baptized there in the Romish faith, and married again. The Canadian record is as follows:

"Mary Madeleine Warren, daughter of James, of Berwick, in Scotland, and Margaret (an Irishwoman), born 6 March 1662, in New England, taken in war, 18 [28] June 1689; baptized 9 May 1693; married, 1st, Richard Theys [Otis]; 2d, 15 October 1693, Philip Robitaile, in Montreal, in the service of M. de Maricour." The name "Robitaile" was pronounced by Mrs. Bean as if spelled Rubatoy. The English translation of the French priest, M. Seguenot's letter to Christiné, of 7 June 1727, makes it Robitail. The French priest's letter to Christiné (Otis) in 1727 speaks of the death of a daughter of Christiné, who had married and removed to Quebec, and of her mother, Mrs. Robitail, as then alive. Mrs. Robitaile lived until she was about ninety years of age, and died in Canada; but as Mrs. Bean used to say, "She was bedridden the last nine or ten years of her life." She had children by her last husband, but how many is not known. One of them, a son, named Philip Robitaile, came from Montreal to Brookfield, Mass., after 1716, to see his half sister, Christiné (Otis) Baker, worked a year on her farm, returned to Canada, and soon after died. Oliver Robitaille took the degree of M. D. at Bowdoin College in 1838, and also the same degree at Harvard College in the same year; he is not "starred" in either catalogue. In 1869 a Dr. Robitaille was member of the Canadian Parliament. Hon. Charles Robitaille, M. P., was appointed Receiver-General in Canada in 1872. Hon. Theodore Robitaille was in the Dominion Cabinet in 1873, from the Montreal district.

Among the list of captives reported as still in the hands of the French in Canada in October 1695, are those of Grizoll Ottis, Christon Ottis, Stephen Ottis, John Ottis, and Rose Ottis.

A full account of the Otis and Baker families will be found in the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, April 1851.

* Waldron. — John Waldron is spoken of in John Heard's Will as "my prentice." When a boy, he was taken in an "unfair" manner from a seaport in England, by a "seafaring man named Heard," doubtless John Heard, with whom he lived at Dover. He used to drive the cows past the house of Mrs. Mary Horne (not the widow of William, killed in Dover by the Indians, in 1689, as is sometimes stated), granddaughter of John Heard, who lived on the "upper factory road," a mile above the falls, where Stephen Palmer (who married, in Dover, 24 April 1825, Abigail Horne) lately lived; from whom he received many kindnesses, which were continued until he became a man, and finally her husband. It was said that he was a distant relative of Major Richard Waldron, who was killed in August 1776, and he married, 2d, 4 April 1777, Lydia, daughter of Isaac Horne. He was then seventy years of age and she twenty-two. He died 10 October 1777.

James[4] and Mehitable (Waldron) Chesley had:

1689, but nothing is known of such a connection. His wife was Mary, daughter of John and Mary (Heard) Ham; she was born 2 October 1668; married, 1st, 30 June 1686, John Horne, who was probably the John Horne who was the son of William Horne killed in the massacre of 1689; and 2d, 29 August 1698, John Waldron. John Waldron's Will, made 12 May 1740, was proved 30 July following. He had:

1. Sarah[2] Waldron.

2. Bridget[2] Waldron. Both these, in July 1712, the former aged seven, the latter five, were killed by the Indians, who seized them as they were turning calves into a pasture near the house, and cut off their heads with an axe, in sight of their mother. The heads were found where the Indians had thrown them after removing the scalps, and were buried with the bodies. See Farmer's Belknap, p. 181.

3. Richard[2] Waldron, of whom see below.

4. John[2] Waldron, lived in Dover, and died 4 July 1778, a record saying (perhaps not accurate) "aged 80 years." Mary, wife of John Waldron, sen., was admitted to the Dover church 1 August 1742. "John Waldron, jr.," apparently this John, had son John Waldron baptized 3 July 1726, but if this one, the child died. Perhaps Mary may have been a second wife. He had, the first five mentioned being baptized 30 May 1756:

    1. Bridget[3] Waldron.

    2. William[3] Waldron; married, 16 April 1779, Sarah Ham. He died in Dover, in 1809; she died in 1829. They had:

        1. Elizabeth[4] Waldron.
        2. Thomas[4] Waldron.
        3. John[4] Waldron.
        4. William[4] Waldron.
        5. Lewis[4] Waldron.
        6. Anna[4] Waldron.
        7. Samuel[4] Waldron.
        8. Mehitable[4] Waldron.
        9. Sarah[4] Waldron, born 7 April 1789; married, 24 June 1816, Ezekiel[6] (1490) Wentworth, whom see for children; married, 2d, —— Booth, and died in Dover, N. H., 9 February 1876.

    3. John[3] Waldron.

    4. Mary[3] Waldron.

    5. Ebenezer[3] Waldron, baptized 20 November 1757.

    6. Thomas[3] Waldron, baptized 31 August 1760.

5. Elizabeth[2] Waldron, married Ezra Kimball. Their son, Richard[3] Kimball, is mentioned in his grandfather's Will, in 1740.

6. Anna[2] Waldron, married Timothy Roberts; received land in Rochester, N. H., from her father by Will. Timothy Roberts is doubtless the first settler of Rochester, in 1728; see "Rochester" note to Gershom[2] (4) Wentworth. Their son John[3] Roberts was named in his grandfather's Will.

7. Mehitable[2] Waldron, married James[4] (167) Chesley, as above.

8. Sarah[2] Waldron, married Isaac Libbey. Their son, Samuel[3] Libbey, was mentioned in his grandfather's Will.

Richard[3] Waldron, son of John[1] as above, lived a little northwest of Garrison Hill, in Dover, on the spot where the late Taylor Page lived (who died in Dover, 8 July 1865, aged 72 years), and on which his son, George Page, now lives. The author of this work, with his daughter, and his maternal cousin, Mrs. Sarah C.[8] (1648.1) (Currier) Upham, visited the grave of his father's mother there, 13 September 1872. He married —— Smith, of Durham, N. H. His Will, made 6 August 1771, was proved 29 January 1772, and mentions wife Elizabeth. They had:

1. John[3] Waldron, born about 1740, of whom see below.

2. Hannah[3] Waldron, married, 26 January 1764, Capt. John Hayes, of Dover; his widow died and was buried in Lebanon, Me. They had eleven children, the eldest, Elihu[4] Hayes, born 28 January 1765; married (as her second husband) Sarah[5] (629) (Lord) Clarke; another, Elisha[4] Hayes, had a son John S.[5] Hayes, who married Betsey W.[7] Shapleigh, daughter of Elisha and Betsey[6] (1552) (Wentworth) Shapleigh. Capt. John Hayes's mother was a Wentworth, and perhaps was Martha[4] (73) Wentworth, who married a John Hayes.

3. Elizabeth[3] Waldron, married, 3 June 1770, Capt. Elisha Shapleigh, of Kittery, Me., and had ten children, one of whom, Betsey[4] Shapleigh, married John[5] (1596) Rollins, whom see.

4. Mary[3] Waldron, married, 23 March 1778, Elijah Clements, of (now) Rollinsford, N. H., and had two children.

5. Joseph[3] Waldron, born 16 May 1744, O. S.; married Tamsen[6] (1647), daughter of John and Tamsen[5] (567) (Chesley) Twombly, born 18 September 1750. Her father lived in the Littleworth district, in Dover, N. H., near where Israel Ricker lately lived. Her mother, Tamsen[5] (567), married, 2d (second wife), Col. Otis Baker. Joseph[4] Waldron lived in the "Upper Factory" district, in Dover, near where Oliver S. Horne now (1876) lives. He died 8 April 1821; she died 11 March 1823. For children, see Tamsen[6] (1647) Twombley.

6. Richard[3] Waldron, born about 1749; owned and lived on the farm in Dover, which was afterwards the "Town Farm." He married, 25 October 1773, Elizabeth, daughter of Job Clements, of Dover, N. H.; died about 1811. They had:

1. Elizabeth[4] Waldron, married, 1st, Thomas Hanson, of Dover, and had four children; 2d, Samuel Fowler, and had five children.

They had nine children, of whom Richard[5] Waldron, born in Dixmont, Me., 26 May 1805, resides in Dover, having had eight children.

7. Samuel[3] Waldron; married, 20 February 1777, Hannah, daughter of Capt. John and Judith (Twombly) Gage, of Dover; he died without issue, and she married, 2d, Daniel Rogers, of Rochester, N. H., and died 17 March 1809.

8. James[3] Waldron; married Betsey Pickering, and had one child.

John[3] Waldron, son of Richard[2] as above, born about 1740, was known as "Col. John." He had his father's homestead in Dover. He held commission in the militia, and led a company to Massachusetts in 1775; returned, and raised a regiment in and around Dover, in a few days, and commanded it at Cambridge. He was moderator in Dover, 1788 to 1799, 1801 to 1803, 1805 to 1810, and 1815; he was in the Provincial Legislature at Portsmouth in 1774, and in the Revolutionary convention at Exeter in 1775, and a Representative from Dover in 1782, 1783, 1785, 1786, and 1788, in which year he was chosen Senator, and held that office again in 1790, 1791, 1792, 1803, 1804, 1805, and 1806. He was chosen Representative again in 1797, 1798, 1801, 1802, 1803, 1815. At one election, he was chosen moderator, lot layer, highway surveyor, overseer of the poor, Representative, and Senator. He died 31 August 1827, aged 87.

Caleb Prentiss, of South Reading, Mass. (seventh minister of that place, ordained 25 October 1769; died 7 February 1803), and daughter of Rev. John Mellen; she was born 16 September 1750, died 8 August 1823. She was sister of Henry Mellen, a lawyer in Dover, who married, 1st, a daughter of Dr. Ivory Hovey, of Berwick, Me. (who married Elizabeth (Hight), widow of John[5] (199.3) Lord), who died without issue; 2d, Martha W., daughter of Hon. George Frost, and granddaughter of Hon. John and Mary (Pepperrell) Frost. Col. John[3] had, by his first wife:

Henry Willes,* pastor of 2d Church in Norwich, Conn.), Martha Armstrong. She was a member of the church in Newent, a parish of Lisbon, Conn., until 6 October 1758; the baptisms of the children, William[5] to Hannah[5] inclusive, are on the Newent church records. In 1746 William[4] lived in Lisbon, where his son Sylvanus[5] was born. He lived in Canterbury, Conn., in 1762. He died 25 December 1792, in Lisbon, near Hanover Meeting-house, about twelve miles from Norwich, aged, according to Lisbon records, 84 years. His granddaughter, Phebe[6] Adams, daughter of John[5] (585) (living until 1872), remembered him; she said he died of apoplexy. About a year before he died he gave a Thanksgiving dinner to his descendants, at which about sixty were present. He willed his homestead to his three single daughters, Hannah[5], Thankful,[5] and Zipporah[5], where they were all living in 1812, and where they all died. John[5] had the farm adjoining the one his father gave the sisters. William's[4] wife died where he died, in Lisbon (formerly part of Norwich), Conn., 1 March 1794, aged 84 years. They had:

* Tradition speaks of him as a lad on one of the privateers captured by a British frigate during the Revolutionary War, and says that one day a young midshipman came near the prisoners, who were having an airing on deck, and spoke sneeringly of "the rebels." Young Lord retorted, "If it were not for your rank, sir, I would make you take back that insult." "No matter for my rank," replied the young officer; "if you can whip me you are welcome to do it." The challenge was eagerly accepted, and the two had a regular sailor's set-to, in which the Yankee was victorious, and the Englishman acknowledged himself beaten, and shaking hands with his opponent the Englishman said, "You are a brave fellow. Give me your name, and I will not forget you." On arriving in England all the prisoners except young Lord were sent to prison. The admiral informed him that the Duke of Clarence, afterwards King William IV, the young midshipman with whom he had had the set-to, had requested that he might be set at liberty, and he had permission to go to any part of the kingdom, and that the duke had placed a five-pound note at his disposal.

JONATHAN[4] (274), known as "Col. Jonathan," son of Samuel[3] and Patience (Downs) Wentworth, born in Dover, N. H., 8 September 1741; lived at Dry Hill, so called, and sometimes called Sligo, about two miles from Dover Landing, N. H., on the right from the road to South Berwick, Me. He was one of the Selectmen of Somersworth, N. H., in 1774, with Paul[5] (530) Wentworth. He was, with two brothers, in the Revolutionary army. He was captain of a company raised in Somersworth, N. H., in 1775, in Col. Poor's* regiment. He made a forced march of sixty-two miles previous to the battle of Bunker Hill, and arrived in Chelsea, opposite, in the morning, but could not cross the river on account of the enemy, and went round by way of Medford to join the troops. He was under Washington, at Cambridge, in 1776; was at Ticonderoga in September of that year, but owing to some disagreement with his commanding officers, he left the service for a time, and published an explanatory note in the Freeman's Journal, or New Hampshire Gazette, 5 November 1776. Gen. Philip Schuyler, of New York, and Gov. John Langdon, of New Hampshire, under date 13 July 1776, at Albany, N. Y., acknowledge receipt of money by the hands of Capt. Jonathan Wentworth, and regret his departure from the service. His explanation was so satisfactory that he rejoined the Continental army at Rhode Island, 5 August 1778, under Gen. John Sullivan. He was Major in 1783, under Col. Thomas Bartlett, and at one time Brigade-Major under Col. Stephen Evans.

* Enoch Poor, Colonel; John McDuffie, Lieutenant-Colonel; John Cilley, Major. Of his company, — Jonathan Wentworth, Captain; James Carr, Lieutenant; Jethro Hurd, Second Lieutenant; Samuel Nute, Ensign.

* HALL. — She was descended from Deacon John Hall the emigrant.

Deacon John[1] Hall was of Dover, in 1650, the same year in which Ralph Hall, of the Exeter Combination in 1639, believed to be a younger brother, came to Dover, N. H.; and the same year in which John Hall, sen., by tradition a father to Deacon John Hall and Ralph Hall, also appears in Dover. Deacon John[1] Hall was born (by deposition) in 1617; was deacon of the First Church in Dover, for nearly forty years while William[1] Wentworth was an Elder. He was Selectman, Town Clerk for at least sixteen years (ending with 1685), and died about 1693–4. His wife's name is not known. He had (probably with others):

1. John[2] Hall, born about 1649; was Representative from Dover in 1694–1697, being drowned (while a member) 28 April 1697. He married, 8 November 1671, Abigail, daughter of John and Abigail (Nutter) Roberts. (See "Roberts" note under Joanna[4] (333) Wentworth, who married Capt. Joshua Roberts, grandson of Abigail's brother Hatevil Roberts.) She married, 2d, 24 October 1698, Thomas Downs, of Cochecho, who was killed by the Indians in 1711. See "Downs" note to Samuel[3] (58) Wentworth. John[2] Hall had:

   6. Sarah[3] Hall, probably the Sarah Hall who, then wife of Richard Goodwin, quitclaimed, 11 May 1730, all right in her father John[2] Hall's estate.

Some time prior to 1800 Mr. McDonōgh was appointed British Consul at Boston, which office he held until his death in 1805, aged about sixty-five. He was buried at Milton, Mass., in the tomb of his son-in-law, the late Hon. Peter O. Thatcher. When the Duke of Kent (Queen Victoria's father) and when Charles Mary[6] (995) Wentworth visited the United States, they made their headquarters at his hospitable mansion. The correspondence of Gov. Charles-Mary[6] (995) presented him with the portrait of his father, by Copley, which, after their mother's death, their daughters presented to Mark H.[7] (2712) Wentworth, of Portsmouth, N. H. His wife, born 22 June 1761, died at Hingham, Mass., 10 November 1838, and was buried at Milton, Mass.

born there 21 February 1737. The marriage was thus announced in the Portsmouth Gazette: "Last evening was married at his Excellency Gov. John[5] (371) Wentworth's, by the Rev. Dr. Byles.* Dr. William Lee Perkins, of Boston, formerly of Hampton Court, Great Britain, to Mrs. Rogers, second daughter of Samuel[4] Wentworth. Esq., late of the same place." It is said that at her marriage to her first husband, the other two were present; and that at her marriage with her second, the last one was present. She survived her husband, died in March 1802, and was buried in the tomb under the church in Quincy. Dr. Perkins was the author of several medical publications of much merit. He went to Halifax at the breaking out of the Revolution, with his family, and was in London in October 1776. Gen. Washington, on taking possession of Boston, had ordered his stock of medicines seized for the Continental army. In 1778 he and Nathaniel Perkins were proscribed by the Massachusetts Act, and banished. He died at Hampton Court, England, 30 March 1797. He had a former wife, Sarah, daughter of Shem Drowne and widow of Rev. Jeremiah Condy, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Boston, who died 28 August 1768; she died 7 July 1773.

Elizabeth[5] (Wentworth) Gould had, by her first marriage:

974. John[6] Gould, a surgeon in the British army, who married a daughter of Michael Francklin † (Lieut.-Governor of Nova Scotia in 1766 and 1773), and died in the West Indies, leaving a son in business, at latest dates, in Liverpool, England. (There was a John Gould, of Massachusetts, who went to England and was a loyalist. Addresser of the king in 1779.)

975. Samuel[6] Gould, merchant in Boston. No trace can be found of any descendants.

* Matthew Byles was born in Boston, Mass., 26 March 1706. graduated H. C., 1725, ordained over the Hollis Street Church, Boston, 20 December 1733, and died 5 July 1788. His first wife was a niece of Gov. Jonathan Belcher, and his last a daughter of Lt.-Gov. William Tailer.

† Michael Francklin emigrated from Boston to Halifax about 1752; old residents of Halifax had a tradition that he was in some way, at one time, connected in business with the Apthorps and John Hancock. He was member of the Assembly in 1759 and 1761, and of the Council in 1762; Justice of the Peace in 1761. He was lieutenant-governor in 1766 and 1773; and 1768 was a lieutenant-governor of St. John's Island. He died in 1782. It is not known that he was in any way connected with Benjamin Franklin. He married a Miss Boutineau, and had James Boutineau Francklin, whose only child was the wife of Rev. R. F. Uniacke, rector of St. George's church, Halifax, and who died in 1870. James Boutineau was an attorney at Boston, Mass., and was made a counsellor in 1774. His estate was confiscated, and he was living in England in 1777.

976. Elizabeth[6] Gould, married George Henry Monk, Judge of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia. He was known in early life as Major Monk. He went to Canada, where he died in 1823. They had:

1. Elizabeth[7] Monk, lived with her uncle Sir James* Monk, and died single.

2. Ann[7] Monk, married, 26 March 1811, by the Lord Bishop of Nova Scotia, at St. Paul's Church, Halifax, N. S., to Col. Arthur Lloyd,† of the British army.

3. Henry[7] Monk, died in the employ of the Northwest or Hudson Bay Company.

4. James[7] Monk, was in the commissariat at Halifax, and was drowned from a sail-boat in Bedford Basin, a few miles from town.

5. Samuel Wentworth[7] Monk, was a prominent lawyer at Halifax; removed to Montreal, and became Judge. His son is now Judge there.

* He was son of James Monk, sen., an eminent lawyer at Halifax, who was made Judge of the Superior Court of Common Pleas in 1732, and the James Monk who married Anne Deering (see "Benning" note to Samuel[2] (2) Wentworth). He had two sons:

1. James Monk, who was Solicitor-General in 1774, Member of Assembly in 1776 and 1777. He removed to Canada, became Chief Justice, was knighted, and died without issue. Letters of Administration granted in the case of James Monk, sen., 13 June 1768, to his son James. The widow waived her right.

Gov. John[5] Wentworth, 28 June 1770, recommends James Monk, of Nova Scotia, as a lawyer of repute. He, 2 July 1770, asks a passage to England, for "my kinsman," Mr. Monk. This was the James Monk who was afterwards knighted. There was a brother of James and George Henry Monk, who was named Charles Monk, and a sister who married and survived George Deschamps, son of Judge Isaac Deschamps.

Gov. John Wentworth, in a letter dated Boston, Mass., 12 February 1776, to James Monk, wishes remembrance to Mrs. Monk, and also to his excellent aunt (probably the mother of this James, and wife to James Monk, sen., who was Anne Deering), to his brother George Henry Monk, and to his sisters.

2. George Henry Monk, married Elizabeth[6] (976) Gould, as above.

† Henry Lloyd, contractor for the royal army and Joshua Loring, jr., went to Halifax in 1776, and were proscribed with other loyalists in 1778, and banished. Lloyd died in London about 1796, aged 86. Joshua Loring, jr., died in England in 1789, aged 45; married —— Lloyd, in Dorchester, Mass., 1769, and had John Wentworth Loring, born 1775, who was father of Henry Lloyd Loring, Arch-Deacon of Calcutta, who died 1832. See letter of King William IV under Gov. John[5] (371), introducing a Mr. Lloyd. See "Apthorp" note under Sarah[5] (363).

There was a David Lloyd, clerk to the Justices of the Peace, at Halifax, N. S., in 1750, and also clerk to the first House of Assembly in Nova Scotia, in 1758.

Joshua Loring, jr., signed an address to Gov. Thomas Hutchinson, of Mass., under date 28 May 1774, upon his surrendering his office to Gen. Thomas Gage.

6. Edward Gould[7] Monk, was educated at Windsor College, N. S., and went to England.

By her second marriage, Elizabeth[5] (Wentworth) Rogers had.

977. George Wentworth[6] Rogers, baptized at King's Chapel, Boston, 3 September 1766, and doubtless died in infancy.

By her third marriage, Elizabeth[5] (Wentworth) Perkins had:

978. Anna[6] Perkins, born at Doncaster, Yorkshire, England, 15 August 1778; married her cousin George Henry[6] (971) Apthorp, whom see for descendants.

MARY[5] (366), daughter of Samuel[4] and Elizabeth (Deering) Wentworth, born 4 May 1743; baptized at King's Chapel, Boston, Mass., by Mr. Commissary Rice, 27 May 1743, — sureties, William Shirley, Esq., and Mrs. Monk,* of Boston, and Mrs. Carter, of Barbadoes. She married, 29 October 1765, George Brinley, afterwards a merchant in Boston. He was fifth and youngest son of Col. Francis† Brinley, of Roxbury, Mass. He and a Thomas Brinley signed an address to Gov. Hutchinson, of Massachusetts, dated Boston, 28 May 1774, upon the occasion of surrendering his office to Gen. Gage. He signed an address to Gov. Gage, 6 October 1775. He and Thomas Brinley were proscribed by the Massachusetts Act of 1778. George Brinley was in England in 1783; held the position of Deputy Commissary-General, at Halifax, N. S., in 1797; in 1799 was appointed Commissary-General of his Majesty's forces in British North America, and was holding the

† Col. Francis Brinley had also a son Francis Brinley, of Newport, R. I., who had son Edward Brinley. Gov. John[5] (371) Wentworth, under date of Halifax, N. S., 4 September 1792, writes to Edward Brinley, of Shelburne, N. S., congratulating him on his marriage, and appoints him collector of that town. He married, 1st, at Shelburne, N. S., Janet Parker, of Perth Amboy, New Jersey, to which place they afterwards removed, where she died in 1804. After her death he removed to Newport, R. I., and there married, in 1807, Mary, daughter of Hon. Augustus Johnstone, of that place, Judge of Vice-Admiralty. He died at Perth Amboy, N. J., in 1851, aged 95 years. He had, by his first wife:

1. Gertrude Aliph Brinley, married Rev. Edwin Gilpin, then of Aylesford, afterwards of Annapolis, N. S.
2. Elizabeth Parker Brinley, married Rev. J. F. Halsey.
3. Francis William Brinley.
4. Maria Margaret Brinley, died single. These four were born in Shelburne, N S.
5. Catherine Sophia Brinley, born in Newport, R. I., in 1803, died single.

He had, by his second wife:

office as late as 1808, if not until his death. He died at Halifax in 1809, his Will being proved 11 May. His Will was made at Halifax, 2 November 1798, at which date he had children living, — Mrs. Mary[6] Moody (in England), Thomas[6] Brinley, Wentworth[6] Brinley (in England), William B.[6] Brinley, and grandson George[7] Moody. His wife Mrs. Mary[5] (Wentworth) Brinley, made her Will 17 September 1817; it was proved 2 January 1819, when her husband and children were all dead; she willed property to her grandson, Lieut. Charles[7] Moody, — to C. D. Nevinson, second "husband of my lamented daughter Mary[6] Nevinson," — to her "granddaughter Catherine Frances[7] Moody" (and speaks of her granddaughter's sister, "the late Mrs. Roberts,") — to the granddaughter of her sister, Mrs. Sarah[5] (363) Apthorp, who was Anna Louisa[6], daughter of Hon. Perez Morton.

Gen. George Brinley writes to his brother Francis Brinley, of Newport, R. I., from Halifax, N. S., 17 August 1800: —

I have been singularly fortunate in my family. Your favorite son has been upwards of four years a Lt.-Col. He now commands the 4th or "King's Own" Regiment, and is besides, Assistant Adjutant-General on the Staff. My second son [George was then dead] is an Attorney in London, and of as much reputation as any young man of his age in the kingdom. My third son is Paymaster of a Regiment now at Newfoundland. My daughter is unfortunately a widow, with four children, all of whom have a handsome independence."

Gen. George and Mary[5] (366) (Wentworth) Brinley had: —

979. Mary[6] Brinley (only daughter), born in Boston, Mass.; married, 1st, 11 November 1785 (from the house of Paul Wentworth, LL.D., at Fulham, Eng., elsewhere described in this work), Charles Moody, a merchant in London; she was a widow, with four children, 17 August 1800; she married, 2d, at London, 17 October 1801 (being called "Mrs. Moody, of Coopersale, Essex"), Dr. Charles D. Nevinson, of Somerset Street, Portman Square, who was living in 1817. The following entry is made in an old diary kept by Samuel Henry[6] (991) Wentworth: —

June 6, 1817. My cousin, Mrs. Nevinson, was killed while crossing Portman Square, by a horse running away with a gig; the shaft entered the side of her head, which caused instant death.

In the Gentleman's Magazine, London, the following is appended to the announcement of her death: —

Mrs. Nevinson was a most accomplished and interesting woman. She left two children by Dr. Nevinson [one a son, born 15 November 1804], and was mother to Lieut. Moody of the 36th Regiment, of Portsmouth garrison, who being under orders to embark for the Mediterranean, had set off the same morning to take leave of her, and arrived at her house soon after she had been brought in a corpse.

Nothing is known by the author of this work of her children by Dr. Nevinson, nor of the order of the births of the children by Mr. Moody, save that George W.[7] is given as the second son. She had, by her first husband:

1. Charles[7] Moody, lieutenant in the army, living at his mother's death, 6 June 1817. Lady Wentworth, 23 January (probably 1811), writes to her nephew Samuel Henry[6] (991) Wentworth: —

Charles Moody writes to his mother and she to him, but there is not the least chance of an exchange. Mary Jane[7] [probably Mrs. Roberts] is looking very well, and Kate[7] [Mrs. Gore] returns to her school next week.

2. Mary Jane[7] Moody. Her grandmother Mary[5] (366) speaks of her in her Will as the "late Mrs. Roberts." Perhaps she was the oldest child. The Gentleman's Magazine says: —

Feb. 26, 1818, died at Dr. Nevinson's, Mrs. Roberts, widow of J. W. Roberts, formerly Chief of the East India Company's China Establishment.

3. George Wentworth[7] Moody. The same Magazine says:

Died 2 November 1810, at Halifax, N. S., in his 16th year, George Wentworth Moody, of the Royal Navy, second son of Mrs. Nevinson, of Somerset Street. In returning to his ship Atalanta, the boat was overset, and this young officer drowned.

This would make him born 1795.

4. Catherine Frances[7] Moody, born 1797; married, 15 February 1823, at St. George's, Hanover Square, Charles Arthur Gore, Esq., of the 1st Regiment of Life Guards, who was living in August 1843. Besides several children who died in childhood, they had:

1. Cecilia Anne Mary[8] Gore, born 30 November 1823; married, 4 July 1853 (at St. George's, Hanover Square, by Rev. Lord John Thynne (sub-dean of Winchester), brother to the bridegroom), Lord Edward Thynne.

2. Augustus Frederick Wentworth[8] Gore, a lieutenant in the English army, served in the 7th Hussars in the India campaign of 1858, including siege of Lucknow; received medal, and was mentioned in despatches; married, 19 September 1861, at St. Mary Abbot's church, Kensington, England, Emily Ann, third daughter of the Hon. Edward and Mrs. Curzon, of Scarsdale House, Kensington, and was one of the suite of the Prince of Wales in his visit to America in 1861.

Mrs. Catharine Frances[7] (Moody) Gore was the well-known authoress. She began to write at the age of twenty-four. Her first work "Theresa Marchmont," said to have been written in a week, was followed by nearly seventy others, filling nearly two hundred volumes. Her works attained an immense popularity. They were confined to portraitures of English fashionable life and character, and had the advantage of her intimate knowledge of the society she described. The London Times has said, "Some future Macaulay will turn to her pages for a perfect picture of life as we find it in the upper classes of society." The most successful of her works were, "The Diary of a Desennuyée," "The Banker's Wife," "Peers and Parvenues," "Temptation and Atonement," and "The Money Lender," which last she dedicated to the author of this work. Leigh Hunt, in his autobiography, says, "I rejoice in the republications of the wise and witty Mrs. Gore, seeing that she makes us wait for something new." For more than a year before her death, Mrs. Gore was almost entirely blind, and a few months before her death an unsuccessful attempt was made to restore her sight. The result was disastrous, and her constitution never recovered from the painful shock. She had lived at Hamble Cliff, Southampton, but died at Linwood, Linhurst, 29 January 1861, in her 63d year.

Mrs. Gore was a great favorite with her mother's cousin, Sir Charles-Mary[6] Wentworth, son of Gov. John[5] (371). She was with his mother, Lady Wentworth, when she died; she had passed the most of her time with her after she left Halifax for the last time in 1810. When Sir Charles-Mary[6] died, he left her twenty-three thousand acres of land in Nova Scotia, including what was formerly the residence of Edward, Duke of Kent, father of Queen Victoria;* and also all the papers, plate, and pictures which Sir Charles-Mary[6] had inherited from his father. Mrs. Gore wrote to the author of this work that she had had two large chests full of the papers of Gov. John[5] Wentworth, the most of which bore date prior to the American Revolution. But she destroyed them, in the belief that so much prejudice was existing against those who espoused the cause of the home government in the time of the Revolution that nobody would feel any interest in them. She saved a very few which she kindly forwarded to the writer. She felt great interest in the completion of this work, and the author is indebted to her for many of the facts in relation to the Wentworths who left this country at the time of the Revolution. From her last letter to the author, before she lost her sight, the following autograph was taken:

* This place, known as "Prince's Lodge," Bedford Basin, was sold after her death, by her son Lieut. Augustus Frederick Wentworth[8] (979.4) Gore, for about $10,000. There were 400 acres of land. The "Lodge" was about six and a half miles out of Halifax. The land upon which it was built was always the property of Sir John[5] Wentworth, but the Duke of Kent occupied and improved it. There is a manuscript letter extant, from Lady Wentworth to her son in England, dated "Lodge, 29 July 1808."

But a short time before her death she dictated, when totally blind, a letter to the writer, regretting that she could never see the work, but hoping to have it read to her by her children. She also dictated a letter of introduction to him for her son, when he came to America with the Prince of Wales.

1. Frances Mary[7] Brinley, who married, about 1830, William Lawson, and now lives, a widow, at Halifax, N. S., having William[8] Lawson and three other sons and one daughter, living at Halifax.

There was an adopted daughter of Gen. George Brinley, of Halifax, whose marriage is thus mentioned, "At Halifax, 25 June 1810, Thomas d'Avenant Cotton, of the Royal Fusileers, to Miss Mary Hadley Brinley."

Benning[5] (370), son of Samuel[4] and Elizabeth (Deering) Wentworth, born 16 March 1757, baptized at King's Chapel, Boston, by Mr. Caner, 21 May, — His Excellency Gov. Benning[4] (80) Wentworth, Charles Paxton, Esq., and Mrs. Penelope Vassall,* sureties. He graduated at Oxford, England; married, at All Saints' Church, Hereford, by Rev. Dr. Allen, 15 January 1784, to Anne, daughter of William Bird, of Drybridge House, who married Hannah, daughter of William Boulton, of Sillens, co. Worcester, England. In 1788 he was living at Hope, co. Hereford, England. He removed to Halifax, N. S., and held several offices there while his cousin and brother-in-law John[5] (371) Wentworth was governor there. He owned a house and grounds in the north suburbs of Halifax, since called Poplar Grove. He was sworn in as Counsellor, 12 November 1796; Treasurer, which he resigned 3 October 1797; Master of the Rolls and Register in Chancery, 8 July 1800; and also Captain and Paymaster in the King's Nova Scotia regiment. He died at Halifax, 18 February 1808, being then Secretary of the Province. The Governor's son Charles-Mary[6] was appointed his successor. In June 1809, his widow and children sailed from Halifax, reached Plymouth, England, in July, and ever after lived in England. She died, 21 September 1812, in Hereford, England, a few days after the death of her daughter Julia Ann[6] (986).

She married Major William Atkins Bowyer, who, in compliance with the Will of an uncle, had changed his name to William Atkins, and became lord of the manor of Clapham, near London; but he afterwards resumed the name of Bowyer, and the family is known by that name instead of Atkins. JOHN[5] (371) (known as "Governor John," the last royal governor of New Hampshire), son of Mark Hunking[4] and Elizabeth (Rindge) Wentworth, grandson of Lieut.-Gov. John[3], and nephew of Gov. Benning[4]; was baptized (date of birth not given) 14 August 1736–7; graduated at Harvard College 1755, took the degree of A. M. there in 1758, and became early associated with his father at Portsmouth, who was one of the most extensive merchants in New England. He went to England prior to 1765, and when the Stamp Act of that year passed, he and Barlow Trecothick,* then agents of the Province of New Hampshire, were instructed to use all their influence in favor of its repeal. How early he went to England cannot be ascertained. Official record of his being there as the agent of the Province of New Hampshire, two years prior to his appointment as Governor, has been found; and it is asserted that he was there when his wife married her first husband, in 1762. The zeal and talent displayed by young Wentworth commended him to the ministry, and had no small effect in securing the repeal of that odious Act.

While in England, and not thirty-one years of age, on the 11th August 1766, he was appointed Governor of New Hampshire, in place of his uncle Gov. Benning[4], resigned; and also "Surveyor of the King's Woods" for all North America. This latter office was somewhat like the office of surveyor-general at the present day, but it had more particular reference to surveys for the selection and preservation of timber for the navy and other governmental purposes. The duties of this latter office required his attention to all the Colonies. He therefore sailed from England for Charleston, S. C., and reached there the next March. From Charleston he proceeded to Portsmouth, N. H., by land. He registered his commission in each one of the Colonies as he passed along, thereby giving official notice of his appointment. He did not enter upon his duties as Governor of New Hampshire until June 1767. There is an official letter extant, dated 16 June 1767, announcing his arrival at Portsmouth.

Gov. Wentworth lived in the house* on Pleasant Street, occupied by the late Ebenezer[6] (1021) Wentworth, son of the Governor's cousin George[5] (377), until compelled by fear of the revolutionary party to leave the State in 1775; and there is now paper upon the walls of the house, as good as new, placed there by the order of the Governor. In 1773 he built a country residence in Wolfeborough,† N. H., upon the farm now owned by George Whitten, or by his sons Thomas and George W. G. Whitten, upon a small lake emptying into Lake Winnipissiogee (now more frequently written Winnepesaukee), a few miles from the Academy village, or Smith's bridge (so called), where the author of this work, in 1827, attended

* In a letter to Hon. William Bayard, of New York, inviting him to visit him at Portsmouth with his family, dated 3 July 1767, Gov. Wentworth says, "You will find a small hut with little, comfortable apartments. On the one side (we have too much modesty to call it front) we look over the town and down the river to the boundless Atlantic Ocean. On the other we overlook a place for a garden, bounded or rather separated from the field by a large, sea-water pond, which enlivens the rural scene. That is our only entertainment here in the morning. I will promise the ladies good tea, at noon a plain, comfortable table equally removed from want or satiety, and at night a good, dry bed, and at all times and places an honest, sincere welcome to make it all your own without the least hindrance, let or molestation of vexatious ceremony or impertinent curiosity."

This William Bayard was an extensive merchant in New York City, and father or brother of the Robert Bayard, who married a sister of James Apthorp, husband of Lady Wentworth's sister Sarah[5] (363).

† Gov. Wentworth wished to connect the lake with tide water by canal, and have what is now known as Wolfeborough bridge the head of navigation, and thence open a government road to Montreal and Quebec. There is now among his official letters on file at Halifax, N. S., one, dated 5 April 1768, which says, "A road may easily be made from Quebec to Winnipissiogee on the northern parts of this province which would immediately communicate with all the populous and most fertile parts of New England at one third the distance, trouble, time, and expense of any other route. You will readily see the matter on any map. If it should take place, as I have suggested, into New Hampshire, I will endeavor to clear as much of the road as this province can be prevailed upon to provide for."

school. The mansion was one hundred feet long by forty-five feet wide, with out-buildings of corresponding size. He had five large barns. The house was burned in 1820, the same year in which the Governor died; but when the author of this work and his wife visited the ground on Thursday, 4 September 1851, they found there many marks of his taste and liberality.

Mrs. Sarah Wentworth[6] (363) (Apthorp) Morton, in her poem entitled "Beacon Hill," published in 1797, thus alludes to Gov. Wentworth's improvements at Wolfeborough, and to that "dearer cause" which drew "far from his side" the "patriot soldier" and brought a "powerful legion" "to the fierce field":

> While Wentworth, patron of his parent clime,
> With hand of bounty and with soul sublime,
> Mid the blank forest arched the sumptuous dome,
> And dressed the desert with exotic bloom.
> The blue cot rising on the rivulet's side,
> The hungry plain with feeding pulse supplied,
> The clover'd valley, and the barley'd hill,
> The busy flail, the never-resting mill,
> Joined with the milkmaid's song, the ploughman's glee,
> Were all thy gift, and drew their hope from thee:—
> Thee, Wentworth! born the humblest hut to cheer,
> From vexing want to chase the gathering tear,
> Or, round thy brow while civic myrtles twine,
> To rule in council and in courts to shine.
> Loved as thou art, a country's dearer cause
> Far from thy side the patriot soldier draws,
> To the fierce field a powerful legion brings,
> Which scorns the sway and braves the strength of kings.

The Governor's administration ended with the commencement of the American Revolution, and the responsibility of organizing the new government devolved upon the Speaker of the last Provincial House of Representatives, Col. John[4] (160) Wentworth, whose grandfather Ezekiel[2] was a brother to the Governor's great-grandfather Samuel[2]. The Speaker. Col. John[4] Wentworth,* of Somersworth, N. H., was made President of the first State Revolutionary convention, holden for the organization of an independent State Government, at Exeter, N. H.

In the beginning of the difficulties, Gov. Wentworth had hopes that he could be as successful in causing the repeal of the acts that led to the Revolution as he was in causing the repeal of the stamp act in 1765. But at the former period he was present in England. In 1774, while he was corresponding with the Ministry, and with personal friends of influence with them, and doing all he could to conciliate the people at home, other Governors, and especially the Governor of Massachusetts, were precipitating a contest in which the people of New Hampshire could not but sympathize. Had Governor Wentworth been in England, it is doubtful whether any of the obnoxious measures would have passed.

The immediate occasion of open trouble in New Hampshire was the attempt of Gov. Wentworth, in the autumn of 1774, to assist Gen. Thomas Gage, then in command of the British troops in Boston, in procuring mechanics to aid in building barracks in view of the approaching winter, which the Massachusetts mechanics had refused to do. The Committee of Safety, at the head of which was the Governor's uncle Hunking[4] (81) Wentworth, had the Governor's agent brought before them, who, in fear of his life from the popular excitement, made humble acknowledgment. On the 14 December 1774, an armed body of the people attacked and seized Fort William and Mary (where Fort Constitution now stands, on Great Island), pulled down the royal flag, and carried off the powder, small arms, and as many heavy guns as they could remove. This attack upon and capture of a royal fort was four months before the battle of Lexington.*

Gov. John writes the Earl of Dartmouth, 10 March 1775, that he has issued writs, 28 February, for calling a General Assembly; but finding that as many of the principal instigators and ringleaders in the attack on the fort, with their connections, were elected as would compose at least one third of the House, he had adjourned their meeting to the 4 May next, by proclamation.

The Assembly met, but was, by its own wish, adjourned to 12 June; again met, and after a second adjournment to 11 July, expelled three members summoned by the Governor's writ from new towns. One of these made himself obnoxious to the populace, and took shelter in the Governor's house. The populace demanded him, and pointed a mounted gun at the door. The member was then delivered up. The Governor, considering himself and his authority insulted, retired to the fort, and subsequently to a vessel of war in the harbor. His house was pillaged. From the fort he sent a message adjourning the Legislature until 28 September of the same year, and sailed for Boston. In September he returned as far as the Isles of Shoals (now a noted summer resort about eleven miles out into the ocean from Portsmouth), and issued in that month a proclamation proroguing the Assembly until the next April. This was his last official act as Governor of New Hampshire, and this date was the last time in which he set foot in the Province; and this fact is confirmed by the following extract from a letter of his to Charles Hall, of Surinam, dated at Halifax, N. S., 16 May 1801: —

I should be happy, were it in my power, to afford you any useful information concerning your late father's property near my estate at Wolfeborough, adjoining to and I believe a part of Tuftonborough, then the property of Mr. Peter Livius. Since August 1775 I have not had any intercourse with that country upon business. In the progress of the Revolution, all my property was confiscated, and my person proscribed, for my loyalty and attachment to his Majesty's service.

The last letter of Gov. Wentworth from Fort William and Mary, which has been preserved, was to the Earl of Dartmouth, and dated 18 August 1775. He writes again to the Earl, under date of Boston, 29 August, that he embarked on board of the ship Scarborough, at Portsmouth, N. H., on the 22d of August, and reached Boston on the 25th. His wife and child sailed from Boston on board of the ship Julius Cæsar for London, 15 January 1776. He writes to the Earl of Dartmouth, 18 March 1776, that on the withdrawal of the troops from Boston he had taken a vessel for his removal to whatever place the fleet and army should go, and proposed to be under their protection. Rev. Dr. Henry Caner,* rector of King's Chapel, Boston, Mass., and about a dozen other loyal refugees, were with him. He wrote from Halifax, 10 April; from Long Island, N. Y., 5 November; from New York city, 6 January 1777; from Newport, Rhode Island, May 1777. He sailed for England 7 February 1778, and calls himself a resident of London in May of that year.

Gov. Wentworth was in Paris in 1778, and President John Adams records that, as he was leaving his box in the theatre, "A gentleman seized me by the hand; I looked at him. 'Gov. Wentworth, sir,' said the gentleman. At first I was somewhat embarrassed; I knew not how to behave towards him. As my classmate and friend at college and ever since I could have pressed him to my bosom with most cordial affection. But we now belonged to two different nations and were at war with each other, and consequently we were enemies." The bonds of living personal friendship, however, were not easily broken. The Whig and the Loyalist met afterwards in amity. Mr. Adams remarks further that he never knew the object of the governor's visit to the French capital, and concludes mention of him with this handsome tribute, "Not an indelicate expression to us or our country or our ally escaped him. His whole behavior was that of an accomplished gentleman."

The Rev. Dr. Timothy Dwight, in his Travels, says: —

Gov. John Wentworth was the greatest benefactor to the Province of New Hampshire mentioned in its history. He was a man of sound understanding, refined taste, enlarged views, and a dignified spirit. His manners, also, were elegant, and his disposition enterprising. Agriculture in this province owed more to him than to any other man. He also originated the formation of new roads and the improvement of old ones. All these circumstances rendered him very popular, and he would probably have continued to increase his reputation had he not been prevented by the controversy between Great Britain and the Colonists.

As the case was, he retired from the chair with an unimpeachable character, and with a higher reputation than any other man who at that time held the same office in this country.

Rev. Dr. Jeremy Belknap, the historian of New Hampshire, says: —

His intentions were pacific, and whilst the temper of the times allowed him to act agreeably to his own principles, his government was acceptable and beneficial; but when matters came to the worst, his faults were as few and his conduct as temperate as could be expected from a servant of the crown. If a comparison be drawn between him and most of the other Governors on this Continent, at the beginning of the Revolution, he must appear to advantage. Instead of widening the breach, he endeavored to close it; and when his efforts failed, he retired from a situation where he could no longer exercise the office of Governor, leaving his estates and many of his friends.*

In a letter to Dr. Jeremy Belknap, from Nova Scotia, 15 May 1791, Gov. Wentworth says: —

The independence having been consented to by the government which intrusted me with its powers, I do most cordially wish the most extensive, great and permanent blessings to the United States; and of course rejoice at the establishment of their federal constitution as the probable means of their happiness. If there is anything partial in my heart in this case, it is that New Hampshire, my native country, may arise to be among the most brilliant members of the confederation; as it was my zealous wish, ambition, and unremitted endeavor, to have led her to, among the Provinces, while under my administration. For this object, nothing appeared to me too much. My whole heart and fortune were devoted to it; and I do flatter myself, not without some prospect of success.

Again, in a letter from Nova Scotia, dated 21 November 1792, he says:—

The information you give me of my mother's health and Mr. Rindge's [probably his mother's brother] greatly comforts me, and the more so, as the advanced season of the year will, I fear, prevent my visiting my friends in New Hampshire this year, as I intended. The general disposition of kindness toward me, which is manifested in that country, is unfeignedly pleasing to me, after an adherence to my public duty to oppose their revolution, which for so many years has divided us.

Dartmouth College owes its foundation, and chief support prior to the Revolution, to Gov. John[5] Wentworth. In his own person, he did much; and what the Earl of Dartmouth did, he did entirely through Gov. Wentworth's influence, as they were intimate friends, and the Governor first introduced the subject to him. The author of this work was present at the Dartmouth Centennial Celebration in 1868, and it was the general expression that, while the Earl of Dartmouth might have been equally generous for educational purposes without an acquaintance with Gov. Wentworth, it was due to the Governor that his generosity took the direction it did. Gov. Wentworth was made Doctor of Laws by Dartmouth College in 1773; but the Universities of Oxford and Aberdeen had each done it previously. Oxford did it, 12 August 1766, the day after his appointment as Governor, recorded thus:

Excellentissimus et Honorabilis vir Joannes Wentworth, Armiger, Novae Hantoniæ apud Americanos, Provinciæ Gubernator et Capitaneus Generalis.

From 1778 Gov. Wentworth made his home in London or its suburbs, until 1783, when, having received a new commission as Surveyor-General of the King's woods for all North America, he sailed for Halifax, 12 August, and reached there 20 September 1783. In 1788 he writes that the duties of his office employ his whole time. Six or seven months in each year he is entirely absent from his family, traversing the wilderness and waters, exposed to cold, heat, hunger, wet, fatigue, and with consequent impressions on his constitution to such a degree that he had never yet found any one man who was able to go through the whole with him. He continued in this office until George III appointed him Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia, 14 May 1792. Lord Dorchester, Governor of Quebec, Governor-in-Chief of all the Provinces of which Gov. Wentworth had been surveyor, was his strong friend. The same was the case with Edward, Duke of Kent,* father of Queen Victoria, Commander-in-Chief of the Royal Army in all British North America, who resided at Halifax, and built himself a palatial residence upon land

* The Duke of Kent left Halifax early in August 1800, and never revisited Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Catherine Frances[7] Gore, before mentioned, the distinguished authoress, late of Hamble Cliff, Southampton, England, placed in the author's hands the following autograph letter from William, Duke of Clarence, afterwards King William IV, and also one from Edward, Duke of Kent, father of Queen Victoria, as showing the friendship existing between Gov. John[5] Wentworth and the Royal family of England:—

BUSBY HOUSE, 12 June 1802.

DEAR SIR:—The bearer was an old shipmate with me when we were both boys, and has served the whole of the war just concluded, with great credit to himself and ought to have been promoted; but like many other brave and gallant officers, had not the interest requisite. He is, I believe, not unknown to you, and returns to his family at Halifax; being anxious to carry letters of recommendation to your excellency, I could not refuse Mr. Lloyd to write these few lines, and at the same time, embrace with pleasure the opportunity of recalling myself to your recollection, and that of Lady Wentworth. I beg my best wishes and compliments may be presented to her Ladyship, and remain

Dear Sir, Yours sincerely,

KENSINGTON PALACE, 15 January 1812.

DEAR SIR JOHN:—In returning you the enclosed contained in your favor of yesterday, this instant received, I cannot refrain from expressing my very great disappointment at the result of my best exertions to obtain that contrary decision upon your claims, to which it was unquestionably, from every principle of justice and liberality, entitled. However, I entreat you, do not suffer yourself to be cast down by the failure of your hopes in this instance, and bear up until our joint friends return into office, which I think the necessity of conceding to the claims of the Catholics at this momentous crisis must effect at no very distant period; after the restrictions are removed, then be assured that I will conjointly with our venerable friend, Lord Fitzwilliam, exert every nerve to have justice done you, and no rebuffs shall damp my zeal in forwarding that cause in which I consider the honor and good faith of Government to be no less concerned than the interests of one of its oldest and most faithful servants.

of Gov. Wentworth, known as the "Prince's Lodge," which the Duke gave to the Governor when he left Halifax in 1800, and where the Governor made his residence up to the time that he and Lady Wentworth went to England, for the last time, in 1810.

Thomas C. Haliburton, in his History of Nova Scotia, says, "January 1810. Sir John and Lady Wentworth return to reside in Nova Scotia and receive an affectionate address from the people." But this is an error. It may, however, refer to the occasion of their departure for England. For there is an autograph letter from Lady Wentworth to her nephew Samuel Henry[6] (991), now in possession of his daughter Adelaide[7] (2692) who married Dr. Eugene de Courcillon, dated at Morin's Hotel in London, 1 March

I have many thanks to return you for your kind attention to the commission I took the liberty of troubling you with for Mrs. Moody [the mother of Mrs. Gore], and Mrs. Taylor [see below], and with kindest remembrances to Dear Lady Wentworth and every sentiment of friendship and esteem for yourself,

I remain

Dear Sir John

Ever yours

Most faithfully

Edward

Sir John Wentworth.

P. S. I do myself the pleasure of sending you a couple of woodcock which I hope will be acceptable to her Ladyship and yourself.

On the death of Lady Wentworth, in 1813, His Royal Highness, Edward, Duke of Kent, again writes to him:

"I cannot but tell you how strongly my heart participates in the severe blow which it has pleased Providence to inflict on you; and entreat you to believe that, whenever you return to Old England, no exertion shall be spared to reconcile you to that stroke which it was beyond all human power to avert. I look forward anxiously to the time when I shall receive you again at Castle Hill, and retain you there as a guest."

On the birth of the present Queen, Victoria, her father, Edward, Duke of Kent, again writes to him:

"I have received your kind congratulations on the birth of our little girl, which you may be sure I highly appreciate as coming from the heart of one of my best and oldest friends. You will, I am sure, be pleased to hear that the Duchess has been able to suckle her child from the first to the present moment, and that both are doing wonderfully well."

Mrs. Taylor was wife of William Taylor, a wealthy gentleman of Halifax, and mother of Rufus Taylor. She was a Lloyd.

A Mr. Loder held a chief office at the Royal Navy Yard, at Halifax, about 1770 or 1780, who had nephew named Lloyd, who was a Lieutenant in the Royal Navy, and married and died at Halifax, leaving a widow, a son who died unmarried, and two daughters. Mr. Loder also had two nieces, named Lloyd, one of whom married Rufus Taylor, a merchant, and the other, John W. Pyke.

1810, describing a severe voyage across the ocean, and stating that her husband came with her, and that they had met their son who was already in England. And there are other letters covering the space of time up to 24 July 1812, which prove her husband and son to be still with her. So she never returned to Halifax, nor did her husband until after her death, nor is there any evidence that her son ever did. There is an autograph letter of Gov. Wentworth, in the author's possession, written in Halifax, May 1809. There is no evidence at what time Gov. Wentworth returned to Halifax, nor whether he ever occupied "The Lodge" after that event, although it was his property.

In 1795 he was created a Baronet, and on the 16 June 1796 he was further honored with the privilege of wearing in the chevron of his arms two keys as an emblem of his fidelity. In 1808, on account of the infirmities of age, he resigned his office, and Sir George Prevost was sworn in as his successor 13 April of that year. From 1 June 1808 until his death, he received a pension of £500 per annum from the English Government.

There is still preserved at Halifax, N. S. an autograph letter from Mrs. Sarah (Deering) Thomas, sister to Lady Wentworth's mother dated "The Lodge," 15 June 1808, which mentions the arrival of Sir George Prevost, and speaks of an address about to be prepared by the people of Halifax to Sir John[5] Wentworth upon his retiring from the Government. It may be that it was this address which Haliburton referred to.

Beamish Murdoch,* the historian of Nova Scotia, writes to the author of this work, 9 September 1868: —

One thing has impressed me distinctly in my examinations, viz. Although Sir John was ardently attached to the Royal Government, he had a great and sincere love for his native land,† and disapproved of most of

* Beamish Murdoch was born in Halifax, N. S., 1 August 1800, died at Lunenburg, N. S., 9 February 1876.

† As a specimen of the ardor of his love for England, the following quotation from a letter, dated Halifax, 17 November 1803, to Col. Moody (probably James Moody, described by Lorenzo Sabine in his Loyalists of the American Revolution) is given: —

"We are in daily expectation of hearing the result of Bonaparte's threatened invasion on England, Ireland, and Scotland. This mad scheme seems to be so far pledged to his subjects and with such ostentatious preparation declared to all Europe, that something must be attempted by the promising, vaunting tyrant who has plunged himself into an inextricable dilemma. Not to proceed is ruin of popular opinion and confidence. From thence to the guillotine is not far! If the expedition proceeds, defeat, carnage, and destruction must in all human probabilthe measures that incensed the people and produced revolt. At every step, I have been more and more impressed with his candor, hospitality, urbanity, constancy, and the affectionate nature of the man, evinced toward his kinsfolks, friends, neighbors, and his country (America), of whose future he was ever sanguine. I found the task of following his career as governor of New Hampshire a very pleasing one. The confiscation of his estate must have been very painful to him, as he had taken great interest in improvements.

Again, 28 January 1869, Mr. Murdoch says: —

You will see that he was heavily a loser by the sudden death and closing up of the affairs of his friend, Paul Wentworth, at Surinam, with whom he had many dealings. In the latter years of his administration, Gov. Wentworth was embarrassed very much in money affairs; and the losses through the estate of Paul Wentworth [pedigree not known] may account for it. Although very hospitable and liberal in his expenses, I do not believe he was reckless or extravagant. The more I have investigated his proceedings, the more I am induced to admire the man. His urbanity, his warm attachment to all his kinsfolks, however remote, and to old friends and associates, and his exceeding humanity and kindness, entitle him to the highest respect.

As a measure of Gov. Wentworth's hospitality, it only need be stated that there is at Halifax an autograph letter from a maternal cousin of Lady Wentworth, Nathaniel Thomas, son of Hon. Nathaniel and Sarah (Deering) Thomas, which says, "There have dined at Government House between 12 December 1794 and 29 October 1795, 2,437 persons."

The author of "The Correspondence of King George III with Lord North, from 1768 to 1783," in a note to the king's letter of 22 November 1777, says: —

John Wentworth was by birth an American. He was appointed by Lord Rockingham Governor of New Hampshire; and as he was the third governor of the name of Wentworth, and as he bore also the Christian name of one of his predecessors, he is styled in the provincial annals John Wentworth the Second. Though bearing the family name of Lord Rockingham, they were not of kin. Gov. Wentworth stood high in popular favor, and in that respect was an exception to English prefects in North ity close his dreadful career. In the vortex of this horrible abyss their frantic anarchical republic will be engulphed, and perhaps from such a wild chaos Heaven may in mercy cause the ancient race of monarchs to reascend the throne and establish a government of wisdom, justice, and rational liberty in that immense kingdom, and of peace and safety to the rest of Europe. I feel greatly for Great Britain, our glorious parent country, but I fear not. Sooner shall her sea-girt isles be overwhelmed by the ocean in which she stands, the proud and only defender of religion and liberty on earth, than Frenchmen conquer them. The crisis is indeed awful; but it is surely glorious to be an Englishman in this vast struggle."

America generally. His judgment was sound, his taste refined, and his views, political and administrative, were large and liberal. Though bred a merchant, he had a taste for agriculture, and was active and intelligent in his plans for improvement. He frequently traversed the forests in New Hampshire, explored the grounds for new roads, and began a plantation for himself in the township of Wolfeborough, on which he expended large sums, and built an elegant house. His example was influential on other landholders, who were induced by it to apply themselves to the improvement of waste lands.

Neither Gov. John[5] Wentworth, nor his wife, ever visited the United States after the Revolution, although extant correspondence shows that they occasionally contemplated it. Their feet nowhere ever trod upon Republican soil. They were born, they lived, and they died monarchists.

Gov. John[5] Wentworth left nine manuscript volumes of copies of his correspondence, extending from 1767 to 1808, a period of forty-one years, which are now among the public records at Halifax, N. S. The volumes have all been thoroughly examined for the author of this work through the kindness of Mr. Beamish Murdoch, the historian.

Gov. John[5] made his Will 26 May 1818; it was proved 13 April 1820. He appoints his son Charles-Mary[6] Wentworth, of Sunning Hill, in the County of Berks, in England, his executor, and makes him his sole heir. He gives "my dear friend and kinswoman Anna Louisa Morton" his silk purse with a few pieces of gold and silver coin in it, and also one hundred guineas. She was Anna Louisa[7] Morton, daughter of Mrs. Sarah[6] (967) (Apthorp) Morton. Gov. Wentworth also leaves thirty guineas to his wife's sister Mary[5] (366) Brinley, with whom he is understood to have lived much of his time after his last return from England; but she died before he did. He requests Mr. Michael Wallace * to assist his son Charles-Mary[6] with reference to his property in Nova Scotia, and leaves one hundred guineas to him. He wants to be buried "without undue expense, for I am a private citizen and would avoid all show and parade." He also leaves one hundred and fifty guineas to George Dean McLeod, then a clerk to an attorney at London, whom he says Mr. Putnam † can identify. He leaves his clothes, bed and bed linen, and twenty-five guineas to Mr. Edward Harrington Lowe.

* One of his Counsellors in Nova Scotia; a merchant at Norfolk, Va., at the beginning of the Revolution; and died at Halifax, N. S., in 1831, aged 84.

Sir John[5] Wentworth died at his residence, at Mrs. Fleigher's, on the east side of Hollis Street, Halifax, N. S., 8 April 1820, aged 83. Mrs. Fleigher's son, the late Wentworth Fleigher, an attorney-at-law in Chicago, Ill., until 1874, was with him in his last years and last hours. Gov. John's[5] son, Charles-Mary[6], was then in England, being Secretary to Earl Fitzwilliam.

Gov. Wentworth's remains were interred under St. Paul's Church, at Halifax, N. S., and a marble tablet, erected to his memory, bears the following inscription: —

In memory of Sir John Wentworth, Baronet, who administered the Government of this Province for nearly sixteen years, from May, 1792, to April, 1808. With what success, the public records of that period, and his Majesty's gracious approbation will best testify. His unshaken attachment to his Sovereign and the British constitution was conspicuous throughout his long life.

Gov. John[5] was married (at Queen's Chapel, Portsmouth, 11 November 1769, by Rev. Arthur Brown) to his cousin Frances[5] (367), daughter of Samuel[4], and widow of his and her cousin Theodore[5] Atkinson, jr., son of his and her aunt Hannah[4], wife of Hon. Theodore Atkinson. (See "Atkinson," under family of Hannah[4] (82), daughter of Lieut.-Gov. John[3], son of Samuel[2].) Gov. John[5] married her just fourteen days after the burial service of her former husband. He was much attached to her previous to his visiting England; but in his absence she married, 13 May 1762, their cousin Atkinson. Her first husband, Gov. Wentworth's Secretary, died of slow consumption, 28 October 1769, aged 33; it having been evident before her last husband's return in 1767 from England that his disease was beyond all hope of cure. The writer of this work, with his wife, in September 1857, saw, at the residence of Hon. Asa Freeman, Dover, N. H., the portraits of Hon. Theodore Atkinson (senior), and wife Hannah[4], and of Theodore (jr.) and wife, afterwards Lady Wentworth. The portrait of Lady Wentworth was by John Singleton Copley,* the others by Blackburn. The history of these portraits is more particularly alluded to under Hannah[4] (82), who married Theodore Atkinson, sen.

Copley was a loyalist, and left the country as soon as troubles commenced in 1774. He signed an address to Gov. Thomas Hutchinson, under date of 28 May 1774, upon his surrendering his office to Gen. Gage. He visited Rome, returning to England

Lady Wentworth went to England with her son Charles-Mary[6], first, 19 January 1776 (sailing from Boston in the ship Julius Cæsar), and, second, with him, from Halifax, N. S. in March 1798; and resided principally with the family of Lord Fitzwilliam. In July 1798 she was presented at court by the Countess Fitzwilliam, and so pleased Queen Charlotte that she was appointed a lady-in-waiting, with £500 salary, and the privilege of residing abroad at pleasure. She returned with her husband to Halifax in 1799. She died 14 February 1813, at Sunning Hill, co. Berks, twenty-four miles out of London, having returned to England with her husband in 1810. Mrs. Gore, the authoress, granddaughter of Lady Wentworth's sister (Mrs. Mary[5] (366) Brinley), was present at her last sickness and death.

Because the father of Lady Wentworth's first husband made the Will he did, some writers have argued that he was unfriendly to Gov. John[5]. This is controverted by the fact that, as soon as Theodore[5] Atkinson, jr. his wife's first husband (who was his secretary) died, the Governor appointed his father Theodore, sen., to the office, who continued to hold it, as well as the office of Counsellor, while John[5] Wentworth was Governor. Had Judge Atkinson willed property to Gov. Wentworth or his wife, it would have been confiscated at once.

On the death of Benning[5] (370) Wentworth in February 1808, Sir John[5] appointed Charles-Mary[6] his private secretary; but Charles-Mary[6] was not then in Nova Scotia, and Michael Wallace the treasurer, acted. Sir George Prevost came out in April 1808, as governor, and Samuel Hood George came out as his secretary.

Murdoch's history of Nova Scotia gives a full history of Sir John[5] Wentworth's administration, and while it proves him one of the ablest and most popular of its Governors, it shows that Lady Wentworth sustained her position in a manner that has never been equalled, her personal beauty, graceful manners, intellectual attainments, and ready wit ever making her home the centre of fashion and learning.

Gov. John[5] and Frances[5] (Wentworth) Wentworth, had a son, John[6], jr., and it is said also others, who died in infancy. The only child that survived was:

995. Charles-Mary[6] (second baronet), born at Portsmouth, N. H., 20 January 1775. He was god-son of Charles and Mary, Marquess and Marchioness of Rockingham. Gov. Wentworth, in a letter dated Portsmouth, N. H., 20 March 1775, to Samuel Holland,* Esq., says: —

> Last week, we christened our new-born son, whom we present to you by the name of Charles-Mary after Lord and Lady Rockingham, at their request, and they were sponsors by proxy, whom they also named. The boy will do to pull up stumps at Wentworth House.

This refers to the house at Wolfeborough, N. H.

Charles-Mary[5] was taken to England in 1776, and was there educated. He graduated at Oxford, England, and officiated as Private Secretary to Earl Fitzwilliam when that nobleman was Lord of the Treasury. He was sworn in as a member of his Majesty's Council in Nova Scotia, 16 June 1801, and sat in 1802 and 1803, but in March 1805, Gov. John[5] reports his seat vacant. Sir Charles-Mary[6] passed but little of his time in Nova Scotia, and it is doubtful whether he ever considered it his home. In 1799 Gov. John[5] Wentworth writes: —

> Lady Wentworth and my son arrived here [Halifax] in safety, after a fine passage of twenty-seven days.

To Thomas McDonōgh, British Consul at Boston, Mass., Gov. Wentworth writes, under date of Halifax, N. S., 10 December 1799, that his son sailed yesterday for Boston, Mass., in his Majesty's sloop of war, Fly. To Scroope Bernard, Esq., under date of Halifax, 7 April 1800, he says: —

> My son was in Philadelphia, 12 March 1800, attending to the eloquence of the United States. He was particularly distinguished by the President, and those in the departments of state, whose society and countenance are most honorable and useful to a traveller.

To John King, Esq., dated Halifax, 6 April 1800, he says: —

* A Surveyor-General for the Colonies north of Virginia before the Revolution, and for Lower Canada afterwards. He died there in 1801.

The President spoke to my son of me in the kindest terms; said it was impossible for him to leave his country, but exceedingly wished that I could come to see him in the United States.

To Thomas McDonōgh, Esq., under date of Halifax, 8 November, 1800, he says: —

My son went south as far as Georgia, and is expected at Halifax in ten days.

To Lord Castlereagh, dated Halifax, 21 September 1805, Gov. Wentworth writes that he sends his son to England with official despatches.

To Lord Sheffield, dated Halifax, 1 February 1806, he writes: —

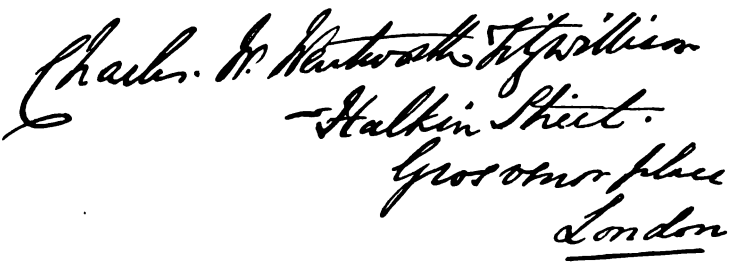
My son, Charles-Mary[6] Wentworth, returned to England last autumn, after several years travel through the United States of America and the British Colonies.

He returned to England, and resided with the Earl and Countess Fitzwilliam, and died single, at Kingsand, Devon, 10 April 1844, when the baronetcy became extinct. By his Will he left to the Hon. Charles W.[30] Wentworth Fitzwilliam,* youngest son of Earl

* Lord Fitzwilliam, under date of Milton Abbey, 24 September 1786, wrote Gov. John[5] (371), announcing the birth of his son, who grew up to be Earl Fitzwilliam, and in the letter said: —

"As to the boy I can, without prejudice, assure you that you have as fine a little cousin as can be found anywhere of the same age."

The foregoing Charles W.[30] Wentworth-Fitzwilliam visited the United States about 1850, and left with the author (then a member of Congress in Washington, D. C.) his address and autograph, as follows: —



He was descendant of Lady Anne[27] Watson-Wentworth, eldest daughter of Thomas[26], Marquess of Rockingham, who married, 22 June 1744, William, third Earl Fitzwilliam, of Ireland, and first of England. The Marquess of Rockingham was Thomas Watson[26] Wentworth, whose grandfather Edward Watson, afterwards Lord Rockingham, married Anne[24], daughter of the Earl of Strafford, who was beheaded 12 May 1641. The Earl of Strafford was the twenty-third in descent from Reginald[1] Wentworth, who lived at the time of the Norman Conquest in 1066, while Elder William[21] Wentworth was twenty-first in descent. They were of the same line of descent from Reginald[1] Wentworth for eleven generations, when Sir William[11] Wentworth had two sons, William[12] and John[12]. The families of Strafford, Rockingham, and Fitzwilliam were the descendants of the elder son, William[12], while Elder William[21] descended from John[12], the younger. For further particulars see article upon the English genealogy of the Wentworth family in the earlier part of this work.

* To a son of this John Peirce, viz. Mark Hunking Wentworth Pierce, two letters were written, the originals of which were shown the author by another son, Col. Joshua Winslow Peirce, of Portsmouth, N. H., from which the following extracts are taken:—

"Sunning Hill, Staines, April 7, 1816.

"I was very sensibly grieved by the news of your excellent father's decease, which reached me by mere accident, as my habits are become exceedingly retired. His worth was estimated by none of his friends with more cordiality than myself. Though constantly separated in point of personal intercourse I felt his value with sincerity, and sympathize with his family upon so great a deprivation. With respect to my affairs in New Hampshire, I embrace your proposal thankfully of officiating for me in whatever concerns my interest in that quarter. I scarcely know the description of my little possessions there; and I should feel much indebted to you to inform me of what they consist. I should be glad to dispose of the wild lands you mention, provided their value is not very insignificant; in which case I should scarcely conceive it worth awhile to be troubled with any negotiation concerning them. Your advice upon this subject will be gratefully accepted."

"Sillwood Cottage, Staines, 12 May, 1817.

"Your excellent father, who has heretofore directed my interests in New Hampshire, exercised his friendship and experience in my favor by every possible means that fell within the sphere of so contracted a property. In the year 1812 I received from him about £700, I cannot at this moment refer to the exact sum, which was the produce of some sales he had made in contemplation of the unfortunate rupture which soon took place between the two countries. under Mark Hunking[4] (88) Wentworth), had charge until his death in 1814.

THOMAS[5] (372), son of Mark Hunking[4] and Elizabeth (Rindge) Wentworth, born 27 April 1739–40; graduated at Harvard College in 1758, received the degree of A. M. in 1761; and was a merchant. He lived in the house fronting the river at Portsmouth, known as "the Col. Gardner house," and died there in 1768. His portrait, painted by Blackburn in 1761, was, in 1872, with his great-grand-daughter Miss Abby[8] Pickering, of Portsmouth, N. H., daughter of the late Jacob S. Pickering by his wife Elizabeth W.[7] (2694) (Sheafe), daughter of William and Anne[6] (Wentworth) Sheafe. Thomas[5] married Anne, daughter of Judge John Tasker, of Marblehead, Mass. After his death, she married, 2d, 25 March 1770, Capt. Henry Bellew, of Exon, England, commander of His Majesty's ship Beaver. He died in 1791, childless. She died at Exeter, England, about 1802, without children by the second marriage.

impolitic dispute on our part never in my humble opinion disgraced our history; but I trust a permanent peace is now confirmed. Since that period I never heard from your father.

"I should be extremely obliged to you to send me a statement of what may now remain to me in New Hampshire. I am quite ignorant of the description of any possession to which I may be entitled; and as that country, from natural causes, preserves a most peculiar interest in my feelings, every tie and relation that is interchangeable between us becomes more forcible as it becomes better known.

"My father [Gov. John[5] Wentworth], who is in Nova Scotia, has been afflicted with a paralytic disease for about a year past. He writes me that his health rather amends; but his advanced age forbids me to hope that his recovery can ever prove complete. Yet the temperance of his life and equanimity of his mind afford stronger grounds than usually consist with such cases to expect that a few years may still be added to his existence. After all the sacrifices he has made for England, after all his exertions and enthusiasm in her cause for sixty years of toil and self denial, I regret to say that government disregarded his merits and abandoned his age to the consequences of embarrassments occasioned by public service. I trust they are now nearly overcome, and if Providence allots him a further portion of days they may be passed in repose. I trust, my dear sir, that if I can be of the least use to you in this country you will frankly command my best services. My course of life is at present very much retired. My connections take no part in administration, considering the system which is here pursued inconsistent with the advantage of the country; but politics in all countries are an injurious and harsh pursuit, and it is arduous to discern amongst conflicting statesmen where public virtue and disinterested patriotism truly reside.

"YOUR SINCERE KINSMAN."

Gov. Wentworth wrote, 11 February 1768, of his "brother, confined to bed, and incapacitated for business, having five children."

The children of Thomas[5] and Anne (Tasker) Wentworth, were as follows, but the writer cannot arrange the order of birth:

996. Mark[6], who, in 1777, was a midshipman on the Liverpool frigate, commanded by his step-father, Capt. Bellew, and was then at Halifax. He was lieutenant in the Inflexible man-of-war, in 1780. In 1792 he was first lieutenant, at Campo Bello, on the Alligator frigate, commanded by Sir Isaac Coffin; he was then severely afflicted with rheumatism, and died of rheumatic fever soon after, single. The following, from the London Gentleman's Magazine, is believed to refer to him: "September 1793. Died on his passage from Barbadoes, Lt. Wentworth, of His Majesty's ship Scorpion.

997. John[6], had his age given in 1795 as twenty-seven, which would make him born about the time of his father's death. He was taken to England soon after his mother's second marriage, and educated for the legal profession. He dated his professional card as "John Wentworth, of the Inner Temple, London." He published an elaborate legal work, of several volumes, known as "Wentworth on Pleading," which so highly impressed the government with his legal attainments that he was appointed Attorney-General for Prince Edward's Island. After residing a while at that place, he removed to Portsmouth, N. H., where he married, 7 January 1802, Martha[27], daughter of Col. Michael[26] Wentworth, by his wife Martha (Hilton), widow of Gov. Benning[4] (80) Wentworth. He lived at Little Harbor, in the mansion of the late Gov. Benning[4]. On the 4th of July 1804, at the celebration of the day in Portsmouth, N. H., he delivered the oration, and it was printed; and at the dinner he gave a toast in honor of Rev. Dr. Samuel McClintock, of Greenland, N. H. About 1816 he returned to London with his wife, and died childless, not many years after, while on a visit to Paris. She lived afterwards at London with an adopted daughter, Mary Anna Wentworth, who married a Capt. Edwards, of the British army; and she died there 1 May 1851, aged 79.

998. Elizabeth[6], married, 10 March 1792, at St. Paul's Cathedral, Exeter, Devon, England, Edward Minchin, of Merrion Square, late of Fitzwilliam Square, in Dublin, born 13 February 1765, sometime an officer in the Royal Navy, afterwards a merchant in Boston, Mass., finally settled in Dublin, where he died in 1856. Josiah Winslow[5] (414], son of Edward[4] and Susannah (Sims) Wentworth, born in Boston, Mass., 21 March 1755, was named for the father of his grandfather's last wife. He married, 1st, Mary Hanford, of Norwalk, Conn. (Her father, Thomas Hanford,* was a wealthy man; he lived on Rhoton Hill, a mile west of the village of "Old Well"; he had sons Thomas Hanford and Nehemiah Hanford.) Josiah W.[5] purchased two and a half acres of land directly opposite to his brother Edward's[5] homestead, and built thereon a dwelling house and also a carriage-maker's shop. The site is now occupied by a Methodist church.

He was a warm supporter of the Revolution, and enlisted in the army, for which he afterwards drew a monthly pension of twenty dollars. His wife's family were royalists, and her brother Thomas

* A Thomas Hanford, of Norwalk, died in 1693 Sabine, in his Loyalists of the American Revolution, says of her brother Thomas Hanford, jr., of Connecticut, "At the peace he went to St. John, New Brunswick, and was a grantee of that city. He became an eminent merchant. In 1795 he was a member of the Loyal Artillery. He died at St. John in 1826, aged seventy-three. Ann, his widow, survived several years, and died at the age of seventy-eight."

Hanford was an officer in the British service. This Thomas Hanford and most of the family removed to St. John, N. B. When her only child was about a year old, Mrs. Wentworth, being warmly opposed to her husband's course in fighting against the British government, went with her brother Thomas Hanford to St. John. It is doubtful whether she and her husband ever again met.

In 1794 his wife, then residing in Norwalk, Conn., joined in a deed (without her husband) with her brother Thomas Hanford, then of St. John, of their interest in their father's estate, to their brother Nehemiah Hanford. About the same time, she released her interest in the estate of her uncle Nathan Smith, deceased.

Josiah[5] Wentworth sold his property at Norwalk to his brother Edward[5]. His wife is said to have returned once, from St. John, and to have taught school at Norwalk, but she afterwards went back to St. John, and there married —— Miles.

ADDITIONS AND CORRECTIONS TO VOL. I.

AFTER the printing of this volume, and while that of the second volume was in progress, a few copies of this volume were bound (for examination by some interested), with a view to correctness. Considerable additions and some corrections are the result. They contain also the most minute errors discovered in indexing the names in this volume.

Page 29, lines 24, 27. For Francis[18], read Francis[17]; and for Clare[18], read Clare[17].

Pages 72, 73, 74, "Wheelwright" note. A wrong inference may be made as to the order of birth of Rev. John Wheelwright's children, and as to the probability of a second wife. On page 60 it appears that Christopher[19] Wentworth married a sister of Rev. Francis Marbury. Rev. Francis Marbury's daughter, Anne Marbury, married William Hutchinson. William Hutchinson's brother John Hutchinson made Will, 7 June 1644, in which he alludes to his sister Mary (Hutchinson) (baptized 22 December 1605) as "Sister Wheelwright." He speaks also of "Brother Wheelwright." If Rev. John Wheelwright was twice married, each wife was named Mary, and his second marriage must have been prior to 7 June 1644, according to the Will of John Hutchinson.

Mrs. Susannah (Winslow) Alden, great-granddaughter of William and Anne (Marbury) Hutchinson, left a paper concerning her ancestry, which begins, "My mother's great-grandmother died at Wells, at her son Wheelwright's. Her name was Susannah Hutchinson." This is saying that Susanna, wife of Edward Hutchinson and mother of William Hutchinson, was mother of Rev. John Wheelwright's wife Mary (Hutchinson), and died at the house of Rev. John Wheelwright, of Wells, Me.

Rev. John Wheelwright, in his Will, gives "to my latter wyfe's children all my plate," etc. etc.

William Hutchinson (who married Anne Marbury) had also a brother Samuel Hutchinson, who made Will 7 April 1667, in which he alludes to Samuel Wheelwright as eldest son of "Sister Wheelwright," and to "the six daughters of Sister Wheelwright, — Elizabeth Person, Katherine Naylor, Mary Lloyd [who married Theodore Atkinson, 2 October 1667], Rebecca Maverick [who married William Bradbury, 12 March 1672], Hannah Checkley, and Sarah Wheelwright" [who afterwards married, in 1671, Richard Crispe. Suffolk co. (Mass.) records, book IX, page 215, contain a deed from Rev. John Wheelwright, 22 October 1677, in which he calls Sarah Crispe his "youngest daughter"]. This list in the Will of Samuel Hutchinson includes all the daughters given on page 74, except Mrs. Susanna Rishworth. Why did he omit her, unless she was daughter of Rev. Mr. Wheelwright's prior wife, Mary (Storre), whom he married at Bilsby, England, 8 November 1621? Mrs. Susanna Rishworth was living in 1667 (the date of Samuel Hutchinson's Will), as Edward Rishworth, when he died, in 1689, left wife Susanna. As Samuel Hutchinson claims Katherine Wheelwright (baptized 4 November 1630) as a daughter of his sister Mary (Hutchinson) Wheelwright, and does not claim Susanna Wheelwright, the inference is that Susanna was the eldest daughter, and a child of the first wife; and Rev. Mr. Wheelwright's sons, John Wheelwright and Thomas Wheelwright, would seem also to have been children of the first wife.

James Savage, in his Genealogical Dictionary, says that Edward Rishworth had son Edward Rishworth and daughter Mary Rishworth; but nothing more is found of this Edward Rishworth, jr., unless he was the identical one who married Susanna Wheelwright, who would then seem to have been much older than himself, while his father would be the one who was father to the wife of Rev. Shubael Dummer, as see note to page 121. Edward Rishworth willed his property to "my beloved daughter Mary Sayward." If this refers to Edward, sen., the inference is that Edward, jr., if such an one existed, was dead without issue. But Savage may have been in error as to there having been a son Edward.

Rev. John Adams Vinton, of Winchester, Mass., a descendant, is preparing a genealogy of the descendants of Rev. John Wheelwright.

quoted on page 77, line 11 from bottom of page), but it is inaccurate. York (Me.) records say that Mary Rishworth married, 1st, John Sayward; 2d, James Plaisted; and gives her two children by her first husband and five by her second. John Sayward had, born at York, Me., Mary Sayward, born 4 April 1681, who was the "Mary Genevieve Sayer" of the Canadian record, and Esther Sayward, born at York, Me., 7 March 1685, who was the "Mary Joseph Sayer" of the Canadian record, as the French Catholic priests in baptism generally changed the Christian names of their captives.

It was not Susanna (Wheelwright) Rishworth who was taken captive, but her daughter Mary (Rishworth) Plaisted. This Mary (Rishworth) must have first married —— White. In his Will, in 1679, Rev. John Wheelwright mentions his granddaughter "Mary White," daughter of Edward Rishworth. This is undoubtedly the one who married John Sayward, of York, Me. (her first child by Sayward being Mary Sayward, born 4 April 1681), and afterwards James Plaisted. While James Plaisted, himself town clerk, gives a list, on the town records of York, Me., in his own handwriting, of his wife's children by Sayward and by himself, there is no allusion to any children of his wife by —— White. If Susanna Wheelwright was daughter of Rev. John Wheelwright's first wife, Mary (Storre), she was born between 1621 and 1630, and she could well have been the wife of Edward Rishworth, sen., who was baptized in 1617.

Page 77, note to Edward Rishworth. See Additions to note to page 74, ante, as to Edward Rishworth, sen. and jr., father and son, and also as to Sayer. Line 10 from bottom. The punctuation in the Canadian extract is misleading: for semicolon after "England," substitute a comma. It was not two persons, Mary Rishworth and Susanna Wheelwright, who were taken prisoners, but Mary (Rishworth), daughter of Edward and Susanna (Wheelwright) Rishworth.

Hutchinson." This is saying that Susanna, wife of Edward Hutchinson, and mother of William Hutchinson and of Wheelwright's wife Mary (Hutchinson), died at the house of Rev. John Wheelwright, of Wells, Me.

"In the year of his graduation [1656] Shubael Dummer was married to Mary, daughter of Edward Rishworth, of Exeter and Wells, whose wife was a daughter of the Rev. John Wheelwright."

In our Additions to note to page 74, we have given this Mary Rishworth as marrying, 1st, —— White; 2d, John Sayward; 3d, James Plaisted. Even upon the theory that Mrs. Mary Dummer was daughter of Edward Rishworth, sen., she could not have been a daughter of Susanna Wheelwright, as Mary Rishworth (who married, 1st, —— White; 2d, John Sayward; 3d, James Plaisted) was claimed by Rev. John Wheelwright, in his Will, as his own granddaughter. If there were two Edward Rishworths, senior and junior, the daughter of whichever of them was husband of Susanna Wheelwright could not have been the wife of Rev. Shubael Dummer. It is claimed that Mrs. Dummer may have been a sister, instead of daughter, of the Edward Rishworth who married Susanna Wheelwright. Edward Rishworth was son of Rev. Thomas Rishworth, of Laceby, England, who married Esther, sister of William Hutchinson, and who made Will, dated 8 October 1632, in which the names of his children purport to be given, but there is no daughter Mary Rishworth mentioned. It is not known when Rev. Thomas Rishworth died. A daughter could have been born after the date of the Will, and have been of suitable age to marry Rev. Shubael Dummer, who was born in 1636. See N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, April 1877, pp. 218–19.

There was another John Heard, of Kittery, who made his Will 3 March 1675, proved 1 February 1676–77, in which he says he was "by reason of age weak of body." This John Heard mentions wife Isabel; gives portions to grandchildren Mary Heard and Elizabeth Heard, daughters of deceased son James Heard; to three younger granddaughters, children of said son James Heard, viz., Katherine Heard, Abigail Heard, and Ann Heard, who were then under eighteen years of age; and gives his farm to grandson John Heard (then not married), whose parentage he does not mention, but from various expressions, apparently son of the deceased son James; he also mentions his daughter-in-law Susannah Heard, mother of the aforesaid daughters. In line 6 from bottom, James[2] Heard should doubtless be removed from the list of children of John[1] Heard, of Dover, and attributed to this John Heard, of Kittery. 5. William[5] Brock, of Somersworth, N. H ; married, in Dover, N. H., 15 June 1772, widow Elizabeth Mason, probably the Elizabeth Mason (wife of Isaac Mason) who had been received into Dover church, 8 October 1769. The following, gathered from the Dover records of births and baptisms, as children of William Brock, must be children of William[5] Brock, viz.:

1. Elizabeth[6] Brock, born 23 May 1773.

2. Martha[6] Brock, born 8 July 1776, baptized 14 September 1777.

There was a Simeon Brock, of Berwick, Me., who married, 23 April 1792, Judith Roberts; and a Simeon Brock, of Berwick, Me., who married, 7 June 1799, Eunice Hodsdon, of the same place. These are supposed to be the same person, three times married. Certainly, the first-named Simeon[5] Brock had:

1. Elizabeth[6] Brock, born in Berwick, Me., 7 June 1777.

And the South Berwick (Me.) church records give baptisms of the following, who there is no reason to doubt were children of the same Simeon[5] Brock, viz.:

2. Betty[6] Brock, baptized 24 June 1781.

3. Mary[6] Brock, baptized 18 May 1788.

9. Sarah[5] Brock, married, 10 February 1772, John Griswold.

The author has been unable to trace any person now living by the name of Brock, back to Damaris[4] (159) (Wentworth) Brock. The considerable number of that name in Barrington, Strafford, and Dover, N. H., are clearly traced to Nicholas Brock, of Dover, who, before 1730, married Elizabeth Holden. But Dana[8] (5527) Wentworth married Abby J., daughter of Ebenezer K. and Abigail (Plummer) Brock, of West Lebanon, Me., and granddaughter of Nathaniel Brock, who married, 1st, —— Scritchet; 2d, —— ——; 3d, Betsey Wallingford. This Nathaniel Brock had brothers, viz., Samuel Brock who married Experience Libbey; Simeon Brock; and sister Jane Brock, who married Thomas Legro, of Lebanon, Maine.
